THE RATINGS

When a game is reviewed, we give ratings for five different criteria:

GRAPHICS

Does the game look good? Is the scrolling smooth? Are the sprites flickery? Is the animation realistic? This mark covers all visual aspects of the game.

SOUND

Sound and music that enhance a game are given high marks. The sound rating is low if the soundtrack or effects are inappropriate.

VALUE

Here, we take into consideration the price of the game, the amount of entertainment it offers and the quality of the packaging. In other words - is it worth the money.

PLAYABILITY

This tells you how addictive and enjoyable the game is - the higher the rating is, the more playable the game is.

OVERALL

The most important rating of all. This is what we think of the game as a whole, taking into consideration all the other ratings. In short, how good the game really is.

THE MARKS

85+

A C-VG HIT! An outstanding game that shouldn't be missed.

70-85

A very good game that missed out on a higher accolade due to minor discrepancies. Should definitely be tried, though.

55-69

Average to fairly good. Could still appeal to fans of the genre.

40-55

Below average to average. Generally a disappointment.

15-39

Generally a poor game that mightn't even appeal to the most ardent fans.

14-

Ugh! Binary sewage that's guaranteed to make your computer throw up.

THE REVIEWERS

JULIAN RIGNALL

C-VG's arcade player who lives for coin-op conversions, shoot 'em ups and arcade adventures.

PAUL GLANCEY

He loves games requiring brains, but doesn't mind the odd blaster.

ROBERT SWAN

He's easy to please and will play anything, but loves a good flight sim.

RICHARD

LEADBETTER

C-VG's new kid on the block has "the right stuff" for most games, but prefers to "hang tough" with a good beat 'em up.

CES SHOW TIME!

What's Jonathan Woss got to do with the greatest computer show to ever hit our fair and lovely shores? Well, it just so happens that the weally witty chat show host is going to be just one of the star guests that'll be appearing at the European Computer Entertainment Show at the Earl's Court Exhibition Centre on the 15th and 16th of September - none of this Adam Faith or Tessa Sanderson rubbish here! But that's not all. In what promises to be THE show of the decade, you'll be able to "rub shoulders" with the likes of Esther "unless you know better" Rantzen, KISS FM, BBC Newsround, Frank "HP" Bruno - and even Radio 1 who are going to be taping a show there!

If you've ever wanted to meet the C+VG crew, now's your chance. We'll be at the show every day, and we'll even be hosting the World Computer Game Championships. Teams from Japan, France, Italy and of course, the United Kingdom will be present in what promises to be the greatest challenge since King Kong vs Godzilla!

But we're not alone. Our mates from The One will be hosting a live "Work in Progress" in conjunction with the boys from Bullfrog, where you'll be able to see the humble beginnings of their latest classic - Powermonger. ACE will be giving you a sneak glimpse of the Living Room of the Future and all the associated gadgetry, and Sinclair User will be running their annual Hyper Card competition - it could be you walking away with some totally ber-illiant Sony gear! Check out the CU stand as well. They'll be showing off some cool Amiga demos and animations!

All this and more for only a measly five! Make sure you mark in the 15th and 16th of September in your diary, 'cos that's when the show's going to be open to the general public. For every entrance fee taken, a donation will be made to Childline - so that's just one more good reason to honour us with your presence! See you there!

UK PC ENGINE IS GO!

Last month we heard that NEC had taken the shock decision NOT to sell their rip-roaring console to us would-be European Engineers! Well, the good news is that NEC WILL be releasing it - but not until around Spring-time, 1991! Arrrgghhh!

Not to worry though, because an Austrian firm - Digital Image Systems - has stepped in, bought the European marketing license and will be organising sales of the EPE (European PC Engine) until NEC take over! Hurrah! As well as the console, DIS will be bringing out 50 of the latest and greatest Engine titles (including PC Kid, Gunhed and Klax), the CD ROM player, AV booster, super joystick and five player adaptors. All will have English packaging and instructions, and DIS are offering a telephone help-line service for anyone who has problems with their machine.

The only fly in the ointment is that all these new goodies won't be compatible with the imported Japanese gear.

At time of writing, prices have yet to be fixed, but DIS expect to have the machine on sale in High Street shops from October, priced at between £160 and £170, with software selling for £25 upwards.

ART FOR ART'S SAKE

Quite a lot of ST artists (our Rob included) have been grumbling for some time about not having a version of Electronic Arts' excellent Deluxe Paint for their machine. Well, grouch no more, because from late September, Deluxe Paint ST will be out and about, with the introductory price of £49.99. Featuring stacks and stacks of tools already available to Amiga and PC users, the ST version also features an extended palette for STE users, 9 different drawing modes, complex animation (999 animation buffers, each capable of holding 999 frames of animation!) and loads of other wonderful things, it looks like Deluxe Paint ST should be definitely the one to get hold of. Just as example of what it can do, take a glance at the pic...

LUCASFILM INDY FOLLOW UP

Although arcade action may be more our scene here at C+VG, we love to have our brains teased now and again - and Lucasfilm's Indy Adventure fitted the bill quite nicely! That being the case, we were more than interested in some of their new games that US Gold have licensed.

The Secret of Monkey Island looks like just the ticket for adventuring types. Featuring a superior mouse-driven interface, the general objective involves living out the life of a swash-buckling hero type, searching for the lost secret of Monkey Island and generally picking up a whole stash of treasure on the way. Lucasfilm are also promising "lethal one-liners" and "hilarious

INDY NEWS

All you Amiga-owning race freaks had better get yourselves strapped in, because Electronic Arts are bringing the Indianapolis 500 your way. This corking 3D racer had jaws dropping all over the place when released on the PC, and the Amiga version is now having its final pit checks before being given the chequered flag. We had a look at an unfinished version, and believe us, it's one red-hot bit o' stuff. Featuring multiple camera viewpoints, three levels of racing, pitstops and the opportunity for plenty of multiple pile-ups (yeah, this is what we want!) Indianapolis 500 will be burning up the roads in October for the sum of £24.99.

ous reparaee" - sounds like a riot, dunnit?

Look out also for the follow-up to Their Finest Hour - The Battle of Britain because in Secret Weapons of the Luftwaffe you can get your hands on all manner of experimental German planes. Both games will be taking PC owners by storm very soon, and other 16 bit versions seem a certainty.

BOOOM! MY WHEELS ARE ON FIRE!

Those jolly japers at Domark are getting ready to unleash two compilations on an unsuspecting public. The first, called TNT, consists of five of their top Tengen conversions - Hard Drivin', Toobin', APB, Dragon Spirit and Xybots - and it should be blasting your way during September, with Amiga and ST versions priced at a whopping £29.99 and Amstrad, C64 and Spectrum tapes for a relatively piddling £14.99. The second, entitled Wheels of Fire, is a bundle of four top racers from last Christmas, namely Power Drift, Chase HQ, Hard Drivin' (again) and Turbo OutRun. This package should retail for the same prices as TNT and will be out and about in October.

FIRST MEGADRIVE CONVERTER!

Now that Virgin's official UK Megadrive is out and about, you'll no doubt be after some kind of cartridge converter to enable Japanese Megadrive cartridges to run on a UK machine (or vice versa). Well, the enterprising lads at Medlantic are the first to come up with such a widget, which they are hoping to sell for between £20 and £25 - a worthy investment if ever you've seen one! Medlantic are also offering Nintendo disk drives and keyboards, opening up a whole new supply of games (Afterburner, for one). If you're an interested console owner - and by jove you should be - give Medlantic a bell on (0455) 291865.

CAPCOM GRAB US GOLD'S BOARDS

Now here's a funny turn of events. Remember Strider, US Gold's conversion of the Capcom coin-op? Well, at this moment, Tiertex (who did the original) are currently working on their own sequel, imaginatively titled Strider II. Thing is, Capcom were so impressed with the storyboards for the computer game, they decided to use them for the arcade machine! Strider II will be out in November for the Amiga, ST, PC, C64, Spectrum and Amstrad, with the coin-op appearing in an arcade near you sometime closer to Christmas.

NEWS

AND NOW... THE C64 CONSOLE

After much speculation, Commodore have finally leapt onto the console bandwagon, and have finally announced the imminent release of their first games system. Based on the C64, the C64GS will come with a joystick and a fun-packed, four-game cartridge featuring Klax, Fiendish Freddy's Big Top o'Fun, Flimbo's Quest and the ultra-crumby International Soccer, all for £99.99.

The selling potential of yet another 8-bit console, especially a comparatively low-tech one, is, we think, uncertain, especially with Megadrives and PC Engines becoming so widely available, but we'll be interested to see how this and Amstrad's GX-4000 (featured last ish) fare.

You can see what the console looks like from the picture, but we have it on good authority that the machine shown is actually made of - wait for it - balsa wood. Maybe Commodore are branching into new areas? Or could they be barking up the wrong tree? Leaf it out...

CABINET CRAZINESS

Making a Spectrum look like an arcade machine is no mean feat these days, but Spectrosoft's new Pro-Arcade Cabinet just about manages it. Your computer, be it Amiga, Spectrum, or console can be placed on a slide-away shelf within the cabinet and connected up to its arcade-quality joysticks for that ultimate coin-op look and feel. If you don't want to plug in your computer, there's also a JAMMA-compatible version, which allows you to plug in and play JAMMA (a sort of coin-op standard) arcade boards! Phew! Prices range from £159.95 to £299.95, but for more info, Spectrosoft can be reached on 0831 469 293.

If that's not good enough for you, Advanced Modular Joysticks can build you a cabinet that will plug into any computer or arcade board (not just JAMMA-compatible ones). The AMJ

Arcade Console has a variety of interfaces, incorporates two joystick ports (equivalent to four joysticks and 6 fire buttons!), supports dedicated arcade controllers (trackballs, paddles and even steering wheels) and can also be connected via a SCART lead up to your computer or console! Flippin' eck! Just think, you could be playing Megadrive Super Monaco GP with the real controls!

Prices vary because each unit is custom-made, according to what kinds of interfaces and controllers you want, but a basic unit with a JAMMA interface, JAMMA power supply and control panel costs £99.99. Now we've got you screaming and dribbling and reaching for your wallets, AMJ can be reached on 0202 694970 (and tell them we sent you).

ADIOS ACTIVISION?

Just as this issue of C+VG closed, we heard some rather nasty news about industry giant, Activision, responsible for the likes of Power Drift, Galaxy Force and Altered Beast. It seems that the American parent company has been making significant losses over the past year, so they decided to cut back the UK operation to save money. Though some new product will be developed in Britain, it will be restricted to games with a "global appeal".

The good news is that the tide of events will in no way endanger an Activision/Hewson distribution deal which will still see Activision distributing Parandroid '90, Nebulus 2 and Rubicon. Also, some of Activision's major licensed wares (namely Atomic Robokid and Dragon Breed) will still be appearing on the shelves. However, doubt still lingers over two potential blockbusters - R-Type 2 and Stephen Hehndy's Snooker (programmed by International Karate coder, Archer Maclean). We've had a sneak preview of the latter and have to say that it'd be a damn shame if this awesome 3D simulation never sees the light of day.

