WITH GARTH

Are you a saddy? 'Course not - there are no sad people in the world of computer games (except some of the people who still own a Spectrum or a Vic 20). So why do we keep getting attacked by the newspapers, consumer watchdog groups, Tory MP's and the like? Well, I can now exclusively reveal to you the reason. It's because they're all crumbly old bum burps who are too old to understand computer games and so are currently cacking themselves because we enjoy spending our spare time playing games. The next time some old git tells you that playing games is the scourge of kids today, why don't you remind them about the problems associated with the older generation - lung cancer, alcoholism, wife battering, being extremely boring and wearing really sad suits with pukey ties.

And so onto this month's pulsating CVG. The biggest game this month just has been Final Fight on the MegaCD. It's hotter than a deckchair attendant on Venus and means that now is the time to buy your MegaCD so you can slot in a top game. Add to that the other forty odd reviews in the magazine, the second tips bookie and the fact that this issue is bursting with up-to-the-minute news from the (non-crumbly) world of games and you just know that you can't lose!

See yah

CVG CREW NEWS...

CVG CREW IN XENOBOT KICKABOUT MALARKY!

Oh dear! We thought that we'd proved that computer games didn't numb the intelligence of the average gamer, the CVG boys managed to go out and show themselves out to be very sad men. The boys suddenly decided that it was too nice a day to stay indoors playing with their top-notch computer games so they decided to play computer games outside instead! Garth, Rand, Mr Whitta, Anglin, Steve and Jon all piled out onto the street to find that there were no electrical sockets for them to plug their consoles into. Garth then made one of his stranger editorial decisions "We don't need computers to play games! We made our own entertainment in my day!"

"Huh?" said Whitta, "He's finally gone senile."

"Let's play Xenobots, 'cos it's brill man" said Keeny.

So here they are. Six terminally sad men trying to play Xenobots without the aid of a computer.

A spokesman for grown-ups (Lord EMAP) said of the CVG crew, "Thish shurely shows the harm of playing games without computers for the mentally disadvantaged." Lord EMAP is 82.

Chris and Violet stare on in bewilderment at the incredible gaming talents.

Garth takes the lead - Hurrah! We can't believe it either!

UK SEGA GAMES CHAMPIONSHIPS

Invitations for top notch events pour into the CVG office faster than Princess Di runs into MacDonald's with a book of Luncheon Vouchers! But few bashes are as prestigious as the recent 1993 Sega Championships. The incredible event was held at the Williams Formula One Team Headquarters, where 16 teenagers, whittled down from 3000, fought it out on a variety of games for the title of 1993 Sega UK Champion!

The event was hosted by The Big Breakfast's top geezer Chris Evans and Bad Influence's vivacious Violet Berlin, with a special appearance from the William's team Formula One racer Damon Hill, who was helicoptered in especially for the event. The 18 and under category was won by Karl Roberts, from Port Talbot, and the 12 and under title was snatched by Alan Son, from Chelmsford Essex. The guys also stalked off with a VIP pass to Donington, a Mega CD and Damon's signed racing helmet! Our own Ed, Garthy, queued up with 13 other game-hardened computer jounos for the special UK Magazine challenge and managed to notch up 9,900,650 on Devil Crash in just over 10 minutes, claiming third place on the winners podium! A great day and a lotta lafs were had by all those invited!

Sega's giant video wall let the spectators get right up on the action.

MEET THE CVG CREW:

GARTH

Crumbly editor Garth has been putting in lots more late nights to ensure that CVG was ready and waiting for you when you popped down to the shops to buy it this month, but in-between time he still found the opportunity to get kicked in the chest by a horse and not know how to spell Sonic. What a great guy! (Mr Whittita - you're sacked! - ED)

GAMES OF THE MONTH:

Alien 3 (SNES), Final Fight (Mega-CD)

PAUL

When we asked Paul what he'd been up to this month, he replied 'Nowt' and started to swear at us. Actually, this terrible behavior was because it was a Bank Holiday Monday and he, like the rest of us mugs, were all slaving away on the magazine. We would all much rather have been at home watching the racing and eating big bits of cake. And then eating more big bits of cake.

GAMES OF THE MONTH:

Royal Rumble - WWF2 (SNES), Goal (Amiga)

GARY

Gary wrote something really nice about himself to go here, but the CVG crew feel you should be told how horrible he really is. Gary said goodbye to his mummy and daddy one Saturday morning (the lives with them because he says his mom's dead self and spoils him rotten), and didn't return home until Monday. In the meantime, Garth had phoned his house and told his mum what Whittia had said. When he got back, he got the thick ear he richly deserved!

GAMES OF THE MONTH:

Super Strike Eagle (SNES), Final Fight (Mega-CD)

JON

Our boy Billington has been heartbroken by CVG's Jenny, our very own pin-up designer and has been indulging in several romantic trips to the seaside with lovely ladies to try to take his mind off her departure. But sadly, it's all been to no avail. He's also been playing cards with some rather unusual forlets to be payed by the loser and so far he's lost every game.

GAMES OF THE MONTH:

Goal! (Amiga), X-Men (Megadrive)

STEVE

Steve Keen's bit is always the hardest to write, since no-one's ever been able to find out who he gets up to after work. All we know is that he frequently comes in in the morning in the same clothes as the previous night, looks very tired indeed and has CLUB RAVE stamped onto his forehead in ink. And then he spends the whole day asleep at his desk. We'd normally ask Garth to give him a stiff talking to, but he's always asleep as well (although you can't tell because he keeps his eyes open).

GAMES OF THE MONTH:

Night Trap (Mega-CD), Tuff Enuff (SNES)

ANGLIN

Poor old Anglin is still going through that curious age when strange things start sprouting up on his body and he gets all hot and sweaty from time to time. Perhaps this is why, after reading newspaper reports that Sega's Night Trap was pornographic and disgusting, he locked himself in the games room with the disks for the entire afternoon. The sooner his hormones sort themselves out the better.

GAMES OF THE MONTH:

Night Trap (Mega-CD), Night Trap (Mega-CD)

STEVE

Steve's the important one who makes all the top decisions and is so powerful he can even tell Garth what to do! He's so far resisted the temptation to use this power to make Garth jump in front of a speeding train, but we reckon it's only a matter of time. Apart from that, Steve has spent the month mucking in with the rest of us lads, and even came in over the Bank Holiday to make sure everyone knew what they were doing. Which is more than our ugly publisher did.

GAMES OF THE MONTH:

X-Men (Megadrive), Superfrog (Amiga)

MORTAL KOMBAT HAS ARRIVED!

● ACCLAIM ● 0962 877788 ●

Liu Kang and Rayden come to blows in the Megadrive version of Mortal Kombat - with Rayden on the receiving end.

The Williams coin-op has scenes of fighting that are more life-like than a battle in Bosnia. It's one of the biggest ever arcade smashes and could top Street Fighter III! Love it or hate it — there's no arguing with its success, and Acclaim reckon that it'll be even bigger at home! The game's unusual name comes from the fighters' amazingly sick "finishing-off" techniques that make Street Fighter II look wimpy — they actually KILL their victims, and in one yucky scene a fighter's spinal cord is ripped out of his body! THESE shots are from the Megadrive version — and even though the game's still not quite finished it looks stunning, almost indistinguishable from the coin-op! All versions of the game are due out in August — look out next month for a full report on one of the Summer's hottest titles!

ROCKIN' ALL OVER THE WORLD

Most versions of the game are being developed here in the UK by Probe Software, the team behind Alien 3 and The Terminator. Probe is handling the Sega Megadrive, Mega-CD, Game Gear, Game Boy, Amiga and PC versions, while the other Nintendo formats are being done in the US by Sculptured Software (the team behind WWF Royal Rumble).

These are the first pictures of the game that's being hailed as the biggest blockbuster of 1993 — Acclaim's Mortal Kombat.

Johnny Cage and the very-hard-indeed Sonya Blade step up to battle!

Left: Mortal Kombat features some of the best animation we've ever seen on a Megadrive - and it's not even finished yet!

Below: See what happens when two people go to a party wearing the same clothes?

PAD-TASTIC!

● QUICK SHOT ● 081 365 1993 ●

After last month's scintillating news about joypads, you'll no doubt be besides yourself with excitement at the revelation that Quickshot is releasing EVEN MORE Megadrive Joypads.

The two new models soon to be setting light to shop shelves all across the country are the interestingly-named Starfighter 3B and Invader 3. At £14.99 the Invader is the big one with all the extra buttons (autofire, slomo etc), and the Starfighter is the cheaper (£9.99) more bog-standard model. So, if your joypad breaks or you fancy a change, go and buy one, or something. Sorry, but it's very difficult to get very excited about this sort of thing.

QUICK NOTES

● STARWING (formally known as Starfox) finally has an official UK release date and price. The revolutionary Super FX game will cost £49.99 and arrive on software shelves on Saturday, June 5th. So now you know...

● MUSIC Maestro Allister Brimble, whose cool Amiga soundtracks can be heard on all of Team 17's games and the forthcoming Goal! has released an audio CD comprising 11 of his synthesizer compositions. Music from Assassin and Project-X is included on the CD, called Sounds Digital, which is available on mail order for £10.99. The address to write to is CD Offer, Hill House, Lapford, Crediton, Devon EX17 6QE...

● WOULD YOU Adam and Eve it? Psychosis has just become the first ever software company to receive The Game's Award for Export. Having flogged big bundles of games abroad, the firm's efforts have been recognised by Her Majesty herself. Perhaps she's a big Lemmings fan...

● IF YOU'VE already read the story on Sega Striker, you'll also be interested to hear this little snippet that came our way just before we went to press. Rage Software has just started work on Striker 2, but that's all there is to know at the moment. "It'll be a bit special, that one," says Rage's Paul Finnegan...

