SEGA GAMME GOES

Hand-held video gaming has become very popular lately, with the release of Nintendo's black-andwhite Gameboy and Atari's Lynx.
Not to be outdone, however, Sega is determined to stake their own claim in this exciting new system genre by unveiling their own portable unit!

Gear in Japan, this tight little package holds a powerful punch for hand-held gaming fans. The system uses an all-new hardware system that enables it to play great new softs that haven't appeared on any other game machine before. The Game Gear will also be able to be expanded into a full Master System in the future to let players with previous 8-Bit titles to enjoy their games on the go!

Like the Atari Lynx, the Game Gear uses a full-color display that produces truly vivid images. The screen is 3.2 inches in size, with a resolution of 160x146 - better than even the Lynx! The Game Gear's powerful graphics processor also enable the system to animate graphic characters with up to 32 colors simultaneously from a possible combination of 4,096 different hues! This is twice as powerful as the Lynx, which can draw with a palette that uses a maximum of 16 colors on-screen at any one time! This translates into visuals that are much more realistic and closely approximate the types of graphics you see in arcades and on the Genesis!

The Game Gear will play games that have designed specifically to take advantage of the unit's advanced graphic capabilities. At this time Sega has announced only three games for the Game Gear which combine the best of both new and old. Super Monaco GP, Columns and Pengo are the first games due to appear.

Armed With A New Piece of Hardware and the Ability to

Colors	32 Out of 4,096
RAM On-Board	16K Byte
Power	6 "AA"-Size
Size	9" x 5" x 1"
Price	Approx. $150.00

The power behind this portable is a new graphics/sound co-processor that uses the tried and true Z-80 as the main brain. Die-hard Sega fans will immediately recognize the Z-80 as the processor that drives the 8-Bit Master System. Although Game Gear is similar, it is no way a copy of the earlier machine.

The Game Gear measures approximately 9" x 5" x 1", and features a standard control pad on the left, a high-quality LCD screen in the center, and Pause, One and Two buttons to the right. In addition, contrast and volume dials are located at the bottom of the system, while cards and expansion devices are plugged into the top.

Speaking of expansion, the Game Gear will be able to accommodate a number of exciting peripherals. While a TV tuner that will turn the Game Gear into a boob tube has been rumored, other devices such as a Master System add on are also possible. Right now Sega won't disclose much more.

What we have discovered, however, is that the Game Gear will go on-sale in Japan sometime in September and carry a retail price of around $150. Games will be sold for 20 to 30 bucks each, and the tuner attachment will come at an additional $100. All quite affordable for portable gaming of such high magnitude.

Sega officials have indicated that their current schedule does not plan a 1990 release for the Game Gear in the U.S. They are unofficially indicating that something might happen in 1991, although such information is purely speculative. This means that NEC will have the first of the advanced portables to compete with Lynx when their Turbo Express debuts this fall. In the end, however, you can count on another fine product from the engineering experts at Sega!

The world was almost completely destroyed. But, from the rubble, the people began snew.

PROLOGUE:

One thousand years ago the solar system was at peace. All at once an evil sorceress names Laia appeared out of nowhere and threatened to take over the planet. Armed with a power to create monsters she quickly built an army of immense proportions. The people of the planet fought bravely but they were no match for her powers. When all hope was lost, a brave young soldier named Orakio appeared along with an army of robots. A huge battle occured and they both disappeared.

Eons later, on a distant shore a beautiful girl sleeps peacefully.

Prince Cane, a descendent of Orakio, falls in love with the girl and plans to marry her.

Cane vows to find Marina and return her to the palace!

Just as the marriage is almost complete a hideous demon appears and steals Marina away!

Hidden Cash and Secret Sound Test Mode - Super Hydlide is a very complex game which will take many hours to complete.
Here are some tips on how to take a break from the intense action and how to start the game with some extra cash! When the game starts you will begin in the City of the Forest. After you get some information from the towns' people, exit the town and go out into Fairie Land and go five screens to the left. There, you will see a cave. Enter the opening and you will appear in a deserted village. Walk around the first wooden fence and walk downward. Your character will now magically walk onto the brick wall! Walk left again onto the patch of trees and get in the middle clearing of the trees and hit the 'B' button. You will find a whopping 10,000 gold pieces hidden here!