CONTRIVER'S GOT A LOT OF BALLS

Trackballs, that is. Y'know, those things which resemble upside-down mice. Well, these Contriver people have announced the imminent release of its snazzy new Contrack controller, initially for the PC, with ST and Amiga models available at any time now, for a total of £34.95. Now that may sound like a rather hefty wad of wonga, but when you consider that this little beast has a button lock, a ball lock (oof!) for transportation purposes, and is guaranteed for 1000 miles of continuous use, then it certainly seems like ruddy good value for money. If you're interested in laying your hands on one of these, Contriver can be reached at 0280 822803.

PANG

BY OCEAN

Bubbles! Who'd ever thought that they could be such a pain, eh? Well, they are in this game, so the only thing to do is go out and burst 'em! And so the scene is set for Pang, a conversion of the recent and totally hilarious Mitchell coin-op.

You (and a friend, if you're playing in dual-player mode) are cast in the role of globe-trotting bubble-busters, and, armed with a harpoon gun, you must blast the bubbles before they bounce into you. Sounds like a piece of cake, yes? Well, you can forget that for a start, because once one bubble is hit, it splits into two smaller bubbles, each of which splits again, and again!

When certain bubbles are hit, however, they drop power-ups like ray guns and dynamite, which bursts every bubble on screen at once, as well as shields and timers, which stop the bubbles dead in their tracks, giving you time to blow 'em away.

Once you've cleared a screen, it's on to the next in a different part of the world, with more obstacles, monsters and, yes, even more bubbles!

UPDATE

Pang will be bubbling up on the ST any day now, and should be just as good as the Amiga version, save for a few colour and sound differences. No news of any 8 bit versions as yet, but if anything comes up, you'll be the first to know.

C+VG HIT!

AMIGA

£24.99

This is one of the C+VG team's favourite coin-ops, and to say we were over the moon to hear of Ocean laying their hands on the license is something of an understatement. Now Pang is here, I can safely say without fear of error or contradiction that this isn't just a conversion - this is the coin-op! Both the graphics and sound match the arcade machine pixel for pixel, with bright, crisp, colourful sprites and exquisitely drawn backdrops. The whizzy, poppy sound effects are spot on too, and the title music (which sounds like a remix of Puff the Magic Dragon) sets the mood perfectly. These combine with the horribly addictive gameplay to make Pang a really brilliant game. Grab it at the first opportunity, and prepare to stay up till the wee small hours.

Where would you get Jimmy Greaves rubbing his shoulders with the cast of Eastenders and a deranged Russian clergyman next to someone called P Tweedle? Why, in Yob's Mailbag of course! If you have anything you want to say about the wonderful world of gaming, or football, or almost anything else (ALMOST!), this is the address to write to: YOB'S MAILBAG, C+VG, PRIORY COURT, 30-32 FARRINGTON LANE, LONDON, EC1R 3AU.

CROPS CRAP

Dear YOB,

Following the letter sent by James Lynch in ish 103, I have made a Crops game! There's the plot. The Crops have been summoned to a planet. Why? i here you cry, well because the top bosses of the untied federation of planets have been kidnaped, so grab your trusty lead pumping gun and start killing! It is a one player game where you take the role of Sgt. J. Kribly. Let me take you through the levels.

LEVEL 1: Fly onto the planet's surface dodging the other members of the Crops and asteroids.

LEVEL 2: A side on horizontal scrolling fighting enemy soldiers, man eating plants, robots and mines. The end of level boss is a giant tank.

LEVEL 3: This is an "Outrun" style level were you are driving FAV (Fast Attack Vehicle) with a large cannon. Enemies are the other FAVs, tanks and helicopters. The boss is a big chopper (fnarf fnarf). LEVEL 4: Work your way through a system of tunnels to locate the entrance to the enemys base. You fight soldiers, robots, crumbling platforms, spike and giant cyborg rats. The boss is a Rododinosaur.

LEVEL 6: The penultimate level in side there own base you must fight your way through a vast army of cyborgs. The final boss is a giant compluer.

LEVEL 7: Its not over yet you must lead the hostages into the dock while dodging bits of falling rocks. When you get to the port get a ship and fly to freedom! So you can get a medal and a pay rise.

Wat no extra weapons? i hear you cry.

Well i have an assortment of extra weapons. A flamethrower, 3 ways and 8 ways, the multi barreled cannon, napalm bombs, smoke screens, rocket lanucher, cluster bombs and smart weapons. So O' YOB of the high talents and greatness what do you think.

A Psychotic Chicken, Cheshire.

YOB: Look, Psych, I know English is a foreign language to a domestic fowl like you but, for crying out loud, get the farmer to buy you a spelling dictionary before you write again. Alternatively, I can offer you my own twenty year (that's human years, not chicken years) correspondence course, entitled How To Write (On Walls) For Fun And Profit. To you, only £4.99 (inc VAT) or two dozen eggs.

COOL YOB GETS FAN

Dear YOB,

I think you are the coolest YOB on this Earth and I worship your style and class. So I think the coolest on Earth could answer some questions for his greatest fan, please.

1. Will English PC Engine games work on a Japanese PC Engine?
  2. What is the best, PC Engine or Megadrive?
  3. What football team do you support?
- Ben Clark, London .

PS I think you will be pleased to know that my girlfriend is a yobette.

YOB: Firstly, Benny-baby, NEC have postponed their plans to launch a British PC Engine, BUT! before you commit Hari-Kiri, there is some good news for Engine fans in the news pages of this very issue which should answer your question! There's no straight answer to your second query. Both the PC Engine and the Megadrive have expanding ranges of excellent games software so it's just a case of going for the machine that supports the games you want to play. Technically the Megadrive is superior, but it is the more expensive machine, and the games usually cost a tenner more, too. Finally, I have to say I don't support any football team (soccer's a sport for nancies anyway - give me Australian "No-Rules" Football any day), however I do find the commentators very entertaining, and Jimmy Greaves is undoubtedly my favourite.

MYSTERIES OF THE MAD MONK

Dear YOB,
Or can I call you YOB? I own an Amstrad and I would like to ask you a few questions:

1. Who was the drummer with The Shadows?
2. What is the capital of Peru?
3. Who wrote War and Peace?

Yours reverently,
Rasputin, Sanction, East Yorkshire.
YOB: Hal So - you think you can outwit the Yob with your crazy, deceased, Russian monk's questions? Well, I'm wise to your little game! Bryan Bennett was drummer with the Shads, Lima (population 1,716,00) is the capital of Peru, and Count Leo Nikolayevich Tolstoy (1828-1910) wrote War and Peace. Yob's Mailbag - entertaining and educational. I should be on a government grant or something shouldn't it?

KITCHEN FLOOR TRAGEDY

Dear YOB,
I think your mag is smart and was horrified when my sister wiped up something the dog had done on the kitchen floor. S Beaumont, South Humber-side.

YOB: I should blummin' well think so! Send your sister and the dog around to the office so me and the boys can do horrible things with them then publish the pictures next month.

SOMETHING FROM THE BOTTOM

Dear YOB,
Just a word from the bottom of the world. That's right - Australia (oh, when you said bottom I thought you meant something else - YOB). Me and some of me mates are getting peed off with some of you proms. Every second letter is pretty "loose". All whingeing about one thing or another. What happened to your so-called "stiff upper lip eh, what!?" Or is it that just crap fed to us by your bald shows like EastEnders. You think Neighbours is bad! If you want to hear a hard luck story, listen to this. We don't get your bonza mag for three months! Three months late, what a BUMMER! Four X's (I don't mean our beer either). Just one more thing. When will a light phaser be available for the C64? Schran, Pictou, Australia.

YOB: Now what disturbs me about Schran's letter, readers, is that Eastenders is giving foreign viewers the WRONG impression about us Brits. Honestly, we're not all depressed and depraved (well, depraved maybe) are we? Nor are we bald. In fact, most of us are dead happy for quite a lot of the time. I mean, is it any wonder that we have economic problems when foreigners are given the impression that we're all suicidal no-hopers who spend all day bad-mouthing people in the pub or selling fruit on the street. I mean REALLY! Um... Sorry, Schran, I seem to have wandered a bit. Mastertronic's light phaser is already available for the C64 in the UK, so maybe if you wait three months it'll be available in shops all over the world's bottom.

COMPLAINING COLIN

Dear YOB,
I have been reading C+VG for several years now and felt that I had to write to give my views on how the mag has changed over the course of time.

I welcome sections such as the improved Playmasters and new sections such as the Highscores, they have been a big plus to the mag. However, there hasn't been that much else new to rave on about. Small changes such as in the reviewing system have hardly been noticed at all. Instead what sticks out in my mind, I'm afraid, are the negative things that have happened to C+VG.

I remember the days when there were 180+ pages and reviews are more than a few paragraphs long. Nowadays because of the increase in the size of the text and the extra large screen shots, the reviews are barely worth reading. Looking back at old issues I see two reviews on one page, with just as many smaller screen shots and more text than some of your double pages spreads.

Although all reviews are now in colour, what's the point when the reviews aren't worth reading anyway? Current reviews give little detail, only telling the bare outline of the game, the text and screen shots should be reduced in size - smaller screen shots are just as clear and easy to see. This would allow more detailed reviews to be written and more screen shots if required. Lately, your arcade section seems to have missed out a lot of arcade games when they have been released, one such game is Air Buster - a superb shoot 'em up which I don't recall you ever mentioning.

Also looking back at old issues I see a list of features in every mag, nowadays there are much fewer and they are far between. Sections such as Mr T's Hot Gossip have been sadly missed and have had no replacements. There are many other items I would like to mention but I'd be writing for hours and I think I've already made my point. I have friends that laugh at your mag and cannot believe that it once used to be a good read. The only reason I still buy it is to check up on my highscores.

C+VG used to be a great mag, but it has severely declined over the years into something that you can sometimes look through in ten minutes then put away in the cupboard never to be read again. "Britain's Best Selling Computer Magazine" at one time sat proudly at the top at the top of every issue. I haven't seen that displayed for some time. I hate slugging the mag off because I remember how it used to be and I hope you print this letter to see what reaction it brings from other readers.

Colin Tracey, Colchester.
PS I have doubts over the validity of a few of the Amiga highscores. Batman - The Movie and Robocop come to mind. Perhaps the scorers could write in and say how they achieved them in detail.
YOB: Well, everyone's entitled to their opinion, and we value those of all our readers (even yours, Col) which is why we conduct a reader survey every year (in fact there's a questionnaire in this very issue!). The changes made over the past year have been in keeping with the outcome of last year's poll and I'm afraid if you don't like them, then you're currently in the minority. But there are some changes on the cards so your comments have been noted and we look forward to seeing what the rest of the readers think. Let me put you straight on a couple of points, though. Every six months, an independent body called the Audit Bureau of Circulations works out how many issues each magazine sells and the latest figure proves that C+VG IS still Britain's biggest-selling computer games mag. The only reason we don't still have that stamped across the top of the cover is that we think it's more important to inform readers what's in the mag, rather than going on about how popular we are. It's also interesting that you bring up the point of high score validity as one of your latest high scores (for Rainbow Islands) has been confirmed as impossible by the programmers at Graftgold. Perhaps you could write in and say how you achieved it - in detail?