● A QUICK correction for you. Last month we stated that Bucky O'Hare on the NES cost £29.99, whereas it is in fact a much more reasonable £24.99. Sorry 'bout that Konami...

DREAM ON

● CYBERDREAMS ● 071 326 3267 ●

Off-the-wall American softco Cyberdreams has got a wacky game in the pipeline — and like Darkseed before it, there's a top name from the world of science fiction attached to it.

While Alien creator HR Giger produced the bizarre graphics for the adventure Darkseed, sci-fi man Syd Mead, who worked on movies like Star Trek, Blade Runner and Tron, is working on CyberRace, a "revolutionary" 3D combat and racing sim set in the far future. It's expected to be very Wing Commander-ish, with lots of ray-traced graphics and cinematic sequences. The PC version is due out in the next couple of months, quickly followed by the Amiga, and after that Cyberdreams is going to get ever weirder, with a game called No Mouth written by loony horror novelist Harlan Ellison. And what's more, the UK office of Cyberdreams has just been taken over by Mark Scriven, who used to work here at EMAP, so he'll no doubt be seeing us right with exclusives and stuff. Isn't that right, Mark?

SEGA AND NINTENDO IN OUTER SPACE!

Console giants Sega and Nintendo BOTH plan to beam down games via satellites, according to the software industry's trade newspaper, CTW.

Next year, using new add-ons from both companies, Super NES and Megadrive owners will be able to plug their consoles into the cable TV network. It'll be a pay service only available to registered subscribers, with the ability to "try before you buy" and play international multi-user games!

IT'S TOTAL MADNESS!

● GREMLIN ● 0742 753423 ●

Here at CVG we're used to hearing about wild and wacky news from the bonkers world of video games, so much so that we like to think that nothing can surprise us — but nothing could prepare us for this. Yes! Suggs, Woody, Bedders, Chas Smash, Chrissy Boy and the other one from pop group Madness will be one-step-beyonding their way onto the Sega Megadrive. Famous Gremlin game stars, including Zool, will be making guest appearances. More from the House of Fun next month...

ROBOCOP and the TERMINATOR come face to face on consoles this Christmas... the AQUATIC GAMES are on their way to the SNES soon... hot gossip from the COOL SPOT launch, and WHITTA is back with more trivia!

THIS TIME IT'S WAR!

● INTERPLAY ● 0865 390029 ●

TWO companies have picked up one of the biggest licences of the year - RoboCop Versus Terminator!

Virgin Games will produce the Sega conversions of the famous comic book, while Interplay is producing the Nintendo versions - all the games should appear before the end of the year, with Interplay confident that their game will be number one smash come Christmas time!

Interplay's SNES version, on show at ECTS, is a side-on arcade, blasty-type thing featuring all of your favourite characters and scenes from both RoboCop AND Terminator movies! Keep 'em peeled for info.

Cutting a swathe of mayhem through the streets of Old Detroit!

All your favourite movie characters are in the game!

PONDLIFE ON SNES

● INTERPLAY ● 0865 390029 ●

The latest exploits of international spy (and fish) James Pond are currently being converted to Super Nintendo by Storm. Already a big hit on Amiga and Megadrive, The Aquatic Games will surface on SNES under the new name of James Pond's Crazy Sports.

Events like the 100m Splash, Leap Frog and Kipper Watching will be on your screens in September, but in the meantime here's a screenshot.

Placine pursuits await players in James Pond's Crazy Sports.

Q WHITTA'S WORLD

DOH! TV "presenter" Andi Peters made a gaffe on Going Live's Game Talk section recently when he told viewers that the show's competition prize of a Sega Mega CD wouldn't be released in the UK until October, when they were in fact already in the shops! What a wally.

(S)CRAP OF THE YEAR

We couldn't wait for Interplay's game to come out to find out who's the hardest out of RoboCop and the Terminator, so we went next door to the City Pride for a few glasses of Tizer to and find just WHO would win in a Robo vs Arnie rumble! Here are our exclusive big fight verdicts...

GARTH: "RoboCop would obviously win because he's got a gun built into his leg, while The Terminator hasn't even got any clothes on half the time!"

WHITTA: "The Terminator would win easily because he's ROCK hard, and RoboCop gets duffed up all the time. And he's got stupid lips. Wait a mo...what am I talking about?"

RAND: "Who's round is it? It's not mine."

ANGLIN: "I don't know what you're talking about because both films have 18 certificates so I'm not old enough to

STEVE: "Hadn't we better get back and write some more of the magazine?"

IT'S COOL, MAN!

It's one to watch in '93, so Virgin Games is REALLY pushing the boat out for its new Megadrive game, Cool Spot. Not only have they enlisted rising pop group The Chosen Ones to promote the game, but they also spent rather a lot of money on free shandy and sherbert at the game's official launch, held at the European Computer Trade Show last month. Free sunglasses (like those worn by Spot in the game) were doled out, and despite Virgin marketing guru Sean "Unfunny" Brennan's deeply offensive jibe about the brilliant Tottenham Hotspur, we thought it was by far the best free booze-up we'd had all day. Which is saying something, believe us.

SEGA STRIKER!

● SEGA ● 071 373 3000 ●

Rage Software's smash hit soccer game Striker will be appearing on all major Sega formats this August — the same time as the much-hyped Super NES version!

Along with Sensible Soccer, Striker was one of last year's two top Amiga footy games. Rage has been busily beavering away on the SNES version (to be released by Elite), but we've been given a sneak preview of Sega's Megadrive version (also by Rage), and, by crickey, it's looking even better!

As expected, the Master System and Game Gear versions are almost identical to one another, using a Kick Off-style birds-eye view rather than the trickier 3D perspective seen in the 16-bit versions. But all the main features are in there, and Game Gear owners will be able to link together for two-player games.

Set for release on all three formats on August 2nd, we can't wait to find out in which version will play better — Megadrive or Super NES!

NAME CHANGE

The Sega versions have had a name change and are now called Ultimate Soccer, but apart from that it's the same game that Striker fans love, with plenty of new features. Up to EIGHT people can play simultaneously, thanks to the new 4-player joystick adaptors to be released soon. There's also a new Penalty Shootout mode and the indoor six-a-side game.

Striker's blue period — the excellent six-a-side indoor game.

Top action in Megadrive Striker — oops, sorry, we mean Ultimate Soccer.

It's a goooaaaal!
Or at least, it will be in a minute.

Oh, so close!

HARD TO KONVERT

● TECMAGIK ● 071 243 2878 ●

TEcmagik has added a new star name to its list of licences — joining Andre Agassi in the company's line-up is action film megastar Steven Seagal, who will be appearing in a Super NES beat-'em-up early next year. Live action video footage is being used to create ultra-lifelike animation for the ponytailed hardman. Not only that but Tecmagik has just signed a big deal with Sony, who seem to be buying everything these days. Blimey.

TOTAL CARNAGE!

● ICE ● 0453 756993 ●

ICE Software, best known for its military shoot 'em-up Fireforce, has just snapped up the licence to the Smash TV "sequel", Total Carnage! Although not a direct follow-up to the fabulous Williams coin-op, it uses the same game system but with eight-way scrolling in a rock-hard jungle mercenary-type. This is ICE's first ever coin-op conversion, and the hope is to be bringing versions to all major console and floppy formats later in the year...

As Spring gives way to Summer, it's time to say goodbye to another European Computer Trade Show. Us CVG-ites love the show for the latest video games and hardware, because (a) it takes place just around the corner in Islington, (b) all our great software mates buy us lots of free beer and food and (c) it's a trade-only show, so grotty little urchins like you can't get in. Having just returned from three solid days of signing up exclusives and doing top business deals, however, we're far too exhausted to write very much about the show, so we thought we'd let the snobs taken by our raving photographer speak for themselves. Enjoy...

Phwoar! This was one of the more interesting products on display at the show. Rest assured, the CVG boys will be reviewing it as soon as they can get a copy...

Look, here's Alfred Chicken from Mindscape plugging a new game.

The all-star cast just keeps on coming. James Pond always manages to make it to these shows. Watch where you're pointing that thing, pal!

QUICK NOTES

● DIGITAL Image Design, the top 3D team behind Epic and RoboCop 3, have just signed a SEVEN FIGURE deal with their long-time publishers Ocean. The deal covers DID's in-development sequels to Epic and F-29 Retaliator and beyond...

● JOURNALISTS from rival publishers Future have recently left the company to set up their own software label. Andy Smith and Bob Wade's company is called Asylum, and they hope to be releasing their first product on Amiga very soon and we'll review it for them.

● GREMLIN has just signed a deal with big-time licencing company PSI, to produce a string of merchandise based on its chart-topping character Zool. So, expect to see no end of posters, greetings cards, cuddly toys and other Zool-esque gimmicks coming your way soon...

● CODEMASTERS has finally (and rather sensationally) WON its epic court battle with Nintendo, who have been trying to get the Darling brothers' Game Genie gated off the shelves for years. The US Supreme Court ruled that Nintendo didn't have a case, so the cartridge for cheats will stay on sale AND the Codies get a walloping load of cash in damages to boot...

NEW MEGADRIVE AND CD UNVEILED!

The new look Megadrive 2 and Mega-CD 2, which now bolts onto the side of the console. And look - there's a mouse as well!

Designed to wipe the smile of the faces of rival hardware manufacturers, the Megadrive 2 and new-look Mega-CD model will no doubt be well advertised and stocked nationwide. If you're currently thinking of getting a Mega-CD you might be advised to take our top-notch advice below.

The Megadrive is dead - long live the Megadrive 2! Sega has at long last taken the wraps off the new versions of its flagship console, and these are the first pictures!