If you want to listen to the superb sound effects in this fine game, go from the area where the hidden money is located and exit the trees the same way you entered them. Next, go to the top left building. In this building you can cycle through the different game sounds!

When Sega plays ball, they mean business. Just take a look at their upcoming basketball simulation - endorsed by the L.A. Laker's head coach, Pat Riley!

Pat Riley Basketball blends the rules and regulations of the real sport with the fast-action and strategy of video games! You command a team of pro players in a tournament against the best opposition in the country. Choose your team, pick your players and hit the court!

Every aspect of the real game is here. Put the ball into play and then work it down the lane. Go for a fast break and get under the hoop for an isolated close-up of the action and a slamdunk! Similar to other basketball games, Pat Riley's Basketball makes good use of such cinema displays whenever the action gets tight when going for a stuff or jump ball. The majority of play remains within a scrolling field that pans as the ball moves between the hoops.

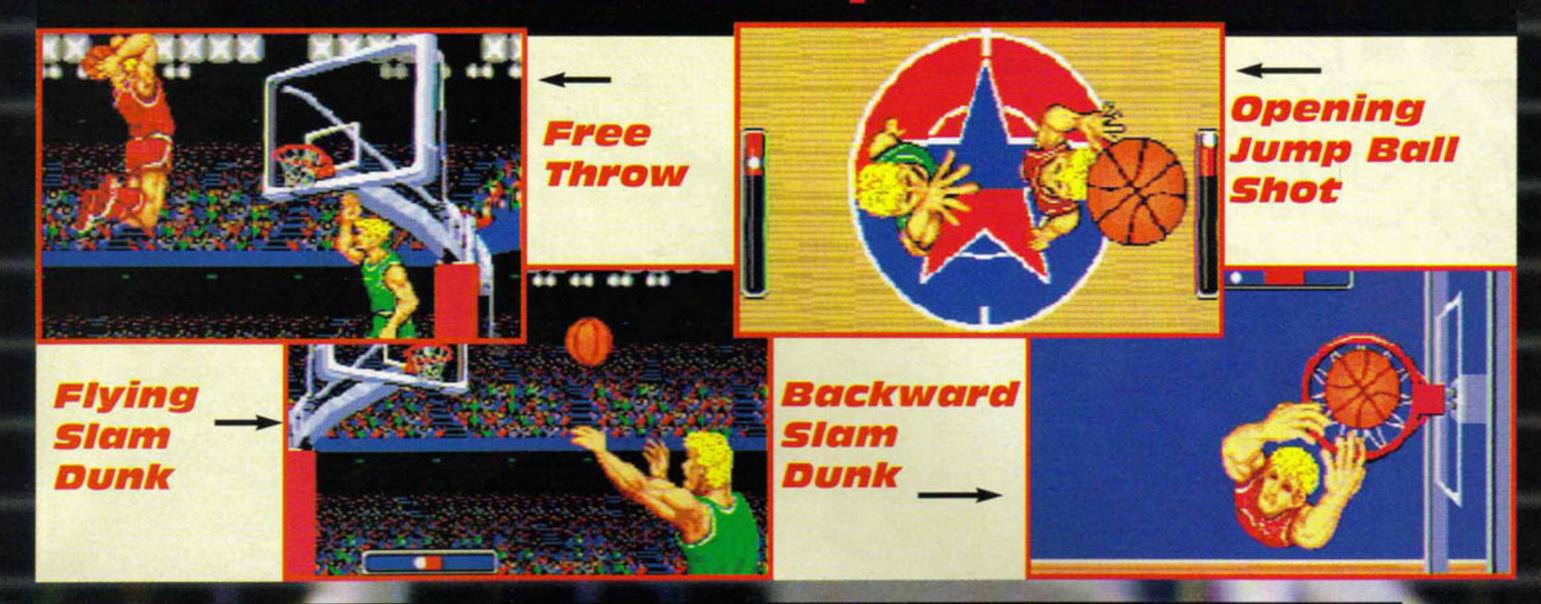

In addition to the basketball excitement, Pat

In addition to the basketball excitement, Pat Riley's Basketball also brings team positioning and reserves into play to increase the strategic overtones of the game. Combined with fast-paced shooting and passing, this 16-Bit sports extravaganza comes up a winner!