AMIGA OR SPECTRUM?

Dear YOB,
I'm considering purchasing an Amiga 500 Flight of Fantasy pack, but my Dad wants me to get a Spectrum 128K +2 or a C64 because the games are cheaper. Please, please answer and put him straight.
Andrew McNeil, Dorset.
YOB: Dear Andrew's Dad, look, I know times are hard, but don't you think it's worth the £400 to keep your whingeing son quiet?

ANDY CRACKS

Dear YOB,
I love reading your mailbag every month because it's really funny, especially some of your replies. For example, in ish 105 you said about your parents 'not handicapping you with a name like Chris Griffiths' - that cracked me up. Anyway - to the point. I would just like to know what you thought of all these games for the C64.
Wizball, Great Gianna Sisters, Hawkeye, Into the Eagle's Nest.
These are some of my faves from the squillions of games we have got. I thought TI Dizzy was crap for the 64, did you?
Please print my letter YOB!
Andrew Vause, Wellingborough, Northants.

YOB: Well, seeing as you're the only person who will admit to laughing at my jokes, I suppose I have to print your letter, Andrew!
Andrew Vause, folks - a man of taste! All those games you mentioned are beezier, topper, boss, captain, skill and gear, but Gianna Sisters was withdrawn just after it went on sale (it was a bit too similar to Nintendo's Super Mario Brothers), so you might have trouble getting hold of it these days.

NO MORE SPECTRUMS?

Dear YOB,
I have recently heard that Spectrum computers are to be gradually phased out! Is this true? Does this mean that all of my games will no longer be of any use?
Mark Pearce, Chesterfield, Derbyshire.
YOB: I've conferred with experts on this subject, Mark, and I can confirm that your Spectrum software will not, I repeat, NOT, be useless as long as you have a Spectrum. And even if you sell your Spectrum or it gets kidnapped by terrorists or something, you can always use the cassettes to prop up a wobbly table or build an attractive model of the Taj Mahal (you'd have to paint them white for the full effect, though).

CRISP GASES REVEALED

Dear YOB,
I've just had the most stupendous, marvellous idea for a game. Brace yourself... Pro Sunbathing Simulator!!! Cool as hell or what?! It's a strategy game and the idea is to get as good a suntan as possible in a time limit! You have to take into account wind chill, temperature, and work out what sun factor oil you have to use.
Here's the good bit: once you've got your oil, you have to go to the beach and get the tan! But you get hassled by crabs and little kiddies with sunhats. To get rid of them they have to be blasted with suntan cream. To go onto the next level you have to reach a certain shade, so you can get a modeling contract, earn money and buy more suntan oil!
Great fun, I'll wager! So howabout a software company making this (I had Codemasters in mind)?
Gareth Williams, Gwent.
PS Are you dull or what? There's no air in bags of crisps, they're packed in nitrogen.
YOB: How come all you amateur games designers seem to have Code Masters in mind as the perfect company to program and market your "product"? I mean are you taking the Mick or something?

LETTER FROM MUTHA

Dear Turd,
Now let me get this straight. You are just a big wimp and you know it. You think that doodle of you on your mailbag page makes you look hard eh? Well it doesn't! You look like a skinny prat with oversize Doc Martens that have sharpened carrots stuck to them! Keep a lower profile, Cecil (yeah, that's your real name) or my pea shooter might blow your brain cell to Neptune's second moon. One hell of a mean mutha, Dagenham, Essex.
YOB: Mum, how many times do I have to tell you never to write to me at the office? Now why don't you calm down and I'll come to see you at the institution this weekend, all right?

ALL FORMATS CASTLE MASTER

A full guide to key-location here, from Jay Gibson of Harlow in Essex. Ta, Jay!

KEY TO DOOR ON THE FOURTH FLOOR

Once in the courtyard, go to the Hay Barn. Kill the spirit, turn right and look behind the hay, and voila, the key will be on the floor.

GRANARY CHEST KEY

Stand on the drawbridge and close it. You will find yourself on top of the church, the key before you.

LIBRARY KEY

Go to the well and click down the hole.

BARRACKS KEY

Go to the stables, and open the door where the horse is. Crawl under it and click in the hole.

IGOR'S ROOM KEY

Go the kitchen and walk to the table. Turn around (facing the door), and lo and behold, there will be the key. (Note: if you go into the fireplace, you will appear in the larder, with lots of food. Also, there is a message under the kitchen table.)

IGOR'S CHAMBER

Enter, and kill Igor. Open the chest, take the treasure, and there will be an unmarked key.

STAIRWELL KEY

Once the unmarked key is in your possession, push the first button, but don't go through the first door (leading to the stairwell), but take the other until you reach the vault vestibule, which has the stairwell key. Now return to the other door.

AMIGA NEW ZEALAND STORY

Christopher Williams of Haslemere in Surrey has sent in this nifty back-door to jump from level 2-1 to 3-4. Get a balloon, and find the captive kiwi. Go up the stairs, which lead to a small room with 2 green fruit in it. Go over to the left of the room, where there are 2 small steps. Jump on the first one, and fire to the right. A warp should appear which will hurl you to level 3-4! Amazing, eh?

C64

VENDETTA

After the first two levels last time round, here's the rest of the solution for System 3's stonker, again courtesy of Andrew Kyprian of Westcliff-on-Sea.

LEVEL 3 - THE ARMY BASE

Select the machine-gun, and kill the guard. Kick down the door, and enter. Kill the guard, and get the handbag from the desk at the front of the screen (it's on the left of the chair). Get the map from the filing cabinet in the corner, and get the book from the disk drive (funny place to keep a book, but there you go...). Leave the room, kill the guard, and go right. Kill another guard, enter the next screen, kill yet another guard (in the sand-bag pit). Go onto the next screen, kill the guard, climb up and get the ammo (optional). Go left, dispose of yet another guard, kick down the door and get some ammo from the pink room. Exit, and move on to the next screen. (Altogether now!) Kill the guard, enter the building on the right, kill another guy, and get the shoe (which is on the pillow). Leave, and go left. Select the key, face down and left, go to pick-up mode and open the door.

LEVEL 4 - MORE HARD DRIVIN'

Follow level 2's instructions from last month.

LEVEL 5 - THE AIRPORT

Kill the guard, kick down the door and enter the room. Get the disguise from the filing cabinet, and the bullet-proof vest from the middle locker on the left-hand wall. Leave the room, and go to the hangar. Go through one screen, and replenish the ammo from the brown box. Go through 3 more rooms, go up the stairs, kill one guard, and make your way to the plane's cockpit. Kill another guard, and get the map from in-between the two lockers. Select wire-cutters, and kneel down behind the girl (Oh! Stop that!). A picture of the bomb should appear. Cut the wires in this order:

- 1) MIDDLE/RED
- 2) LEFT/YELLOW
- 3) RIGHT/BLUE

LEVEL 6 - EVEN MORE ROAD BLASTING

Again, the same as levels 2 and 4.

LEVEL 7 - CENTRAL PARK

Go through all the screens, killing the guards as you go. Once that's accomplished, return to the water fountain. You should see a man lying on the ground. Walk to his left hand, face out of the screen and kneel down. He will now stand up, you will have rescued your brother and completed the game! YIPPEE!

And just to make life that little bit easier, Tony Jeffrey from Royston has sent in this little wonder - press down SHIFT LOCK, and press down all the keys on the right of the keyboard. This should make you skip levels, and you don't have to worry about collecting the items, as you get them automatically! Phwoar!

SPECTRUM CYBERBALL

Oliver Gutridge of Havant, Hants, doesn't know if this is a cheat as such, but when receiving the ball after a safety, don't run forwards, but into your own endzone and wait until tackled. Once you've chosen your play you should find yourself three-quarters of the way up the field!

DEAD ANGLE

Carlo Iacolino from Australia's obviously a guy in the know, and he's sent in a bundle of tips for Sega's gangster shoot.

ROUND 1 (NAPOLI, ENRICO FAMILY, SHOPPING DISTRICT)

ENEMIES: Start shooting straight away. Shoot the men as they jump out of the windows above.

BOSS: When he comes past, duck. He will crouch down, so fire at him then. Try to save some tommy gun ammo.

ROUND 2 (NEW YORK, SABATORE FAMILY, WATERFRONT)

ENEMIES: Pick off men on ship, also those falling down. Fire rapidly at the men in the warehouse.

BOSS: Use rapid fire. When he comes past, go up and come down firing.

ROUND 3 (NEW YORK, ORAZIO FAMILY, HOTEL)

ENEMIES: Use the tommy gun at the guys in the hallway. Don't stop firing.

BOSS: Duck, and shoot at any knives that come toward you.

ROUND 4 (CHICAGO, VINCENT FAMILY, DOWNTOWN)

ENEMIES: Fire at the feet of the men above, and fire rapidly ly at the groups below. BOSS: Simply duck, and fire at his chest.

ROUND 5 (CHICAGO, TOMASSO FAMILY, KING'S MANSION)

ENEMIES: Be careful of the men hiding under the stairs. BOSS: A bit of a toughie, this one. Avoid his grenades, go up above him and fire.

ROUND 6 (THE BIG BOSS - ROBERT KING, THE SHOWDOWN)

ENEMIES: Try to keep a constant rate of fire, as most of the bad guys turn up in groups.

BOSS: This is the fun part - all the previous end-of-level bosses turn up, so take care of them as you did before. For King, aim at his head, and keep firing.

MEGADRIVE GHOULS N' GHOSTS

On the middle of the second level, don't bother killing the monster on the skulls. Run past him onto the earthquake section. If you don't manage to kill him and get wiped out in the process, you start at the beginning of the earthquake level! Cheers to Leon Wong of London for that.

LYNX ELECTROCOP

Howabout this then, guys and gals? Simon McTiernan of Earley in Reading has sent in a bumper bag of codes for Epyx's little wonder!

NINTENDO DOUBLE DRAGON II

Anonymous of Somewhere sent in this little hint for Acclaim's rather natty beat 'em up. During mission 3, when the helicopter door opens, press START, wait three seconds, then press START again to continue. The door will close!

ROBOCOP

Once you have used your first three continues, hold down buttons A and B, SELECT and START simultaneously. The screen will switch to the main title screen. Move the cursor to CONTINUE, and carry on from where you left off. Thanks again to the unknown tipster for that.

COBRA TRIANGLE

Yet another anonymous tip - I do wish people would put their names and addresses on these things! Anyway, when you cross the finish line at the end of each race, you can rack up loads of bonus points by putting your boat into a spin. You'll get 1000 points for each spin you do!

GUNSMOKE

The anonymous tipster strikes again, with a handy cheat for would-be gunslingers. On the title screen, press button A four times, SELECT four times, RIGHT twice and then START. You'll be the proud owner of a machine gun with 300 bullets!