Both the Megadrive and the bolt-on Mega-CD machines have been redesigned inside smaller, sexier cases, which means the new machines will be much cheaper when they're launched over here in October. The Megadrive 2 will cost just £75, while the Mega-CD will set you back £175 - nearly £100 cheaper than the current model. Technology-wise, the machines remain exactly the same - it's only the outer design that's changed. Nice as they are, the new models could well annoy buyers of the existing Mega-CD unit, which has only been on sale for a month or so at £270. No more Mega-CD "1"s are being produced, in preparation for the new model, so if you're after a CD unit, you might be best advised to wait until October - or pick up an end-of-line bargain as shops try to clear their old stocks.

REPEAT TO FADE Famous reviewing clichés that CVG has (almost) managed to abolish over the years, but can still be found earning a respectacle living in other magazines.

1. "They told us it was going to be good, but no-one prepared us for this!"
2. "This game should come with a government health warning!"
3. "it's brilliantly simple and simply brilliant!"
4. No self-respecting gamer should be without it!"
5. "Excuse me now, but I'm just off for another go..."
6. "Beg, buy or borrow a copy today!"
7. "It's got that just-one-more-go appeal!"

Bullets, bombs and -pineapples? - in Konami's ultra-cute Pop'n Twin Bee!

Console-owning Konami fans are in for a little bit of a treat this Summer with a product apiece for Super Nintendo and Megadrive.

The first one is the SNES game, Pop'n Twinbee, a cutesy vertical shoot-'em-up that's already been big in Japan on the Super Famicom. The official UK version is due out soon and is very odd indeed, replacing the usual rock-hard bullets and razor-sharp bits of metal with fluffy clouds, cupcakes and pineapples!

Following that in September is the long-awaited Rocket Knight Adventures featuring Sparkster, a super-powered possum. Out in September, if it's a hit we'll no doubt be hearing more of him.

Are we looking at the new console hero for the 90s?

NEWS

LUCASARTS' Autumn line-up includes a game by STEVEN SPIELBERG... plus SUPER EMPIRE STRIKES BACK, the secret lives of ZIG AND ZAG and the latest batch of BARGAINS for all you software skinflints...

SUPER EMPIRE STRIKES BACK — IT'S HERE!

● US GOLD ● 021 625 3388 ●

In-between pumping out class titles like Super Star Wars and the latest Indiana Jones adventure, LucasArts has been working on SIX new games for release this Autumn!

LucasArts' adventure trio for 1993 kicks off with Day of the Tentacle...

Here's the game that's expected to be THE big adventure of the year — Steven Spielberg's The Dig.

Strutting graphics for CD users in Rebel Assault.

The line-up includes three more Star Wars games — there's The Fighter (the follow-up to the hit X-Wing), Rebel Assault and — yes! — Super Empire Strikes Back!

The Fighter for the PC is an action-packed space combat sim, with you playing the bad guys. Rebel Assault is another flight game, but with much more emphasis on action and amazing visuals — only produced for CD formats, with the Mega CD leading the way. Super Empire Strikes Back is, of course, the Super NES follow-up to Super Star Wars, but it's NOT just a conversion of NES Empire — this one comes on a 12Mb cartridge and is 50% bigger than Super Star Wars! Look out for the best Mode 7 effects ever seen!

FINALLY there's Sam and Max Hit the Road, a comic tale about a dog detective and his sidekick rabbit who have to drive across America in search of a missing bigfoot. All the games are due out this Autumn, and we'll be bringing you more news, particularly on those juicy Star Wars titles, real soon...

SPIELBERG WROTE THE GAME

No Lucasfilm line-up would be complete without an adventure, and this Autumn we'll have three new ones on PC. It all starts with Day of the Tentacle: Maniac Mansion 2, to be followed by The Dig, LucasArts' BIG adventure for 1993. Set in 1998, it's all about the crew of a space shuttle sent on a mission to prevent a giant asteroid crashing into the earth — and CVG can EXCLUSIVELY reveal that the game was dreamed up and has been co-written by NONE OTHER THAN STEPHEN SPIELBERG! You're not supposed to know that yet, so keep it to yourselves...

IT'S A LOT LESS BOVER

● STORM ● 071 585 3308 ●

Remember this from the film? The graphics were slightly better, of course. (Below left) Shape-shifting antics in Lawnmower Man II. Can't we quit this bit and go straight to the CyberSex part? (No — Ed).

You may remember quite a while ago there was a bit of excitement about a movie called The Lawnmower Man, which dealt the freaky world of virtual reality. When the film finally came out it turned out to be a big pile of cack and everyone forgot about it. As it turned out, the film made quite a few boob, so now there's a sequel (called, believe it or not, The Lawnmower Man II) in production, and Storm is now producing the game based on it.

You get sucked into the oddball VR world by the central baddy and have to complete a number of puzzles and arcade games in order to escape. There are loads of versions in production, most centred around CD — there's Mega CD, CDTV, CD-ROM and even a SNES CD version on the way, while for non-CD owners there are more conventional Gameboy, SNES and PC versions. None of them, however, will be out until next year (to coincide with the movie), so whatever machine you own you're in for quite a long wait...

CELEBRITY CHALLENGE

with

ZIG & ZAG

The gang's all here! A dream is realised for Zig and Zag and Gaz and Rand as they finally get to meet each other's slots.

Throughout the years that CVG has issued its gaming challenges to hopeful gamers everywhere, our crack team of video warriors has taken on the very best – and vanquished them, one by one. All across the globe there is a trail of once-proud gaming gladiators who have long since been cut down to size by the all-powerful might of the CVG boys. But this leaves us with one slight problem. We've beaten everyone this planet has to offer, so where do we go from here? The answer is simple – outer space! For the second of our all-new Celebrity Challenges, we decided that the only force capable of taking us on lay beyond the stars, and we were able to get hold of two real live (and extremely famous) space aliens – none other than Zig and Zag from Channel 4's The Big Breakfast! Not only are they genuine extra-terrestrials, hailing from the faraway planet Zog, but they're also bona fide games experts, using their talents on the top-rated breakfast show's Masterblaster reviews slot. The two pre-pubescent Zogians were only too pleased to take up our challenge, and seemed fairly confident of victory. "CVG, CVG, CVG are game girlsies!" they chanted after we threw down the gauntlet, so we selected our warriors – Gary Whitta and Paul Rand, back after last month's shock defeat by Nigel Benn – and packed them off to The Big Breakfast's secret London location to meet their challengers... We've made CVG history this month with our first ever double challenge. It was decided that Paul would take on Zig, while Gaz faced Zag, because their names are the same backwards (brilliant, eh?). The challenge game was to be excellent Super MarioKart, a big lunchtime hit with the CVG boys, and the choice seemed to be particularly welcomed by Zag who, on hearing the news exclaimed "Victory shall be ours, it shall, it shall, it shall! Our super simmering alien fingers are flexed to fight, let's plus this baby in and get gaming!" Zig, however, wasn't as sure as his partner-in-crime. "What's for tea?" was the most aggressive thing he could think of to say.

The challenge is on, and things are already going badly for Gaz.

ROUND 1

MARIO CIRCUIT 1

A technical hitch almost aborted the challenge before it began when the TV monitor would only work in black and white. We were told that this was due to special space signals sent out by Zag's ears interfering with the picture, but both competitors agreed to play in monochrome and the challenge was on! Gaz selected Koopa Trooper as his driver, while Zag opted for the mushroom-like Toad. "Let's get this Toad on the road, buster!" he exclaimed bullishly. Disaster struck for the hopeless Whitta early in the first race when he over-revved at the start line and Zag was able to clear the pack and take an early lead! Three laps later and a succession of lucky pick-ups had allowed Whitta to gain on Zag, but he screeched off the track near the final turn to let the surprisingly proficient Zag take the tape while Gaz had to settle for a measly third place.

FIRST ROUND RESULTS

ZAG (1st) TOTAL: 9 POINTS "I am the Kart king, no doubt about it young man!"
WHITTA (3rd) TOTAL: 3 POINTS "Where did a space alien learn to drive a go-kart like that?!"

ROUND 3

GHOST HOUSE 1

Disaster for CVG! Whitta crashes out on the Ghost House and is forced to eat his joypad...

As both competitors went into the final round, they knew that the Amatch was still for the taking either way. After taking a break for some special Zogian orange juice, Zag bounced back with a burst of extra energy – unlike Whitta, who seemed to have had the wind knocked out of his sails. But into the final round they went and, surprisingly, it was Whitta who had the upper hand early in the race, using a pick-up invincibility Star to roar ahead of the pack again. But Zag was not to be outdone and stayed hot on Whitta's heels for most of the race. So it stayed right into the final lap when Whitta, confident of victory, turned into the final straight only to discover to his horror that Zag, right behind him, had picked up a red shell! The homing missile was delivered with frightening accuracy, spinning Whitta just before the finish line and letting Zag scream past for first place! Ultimately defeated, Whitta crawled over the line for a measly second place. Doh!

DONUT PLAINS 1

Zag is taken aback as Whitta pulls back a vital victory on the Donut Plains!

before resorting to violence and throttling his opponent!

With Whitta already reeling from his shock first-round obliteration, Zag jumped up and down with excitement and boasted confidently that this course was his favourite. "What a dunking good round this is!" he said, as the cars lined up on the grid. But Gaz showed no fear, he knuckled down and within the first two laps was clear in front, with Zag stuck in a pathetic fifth place – so much for his favourite track! But while Gaz drove even further ahead of the field in a startling performance, Zag battled back brilliantly into the scoring positions and finally into second, but still a good six seconds behind Whitta, who broke his own personal track record. Now the challenge was really on!