PLUGINTO THE FASTEST AERIAL SHOOTER EVER MADE!

After Burner has always been one of Sega's premiere video games, both in the arcades and at home. But never before has After Burner exploded off the screen like it does in the new Genesis 16-Bit version called After Burner 2.

After Burner 2 is filled with all of the dynamic sights and sounds of the arcades. The backgrounds, although not as populated as the arcade version, scroll by smoothly, with no choppy movement. The background horizon tilts and turns to every move your advanced F-14 makes, including spectacular barrel rolls that are straight out of the coin-op!

Unlike previous home versions of After Burner, part two uses all of the elements found in the arcade original. For the first time, home players will be able to actually control the After Burners, adjusting speed as the plane presses its way deeper into enemy territory. Vulcan cannons and Heat-Seeking Missiles round out your compliment of weapons.

All types of enemy aircraft, ranging from helicopters to jet aircraft will once again raid your position with an endless and ruthless intensity. Just like the arcade, however, there will be hope in the form of a friendly cargo plane that always provides in-air refueling and weapons repairs.

Take to the skies in one of the most incredible shooters ever made when After Burner 2 appears this summer!

LEVEL ONE

You begin your battle for air supremacy off of the deck of the Sega Enterprise carrier and out over the ocean. The first attacks are easy, but the number of bogeys increases later in the round.

LEVEL THREE

Refuel and re-arm your warship at the beginning of level three. Resume your battle with a fully stocked ship during nighttime, where the enemy is cloaked by darkness!

LEVEL FIVE

Level Five is very much a neutral zone. When the round begins, the refueling transport will appear and increase your weapons reserves. It will then disappear and level six will begin.

LEVEL SEVEN

As you press on further, the enemy fighters will become more numerous, fire more missiles and home in on your position much more accurately. Can you make it to the 23rd level?!?

...To avoid most attacks, especially in higher levels, use a back-and-forth technique. Keep your fighter moving in a pattern that moves clockwise from the lower-left corner to the lower-right, then repeat it in a counter-clockwise direc-

LEVEL TWO

Head deeper behind enemy lines as your fighter streaks across the desert. New opponents will appear on this round, throwing even more missiles and targets at your position.

LEVEL FOUR

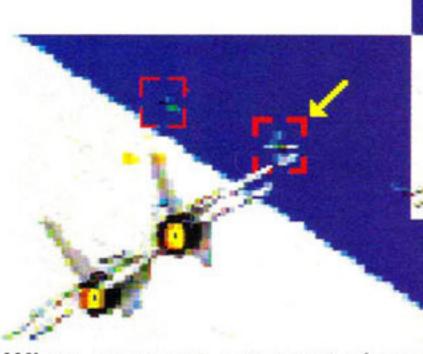

The action begins to really heat up as daylight returns and the battle continues over green pastures of some foreign nation. Be prepared to face some stiff resistance as you journey ahead.

LEVEL SIX

Fly over the polar ice caps in this round. The frozen tundra serves as a backdrop for the aerial action that becomes even more difficult to navigate.

When you get a target signal and the game screams "FIRE!", you're locked on...fire a missile!

STRIDER

Sega/Genesis

Likely to become one of the best Genesis games of all time! Strider duplicates the excellent arcade version of the action hero. The demo we saw featured fantastic graphics, incredible animations and game play that is absolutely out of this world!