PC ENGINE KLAX

Hot off the presses is this little cheat for Tengen's PC Engine conversion of their tic-tac-tole game, thanks to Ashley of Spectresoft in Covent Garden (HAH! blatant advertising tactics, eh? That won't wash with US!). You can start the game with 9 credits, but to get 9 more at any point, push UP on the pad, press SELECT and buttons I and II. Simple, yes?

IMAGE FIGHT

Fed up with the boring, horizontal screen? Want your game to be that bit more like the coin-op? Then turn off your Engine, hold down button I, and turn the beast back on! Thanks again to Ashley of Spectresoft for that little number.

DON DOKO DON

If you're a right duffer at this game you won't have realised that there's a magical level warp to be found on the very first level! Get rid of two of the monsters on screen one, then, avoiding the remaining one, go to the middle of the top platform and repeatedly leap and hammer. After a couple of blows a key should fall onto the platform. Pick it up and a door will open at the bottom of the screen, allowing you to warp to The Password Chamber! But what's the password? Well, look at this here picture which displays the correct order to smash the jars in to get you to level 51!! ZOWIE!

In case you can't be bothered to look at the picture, the combination is: HEART, DIAMOND, CLUB, CLUB, SPADE, HEART, DIAMOND. C+VG's very own Rob 'n' Paul discovered that one!

Find out its limits.
Look in the mirror.

Introducing the powerful new Atari 1040 STE. With such an awesome machine, we're convinced the only limits you'll come across are your own.

Based on the incredibly successful 1040 STFM, the 1040 STE itself goes beyond the limits of its predecessor.

The 'E', by the way, stands for 'Enhanced'. But once you've discovered its amazing array of features, you may consider 'Enhanced' to be the understatement of the decade.

Perhaps the most outstanding feature of the 1040 STE is its graphics. Its palette contains over 4000 colours (all right, 4096 to be exact).

To ensure precise and realistic images, the STE features 'hardware scrolling', enabling smooth scrolling in any direction and split-screen effects. And, with the SM124 monitor, you'll get razor sharp black-out-of-white text that's as clear as the type on this page.

To complete the picture, it is able to 'phase-lock' its video output to an external video source, permitting direct linking to a GenLocking device.

The 1040 won't just have your eyes swivelling in their sockets. Your eardrums will also take a pounding from the 8-bit PCM stereo sound.

The new PCM (Pulse Coded Modulation) sound system's two chips allow the 1040 STE to replay high-quality sampled sounds, in stereo, without burdening the CPU. Or, for even more of an earblasting, just add a couple of RCA output jacks and power the sounds through your own stereo.

Of course we mustn't forget memory. One megabyte of RAM comes as standard. If that's not enough, the 1040 STE provides four SIMM sockets. Simply plug in some SIMM (Single In-line Memory Module) boards and boost the RAM up to four megabytes.

To help you handle all this technology, we've added even more: a Blitter chip, capable of shifting data at high speeds independent of the CPU, and a new version of TOS.

The TOS 1.6 (operating system) has an enhanced file selector with drive-change buttons, improved desktop with file move, MS-DOS compatible disk formatting, and better application installation and auto-booting facilities.

As you'd expect, there's a huge range of peripherals including hard disks, floppy disks, laser printers, colour monitors and even Megafile 44, Atari's unique 44-megabyte removable hard disk.

As well as all this hardware, there are hundreds of software programmes for the 1040 STE - we're even throwing in the ST-Series Productivity and Leisure bundles free.

The Productivity bundle features a database, spreadsheet, word processor and business graphics package, and there's S.T.A.C., FirST BASIC, Hyperpaint and Prince in the Leisure bundle.

If you're itching to get your hands on the controls, there are two 15-pin analogue controller ports (which accept paddles, light-guns and light-pens) and a 9 pin mouse port and joystick port.

With adaptors, up to six people can use the 1040 at one time. Just in case it's too much for one person to handle.

At £499.99 it certainly won't be too much for one person to afford.

The ideal computer at the ideal price, you may think. We think so, too. But there remains only one potential problem: not whether you'll make impossible demands of the 1040, but whether the 1040 will make impossible demands of you.

Please send me further details of the 1040 STE and other Atari products.

GET GREMLINS GEAR WITH ELITE!

Cor Blimey! Strike a light and buckle me shoes, guv'nor! Have we got a flippin' marvellous compo for you, or what! Things have been all quiet at Elite of late, but all that's set to change with Gremlins 2! Yes, you did read correctly - Elite have scooped the licensing rights to this blockbuster movie and their game of the film will be available from your local software emporium this autumn!

And to provide a little Gremlins excitement amongst the C+VG-reading populace, Elite have come up with this rather juicy Gremlins 2 compo! You could get your hands on one of 25 Gremlins 2 packs, each including (deep breath): a copy of the original movie on video, a Gremlins 2 computer game, loads of Gremlins pens and pencils, a corking Gremlins 2 keyring and a marvellous mug. Is that all? 'Course not! Elite have also thrown in a Gremlins 2 figurine and a vast poster to paste over your boring old bedroom wallpaper!

Sounds pretty wizzo, eh? Well, you've got to earn all these goodies! Most boring old compos require you to answer a tedious set of questions. Well, the Gremlins have obviously got to this one 'cos we want you to provide the QUESTION to this answer!

SIXTY MILLION FRANKFURTERS AND A PAIR OF OVEN GLOVES..

We here at C+VG love a good guffaw, so if you think you can provide a side-splitting question to this simple answer, write your question on a postcard and send it off to: THEM GREMLINS LOOK JUST LIKE MY GRANDAD COMP, C+VG, PRIORY COURT, 30-32 FARRINGDON LANE, LONDON, EC1R 3AU. Be sure to get your answer (or rather your question) in to us by 30th October - that's when we'll be choosing the best 25, and they'll all get their share of the goodies!

UPDATE

The ST version of Torvak is to be exactly the same as the Amiga version in every possible respect. It should be slashing its way onto an ST near you real soon like, for the grand total of £24.99. Keep 'em peeled on the Updates for a review as we get it.

AMIGA
£24.99

I must admit to being highly sceptical of a game, I mean, it's been done so many times before (Rastan, Rastan II, Legendary Axe, Barbarian II etc.), I was wondering if anything new could be done on the subject. Unfortunately not, it seems. Torvak is an out-and-out Rastan-style game, with big methead travelling around myriad levels hacking monsters. No points for originality, then, so how does the game measure up otherwise? Well, the sprites and backdrops are beautifully detailed, and there are lots of lovely monsters and end of level demons that explode in a spray of blood when killed (very tasteful). The sound is switchable between grunts, groans and swishes, or very nice tunes, but these do get a little repetitive after a while. That's something that could also be said of the gameplay, because although slashing and bashing nasties is fun, it does begin to drag after a while. If you're after Rastan for the Amiga, you could do a lot worse than this, but twenty five notes is a lotta dosh for a game of this ilk, even if you do get a set of lead figures in the box.

▲ Armed and deadly with his lethal chopper - Torvak!

TORVAK

BY CORE

An evil necromancer has put a blight upon the land, turning the crops to dust and generally making life pretty miserable for the populace. While everyone else cowers at home, up steps beefcake barbarian, Torvak, ready to spill blood and restore the land to its former glory.

Torvak's an athletic sort, and when it comes to running, jumping, climbing and monster-hacking he's top man. Orcs wielding clubs, knives and longbows stand in his way, accompanied by flies, wasps, and poisonous plants. All are willing to give Torvak a rough ride, but a quick swipe or two is enough to send them into oblivion.

Apart from chopping things up, collecting the treasure that's lying about is also a good way to boost your score. Of more practical use are the swords, maces, warhammers and shields which can be magically upgraded by collecting potions and crystals.

The game is split into five levels, each with several sub-zones, and at the end of each level lurks a large, ferocious demon. Defeat it, and move further onward until, at the end of the fifth and final massive level, you meet the Evil One. Defeat HIM and peace and prosperity will be restored to the lands, but remember - if you fail there won't be enough of you left to wipe the bathroom floor with.

The 4x4 vehicles are certainly being put through their paces on these dirt tracks, and the stakes are high. For the winner there's fame, glory and a juicy cash prize. For the loser things aren't quite so inviting - it's back to the drawing board in Skid Mark Alley, and worst of all, the loss of a credit.

AMIGA

Following up the best coin-op conversion of the year seemed like quite a tall order, but the Graft-gold lads have not disappointed us one little bit! Just like Rainbow Islands, Off Road Racer is virtually identical to the arcade, with all 416 (count 'em) frames of truck animation included! The sound too, has been faithfully reproduced, and all those national anthems and in-game tunes have never sounded better. Actually completing all the events across the eight stadia is no mean feat - the opposition (including Ivan "Ironman" Stewart himself!) certainly know how to handle their vehicles, and you're going to need all the dosh you can lay your hands on to pay for the custom modifications to your truck. Off Road Racer's main attraction in the arcades was the simultaneous three player action, and even this feature has made its way into the conversion! If you've been lamenting the lack of Super Sprint type games on the Amiga, lament no more. Off Road Racer is simply the best and will be for a long while yet!

CORPORATION

▲ Cut through the gloom with infra red specs!

Strange things have been happening at the Universal Cybernetics Corporation. Until now, UCC has maintained a spotless corporate image, but rumours abound that the company is involved in genetic engineering in an attempt to create perfect fighting machines for military usage, an act made illegal in the early part of the century. Concrete evidence of this has been difficult in to acquire, making it impossible to prove the corporation's guilt.

The government, not wishing to lose the enormous amount of taxes paid to them by UCC, want only for the firm to cease this course of action, and so keep from creating an international incident. To achieve this, they have commissioned the Zodiac Agency to infiltrate UCC's corporate offices and retrieve the necessary evidence, a mutant embryo. And as a member of said agency, guess who's got the job?

The 16 massive floors that make up the UCC offices are viewed in 3D, and each is populated by robots, slaivering mutants, surveillance cameras, human security guards and various other foes and traps which have to be either destroyed or avoided if you're to find the embryo and escape with your life.

I had really high hopes for Corporation. This could be the ultimate version of Dungeon Master, I thought. Then I played it, and well, it's not. Don't get me wrong, in most respects Corporation is absolutely astounding, particularly graphically, because it has lots of lovely monsters, droids and humans to be blown away, and the 3D movement is nice and smooth. Where the game falls down is with the pernickety control method. Movement is achieved by clicking on a square "compass", and you have to click right on the centre to stop. Trying to move quickly in the heat of battle is really difficult, and Corporation would have benefited more from a Dungeon Master-type directional arrow system. The use of sound is appropriately sparse, apart from a brilliant movie-like intro. Overall, a good game, and one for the insomniacs amongst you, but with a better control method, Corporation could have been something even more special.

▼ Barrels of excitement in the Bitmaps' latest.

There stands a lonely castle amongst the murky swamps of a far-off land. Once the power base of the mighty Wulf dynasty, it now lies empty - save for the evil necromancer, Dianos. Once the king's chancellor, Dianos used his insidious powers to turn man against man, brother against brother, until all were slain, even the King, dead by his own captain's sword.