SECOND ROUND RESULTS

ZAG (1st) TOTAL: 12 POINTS "And now we've got a game!"
ZAG (2nd) TOTAL: 15 POINTS "Don't count your Marios till they've hatched, Mr Smarmy Trousers. Victory shall be mine – next round now!"

FINAL RESULTS

GAZ (2nd) TOTAL: 18 POINTS "I do not believeeeeeeevvee H!"
ZAG (1st) TOTAL: 24 POINTS "There's only one ZAG from ZOG, there's only one ZAG from ZOOOOOGG!"

Sensationally, the alien Zag had destroyed our Whitta 24 points to 18, and before our man could demand that the Zogian orange juice be tested for steroids, Zag nipped off for lunch, leaving the only hopes for mankind resting in the hands of Paul Rand in the next round. Defeated last month, could he turn the tables on the aliens now?

PART TWO - PAUL VERSUS ZIG

We're back after the half-time break! And the question about the last clip was...

They knew the stakes. After the utter humiliation of Whitta by Zag in the first part of the Challenge, everyone knew that Paul Rand held the last hope for CVG as he sat down for part two of the battle, against Zig. Could the pair of bungling aliens from The Big Breakfast really take on the might of CVG and win? The idea seemed inconceivable, but Zag had taken them halfway to victory, and now Paul's only hope was to defeat Zig and scrape a draw. Zig, however, knew that if he won, he and Zag could travel back to their home planet Zog bathed in glory. "I hate baths, thanks very much," he was heard to say just before diving into the challenge. But there was nothing more to say. With Whitta still crying in the corner about his defeat, Paul took to the challenge settee next to Zig, who seemed just a little nervous about the responsibility that now lay on his shoulders. But Rand too looked equally uneasy - could it be that he was still shaken psychologically by last month's challenge defeat? There was only one way to find out. Lads, grab those joypads AND GET DOWN TO BUSINESS!

Round One and Rand stamps his authority on the game in style! Poor old Zig is left speechless! (for once).

Both grasping their joypads with sweating hands (here Paul discovered that Zogian sweat is five times smellier than the earth variety - pew!), Zig and Rand began part two of this monster challenge. This time it was Paul who picked Toad; "If it worked for that purple dork, it can work for me", while Zig chose Bowser "because he's just a widdle puppy wuppy dog and I love him". As the race began Zag was discouraged from coaching Zig from the sidelines by Whitta placing a carrier bag over his head. "Mmm-mm-mm" he protested, but it was to no avail. The race was already underway, with Rand well in the lead and Zig, still trying to master the controls, floundering in seventh after one lap. From there on it was easy pickings for the CVG boy, who finally crossed the line in first place, despite an unfortunate collision with a Super Luigi, with Zig limping in sixth. Zag had by this time removed his bag and had this constructive piece of advice to offer Zig: "You'd better pluck up your gaming plans, young man. A Gilbible from the planet Flob could've done better, and they don't even have arms!"

FIRST ROUND RESULTS

PAUL (1st) TOTAL: 9 POINTS "Alien or not, you're no match for me!"
ZIG (7th) TOTAL: 0 POINTS "Which one was I again?"

But not! Just when all seemed lost for the alien duo, Zig comes back brilliantly with a superb run! Rand's disgruntlement is all too clear.

DONUT PLAINS 1

A full nine points in the lead, Rand knew he was in the driving seat in more ways than one. Zig's inexperience was showing through, as was Zag's disgruntlement, as she stormed off to the kitchen to sulk and eat an entire packet of chocolate Hob Nobs in one go. Meanwhile it was onto Round Two and Zig, positioned at the back of the starting grid, suddenly seemed to find his feet (not easy as no-one's ever seen them) and race into third position as the race got underway. Rand, meanwhile, had got caught in the pack between Kong and Luigi, and was having problems breaking free. Eventually he barged his way through and caught up with Zig – a ding-dong battle ensued, which ended with Zig miraculously forcing Paul off the track and roaring into the first place. Cursing his luck, Rand rallied well and came back, but it was too late and Zig had already crossed the finish line to win the race. But for Rand, third place just wasn't good enough, and the second round result had narrowed his victory margin dramatically. Zig could hardly contain himself – and do you blame him?

SECOND ROUND RESULTS

PAUL (3rd) TOTAL: 12 POINTS

"It's a fix! Ref! Ref!"

ZIG (1st) TOTAL: 9 POINTS "Where's the loo? Where's the loo?"

As in the first challenge, only three points separated the two drivers going into the final round, but this time it was CVG that had the advantage. A good performance here would seal the draw, but Zig was under immense pressure from his purple pal to repeat last round's miracle run. "Come on Zig, don't let poncey Paul win" was Zag's advice before the flag went up. With both drivers near the front of the grid, they were able to accelerate away from the pack, and before the first lap was over the fascinated crowd of Big Breakfast observers knew it would be a two-horse race all the way. And so it was, with Paul leading most of the way until Zig stumbled across a Star pickup and was able to whizz past the ginger whinger! It looked as though Zig was going to clinch it until he got too cocky, tried to take a corner on the final lap too fast and barreled into the fence! In the time it took him to turn and get back on course, Paul had overtaken and won the race!

GHOST HOUSE 1

Zig resorts to the age-old trick of a somersault to think wrong with my top pad. "Play, but it's all over!" Zig's disastrous third-round performance secures a draw for the world's greatest games mag!

FINAL RESULTS

PAUL (1st) TOTAL: 21 POINTS "I knew that boss-eyed bozo didn't have the staying power!"

ZIG (2nd) TOTAL: 15 POINTS "Oops, sorry Zag!"

AND THE WINNER IS...

Aah, that's nice - no hand feelings at the end of the day. Zag and Paul can walk away in pride, but Gaz and Zig (right) have got some serious explaining to do...

It was a draw. Gaz the buffoon completely fluffed his challenge and let Zag walk away with it, but Rand pulled out all the stops to make up for it and won his battle against the inexperienced Zig. So it was a one-all draw on rounds – under these circumstances we would normally let the points margin decide, but incredibly BOTH victors won six points clear, so there really wasn't anything to decide between the two. We suggested a scissor-paper-stone competition as a tiebreaker, but Zig and Zag pointed out that they don't have scissors, paper OR stones on Zog so they didn't understand the rules and we had to abandon the whole thing. But it was the alien duo who were to have the final word: "We shall return to conquer the CVG team, and next time I will put some effort into it," said Zag. "I mean I only played half my usual game-power, I didn't want you girly-boys to look too bad." "Yeah, next time we'll be in your FACE," added Zig. "By the way, there's no loo roll..."

Prince of Persia 2

The Shadow And The Flame

When young programmer Jordan Mechner first wrote Prince of Persia for the crusty old Apple II back in 1989, everybody in America thought it was a flop – even two years later, when it appeared on the PC, it never made it into the software hit parade. It looked as though eighteen months of Jordan's hard labour was about to go down the drain without anyone noticing, but when the floppy versions came across the Atlantic to the UK on the Domark label later that year, something very strange happened – people stood up and took notice. In fact, it caused an overnight sensation. "Best Animation Ever!" "Platform Game of the Year!" "It's Like Playing a Film!" – the praise just kept on coming. Since then, the swashbuckling Arabian Nights-style adventure has been converted to just about every home format imaginable, from the Super NES to the Apple Macintosh and Game Boy and at long last it's been a hit in America as well as across Europe.

Jordan Mechner, programmer: "I'd always hoped there'd be a sequel!"

A PRINCE AMONG GAMES

What was it that made the original such an instant classic? Well, it was the incredible animation that first caught people's attention - a main character ran, fought and leaped like a real live action movie hero! But it wasn't all gimmicks, and it was the classy gameplay that kept people hooked once the graphic novelty wore off. Inspired by the classic action/adventure movies of silver screen heroes like Errol Flynn and Douglas Fairbanks Jr., Jordan set out to create a game with the same says Jordan. "Of course, for the first couple of years the sales of the game were unspectacular so it was difficult to get anybody very excited about the idea. But I always had a sequel in the back of my mind. While I was writing the original, I kept a folder for all the ideas that I wasn't able to put into the game. By the time the game was finished, the folder had gotten pretty fat!"

Up the steps to the next level!

LIGHTS, CAMERA, ACTION!

Four years have passed since the first version of the original Prince, and with the massive leaps in games technology that have been made in that time, Jordan has at last been able to re-open his bulging folder and for the sequel, bring to life all the ideas that never made it into the original game. The two-year project has been huge - almost like making a movie, with a two-hundred page script produced before programming began, dozens of action storyboards and a "crew" of over two dozen programmers, artists and musicians! "The Prince 2 is by far the biggest team I've ever worked with," says the "director" Jordan. "In comparison the original Prince team was very small - just me!"

What Persian adventure would be complete without a magic carpet?

cliffhanging, swashbuckling atmosphere - and he succeeded. With ramboring ledges suspended over razor-sharp spikes, deadly potions and swordfighting skeletons lurking around every corner, Prince of Persia captured players' imaginations and, for the first time, actually felt like playing a film! The only problem is, most people agree that the game hasn't aged that well over the years. What the public need now is a sequel!

SOME DAY MY PRINCE WILL COME

"So," everybody's been asking for the last eighteen months, "when's Prince of Persia 2 coming out, then?" It may have been the question on everybody's lips, but POP publishers Broderbund and their new-found pals at Electronic Arts have been keeping tight-lipped about the ultra-secret

"The graphics are a quantum leap forward from the original game."

Jordan Mechner

project - until now. After two years of intense work by Jordan Mechner and a huge development team, Prince of Persia 2: The Shadow and The Flame is finally due to arrive this Summer. "I always hoped there'd be a sequel,"

SO WHAT'S NEW?

