

SUMMER 1994

CWhen you want a hit with the fans, go to the hit factory: Capcom.

Just ask Hollywood. Production has begun on transforming one of the all-time megahits of video game history into "Street Fighter II — The Motion Picture." A big-budget action/adventure thriller starring the premiere name in action movies — Jean Claude Van Damme! As the Air Force fighter pilot Guile, Mr. Van Damme brings his awesome fighting skills and considerable charm to what we're sure will be the movie event of the decade!

The world of animation welcomes a new hero with the creation of the new Mega Man cartoon series. Our "Titanium Titan" streaks across the small screen in adventures catered to his amazing and adaptable robotic talents. Mega Man has more titles under his belt than any other character in video games, and now he's seeking the title of the king of kids cartoons!

Oh, and we're not stopping with just creating hits — we're also making a name for ourselves! Capcom has maintained incredible brand awareness and customer loyalty by providing the consumers with the best video game entertainment possible. Each release is heralded by players and reviewers alike as a challenging new sensation that become a welcome addition to their home software library.

That's how we've built our business. Great titles featuring a stable of internationally known licensed characters in games the public crave and demand. Take a look at this preview of our coming attractions and we know you'll agree that for blockbuster hits —

YOU GOTTA GO TO CAPCOM!

With Capcom, there are no surprises at the retail level, and you're happier for it! If it was made by Capcom, it's going to perform — it's that simple. We've been delivering superstar performers for so long, you've come to expect no less from us.

And we'll keep on performing at the retail level by supporting each release with aggressive marketing techniques that include:

● Effective Advertising

● Brand Awareness

● Incredible Products

● Memorable Characters

● Success After Success

MARKETING

Throughout 1994, Capcom will continue to lead the industry through its aggressive marketing campaigns. In the coming months, Capcom will administer the following programs:

Television Advertising:

$5.0 million

Capcom takes its superstars to such networks as FOX, ESPN, and MTV.

Print Advertising:

$2.0 million

The video game and other youth market magazines know us well! We'll continue our blitz of print impressions for every new title introduction. Here's a partial list of magazines we advertise in:

● Electronic Gaming Monthly

● Game Pro

● Die Hard Game Fan

● Disney Adventures

● Boy's Life

● DC Comics

● Wizard

● Vibe

Capcom will also maintain its reputation and awareness through strategic placements in trade publications.

Consumer & Trade Promotions:

$3.0 million

Getting the consumers to demand products by name is the key to success and we've had a lot of experience in the arena. Through targeted trade and consumer promotions Capcom builds a strong sense of awareness and brand identity for the multitude of titles we are making available in the coming months. Among some of the consumer and trade promotions lined up for 1994:

● Impactful Point-of-sale materials (Stand-ups, Posters, and Customized Materials)

● Continuation of the ever-popular Capcom Craze Club.

● Contests and Exciting Merchandise Offers

Public Relations:

Capcom continues to actively publicize all of its titles in 1994. With an estimated 500 million media impressions, Capcom will have a PR force for not only its vast array of titles, but also maintain an active voice on industry-related issues and topics. Expect to see Capcom in all avenues of press coverage—from the video game publications to the general interest press.