Then one fateful day, a stranger appeared. Short of stature but stout of heart, a bounty hunter by trade, the newcomer was hired to venture forth to the castle, and to seek and slay Dianos for his crimes. One man, a captain of the royal guard, spoke in hushed tones, of demons and monsters foul which had taken in with the necromancer, and would do their utmost to aid their master.

Sure of a godly reward,

The Bitmaps are back, and how! This 3D isometric adventure (vaguely reminiscent of Ultimate's Knight Lore) is a real departure from their previous blasts, but believe me, this is probably their best product to date! Control of the dwarf is simple enough, and when it comes to picking up and utilising the myriad objects scattered around the castle, the icon system works surprisingly well, and is quick and easy to use. The graphics are nothing short of brilliant, and the sheer attention to detail (especially with some of the brickwork and monsters) is stunning. Some of the puzzles are quite easy, but others demand a brain-bending amount of lateral thought, though nothing so complex as to drive you away. Containing five levels, each with a massive 70 rooms, the game has a heck of a lot there to keep you going, so it's a game to be played over a considerable amount of time. If you're yearning for the bygone days of Ultimate-style action, look no further. Cadaver is well-deserving of a place in everybody's software collection.

the hunter made his plans, and that night, set out in a small boat towards the castle, to search out this demon Dianos, and destroy him once and for all.

You, controlling this reckless warrior, must journey through a 3D forced-perspective environment, collecting items and artifacts that may be used in your quest. Running and jumping are the basis of your movement, but a mystical icon panel is at hand to tell you of your whereabouts, and what is available to you. Be warned, however, for traps are a-plenty, and your energy is limited. Wise actions will be rewarded with progress, but act foolishly, and all will be lost.

UPDATE

Cadaver will be appearing on the Amiga during September, for £24.99, and, apart from slight colour and sound differences, it should be identical to the ST version. There is also a PC version in the pipeline, to be released at a later date. Because Cadaver makes heavy use of the 16 bit machines' graphics and sound capabilities, no 8 bit versions are planned.

MR DO! RUN! RUN!

BY

Sick of living out the life of a silly clown permanently wearing stupid clothes and girly make-up, Mr Do has decided to cut loose from his days at the circus and live the life of the adventurer, dishing out justice to all the baddies who stray into his path.

Of course, our hero carried out similar japes in the arcade gems, Mr Do and Mr Do's Castle, going around the screen dropping fruit on all the nasties he can find (doesn't sound that effective to me). However, in Mr Do's latest frolic, he's going to have to use his Crystal Ball of Death and devastating rolling logs dotted around the screen to carry out the good work.

Mr Do can also colour the screen, Qix style, to locate extra fruit and hidden bonuses, and PacMan style dots can be collected to replenish his amazing meanie-mashing sphere. Mr Do's on the run again (after yet another hot Madras curry!) and he'll need YOUR help to get him through the pile of vicious screens that await him.

◀ Run rings around the opposition for an EXTRA bnnn!

UPDATE

Expect to see Mr Do! Run! Run! hit ST screens any time now, at the same price of £14.99.

AMIGA
£14.99

Welcome back to the almighty Mr Do! Well, perhaps not so almighty, because the number of times the opposition cream our hero in this game is almost unreal - we're talking mega-frustration here! The actual gameplay itself is quite addictive, and if it wasn't for Mr Do's high mortality rate, I'd have been hooked right from the start and no mistake. The graphics are smaller than they were in the arcade game, but they're perfectly formed, and the conversion reproduces the coin-op's jazzy tunes and spot effects perfectly. The gameplay is also spot-on and that's where Mr Do! Run! Run! really scores, because you simply can't beat the satisfaction of wiping out a whole screenful of nasties with one rolling log! There's a huge variety of enemy sprites in this game and each one has a different behaviour pattern - my favourite has to be the fairly harmless snake that transforms into a rampaging ball of flame! This game is a barrel of laffs all right and a damn good bargain to boot, but be warned, it's one TOUGH cookie!

CAPTIV

BY MINDSCAPE

Day 73,050. Dear Diary, another day in this infernal dungeon with only Ernie the rat for company. As rats go he's not a bad sort, but his Jimmy Tarbuck impression is becoming a real pain. The gaoler turns up once a decade, but he isn't much company either, and he only knows one joke (about a thumbscrew and some Frankfurters).

▼ Choose your destination in one easy step!

▼ Hang on! Haven't I seen you somewhere before?

Day 73,051. Dear Diary, today my eye fell on a mysterious dusty box that, inexplicably, I've never noticed before in all my 200 years in this prison. I opened it and discovered it was an ancient laptop computer with full telecommunication facilities. Unfortunately there were no games with it, but after fiddling around with the MODEM link I made contact with four helpful robots and managed to persuade them to rescue me! If only I knew where I'm imprisoned.

I started by sending my robo-rescuers to the planet Butre, and took direct control of the quartet, viewing the scenery through their eyes and directing them from my keyboard. I can keep a check on their energy levels and state of repair, list the items they are carrying and command them to use these items to get out of trouble (or into it).

After landing their spacecraft on the planet's surface I sent them on a walk around a maze of hedges until they came across a circular door in a wall which opened only when four buttons are pressed in the correct sequence.

Once inside, the robots were transported to an underground network of corridors populated by heavily-armed and all sorts of psychotic mutants. Luckily, the robots stumbled across an armoury where they were able to stock up on flame throwers, blasters and explosives. After testing them out (heh heh!) on a swarm of small furry things, I discovered (a) that the robots are terribly good shots, and

(b) that dead monsters leave behind bags of gold. I plan to return to the shop I saw earlier and equip my team with some improved body parts, better weapons, and possibly some add-ons to provide various scanning facilities on each robot's supplementary viewing screen.

The shopkeeper informs me this is just one of ten bases maintaining the prison ship where I am, and that to escape I need explosives to blow up each base's power source, after finding a computer disk bearing the co-ordinates of the next base.

UPDATE

Mindscape are working on a £24.99 ST version of Captive and a PC version which will run under EGA, VGA and MCGA graphics cards and cost £29.99.

C+VG HIT!

AMIGA
£24.99

Dungeoneer Master certainly spawned a fair few clones, but this is about the best I've seen, because it's the only one that really uses some ingenuity. For example, the super ball may look like a toy but throw it against a wall and it bounces back and forth knocking seven bells out of anything that tries to walk past it! The object handling is fine, and the ability to change the robots' abilities by buying new body parts is a great idea, especially as there is such a wide variety of bits (including some really meaty weapons) available. The monsters are brilliantly conceived and brilliantly drawn too, ranging from innocuous Postman Pat lookalikes to enormous ED-209 clones which pack a frightening amount of firepower. As if that wasn't enough to keep you awake all night, the game generates 5900 missions so you definitely won't finish it in a weekend! If you lament the lack of Dungeoneer Master-type games on a par with the original, say goodbye to Mr Frown, because this is the business!

THE PUNISHER

BY THE EDGE

Sprung from prison by the mysterious Trust, The Punisher has but one mission in life. Protect the innocent and punish the guilty. As the lavish (if rather condensed) comic included with this game goes to show, The Trust aren't quite the law-enforcing vigilantes they claim to be. In fact, they turn out to be just the opposite...

You adopt the role of The Punisher (no surprises there), taking on the scum of the city on the road to the final showdown with the mysterious members of the Trust. What this generally entails is screen after screen of Operation Wolf style gameplay, with The Punisher protecting the innocent with his trusty Uzi and ACP Pistol. As the saying goes, if the going gets tough, the tough produce an ▼ Mean bikers and their cronies threaten the innocent (boo!).

▲ Laffs a-plenty in the seamy back-streets.

M68 Fragmentation Grenade and blow the opposition away - and The Punisher is no exception!

At various points in the game, The Punisher may enter his disguised van and choose a new mega-powerful weapon for the end-of-level shoot-out - and he'll need it! If the common punk packs a sawn-off shotgun, who knows what the Trust have in store for our vigilante hero!

UPDATE

The Punisher is due to appear on most of the major formats. Keep an eye out in the Updates section.

AMIGA
£24.99

It pains me to say this, but The Edge have completely fouled up any potential this licence may have possessed. The gameplay is just so sluggish, completely destroying any chance of some decent playability. And on top of that daunting handicap, it has an absurdly high difficulty level which really seals its doom - inadvertently kill just one innocent bystander and it's game over with no second chance! The visuals may capture a smidgen of the comic's menacing atmosphere, but the jerky animation completely destroys the effect. The sampled sound effects are short and unconvincing (sometimes just a garbled noise issues forth from the Amiga) and the music sounds more like a C64! Sorry, Punisher fans, but this simply doesn't make the grade. A tragic example of the finished product not living up to the limitless potential.

Mysterious spaceships have landed in Hyde Park, so Rick, now having changed the Indiana Jones look for something more along the lines of Flash Gordon, must set out to defeat the other-world monsters from the planet Barf, and their leader, the nefarious Fat Man. He's also traded in his trusty pistol and dynamite, for a spanking

Set over five massive levels - from Hyde Park all the

ST

Rick Dangerous was high in the list of my Top Ten All-Time Fave Raves, and my first thought was that Rick 2 would have to be absolutely danged flippin' great to beat it. Well, after being nigh-on glued to my joystick for ages, I can safely say that my fears were well and truly groundless! From the very first intro (where Rick ditches his jacket and hat for the blue cloak and blond quiff) right to the very last level, Rick Dangerous 2 simply oozes quality. The graphics are bright, colourful and well drawn and really well animated, and the way that both Rick and the aliens leap out of the screen when hit is simply brilliant. The gameplay is both addictive and challenging, and the puzzles, like the original, are simple enough to start off with, then get steadily more complex and twisted as things progress. There's so much to see and do, it'll keep you stuck to your screens for yonks. For fans of the original, and everyone else for that matter, get this pronto. You won't be disappointed.

It's all change this month, with Code Masters running riot at the top of the chart, kicking Italy 1990 right out of the stadium and most surprising of all, booting Kick Off 2 right down to the number ten spot. Shadow Warriors gets off to a promising start, somersaulting from nowhere to number two, but will it knock Pro Boxing out of the prime position by next month?

Flippin' heck! Kick Off 2 hangs on to the top spot, with the corking International 3D Tennis making a long-awaited appearance, but what happened to Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles? Just as it seemed it was going to slam to the top, it vanishes without trace! Such is life, eh?

ROB'S TIP FOR THE TOP

Kick Off 2 should be at the top of the heap again, but if International 3D Tennis isn't up there as well, I'll eat my racquet.

Pro Boxing punches its way to the top, knocking Italy 1990 right out of the chart. Kick Off 2 nosedives out of sight, but there's still no sign of International 3D Tennis. Possibly next month, perhaps?

ROB'S TIP FOR THE TOP

If you ask me, and you probably will, I reckon that Shadow Warriors will slash its way to the top, with Palace's tennis game possibly showing its face.

Shock of shocks! After a solitary month in pole position, Kick Off 2 is blown out of the sky by F-19 Stealth Fighter! It's good to see Flood in there at last, but methinks Microprose will be holding on to the number one for a month or two.