Prince of Persia 2's basic platforms 'n' fighting formula remains much the same as in the original, but the game's much bigger, taking place not just inside the palace but spilling outside the grounds and even to faraway islands. You'll battle through exotic marketplaces, across busy backyards, on the beach, over the palace rooftops and, of course, through the murky dungeons where much of the first game was set. As you can see, the graphics are a quantum leap forward from the original game's visuals, and so is the gameplay, with the Prince able to perform all sorts of new Errol Flynn-type moves. He can now crawl, fight with creatures like snakes, crash through windows, battle two or more opponents at a time and even use magic spells to confound the bad guys! Animation fans need not fret, as the characters' new escapades will all have the same fluid, lifelike movement that made the original so stunning to look at. "Also, we've expanded the story, with non-interactive storybook sequences in-between levels, with music, narration and really beautiful illustrations which I think add considerably to the atmosphere and to the story," says Jordan.

"What I have tried to do in Prince of Persia II," he goes on, "is make the gameplay richer and give it more variety without changing the basic mix. In Prince II, as compared to Prince I, we were able to put in more different kinds of opponents and more different settings, each with their own traps and pitfalls. Also, there are more surprise twists - all in all it's a much bigger game. I've tried to make sure the player gets their money's worth."

"I'm afraid there are some puzzles in the upper levels of Prince 2 that are very nasty indeed!"

Jordan Mechner

"The player can get killed in all sorts of horrible new ways!"

Jordan Mechner

THAT MAN MECHNER

Inspired by the classic Broderbund game Choplifter, 28 year-old New Yorker Jordan Mechner began his games-writing career with the beat 'em up adventure Karateka before moving onto Prince of Persia, a more elaborate version of the same game. Since then, and during the success of his game on all manner of console and floppy formats, Mechner has got back to his real love – film-making. He's already written two feature film scripts, and recently directed his own 19-minute movie called Waiting For Dark and shot on location in Cuba. It's Jordan's love of movies that enables him to make his games so atmospheric and film-like. For the original Prince of Persia, for example, Jordan dressed up his brother in white pyjamas to look like the main character, and filmed him running and jumping around Central Park in New York to get the moves right! The technique known as Rotoscoping was born, and it's since been copied to amazing effect in games like Another World and Flashback.

Inspired by the likes of Errol Flynn, Jordan set out to create a swashbuckling game...

THE STORY SO FAR...

Hands up who remembers the original Prince of Persia story? Oh, not very many of you. Right, for the benefit of you lot, it's all about a young peasant boy who is about to marry his true love, the beautiful Princess. Unfortunately the evil Grand Vizier Jaffar had other ideas and locked the Prince-to-be in the palace dungeons so he could marry the Princess himself. Of course it all worked out alright at the end, with the player escaping, battling through the palace and finally defeating Jaffar to win the hand of the lovely lady. But they didn't live happily ever after. After years in exile, the scheming Jaffar has returned for the sequel - and this time he's got black magic on his side! Using a diabolical spell to make him look like the Prince, and the Prince like a filthy beggar - with the identities switched, he has you thrown out of the palace and gets on the firm with your missus! The swine! And so the scene is set for 15 all-new levels of cliffhanging, sword-clanging, buddy-bashing action. But what's this subtitle 'The Shadow And The Flame all about though?' 'All I can say is that if you play the game through to the end, you'll understand,' says Jordan cryptically.

Prince of Persia 2's story is told using a cinematic introduction sequence, introducing the characters and setting up the plot before the action begins. Like all other aspects of the game, everything had been carefully sketched out by hand before programming, so here's the original storyboard of what you'll eventually see on the screen...

"Prince 2 is by far the biggest team I've ever worked with...the original Prince team was very small - just me!"

ALIEN 3

How does the SNES version compare with its Megadrive forefather? It smashes it off the face of the planet!

Fry it now. Gerri'n!

Watch out for dripping acid.

Eugh, gross!

Now this is what I call the alternative version of Sleeping Beauty! Substitute the princess for Ripley, swap the wicked Queen for the Queen alien, exchange the handsome prince for a Face Hugger and you're there – sort of. Said hugger has laid an egg inside Ripley's throat and gone on to wreck the spaceship, Sulaco, forcing it to crash-land on Fiorina Fury 161, a maximum security prison for some of the worst offenders in the cosmos. As bad as life doing porridge may seem, the inmates have another rather large problem – aliens! The alien that was hiding in the Sulaco, has impregnated a rather large Rottweiler and the resulting creation is an alien the like of which has never been seen before. Now it's time for all concerned to seriously leg it, 'cos this xenomorph's taking no prisoners – and you're top of its killing list!

"DON'T BE GONE LONG ELLEN"

The Alien 3 movie is the sequel to Aliens (I want to know why they didn't call it Aliens), which in turn is the sequel to Alien. If you've not seen the films yet, you're either very sad or far too young. The original is a classic piece of science fiction movie-making in which the crew of the Nostromo, under the command of Lieutenant Ellen Ripley, find that they have an alien stowed away in the cargo hold and have to rid themselves of the thing using nothing but cattle prods. The sequel took a turn for the violent. This sees Ripley, accompanied by the totally excellent Space Marines, going into an alien-infested space colony and basically blowing seven bells out of anything remotely ugly; needless to say this was easily the most enjoyable of the trio. The third, and least successful in the series, has Ripley marooned on Fiorina 161, a maximum security penal colony, which is attacked by the Aliens and, seeing as the prisoners have no weapons, things get a bit tricky. Alien 3 took a bit of a hammering at the box office with people complaining that there were no guns in it, which is a little strange seeing as there were none in the original either! You can now buy the Special Edition of Aliens on video, which contains 17 minutes of previously unseen footage. But don't get too excited, it's not that different to the original.

These green ones take a real hammering.

VERDICT

Alien 3 is relentless; little Aliens, big Aliens, huge ones and enormous ones, all shapes and sizes are included from the smallest of face-huggers to the whopping great Queen herself! The mission aspect adds lasting appeal, whilst the atmosphere generated by the smoky levels, with their great tunes, is fab. Ripley has three weapons to choose from at all times, and power-ups are spread throughout. The Megadrive version is a good 'un, but Sega owners will be cursing their parents over their choice of console when they see this totally brilliant version. Fabulous!

STEVE KEEN

"YEAH MAN, THE MOMMA AND SHE'S BAD ASS"

The aliens are a very complex species, with loads of different breeds all out to get your blood. Here's a quick rundown:

ALIEN EGG: May look harmless, but can cause a real headache. They'll constantly dispatch face huggers until you fry them, and that takes a lot of fuel from your flame thrower.

FACE HUGGER: The simplest form of alien. The earlier breeds will not attach themselves to your face, but the blue or red ones will latch onto you tighter than one of the Fat Stags.

CANINE ALIEN: The newest form of alien. These are capable of spitting acid over huge distances and very accurately. They can also leap incredibly far, so you'd better blast them quickly.

REPTILE ALIEN: These things are very, very sneaky. Their small size makes them really difficult to see until they're right on you and they can take a bit of a beating as well.

MOTHER ALIEN: This one's a real mutha! She is only found in a couple of locations in the later levels and spits a deadly vapour which will quickly send you to an early grave. She takes a hell of a battering and moves extremely quickly.

QUEEN ALIEN: The alien of all aliens. The queen alien guards the end of the game and does a damned good job of it as well! There's no point in trying to outrun her; this is a stand-up fight to the finish.

"B GUN DOWN FIFTY PERCENT"

Ripley is not only a dab hand at rescuing hostages and wiping out entire species of killer Xenomorphs, she's also something of an electrician! The problem is that the aliens have gotten into every room in the entire colony and caused havoc. There are power generators down, fuse boxes blown, pipes that need welding and countless other horrible tasks. To make matters worse, all of these tasks have to be completed while the aliens are running around! Fixing fuse boxes may sound as dull as Whitley Bay on a Friday night, but it actually provides a nice break from the rescuing of hostages, which is also one of Ripley's chief tasks. There are a few occasions where you have to perform that favourite task of the Space Marines - welding doors shut. On some levels it is vital that you stop the progress of the aliens quickly, but remember - once you've sealed a door, anything in that room is unreachable.

ALIEN 3

Ah, the beloved terminal.

SAD FOLK START HERE

If you're still stuck here after a day of play, then you should try quitting the Space Marine Corps and joining the Sad Morons Corps. If you're having that much trouble, try walking around in the crouch position all the time, as you'll be able to waste the Face Huggers a lot easier that way.

NOW, YOU'RE GETTING BETTER

Alright, you're starting to get somewhere. Make sure the first thing you do is clear the Medic bays of alien eggs, so that when your energy is low you can go and collect some without being bothered by newly-hatched aliens.

AT LAST, YOU'RE WELL 'ARD!

If you've got this far then you deserve to be in the next Alien movie (shame there won't be one really). You're just one stage away from facing the Queen alien. If you've got this far, there's not a lot more I can tell you, other than to have your trigger finger ready and make notes of any valuable rooms because these levels are BIG!

VERDICT

Alien 3 manages to capture the moody feel of the movie to a tee. The animation is excellent with the aliens moving so fluidly, and the superb backdrops combine with the incredible sound to give this unrivalled atmosphere. The difficulty level is pitched perfectly; you can blast anything that moves and there's a real sense of extreme violence, but you can only get a little further with every go! The range of different tasks you have to perform keeps interest at a high! Alien 3 has been finely tuned and is one of the most streamlined and all-round brilliant carts I've seen.