FIRE SHARK

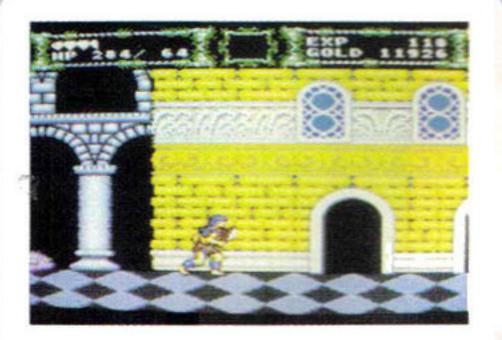

Dreamworks/Genesis

This follow-up to the hit Sky Shark got a short run in the arcades, but features even more blast-em-away shooter fun! A virtual carbon-copy of the coin-op, Fire Shark has kick weapons, super bombs and an onslaught of enemy fighters!

New Soft News...

...Look out for the Master System 2 to reach stores at under sixty bucks soon! It will come packed with Alex Kidd in Miracle World...Future Genesis titles from Sega that were on display at CES include E-Swat, Mickey Mouse, Dynamite Duke, Wrestle War and Dick Tracy - all due this year!...

DANDO

Treco/Genesis

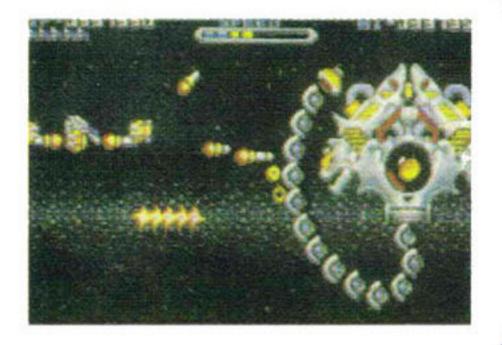

Part RPG and part Legendary Axe-style action, Dando takes the best of both worlds and wraps them up together into a battle-filled quest! A lot of possibilities with this one.

OVER 70 NEW TITLES BY CHRISTMAS!!

WHIP RUSH

Renovation/Genesis

Here's a shooting game with an interesting twist. Whip Rush has the usual compliment of weapons, power-ups and Bosses to overcome, but the shooting is presented in a much more action-intensive environment that scrolls both vertically and horizontally!

THIRD PARTY!!

Look for many exciting new games to appear from new third-party licensees! Over 30 new games are set to appear this year, ranging from computer translations like Populous and Zany Golf from EA, to arcade games like Hard Drivin' to even new original efforts like Macress, Final Zone and Bimini Run!

COLUMNS

Sega/Master System

Despite its lack of great 16-Bit looks and sounds, Columns plays just as good on the Master System! The object remains the same, get the different colored jewels lined up in horizontal, vertical or diagonal lines to eliminate them and make all the other jewels fall into place. A great Tetris derivitive for the SMS.

Dreamworks/Genesis

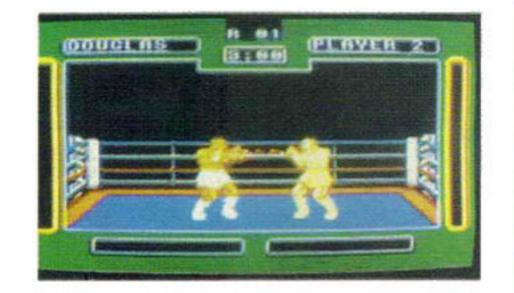

Like Fire Shark, HellFire is another Toaplan game to be successfully converted over to the Genesis. Mega firepower and super graphics highlight this space battle that requires a little more strategy and forethought than most mindless blasters!

BUSTER DOUGLAS BOXING

Sega/Master System

Take away the celebrity endorsement and you get a boxing game that, at least at this point, doesn't quite have the graphics or play appeal of Rocky, but shows a lot of potential.