Now that KO2 has been knocked off its perch, I'm putting an each-way bet on F-19 and Flood, already.

SALAMANDER HIT SQUAD

From beyond infinity (where else?), the despot Salamander has arrived and he's starting killing people and generally causing a lot of havoc and mayhem. Bad news, huh?

A hero is needed and this is where you come in. Take your battle-scarred Warp Rattler into four levels of shoot 'em up action, collecting add-on weaponry and generally letting Salamander's minions eat photon death.

On the C64 at least, Salamander is an absolutely stunning conversion that simply demands immediate purchase (shame about the multi-load though). On the Spectrum and Amstrad, I'm afraid things aren't quite so rosy. The playing area is rather small and action is a tad slow - not the greatest of blasters by a long chalk.

PRO POWERBOAT SIMULATOR

CODE MASTERS

If the thought of another "simulator" with the Code Masters seal of quality is enough to put you off your dinner, then take heart. Yes, this particular game isn't bad at all and weighs in as pretty good value on the £4.99 budget range.

The gameplay generally involves racing up the vertically scrolling waterways collecting fuel and dropping mines to wipe out the opposition. The game also boasts a simultaneous two player option - but don't get too excited. You can't race away from the opposition simply because the scrolling only goes as fast as the slowest player! Otherwise, not a bad game - but we've seen it all before.

In Encore's latest re-release, you manage to get your hands on the latest tooled-up air-fortress, and you must use its awesome devastation capabilities to wreak havoc behind enemy lines.

A whole fleet of enemy aircraft stand between you and each of your eight objectives, so you're going to need as many weapons as you can pack on board. Don't overload your aircraft, though, or it will become a downward-spiralling coffin.

The actual missions are displayed in pretty good Afterburner-style 3D, with loads of

YOGI'S GREAT ESCAPE

HI-TEC

He may well be smarter than the average bear, but not even Yogi Bear can think of a suitably devious plan to save Jellystone Park from closing. Therefore, instead of spending the rest of his days cooped up in a smelly zoo somewhere, Yogi has decided to escape from Jellystone and find a new park to live in.

Yogi has to cross six horizontally scrolling levels, pinching picnic baskets on the way. There's plenty of

WANDERER 3D ENCORE

Yes, that 3D jobbie from Elite is back, only this time it's available on their budget label. This game's main pulling point was undoubtedly the "real" 3D effect, and Encore have even included the 3D glasses in the package - what a bargain (ooh, sarcasm - Ed!)

If you didn't know, Wanderer 3D is "the complete space adventure game" based around (of all things) cats. It turns out that in the year 3027 our feline buddies are THE status symbol, so the future soldier of fortune had better have a good line in Go Cat or he's doomed to poverty.

Believe it or not, I saw this game on the Sinclair QL (!) a few years ago and it's still awful. We're talking "real 3D" that's about as effective as a one-legged man in a bottom-kicking contest, and shoot 'em up action that's as thrilling as a Skoda Grand Prix. This game simply does not warrant purchase at ANY price.

T-BIRD 16 BLITZ/ MASTERTRONIC

Your completely clapped out Laader (!) 1000L has just gone to the great scrapyard in the sky, so you decide to buy a new mega-shifting turbo-nutter spaceship! The Foured T-Bird looks like a bit of a mover, so you decide to take it for a test drive.

But disaster! You've accidentally taken a wrong turn into enemy territory and you must blast your way out (Why you can't simply reverse is beyond me). Don't worry though, Foured will send along some extra bolt-on weaponry so things aren't really that bad.

Well, I'm afraid they are. What we have here is a lukewarm Galaxy Force clone with sad, deformed graphics and not a lot happening on the playability front. The 3D effect is wobbly and rather laughable, and the enemy attack waves are rather unexcit-ing to say the least. There are plenty of better shoot 'em ups about, so you're best off saving up a bit longer and buying one of those instead.

ZEPPELIN GAMES

Spaghetti Western Simulator? Yes, only this time The Man With No Name has got one - Clint Westband (groan!). Your general aim is blast away all the bandits in the five horizontally scrolling townships and yet being careful not to shoot the good guys (just like the real thing!).

As a "simulator", this completely fails. Where's the suspect dubbing? Where's the one-on-one high noon shoot outs with Lee Van Cleef? Where's the playability? Let's hope that Zeppelin Games haven't taken up the Code Masters "simulator" habit with further games of a similar quality.

MANIX MILLENNIUM

Manix is a bit, erm, strange, to say the least. You (and a friend in two player mode) adopt the roles of grinning blobs traversing a number of screens across a number of levels. These screens are made up of tiles, and some nasty devil has been changing their colours (oh no!).

It's your job to change all the tiles back to their original colours. This incredibly simple task is made a mite more difficult by the fact that each screen has a number of nasties floating about - and they mean business!

Manix is a simple game with a whole wodge of extra options thrown in to liven up the game somewhat. Two players can compete against each other, or work as a team. A mini-construction kit is also in there which enables you to redefine the game's parameters.

This game isn't a wild and crazy excursion to Excitement City, but it does rank as one of the more original releases we've had in this month.

SKATE WARS

UBISOFT

It's future sports time again! Here we have Ubisoft's interpretation of what we'll all be playing to while away our time during the next century.

The amount of players on the Skate Wars pitch was been reduced to two (so much for team work!) with one player guarding the goal while the other attacks, or defends as the case may be. Skate Wars is definitely a contact sport and as our robot player heroes are on skates (surprise, surprise!) there's plenty of barging and knocking the other players over!

Skate Wars is a playable little gem that's even more fun with two players. Take a peek at your nearest software emporium and see if you like it.

MIDNIGHT RESISTANCE

OCEAN

Midnight Resistance got a decent 80% when we had a butcher's at the Amiga version, our only gripe being the somewhat strange control method. Well, now we've seen the ST version and much the same comments apply.

The only real differences are the lack of the two player mode and the smooth horizontal scrolling of the arcade version, which has been replaced by a flick screen format (like ST Shadow Warriors).

But if you're playing solo you won't have much to complain about because Midnight Resistance is still a pretty good blaster - better than many on the ST - and it's also very challenging. Try and have a few goes at the game before actually parting with the folding stuff.

SIMULCRA MICROSTYLE

It's out and out shoot 'em up action in Simulcra, as the player-controlled SRV (Surface Reconnaissance Vehicle) battles to close down thirty battle matrices, blasting a huge variety of airborne and earthbound vehicles on the way. There's pick-ups aplenty available from the blasted enemy fighters and structures. Radars, fire-and-forget missiles and extra armour can be collected to make the task of heavy-duty devastation a smidgen easier.

Simulcra on the Amiga is even better (!) than the superlative ST version reviewed last month. The shoot 'em up genre may have been flogged to death, but Simulcra has the edge in its wonderful execution. Make sure you find the time to give this game the attention it deserves.

Now it's down to you to take up the quest, beating up meddlesome Arabs and collecting useful weapons and mystical objects along the way.

The actual gameplay is best described as a cross between the Indy graphic adventure and System 3's Last Ninja series, with the arcade element perhaps the most prominent. As an arcade adventure Tusker's quite an engrossing game, with decent

MAD PROFESSOR MARIARTI

BY KRYSALIS

▼ Close down the labs or the straitjacket awaits!

▼ Use your faithful Zapstick, Prof!

▼ Mariarti "brushes up" on his Reptilian dentistry!

Professor Mariarti's got a problem. Everyone thinks he's a screaming loon, and should be locked up. Even the Lord Mayor agrees, and has sent the Prof a letter, stating that if all of his insane machines are not turned off within one week, he'll be put in a straitjacket and carted off to the nearest nuthouse.

What this entails is getting the Prof around five massive laboratories, (labeled chemical research, space rocket development, computer science, biological observations and - ooh-weeee-oooh - The Mystery Lab) collecting sundry items and using them in the correct locations to shut down all the rogue equipment.

The more lively items of lab equipment attempt to stop you in your tracks, but they can be stunned or destroyed with just a few shots from the Prof's zapstick. Collect tokens along the way and you can buy more powerful weapons from the tool lockers scattered about the labs.

If the Prof's successful in shutting down all of his equipment, he'll be free to live a life of peace in a country cottage with roses around the door. If not, well, it's 20 years in a padded cell with a striped view and lots of tranquilizing injections in the rump.

UPDATE

Mad Professor Mariarti will be jumping onto the Amiga and (ooh!) the Archimedes, real soon now, for the same price of £19.95. Unfortunately, Krysalis has no plans for 8 bit versions.

£19.95

As far as platform games go, this ranks as one of the prettiest around, and definitely ranks as one of the most frustrating! The graphics are really bright and colourful, with some excellent animation, and the sound is an amusing mixture of squeaks, boings and pings. As far as the gameplay goes, however, Mad Professor Mariarti is reminiscent of Terramex, Thunderbirds, and about almost every other platform game that Teque (the programming arm of Krysalis) have done in the past - although it has to be said that this is the best of their bunch. The sheer scale of the game is enormous and the basic mechanics work well, but the connections between the items and the puzzles are pretty obscure, so be prepared to spend a lot of time trekking about, experimenting with different objects in different locations. If you like this kind of game you'll undoubtedly enjoy Mariarti to the max, but those of you more used to blasting than brainwork might well find you've ripped most of the hair off the cat before it's complete!

Scramble! Scramble! I say you chaps! Sausage suckers up the blue end! Well, I s'pose I'd better calm down a bit.

As you may have surmised, Wings puts you in the cockpit of an SE5 biplane of the 56th Aerosquadron, flying alongside your ten stout-hearted comrades over France during World War One. The game starts on March 2, 1916 and your objective is simply to survive the remaining two years of the war, flying over 230 missions before you meet the German ace, Das Rittmeister.

Before you can actually join the squadron, you need to earn your wings by completing basic training. Here you get to sample the three types of mission you will encounter during active service, strafing ground targets, bombing installations, or shooting down enemy aircraft (in the training flight you have to destroy a target balloon).

▲ Assemble your squadron then it's chocks away!

In strafing missions, you have to pilot your aero down a diagonally-scrolling road, shooting up anything and everything on it - infantry, trucks, oil barrels, tents, armoured cars - but NOT the Red Cross lorries.

Bombing missions are vertically-scrolling jobbies, in which you have to shoot down oncoming aircraft and dodge flak clouds while lining up targets to "drop your load" on.

Most of your career is taken up with dogfighting though, and this is the most exciting of the three sections, mainly because the action is all in 3D and it plays like a simplified flight simulator. The pilot always looks toward the nearest enemy plane, so turn in the direction he's facing, line up the Fokker in the gun-sight and open fire! Only repeated shooting will destroy the other plane, so keep on his tail or one of your colleagues could finish him off, stealing your "kill". Skilled pilots use fancy aerobatics to evade destruction, but exceed the abilities of your plane and the engine splutters and the plane stalls. Remember, planes aren't cheap, and the CO won't be too chuffed if you bury yours in some French vineyard!

C+VG HIT!

UPDATE

The version reviewed runs in one megabyte, but Mirrorsoft are releasing a half-meg Amiga Wings shortly after this version. ST and PC versions are to follow.