"BEES MAN. BEES HAVE HIVES"

"NEXT TIME THEY WALK RIGHT UP AND KNOCK"

Don't you sometimes wish you could see around corners? In the SNES version of Alien 3 you're given the next best thing – the motion tracker. As its name suggests, this swanky piece of kit will track anything that is moving in your immediate vicinity, giving you plenty of warning of anything that tries to catch you unawares. The motion tracker also picks up any trapped prisoners so you can locate them easily. Shame it doesn't pick up any 'cons though, 'cos that would be really handy. There are two main differences between the motion tracker on this version of Alien 3 and its Megadrive forerunner. For one, the motion tracker on the Megadrive version required batteries to keep it running, but this one doesn't. Second, the Megadrive tracker could be left on-screen all the time if you so wished, while this one can't. The problem is that when you push Select to bring up the motion tracker, it appears in the space where all your weapons are logged. This means that, as soon as you fire a weapon, that weapon will appear in its place. This can be very annoying at times, but it's easy to get it back up on-screen so it's not too bad.

"DO YOU HAVE ANY NEWS ABOUT MY DAUGHTER?"

Anyone who's seen the movie will know that there are no weapons of any sort in Alien 3. Luckily though, Acclaim has managed to sneak more than a few into the game. Ripley is armed with three different weapons: the flame thrower, grenade launcher and, of course, the ever-trusty Pulse rifle. You start off with all three weapons fully topped up and, whereas the grenade launcher is pretty much guaranteed not to run out, the Pulse rifle will need constant re-loading and the flame thrower can get a bit low when you're moving around in the tunnels a lot.

ICON GUIDE

GRENADE PICK-UP: This will give you a clip of ten grenades.

AMMO PICK-UP: This will give you one full magazine for your Pulse rifle.

CONTRA III : £49.99

This is a blast fest to the end. Contra III (or Super Probotector, depending on the version you purchased) pushes the Super NES to its very limits with some of the most stunning visual effects yet seen on the machine. Only play if your heart can take it; this is intense!

You need energy fast.

Tut tut, what a wasteful young lady.

Now that's how to waste an egg!

VERDICT

There's no denying that the Megadrive version of Alien 3 was a very good game – the CVG boys still play it now. At least, we did until this Super NES version came crashing through the letterbox! Honestly, this is a stunning conversion of the movie, combining the best bits of the Sega game (which means the blasting parts) with a healthy portion of heart-pounding searching around the prison planet to complete the plethora of missions available to you. This is a massive cartridge – it took us about three days to get to the end of what we thought was the game, but what in fact turned out to be only the first level! Graphically gorgeous and sonically far, far superior to a lot of current SNES outpourings, Alien 3 captures the atmosphere of the film – and then some. In short, it's a smash!

No baddies here

Guard that motorcycle very carefully.

Go on - I double dare ya.

DESERT STRIKE SHIFTED MORE MEGADRIVES THAN ANYTHING ELSE — AND NOW ITS SEQUEL'S HERE!

JUNGLE STRIKE

Cast your mind back to the time when you trashed a Middle Eastern thug. While you were bathing in the praise heaped upon you for your heroism, his equally evil offspring was plotting revenge. As luck would have it, the twisted genius stumbled across his dad's extraordinary cache of nukes.

A Pacific island has been atomised. The yanks have got pictures of the perpetrators, who are the notorious Drug lord, Carlos Ortega, and son of the Desert Strike madman, IBN Kilbaba. Spy satellites have unmasked a plot to incinerate Washington DC in revenge for interfering in the baddies' drug cartel. Once again you've been ordered to rid the world of menace. But you'd better hurry, time is against you...

Hovercraft ahoy

Talk about close encounters.

Hurrah! - a huge blow for world peace?

ON THE MAP

Each campaign is packed with all manner of enemy equipment. It's essential to do things in the right order and only blow up the things you're supposed to. To help, the map gives you a breakdown of what's what on the ground. Use it to locate anything from your next objective to a fuel drum. Your helicopter is represented on the map by a square. Once again, remember to use your map at all times, especially on the later levels. For instance, if there's an ammo crate next to a Terrorist's Headquarters, leave it and get another one. That leaves a fresh ammo crate for you.

Lummie mummy! A horror pad!

Take the plane or the Comanche?

You've got to waste that bridge.

VERDICT

EA promised great things for Jungle Strike and they have delivered. It combines all the best features of Desert Strike and some brilliant new ideas to boot. The range of scenarios is huge – from Washington DC to the Jungle to the North Pole! You don't have to stick to flying a Comanche either! You can jump in a hovercraft or a top, new spanky F117A! Every aspect of the gameplay has been finely tuned and, as a result, Jungle Strike is more fun than even the original. A superb sequel that's set to do sell truckloads – not to mention thousands of Megadrives as well!

PAUL ANGLIN

SO WHAT'S NEW?

So is Jungle Strike better than Desert Strike? The screenshots show that the game has undergone some pretty drastic changes. There's a vast range of scenarios and you even get to control a Stealth fighter! The basic gameplay hasn't changed all that much, although it has to be said, the chopper handles much better in this new version.

1: RESCUE THE TWO NAVY SEALS THAT ARE STRANDED ON AN ISLAND

This is where you get your briefing.

WHAT'S THIS? A BLOODY TAXI SERVICE?

In the heat of combat, your chopper can take a bit of a battering, so repair it pretty frequently. There are two ways of doing this: firstly, if you're lucky you'll be able to pick up an armour repair kit that just happens to be lying around; secondly, take advantage of the quick repair service when you can drop off soldiers at the Landing Zone. You'll get 50 points for each person dropped – so it's worth collecting a load of men straight away so that, as soon as you get into trouble, you can drop them off and get sorted, rather than having to hunt around for a kit.

The hostages are in there.

Quick! Top up your energy.

PACK IT UP? NO PICK IT UP!

The Comanche may be one of the most streamlined and efficient killing machines yet devised, but even it needs to have its weapons topped up from time to time. The ammo crates are found in two different ways: either pick up the ones lying on the ground, or, if you find the ammo trucks, which isn't particularly hard to do, you can waste them, reaping a nice fresh crate for you to plunder. Be warned though, your Comanche can only hold one full ammo crate at a time, so only collect when you've zero weapons.

A VIEW TO A KILL

- 1 This is the main screen where you can view everything about the mission.
- 2 Go to this icon to see which part of the campaign you're in.
- 3 Go to this icon to see what still needs to be bombed.
- 4 This shows you which part of the mission you are currently viewing.
- 5 These counters show how much ammo you've got left for each weapon.
- 6 Everything you need to know about the state of your chopper.

How look at all that snowy detail.

It's gonna blow!

Blow up the marijuana harvest - just saying no isn't enough sometimes kids!

One of the night missions... Dark mine!

PLANES, TRAINS & AUTOMOBILES.

The major difference between Desert Strike and Jungle Strike is the fact that you get to use different vehicles in Jungle Strike. You start off with the standard ones, but, by the time you get through the game, you'll have driven a hovercraft and, in level seven fly F117A Stealth fighter! Currently the most expensive and deadly fighter plane in the known universe, EA gives you the controls. The Stealth skims over the terrain and handles like an absolute dream. The plane even has its own weapons, including a bridge-busting bomb and a heat-seeking missile about as powerful as the Hydras (although you get a load of them). Hurrah, death to all things!

VERDICT

As one of my favourite Amiga blasters of all time, I always thought the scenario got a little samey by the end of the game - with 16Mb in the cart, Jungle Strike blows away all these limitations, taking you from Washington DC to the frozen arctic wastes and tropical jungles. It's not just the settings that are more varied, either - there's so much more depth to the missions and so the gameplay is even more atmospheric and involving! I love the different types of vehicle, the night campaigns, the fact that it's all so much BIGGER - oh, it's just excellent in every way. Get it! Get it now!

GARY WHITTA

SAD FOLK START HERE

So, you can only get to level 9 eh? You sad cretinous, useless, negligible halfwit! Maybe you should try playing Mario Bros on one of those sad LCD game-watch things; you might actually be able to manage that! If you're stuck here though, just be very careful with your armour and top up as often as you can.

NOW, YOU'RE GETTING BETTER

You're obviously used to handling your meaty chopper. But you'll have to stay alert if you want to beat the drug lords. Here's a handy tip: If a building needs blowing up, fly close to it and emerge just around the corner. This way, you stay out of range 'til the last minute, allowing you to trash the gun installations.

AT LAST, YOU'RE WELL' ARD!

Level 7 is where the top nobz play! Once you're this far you deserve to star in Wings Of The Apache! By now you should have mastered the use of the jink button. Main thing to remember now is to take out any enemies BEFORE you fly around installations. There's some really big guns out there.

THE FORMER MASTER

To give you some idea of what Jungle Strike has to live up to here's a quick rundown on how well its predecessor did: Desert Strike was first released around '91 and sold absolutely stacks of copies. Not only that, but it also persuaded many-a-person to go out and exchange cash for a Megadrive! Then, late last year, Desert Strike sprinkled the same magic dust on the SNES; last month saw Amiga Desert Strike. What's the possibility of Jungle Strike moving onto other machines? EA are saying nothing but we reckon it could happen.

Don't let that helicopter out of your sight.

X-MEN

You'll believe that a fit lass can fly!

Punch that large, colourful thing!

The latest release from Sega is yet another licenced platform game. Will this cart be good enough for super hero status?

You've got to hand it to these console games companies.

They really know how to keep coming up with original ideas. After months of wondering if there would ever be an end to unoriginal products, Sega has silenced all the critics by releasing... oh, another arcade-style platform game. Sorry, that didn't really work did it? Yes, X-Men, the long-awaited video game version of the Marvel Comics team of hero mutants, is a jump-about-and-beat-up-the-enemies extravaganza in the traditional style. But is it different enough to stand out from the crowd?