PHELIOS

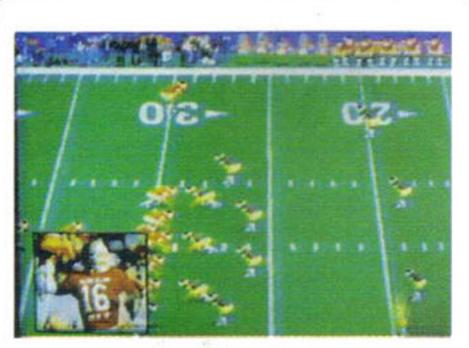

Namco/Genesis

A vertical shooter with some great depth-perception in the backgrounds and super shooting action, Phelios is the name of a little-seen Namco coinop which featured scaling and rotation. Although those things are missing from the Genesis version, it's still a great game!

Master System II

NEW MAS-TER SYSTEM DESIGN WITH ALEX KIDD BUILT-IN!

JOE MONTANA FOOTBALL

Sega/Genesis

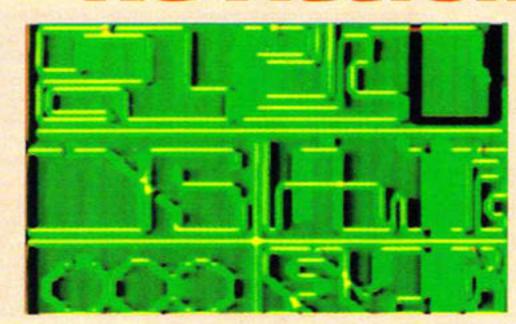

The 16-Bit version of Genesis football is looking good, with a horizontally-scrolling gridiron and isolated shots of the superstar in action!

AFTER BURNER 2

After Burner 2 is the 16-Bit sequel to the arcade shooter and 8-Bit follow-up of the same name. Manuever around the screen, adjusting your speed and firing missiles, while wave after wave of enemy war planes attack.

Genesis Flying/Shooter After Burner 2 is really a hot game, with an unrelentless enemy attack and lots of challenge. The graphics are top notch and very smooth. The game gets repetitive, and you do little more shoot but it's still fun!

A fantastic flight simulator that does just about everything but flips! Besides that minor shortcoming, animation and play re-K main very close to arcade. The Ξ scaling is the best I've seen and help the look of this great game!

Sega

This is as close as it gets folks! After Burner 2 is as faithful as G. Ghouls and Ghosts was. A few details are left out of this edi-G. tion, mostly in graphics, but the game plays fantastic! The best version of After Burner yet!

It's finally here! The home version of After Burner that lets you use your thrusters! The game does complete justice to the Top Gun of video shooters, with fast, super-smooth action, kicking tunes and perfect game play.

TARGET EARTH

Climb into a power suit and raid an alien army in this scrolling action/shooter. Power-up your suit and reach the goal of each level by blasting your way through the enemy forces. This multi-event cart features an unfolding story.

TE is interesting and unique and very challenging. It gets too difficult to quickly, however, and the higher rounds are next to impossible. Some control and play quirks left me frustrated after just a few levels!

TE very easily could have been much better, but comes up short due to the impossible difficulty and lack of control. The game is unique and has a good story, but the best the game has to offer is at the end.

Although I feel this game is presented graphically well, I also get the impression that the game could control better. I like the variety and mixture of power-ups with the game play, but the overall objective was boring.

B A R T

This one is a toughie. At first, TE looks flat and boring, but master players who can get into higher rounds are in for a treat! As the game progresses it gets better, but it loses appeal because of its difficulty.

MOONWALKER WE TO THE TOTAL PROPERTY OF THE PARTY OF THE

Moonwalker brings all of the excitement of a Michael Jackson video onto the Genesis. You control the gloved one as he fights his way past thugs, using fleet feet and a variety of special techniques, as Jackson hits play.

The great gloved-one stars in his own game! This cart follows Michael's adventures and features a search and rescue little girl goal. Essentially a spruced up punch and kick, with Jackson music and good graphics.

Genesis

Action

While I like the idea behind this game, with all items to interact with, I got sick of Michael Jackson, his moves, and screaming real quick. As an action game it's good on its own with nice graphics and music.