▼ Best of British book-keeping with Colonel Farrah!

Welcome to the 56th, Lieutenant. I'm Colonel Farrah and I decide when you're fit to fly. Since you did such a nice job filing your transfer, you get to keep the squadron journal.

AMIGA

£29.99

Wow! This is fun! In fact, it's probably the most enjoyable Cinemaware game yet because you don't have to work out strategies, just get in the air and get blasting! The strafe-the-trucks section is great and the bombing mission is better than most Amiga up-the-screen shoot 'em ups, but the best bit is undoubtedly the 3D section, because it's just been so perfectly programmed. Away with complicated dials and gauges - just follow the pilot's nose to the enemy, then blow his wings off and watch his plane plummet downward. As usual, Cinemaware have slaved to get the game's atmosphere perfect, and the superb graphics, sampled aircraft sound effects and even the post-mission piano ditties really recreate the sights and sounds of the period. The game starts off quite easy, but with over 230 missions to fly Wings is going to keep even ace pilots entertained for many a happy hour.

MONTY PYTHON'S FLYING CIRCUS

▲ Can that cunning bush-disguise fool our Gumby?

BY VIRGIN

Mr DP Gumby (he of the knotted hanky) has lost his mind, literally. During routine surgery, his brain split into four and did a runner. Gumby now has to set forth in search of his missing cranial matter, only his head is now mounted on a fish. The scrolling trout 'em up action is all viewed side on, and drawn in true Terry Gilliam style.

Gumby, armed only with a prize fish and some knowledge of cheese, must travel through various levels in different forms, collecting tins of spam to exchange for a piece of brain at the end of the level. Here you take part in an argument, and must disagree with the John Cleese lookalike to get as many bonus points as possible. Once Gumby's brain is back in his bonce, he can move onwards to the exciting world of chartered accountancy.

UPDATE

C64 and Amstrad owning Python fans can look forward to versions very soon, priced £9.99.

AMIGA
£19.99

Rather than tackle the subject head-on, Virgin and Core Design have produced a game which involves practically every element of the Python train of thought. The graphics are extremely well drawn, and are totally reminiscent of Gilliam's cartoons, and the intermittent breaks that crop up totally unexpectedly are hilarious - at first. After a few times, they begin to drag, but fortunately they can be turned off. Imagine my shock when halfway through a game, a "game over" message appears! This is made even stranger by an apology for the interruption of play! The Sousa theme tune is a little flat, but the sound effects are great - the argument sketch and spam sequences are sampled straight from the show! To be quite honest, Monty Python doesn't seem to be a game as such, more like a collection of jokes that makes you want to play on to see the next gag. Fans of the series will love it, but the rest of you will probably get a little tired of the rather basic gameplay after a while.

IBM PC &
COMPATIBLES

Set in the near future, as an alternative reality, BATTLE COMMAND is an arcade/strategy game in which the player controls a single "MAULER" Assault Tank in one of 16 scenarios (missions) in the ultra war, fought between two dominant races in the NEW WORLD. The latest phase of the North/South war has been going on for over 10 years, with a stalemate eventually developing - a standoff between armies massed over a long dug-in battlefield. Such are the defensive capabilities of each side, full scale attacks are suicidal, so any offensive moves are, by necessity, small "behind the lines" actions performed by elite troops in specially designed vehicles. The Mauler is the latest such machine - capable of being lifted in and out of hostile territory by fast stealth choppers and armed with the most advanced weaponry the Northern scientists can devise.

THE C+VG CHALLENGE

Got a couple of highscores in the tables? Think you're well 'ard with a joystick, do you? Bit of a flashy git with a joy-pad, eh? Then here's your chance to push your skills to the max in the C+VG CHALLENGE! Every month, we'll be selecting a red-hot joystick jockey to boogie on down on an all-expenses paid trip to the C+VG offices in London, to challenge one of the C+VG team - Julian Rignall, Paul Gancey, Robert Swan or Richard Leadbetter - on his favourite game. So get practising - the C+VG boys are no slouches when it comes to playing games - and fill out your top scores on the form below. If they're good enough, they'll be entered into the C+VG Official Highscore Table, and if you're really good, you could be chosen to come to London to go up against one of the gang!

HAMMERING HARRY

Rem's first cute game since Legend of Hero Tonma casts you as Hammering Harry, a mallet-wielding hero who must traverse six horizontally scrolling backgrounds bonking everything that gets in his way (oo-er).

There are plenty of enemies to bash, and each level has a huge guardian to destroy - pretty usual for this type of game, but it's so nicely executed, you can't help but thoroughly enjoy the action.

The graphics are truly excellent (although the version we played had a slightly wonky monitor, hence the weird background colours on the screenshots), and there are plenty of strange sprites and some superb touches. The music is also great - really wacky tunes and effects which really adding to the already humorous atmosphere.

Hammering Harry is a very entertaining coin-op that's both addictive and fun. Look out for its next time you're in the arcades - it's well worth a go.

DOUBLE DRAGON

COMBAT TRIBES

Technos are most famous for their Double Dragon games - so it's no surprise that their latest coin-op is another two-player beat 'em up. The story is very familiar, as you and a friend battle across a horizontally scrolling landscape infested with gangs of hoodlums who are out to smash your faces in. Fortunately the heroes are adept at the old kung-fu bit and can kick, punch and even throw the baddies around!

The gameplay is fun for a while - there's certainly plenty of action - but the big problem is that there's nothing new on offer. It's so much like Double Dragon, I'm surprised the manufacturers didn't call it Double Dragon III! The graphics are colourful and bright, almost like a cartoon, and the sound is pretty average, but I found myself getting bored after a few games. If you want to play a good beat 'em up, try Violence Fight first.

THE COMPETITION'S OVER AND HERE'S THE WINNER

Andreas Brehme scores the winner, World Cup Final, July 1990. MicroStyle introduce the winner, Autumn 1990.

Italia '90. Italy 1990. World Cup Soccer '90. Thanks for the memories. The world's greatest game, brought to your small screen for a month. Now it's time to stand out from the crowd and sprint onto the pitch - Where the real action happens.

Tackle hard for the ball, deep in your own half, and send an inch-perfect pass wide to the winger. As he takes on the full-back, you're sprinting down the middle, screaming for the return.

The ball swings across, high above the defence, as you stretch your legs to their limit. One bounce and you let fly with your boot as the goal looms before you, sending the ball fizzing towards the top corner...

International Soccer Challenge is viewed from the players' perspective at pitch level, giving you fast-flowing three-dimensional action that you control as you wish.

- Play in position as a goal-hungry striker, midfield general or unshakable defender, feeding off the passes of intelligent computer aided teammates.

- Dictate the whole pattern of play, utilising teamwork to perfection by controlling all eleven men.

- Take charge of intricate set-piece moves from throw-ins, corners and free-kicks.

- Play in the World Cup Finals or as a member of the top sixteen Club sides from around the globe. International football as it is played for real.

- International Soccer Challenge. It will make Gascoigne weep with joy, get Marradonna excited, and have Hullit tearing his hair out.

AVAILABLE SOON FOR YOUR COMMODORE

COLUMNS

Sega's Columns coin-op (the official Megadrive conversion of which is reviewed later on in this mag) is a strange sort of colour-switching game which mixes elements of Tetris and Klax.

Using a similar split screen display to arcade Tetris, one or two players simply have to stop their screens from completely filling up with ever-dropping blocks of coloured jewels by placing three of the same colours together either diagonally, horizontally or vertically, whereupon they disappear, and the remaining jewels drop into the gaps left behind. While all this is happening, a variety of soothing and very melodic tunes play away in the background. Weird!

This sort of machine never seems to go down well in the UK, us Brits seeming to be a race who likes to shoot or beat up things on a video screen rather than tax the old grey matter. But if you fancy giving yourself a relaxing, stress-reducing and very addictive (if you like puzzle-type games) cerebral workout, shove a couple of coins into this one and mellow out, man.

The war on Nu-Earth continues. The Southerns have created a genetically engineered fighting force, The Genetic Infantry. On their first mission, all but one of the G.I.'s are wiped out. The location of the drop zone was given to the Nort's, they were betrayed by one of their own Souther Generals. The surviving G.I. rescues three of his buddies bio chips which are attached to and become part of his weaponry. Our G.I. turns ROGUE and has to fight both Southerns and Nort's in his quest to find and kill the traitor general.

MEAN MACHINES

After one blinkin' long wait (due to major problems with Sega in Japan), the Megadrive version of Super Monaco GP is here! Unlike the Sega Master System version (reviewed last issue), this is a conversion of the totally spondicious coin-op that had jaws dropping like 16 ton weights when it appeared in the arcade.

The aim of the game is to race around the top circuits of the world, pushing your flashy Formula 1 motor to its very limits. You can equip your car with either an automatic gearbox (which is easy to handle, but the car moves like a Skoda), a normal four-speed box, or a honking seven-speed gearbox which is a real pig to control, but leaves everything else for dead!

Before taking part in a race, you must qualify for a position on the starting grid (this is also dead handy for testing out your skills for the race to come. The action is seen from the driver's point of

LAP	TIME	DRIVER
1ST	1' 19'' 40	10
2ND	1' 02'' 70
3RD	1' 08'' 60
TOTAL	3' 30'' 70

view, with a rear view mirror at the top of the screen giving you an idea of what's coming up behind. Once you've qualified, the race begins proper, with you given a "last place" marker - if your position drops below the marker, it's game over. Manage to stay within the limit for the race, and your prowess will be displayed for all to see on the high score table.

Before you start gibbering too much, there's more - as well as the main game, you get an additional World Championship game, in which you can challenge 16 different drivers to races all over the world!

Due to technical difficulties, Super Monaco GP will only run on SCART Megadrives! Most console importers are offering some kind of hardware fix, which will make your PAL machine compatible, so get on the blower to your favourite supplier and see what they can do. Failing that, Spectrosoft of Covent Garden will make the modification free of charge when you buy Super Monaco from them. Call them on 0831 469293 for further info.

Thanks to Shekhana Computer Supplies of Wood Green (081 889 9412) who were kind enough to lend us the Super Monaco GP cart for this review.

C+VG HIT!

MEGADRIVE £39.00

Although the Master System game was totally different from the coin-op, it still rates as the best Sega game yet. Now the Megadrive version is here, it literally blows away every other racing game on any console! Almost identical to its arcade parent (apart from a slight difference in the track layout), the only real thing missing is an abundance of roadside landmarks - but it doesn't detract from the game in the slightest. The graphics in all respects are the same as the arcade, and we are talking ultra fast! The scrolling is as smooth as silk, and roaring around chicanes at 260 km/h is gut-churning to the extreme. The sound is pretty meaty, but the speech sounds like someone gurgling on hydrochloric acid! The playability is spot on, and the car handles just as it should, spinning and screeching if pushed too far. With the addition of the World Championship, there's more than enough to keep any budding Nelson Piquets going for more than many a moon. If there's one game that could persuade anyone to shell out for a Megadrive, it's this one. Miss it at your peril!