Flame shoe hilarity abounds.

Claire: Rayner's not the only one with wings.

CHARACTER ASSASSINATION

Although there are loads and loads of different X-Men in the comics, you can only choose to control four of them. So, let's see what special powers and stuff each one has to offer...

CYCLOPS

So called because of his strange visor type attachment, Cyclops is able to project a searing hot beam of laser light from his eyeballs, burning right through any baddies that get in its path. Using the correct combination of moves he can also perform the Optic Blast Spin Attack, which is seriously crucial.

WOLVERINE

Our personal favourite because he's so hard, Wolverine has lethal steel claws instead of fingernails which can shred an enemy in the blink of an eye. The claws are really his only weapon, so all his other special moves, such as lunge attacks and spinning slash, revolve around these retractable razors.

NIGHT CRAWLER

Night crawler is a bizarre Panther like character capable of teleporting through solid objects. This is very handy, but unfortunately it leaves him a bit short in the fighting department, as all he can do is kick and jump around. Wimp!

GAMBIT

This bloke is by far the most ridiculous of the lot. Frenchman Gambit kills his enemies by throwing - get this - electrified playing cards at them! He also carries a staff that he slashes and spins around to kill close range bad guys.

VERDICT

The main problem X-MEN is that each of their abilities are used in a very limited form. Nightcrawler has just two special moves and your control is limited to duck, spraing, and slash. If a proper arsenal of fighting moves had been used for you to beat your enemies SF2 style, then this could have been a real winner. Instead, what you've got is a very standard platform romp, with nice graphics that you have limited control over. What is left is an average game with some nice tunes and effects and tasty graphics that don't do very much. A wasted opportunity.

GARTH SUMPTER

X-CELLENT CHARACTERS?

If you're not into Marvel Comics you won't be familiar with the X-Men characters, so here's a quick snippet to tell you just what the heck they are. A bunch of mutated superheroes who, due to being bitten by radioactive insects/blasted by gamma rays/experimented on by the government etc, have acquired amazing mutant powers and terminally silly names like Gambit, Nightcrawler and Wolverine. Brought together by some dodderly old bloke in a wheelchair, the X-Men constantly have to save the world from an equally mutated band of super-villains and, in particular, the ever-devious Magneto. And he's been up to his old tricks again...

THE X-CITING STORY?

Magneto has devised an evil plan to infect the world's computers with a deadly virus - but to succeed he needs the X-Men out of the way. So, he transmits the virus to the X-Men's secret HQ on Earth and gains control of the computer that generates their holographic training ground. With the X-Men trapped inside the deadly world of holograms and Magneto in control of the game, our mutant heroes will have to use all their special powers to escape!

Seeya, sad bad-dies! They're so thick - dah!

That man's got a vine growing out of his head!

Uh-oh - face-off time for an X-Man.

You've died. That's quite sad, really.

VERDICT

Not being a comics fan like some other writers, I was able to approach the X-Men game without stars in my eyes - and it's a good job too. X-Men is a credible conversion of the popular comic characters, but gameswise it doesn't offer much that the majority of decent platform beat'em-ups don't already. The main hook is the ability to control different characters with unique abilities, but I must confess it's a novelty that doesn't do a great deal for me. You tend to stick with your fave character and only swap when absolutely necessary, and it soon becomes routine. X-Men looks and sounds great and plays better than the majority of games in this genre, but don't expect anything much above average.

X-CRUCIATING?

The clever thing about X-Men is that you're not limited to controlling just one character. Each super hero has unique special abilities, that you'll need to use to get past some of the game's trickier obstacles. Nightcrawler's teleportation powers are ideal for getting past brick walls and things so it's a good job, that you can swap between the four characters as many times as you like. Simply pause the game to bring up the X-Menu, select one of the other three heroes and presto! You're transformed into the new character! You may have to swap characters fairly often, since their special powers, like their energy, are limited and need a rest every now and then to recharge. Oh, and some of the other X-Men make guest appearances in the form of special smart bombs (they whizz on and kill all the baddies for you when summoned) along with Marvel Girl, who puts you back on the map with her tractor beam eyes when you fall off.

MEGADRIVE

PROS:

Excellent atmosphere and good all-round feel.

CONS:

A bit fiddly at times, and we've seen most of this before.

GRAPHICS

Nice X-Men sprites and backdrops, but nothing special.

THEY'RE TINY! THEY'RE TOONY! AND THEY ALL STAR IN THIS GREAT MEGADRIVE PLATFORM THRASH!

Cartoon rabbits indulging in spring-cleaning? Whatever next! Top Toon Buster Bunny has been given the thankless task of tidying up the Acme Looniversity and, as he toils away, our lad happens upon a tatty old piece of paper that's been stuffed behind the radiator. The paper shows an island which Buster finds to recognise. Nasty Montana Max, on the other hand, knows exactly

So you've got a pretty straightforward task ahead of you, yes? Not at all! Montana Max, in order to keep you busy while he goes off in search of all the lovely loot, has enlisted his two dastardly chums, Dr. Gene Splicer and Elmyra. Dr. Splicer has invented a special helmet which brainwashes the wearer into doing the bidding of whoever holds the remote control. Elmyra has been given the job of kidnapping Babs Bunny, Fifi and Shirley The Loon, and Buster must rescue all of his pals as well as find the treasure to complete the game. A busy bunny this lad certainly is!

SPICE 'N' DICE

Dr. Gene Splicer can be found at the end of certain levels, holding captive one of your Toon chums! Each friend has a special helmet on his head which Splicer has fitted to control their minds, and Buster must jump on the dastardly doc's head a number of times to make him drop the remote control which controls the helmet, thereby releasing your buddy from Splicer's grip.

Look out Buster -- a rake! Doh! What a silly bunny.

VERDICT

I must admit that I was expecting a straight conversion of the SNES version of this game and was bum faced when I realised that this was not the Tiny Toons that I was expecting. However, I soon warmed to the game because it takes all the best elements of it's cutesy SNES counterpart like superb cartoon-style graphics and a simple yet demanding gameplay. All the puzzles within the game are progressive and there are nice touches too! Like the way Buster toters when he's on the edge of a hill or platform and the way he runs through lines of carrot, his legs just a cartoon blur. All these details reflect the fact that the game has been put together properly and is the reason why Tiny Toons' simple class will just shine out!

GARTH SUMPTER

VERDICT

Those of you expecting a conversion of the SNES game, forget it -- this is a brand new title, with the only similarities being the characters. There's been a lot of time spent getting the graphics right, and although there's nothing fresh in the gameplay I still found myself glued to the screen. It could have been tougher -- the fact that the player is given infinite continues AND a password system doesn't help matters much -- but for sheer enjoyment, Tiny Toon Adventures -- Buster's Hidden Treasure is up with the good 'uns.

REVIEW

by NAXAT

▶ £40.00

OUT: On import, Thanks to Console Plus (0532 500445) for the review cartridge.

Everyone knows that us Brits are the topsters when it comes to the wacky world of Formula 1 racing. This happens, in a strange way, explains the Japanese need for racing games. Through these, Johnny Foreigner can act out his nation's fantasies of motor racing glory. So get that helmet on, rev your V12 and let rip on the road!

VROOM! VROOM!

There are loads of racing games already available for the Super NES, so the team behind Battle Grand Prix have decided to make their effort a bit different by giving it a top-down overhead view. The left and right controls rotate the car as it hares around the track, instead of steering it in the more conventional way, giving it an almost Micro Machines-esque feel. However, this is far more of a "serious" race game, and as such is stuffed with options.

SCREECH! SCREECH!

The player can select one of three race modes—Survival, Champion or VS. Survival is a pretty simple knockout contest; should the player finish too late in the rankings, he's out of the race. Champion is you racing for points on all the top circuits of the world. VS mode is a two-player head-to-head race. After this, it's time to choose your driver, then it's team selection malarkey all the way as you pick your favourite sponsor—if you've chosen wisely, he'll be the one with the most money available to invest in your car and give you a better all-round chance.

VERDICT

Blimey, what's this? Another racing game on the SNES! Battle Grand Prix has some great ideas in it, but unfortunately it's been completely ruined, mainly by the badly-implemented control system. The track scrolls so quickly and the car turns so erratically it's commonplace to oversteer not by accident, but just simply because the game is at fault. There's also the problem that all of the options are in Japanese, so you can't tell which teams and drivers are any good. All in all, Battle Grand Prix is a rather dull and insipid affair best avoided.

PAUL RAND

Selecting your driver and the team you wish to race for is a simple affair, as you can probably guess from this screenshot!

CRASH! CRASH!

It's possible to modify the weight, steering, tyres, suspension, brakes, transmission and, of course, engine of your speedy steed before each race, setting yourself up in accordance with the track itself and also the weather. However, the better the components, the more easily they wear out (there's logic for you), and the more visits to the pits required per race.

SUPER NES

PROS:
Plenty of options and tracks to tackle

CONS:
Poor responsiveness and bad handling of the car ruin the game.

GRAPHICS

FINAL FIGHT

The Mega CD has been without a contender to beat Final Fight for the beat 'em up crown...until now.

The Mad Gear gang are a touch unhappy. Up until a few months ago their 'business' was running very smoothly; people were handing over their cash like there was no tomorrow, others were joining their ranks and any who refused to do either were being bounced off bridges. That was until Mike Haggard was elected the new Mayor. In one fell swoop Haggard cleared the city of the Mad Gear's crime, almost as quickly as they had plagued it. The Gears were furious; there was no way they could carry on now, so something just had to be done!

Mike Haggard could hardly believe his ears. His lovely daughter Jessica, kidnapped by the Mad Gears and her safe return guaranteed only in exchange for the mayor's leniency. However, the ex-Streetfighter champion does not take kindly to threats and has decided that along with his pals Cody and Guy, he's going to get her back before the Mad Gears can even work out how much cash they want for the lovely lass.