Moonwalker does a great job of following the theme of Jackson's hit mini-movie, with familiar music and scenes. The play is good, with many extra touches. It gets repetitive, but remains fun.

4 Meg

1 Player

Eventually it had to happen, a Michael Jackson video game. Moonwalker is a real surprise! The graphics are done with high detail and the music is familiar. The game gets repetitive but remains fun to play.

CURSE

Curse incorporates many proven play techniques to create a five level shooter with menacing Bosses, super power-ups, strange aliens and explosive action. Protect the Earth before the planet falls into the alien grasp.

Although I like the intensity level of this shooter, I hate the way your firepower travels with little animation. The game looks and plays relatively well, however, but could have been better had it been longer than five levels.

I love the way this game unloads a ton of objects at once. The theme is straightforward - blow everything away. You're treated to challenging play along the way, with animations that suffer from little flicker.

G. O. G.

R

Curse is unfair in many parts because there are so many enemies attacking at once, but it does stand out as a great shooter on the Genesis. The shooting graphics are lame, but the rest of the game looks O.K.

BART

Take Thunder Force 2, remove the overhead scenes, pump up the intensity with multi-level scrolling and you get Curse. This is very challenging, but my only complaint is the short play time of only five rounds.

GHOSTBUSTERS

Here come the Ghostbusters again, this time in 16-Bit! This conventional action/adventure game introduces the trioto five spooked buildings that scroll to explore. Each is filled with creatures, huge Bosses and more!

This game is incredible! You get a big cast of monsters, super Bosses, shops, graphic/text screens and multiple number of tasks to complete. The graphics are great and the whole cart sizzles with excitement!

There's a lot to do in this game and that's what makes it great. Besides having some of the best graphics on the Genesis so far, you also have to contend with bizarre monsters, cool Bosses and trapping ghosts!

G. O. G. Probably one of the best games ever made for the Genesis, Ghostbusters is a great game as well as a good name! The action is solid, the graphic fantastic and the game play diverse throughout. A winner!

B GA VI

Get slimed - 16-Bit style! A great game which is the best version yet! Frightening graphics and scary Bosses await you in each of the game's five stages. Cool graphics and unique enemies throughout.

PAT RILEY'S BASKETBALL

Pat Riley's Basketball brings the action of the arcades into sports. Combining scrolling action on the court with isolated close-ups of various shooting actions, Genesis basketball features tournaments, exhibition and more!

l've never been a real video basketball fan and despite the graphic candy in this contest, my opinions haven't changed much. The action is O.K., and gets better with head-to-head play, but it's not spectacular.

While the scrolling is smooth and the passing and shooting are executed well, this game gains more attention for its graphics than its play. The free throws are off-center and no substitutions limit strategy.

Genesis plays a pretty good game of Basketball. The action controls a lot like Double Dribble, but the animation sequences are much better. The game is fast, but their aren't as many options as there could be.

Genesis plays an awesome game of basketball. I really enjoyed this, even though I don't like sports games. Excellent graphics and lots of close-up animations add class to this superb-playing B-ball game.

SUPER MONACO GP

Adapted from the arcade original, Super Monaco GP brings thrilling race car action to the Genesis. Using a number of new features that were not in the coinop like different teams, engines & a tournament, SM is very diverse.

This game just isn't like the coin-op. I know there are some new screens, digitized intermissions and options, but the game sions and options, but the game play isn't as fast and the road isn't as wild. Graphics are good but the play isn't very intense.

Genesis

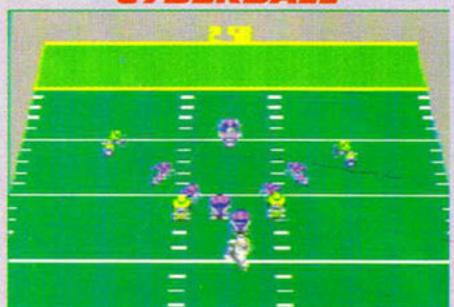

SM is a great game. It's filled with endless choices ranging from a pit crew, different teams, engines and more! This game has everything and the realism in the racing (like a huge tach) is second to none!