SUMMER GAMES

BY SEGA

Every four years the fastest, the world's greatest and strongest athletes go for gold (without the aid of Henry Kelly) in the Summer Games, five events to test athletes' skill and endurance beyond belief.

The Linford Christies of this world make their way straight to the 100m track, where (unsurprisingly really) their aim is simply to sprint down it as fast as their legs will carry them! Sega owners can join in by beating the hell out of their joypad buttons.

The complete and utter show-offs usually end up at the diving pool, where their general objective is to impress the judges by pulling off particularly impressive moves like triple back flips and reverse inward dives. Other water lovers get their kicks (and their points) in the 100m freestyle. A steady rhythm must be built up in order to keep your little swimming character on course for a gold (or eternal humiliation).

After the water-based antics, why not take the role of a gymnast and perform all manner of seemingly impossible bodily contortions around the apparatus in the gym? Rounding up the Summer Games is the pole vault event, where the participants have to jump over bars starting at four metres high (or!) with only a bendy pole for assistance.

So, grab your isotonic Lucozade Sport and take your national team to the Games Village. Who knows? It could be YOUR squad that walks away with a fistful of medals!

SEGA
£29.99

It looks as though the Epyx Games series has just gone downhill all the way after the opening brilliance of California Games. It's not as if Summer Games had that much to live up to - the C64 version wasn't that technically accomplished. The original's graphics and gameplay were brilliant for their time, though, and since the Sega out-specs the C64 in the visual stakes I was expecting something better than the hobbling, retarded sprites and poorly defined backdrops that we've got here. The sound fits the bill adequately with plenty of tunes but there isn't that much in the way of sound effects. As for the gameplay... Well, where's it gone? Events like pole vaulting and gymnastics seem more down to luck than anything else. What skill is required in events such as the diving won't keep you at the Sega for long. The smoothness and polish of the C64 events seem to have deserted this conversion, and I find it hard to recommend this lacking effort at all.

SPLATTERHOUSE

It's pitch black and there's a storm outside. Rain is beating down and the sky is sporadically lit up with shards of lightning (cue Twilight Zone music). It's a good thing that you're inside in the warm - or is it? You've stumbled into the Splatterhouse - the stomping ground of just about every ghoul and zombie that you can imagine and much more besides!

The Splatterhouse and its grounds is divided into six horizontally scrolling stages, through which you must guide your character (who bears a remarkable resemblance to Friday the 13th's Jason!), disposing of every demonic minion you may stumble across.

Thankfully though, there are plenty of weapons lying around that our masked hero can pick up. A sturdy plank is good enough to dispose of some of the lesser ghouls, and a well-placed spanner fits the bill as far as zombie exorcism is concerned. There's even a musket that's just the business for despatching some of the goriest end-of-level nasties you're ever likely to find in a video game!

Each level is split up into a number of sub-stages. In amongst the scrolling stages you could find yourself trapped in a claustrophobic room, and you'll have to butcher just about everything supernatural to escape - that includes slimy worms (uuurrrr), crazy cutlery and in one case, even the furniture is out to get you!

C+VG

PC ENGINE

Crikey! This is a real "gore-may" beat 'em up! What really makes it a cut above other Engine beat 'em ups is the truly revolting visuals - even more disgusting than some of the public lavs in Birmingham (yes, that bad!). Your main character is superbly animated and all the moves from the coin-op original have been incorporated, even down to disposing zombies by batting them up against a wall (check out the spurgey entrails left behind)! Some of the end-of-level bosses are simply astounding - the chainsaw wielding maniac is awesome, and he's even accompanied by a dentist's drill noise! You won't complete this game in too much of a hurry either. The difficulty level is set just right allowing some progress on every attempt. What we're dealing with here is a roaringly good conversion, which stands up as a terrific Engine game in its own right. Make sure it's on the top of your shopping list.

The object - burn around eight different and deadly race tracks, filled with old wrecks, moving barriers, viaducts, rubble from crumbling buildings, and falling power lines which fry your car into a crisp! These aren't the only hazards, however, as the opposition are busy trying to blast you into shrapnel as well! From these Amiga and ST screenshots, it all looks pretty juicy, but we'll give you the full details in a future issue.

TEAM SUZUKI GREMLIN

Not content with one racer, Gremlin are currently working on a motorbike simulation based on the Grand Prix Suzuki 500. It's a mixture of bitmap and filled vector graphics, and believe us - it's flippin' fast. The game takes place over a complete Grand Prix season, with all the things you'd expect from something of this nature. Even at this stage, the bike handles as you'd expect it to with clutch and gear change controls, all sorts of various viewpoints (off or on the bike) and action replays a-plenty. Watch out next ish, when we'll be giving you the exclusive and best review going - only in C+VG.

LOTUS ESPRIT TURBO SE CHALLENGE GREMLIN

Self-confessed boy racer, Jaz, took a lovely Lotus Esprit out for a spin in a recent press do sponsored by Gremlin, to promote their new racer. Now all you potential motorway maniacs will soon have the chance to do the same, with Lotus Esprit Challenge. A split screen view (that's why it's called "challenge"!)

shows both cars, which tear around massive tracks filled with twists, turns, hills and straights in order to win a race and progress to the next round. We've had a good look at the Amiga version, and to say it's fast risks severe understatement. The graphics are mouth-watering, and the sheer amount of technical information put into this game ensure this should be one stonking good game. Watch for a full review next issue!

SHADOW OF THE BEAST GREMLIN

When this first appeared a year ago on the Amiga (on the Psychosis label), this game caused a lot of fuss - beautiful graphics, amazing sound but extremely limited and highly repetitive gameplay. The story was that you, as a child, were kidnapped by the evil Beast Mages and transformed into a creature of hideous appearance, with awesome power. Now you've discovered the truth, and want vengeance. Now Beast is ready to spring onto the Amstrad and Spectrum, and from what we've seen, looks pretty damned amazing, even by 8 bit standards - parallax scrolling, indeed! The big question remains, what about the playability? That's yet to be seen, but rest assured, as soon as we know, you'll know, you'll know, you'll know.

E-SWAT US GOLD

We've seen the fab Megadrive version, and the not-so-fab Sega Master version. Now, US Gold have grabbed the computer license to Sega's natty coin-op E-SWAT, otherwise known as Cyber Police. You (and an optional friend, if you have any optional friends, that is) have to clear up Cyber City, terminating thugs and crooks with extreme prejudice (yeahh!). After two levels of such fun and games, you earn your stripes, and the much-prized E-SWAT armour, and set out again, armed to the teeth. As you can see from these exclusive early screens on the C64 and Amiga, things are progressing nicely. With the Creative Materials team (ROTOX, Operation Harrier) behind all this, we think this should be one humdinger of a game.

BATTLE CHESS II ELECTRONIC ARTS

Crikey O'Reilly, another EA title! Battle Chess II, the sequel to the best-selling Interplay title (as if you hadn't guessed), should be out and about real soon now, and - according to the press blurb - centres around Chinese Chess, an oriental counterpart of the normal game. Quite frankly, it all sounds Greek to us, but it looks nice, doesn't it? All will be revealed at a later date, so as a wise man once said, stick with us, true believers!

STORMOVIK ELECTRONIC ARTS

Electronic Arts are all systems go at the moment, with multiple loveliness coming up, including this - a simulation of one of Russia's top attack fighters, the Stormovik SU-25. The sheer thought of this was enough to start Rob foaming at the mouth, he being a big flight sim fan and all (No bigger than 5 feet 8, though, surety - Ed). Based in present times, your task is to eliminate a group of politically controlled "hawks" - military people (on both sides) so incensed by the outbreak of Glasnost, they will do anything to see relations break down between the superpowers. No news on what it handles like at this time, but rest assured we'll bring you full details as soon as we have them.

POWER-MONGER ELECTRONIC ARTS

There's no keeping a good Bullfrog down, we always say. And as if to prove it, those wild n' wacky Bullfrog boys, fresh from their success with Flood, are ready to unleash their latest, and possibly greatest game to date - Powermonger. Looking somewhat like a massively enhanced version of Populous (no bad thing by any means!), Powermonger should be just as successful as its predecessor, if not mind-bogglingly more so, so watch out for a review in a future ish - this is one we await with baited breath (and clenched elbow).

JAMES POND - UNDER- WATER AGENT MILLENNIUM

Holy mackerel, cod you believe it? When danger threatens the icy deep, it's time for James Pond, Underwater Agent, to get his skates on. He's a well-hard had-dock with a mission, and he's completely environmentally friendly (or so the saying goes). Thing is, several oil tankers, carrying radioactive materials, have been holed, and it's your job to ensure the safety of the underwater denizens, whilst fighting off myriad hordes of bad guys! Sounds all rather fishy (hurrgh!) to us, but we'll throw you a hook, line and maybe even a sinker real soon, so make sure you're in the right plaice (any more of those fish jokes and you're fired - ED).

ROBOCOP II

BY OCEAN

Robocop is back! That half-man, half-machine, all-cop hero returns once again to right wrong and kick some criminal ass in the blockbusting movie, Robocop II. And just like they did with the first film, Ocean have snapped up the rights to produce a computer game version.

The action is set over a variety of levels, featuring horizontally scrolling platforms and ladders screens, an Operation Wolf-style shooting gallery, plus bonus levels in the form of sliding-block puzzles and a safe-cracking scene, very similar in concept to the batcave Nintendo version.

chemical analysis puzzle in the Batman game.

The graphics are excellent, the sound is very good, with plenty of meaty effects and a good rendition of the movie title tune, and playability is very high - Ocean have spent a lot of time tweaking the gameplay for maximum enjoyment.

Robocop I is one of the biggest-selling titles of recent years (it stayed in the charts for well over twelve months) Special FX's Amiga game.

and Ocean think that they'll repeat that success with Robocop III! It's certainly a better game than the first - so they might just be right...

JULIAN RIGNALL

UPDATE

Robocop II is out on Amiga, ST, Spectrum, C64 and Amstrad Console in November. The Nintendo version won't be out until later on next year - we'll keep you posted.

THE FILM

The film is set once again in a Detroit of the future, and once again criminals are causing major problems. Nuke, an incredibly addictive drug is being sold on the streets and the drug barons are getting rich. Time for Robocop to burst onto the scene and deal out some lead-lined law and order.

But it's not all plain sailing since the evil OCP Corporation are again up to more hi-jinks in the form of the Robocop II project, a giant mechanical creature codenamed Kane, designed to replace Robocop (and Ed-209!). It's an evil looking creature which has more arms than an octopus and carries more weaponry than an average army. And when it goes bonkers and decides to eliminate the original Robocop, our bionic bobby has his work cut out trying to keep the peace and save his metal skin!

time. Every decision instantly influences the life of your town. In a special mode, you can even cause tornadoes, floods, fires and other disasters at your whim. Save San Francisco from the great earthquake of 1906. Or save Tokyo of pollution and from his famous 8-movie monster. Sim City is an all-absorbing unique game which contains 8 pre-defined scenarios - e.g. San Francisco, Tokyo, Rio de Janeiro... With it's exceptional depth of play, it's still simple to play with icons and graphics, without text commands.