1 Player 4 Meg

Super Monaco isn't like the arcade, but that doesn't mean it isn't a good game. The controls handle well, the graphics are decent, and the hairpin turns really whiz by. For a new kind of racer, SM gets a green light!

Another game that I've been waiting for and I'm not disappointed. SM is fantastic, with slick graphics, hairpin crashes, pit stops and anything else you could want in a driver. A bit slow, but outstanding anyway!

CYBERBALL

Football meets the future in this Genesis arcade translation for the regular system and soon the modem. Two teams take on each other with gridiron robots who play football by an all-new set of rules! Multiple plays and other familiar football options.

Cyberball handles sluggish and there's not too much interaction with most of the team, but so was the arcade. The graphics are minimal, with a scrolling field and some intermissions as most of the graphics.

MIKE

I like the idea of having robots in a sport, and the way it's handled is good (with breakdowns instead of injuries). But Cyberball suffers from few plays and no excitement. 2-player is better, but still not great.

G. O. I loved Cyberball in the arcades and find this version to be pretty close. The quarter-angled scrolling field isn't quite as good, but most of the character graphics are there along with the play.

B A R T This translation duplicates the coin-op's football in the future theme. Control is sluggish, and there's little interaction with most of the team. Graphics are average but fans will probably appreciate it.

R.C. Grand Prix is a racing game of a different sort. In this cart you control a RC vehical around a dirt track against three opposing models. Navigate the corners and pick up prize money to go to the power-up shop for enhancements!

I like this game a lot, although it does get frustrating to play in higher levels. The graphics are decent and the scroll is great, but there isn't much to do. The shop is a nice touch, however,

Master

Driver

There's nothing spectacular about this game. There are no special effects, it's hard to control and is very barebones. The curves are too narrow and make the game hard to control. A nice attempt that falls short.

and makes the game play well.

RC Grand Prix is the SMS version of RC Pro-Am. Although the graphics and design of the tracks is good, the controls are difficult. The shops are nice, but you never seem to earn enough money when you win.

Sega's 8-Bit attempt at RC Pro-Am falls short in many areas. The control is slow and you find yourself bumping into the walls quite often. Graphics are better, but the abscence of power-ups is missed. Very average.

E-SWAT

Based on the arcade game that is also from Sega, E-Swat casts you in the garb of a policeman from the future, with an armored body and super weapons. Power-ups, Bosses, and round definition are standard.

isn't much challenge. This is E-Swat in name only.

This is a good action/shooter for the SMS. While the graphics are only a little better than average, there's enough variety in look and feel, with the addition of the power suit and Bosses, to provide satisfaction. 1 Player

E-Swat isn't anything like the arcade version, except for the theme and armor. This game is alright, but doesn't really have any special. The graphics, sounds and play are all average, with not a lot of highlights.

2 Meg

E-Swat is good as an 8-Bitter, capturing the feel of the arcade.

Disregard the extreme downgrade in graphics and E-Swat is pretty faithful. Contra-type play and multi scrolling show Sega's commitment to their 8-Bit.

AERIAL ASSUALT

Aerial Assault is your standard side-scrolling shooter, pitting a spiffed-up fighter/bomber against an army of enemy pilots. Multiple power-ups allow you to tailor your plane to the territory, and large Bosses attack at the conclusion of each level.

This game is very disappointing. Aerial Assault just doesn't have enough to it. The graphics are too small and, while it tries to be R-Type, there just isn't the graphics or challenge of that better-known arcade hit. A dud!

This has O.K. shooting action, but it never gets out of control. Some of the later levels are filled with cool graphics, but the enemies are all pretty much the same and there's nothing overwhelming about this cart.

A side-scrolling shooter for the SMS, with 20 power-ups and backgrounds that are multi-layered. The characters, however, are tiny and game play is slow and repetitive. No where near R-Type