Oo 'eck - a strange spooky hand.

It's 9:30 and Anglin's having trouble with the ticket inspector again.

LEVELS GALORE!

Metro City is made up of six different areas, each guarded by an incredibly hard end-of-level baddy. If you battle your way through to the end of the Slum level, you'll find yourself up against Damnd. This guy's pretty easy - just keep moving and watch out for all his pals that will be running around the screen. The second level is the Subway. Once you've made it past all the drug-crazed killers on the Underground, you'll have to take on the might of Sodom, who can be a bit of a git. Don't just stand in front of him when he's got his swords or you'll end up a kebab! When he runs, pick him off with flying kicks.

West Side is the location for level 3, the big guy at the end of this is one of the biggest in the entire game. Edie is a huge and rather crooked copper. Looking somewhat similar to the Big Boss man in WWF, Edie is armed with a truncheon and a mean six-shooter. The best way to deal with him is to stick close and use throws. The industrial area makes up level 4 (this is the level that was missed out of the SNES conversion).

There are some really tricky bits here, including a very awkward fiery floor bit. The guardian here is an ex-army type called Rolento, whose hobbies include working for the Mad Gears and lobbing grenades at anyone trying to close them down, so look out! It's best to keep jumping around and watch the grenades intently. The penultimate level takes place at the Bay Area. This is full of knife-wielding thugs and loads of leather clad girls. The king of the Bay Area is none other than Abigail. Don't be misled by his girly name, this guy is rock hard. Just pepper him with punches and try to jump out of his way when he runs across the screen. The final area is Uptown. There may be no uptown girls, but there certainly are loads of hoodlums to be dispensed with and when you finally get there it's time to face the big guy. He'll start off in a wheelchair and once you've knocked him out of that, he'll pull out his crossbow. If you're quick enough, though, you can punch the arrows away and then dive in on him. Be careful though, Jessica is his hostage.

CONTROLS

Look at that for a speed blur.

Right on the chin.

Look at the air on that kick.

ON THE OTHER HAND

FINAL FIGHT SNES

It's been available for a while now and it's excellent. However, there are only two characters, five levels and no two player option. It may not be perfect, but it's not too far off.

DIFFERENT CHARACTERS

The main drawback with the SNES version of Final Fight was the lack of Guy (or Cody if you bought Final Fight Guy). Luckily though the Mega CD version has all three characters in. In case you've missed it, here's the profile on the lads.

CODY

Occupation: Streetfighter/all-round top boy.
Height: 5'11"
Weight: 187lb
Cody's speciality is the ancient art of Karate. His exceptional speed means that he can dodge a lot more blows than Haggar and then stun opponents with his considerable strength. Haggar and Guy can only throw knives, but Cody's expertise means that he can slash with them, causing a lot more damage.

HAGGAR

Occupation: Mayor/ ex-Streetfighter
Height: 6'8"
Weight: 297lb
Being the ex-Streetfighter that he is, Haggar is something of a powerful lad and has a tendency to slam his opponents into the pavement. He has a considerable array of moves, including his doubleariat which was supposedly copied by Zangief of Streetfighter II fame – blimey!

GUY

Occupation: Ninja
Height: 5'10"
Weight: 158lb
Guy's main attribute is his speed, used to confuse opponents whilst he attacks with a superb combination of moves. His strength isn't tops though, so you'll have to work hard to win through!

VERDICT

Ever fancied buying your own Final Fight coin-op? Well forget that, the Mega CD version is even better! Capcom have shoe-horned absolutely every aspect of the arcade original onto the CD. There have been no compromises anywhere – all three characters are in there, all six levels AND the two player mode! The gameplay has aged superbly and after nearly three years this is still as playable as it ever was, not to mention damned hard! The fight action just never lets up and not once is there even a hint of slowdown. Final Fight also displays some of the fastest disc access times I've seen on a home CD machine and this gives the game that really polished, arcade feel. Forget Streetfighter II – THIS is the best coin-op conversion ever!

WEAPONS AHOY!

Seeing as Cody and the rest of the bunch are somewhat outnumbered, it's perfectly acceptable for them to use any object they find lying around on the floor with which to do in the Mad Gear gang. And it just so happens that there are all manner of rather nasty weapons scattered around the landscape.

The first thing you'll come across is the knife. This is handy for lobbing at enemies but if you're controlling Cody, then you can also slash people with it. For the slightly more brutal amongst there are even sections of lead piping lying idle that can be used to bludgeon members of the Mad Gear into submission.

VERDICT

Glowing praise from Mr Anglin there, and that's hardly surprising, considering he's as mad about Final Fight as I am about Kick Off! This is indeed the fine conversion that the lad says! Everything's in there - the excellent graphics (all the characters are extremely impressive, as are the many moody backdrops), the plethora of meaty tunes and sound effects, and the frenetic beat 'em up action.

There's the two-player mode and third character which the SNES version didn't have, and an extra level that even the coin-op didn't possess! It's expensive, yes, but you're going to have to expect to pay slightly over the odds for Mega CD games in these early stages. And you certainly should buy this - it's the best Mega CD title to date!

SAD FOLK START HERE

GIT

If you can't make it up to Sodom then something is seriously wrong. Maybe you'd be better off leaving your Mega CD to one side and attending the odd garden fete like real mayors. But if you need my help then try using your special attack when you're surrounded.

GARTH

NOW, YOU'RE GETTING BETTER

Well if you've made it this far you're really starting to get to grips with Haggard and the boys. Keep on your toes 'cos things get harder now. When you're up against Edie, throw the smaller baddies into him to knock him off balance, and most importantly, stick close to him.

AT LAST, YOU'RE WELL 'ARD!

Okay then, the last but one level! When a load of Hollywoods and El Gados coming at you (about mid way through the level) just throw them into each other and they'll be gone in no time. A little tip for Abigail: When he gets mad (he turns red) and runs towards you, use a flying kick.

BONUS STAGES

Every now and again, the boys decide to take a pop at something that can't hit back. First of all it's a lovely new car owned by one of the Mad Gears. You get thirty seconds in which to scrap the car with either your fists or the piece of lead piping that is lying at the side of the car. Fans of Streetfighter II will be more than familiar with this. The second smash stage is in a glass factory. There are panes of glass lined up and you have to destroy them all within the thirty second time limit. If you hit the glass in the right place it will smash instantly, if however you catch it wrong, it will spin round and whack you in the face causing you to lose valuable time.

PICK-UPS

What with all this top scrapping, it's heroes can get a little worn out after a while. Luckily there are plenty of edible items lying around on the floor for your consumption. To pick them up, simply crouch over them and push attack. A range of different food power-ups to refill your energy can be found - some of them are lying around on the floor, but on later levels they will mainly be hidden in barrels and things, so it's always worth destroying a bit of the scenery to try and locate an energy-replenishing bite.

SUPER STRIKE EAGLE

A REAL flight simulation for the Super NES at last? Well, not quite...

It's almost comforting to know that, whenever some tinpot army starts kicking up a stink in a remote corner of the world, we can always rely on Uncle Sam and his lean, mean killing machine to pop over there and get it sorted. Yep, no-one knows more about having wars than the Americans, and these days they've got enough sexy killing technology to make them look hard and cool even when they lose. One such very swish piece of kit is the F-15 Eagle, which has not only struck several blows for truth, justice and the American way (hurrah!) over the years, but has also provided Microprose with a series of flight sim blockbusters on floppy formats and now on Super NES. So, strap yourself in and prepare to kick Gadaffi, Saddam and the rest of the warring loonies out of your no-fly zones!

PUT 'EM UP!

Once an enemy plane gets into firing range, the action switches to a conventional first-person flight sim view. From here you have two options – fight or flee. On full afterburner you may be able to escape and get back on with your mission, but that gobbles up a lot of fuel, so the best option is to go for a quick kill. Once you've got the enemy fighter in your sights and in range, you can attack with your cannon or Sidewinder missiles – the latter of which will only guarantee a kill if you can hold the target in your sights long enough to get a positive lock. Enemy missiles are the main threat here, so be ready with chaff and flares when the onboard computer warns you that a missile is on your tail.

TAKE THAT!

Once you fly over one of the designated ground target, the REAL action begins! In this Mode 7-tastic action section, you fly your Eagle over the rotating landscape below, dodging anti-aircraft fire and trying to knock out the target installation. To do this you need to gain altitude, then swoop down on the target and hit it with either cannon fire or an air-to-ground missile before pulling up again and flying away from the scene. Once you're away and clear, it's on to the next target!

HUD (HEADS UP DISPLAY)

The United Nations flies its flags at half mast when you kick the bucket.

TOP GUN TARGETING

When selecting which targets to attack, bear in mind that each type of installation, when destroyed, may award you a special bonus. Here's a rundown...

OIL REFINERY

(3,000 Points)

Knocking out this target awards bonus fuel to your F-15.

TANKS

(3,000 Points)

100 rounds of cannon ammo are on offer for tank-busting.

ENEMY AIRBASE

(2,000 Points)

Blast the runways to prevent any more MiG fighters launching.

CHEMICAL PLANT

(10,000 Points)

Blow this up for 12 new batches of chaff.

ARMS DEPOT

(5,000 Points)

12 air-to-air missiles are on offer here.

AIR DEFENCE HQ

(1,000 Points)

Knock out one of these and they can no longer launch SAMs.

SCUD MISSILES

(3,000 Points)

12 AGM missiles are the prize for knocking out these.

ARMY HQ

(10,000 Points)

When destroyed, SAM launches are suspended briefly.

TERRORIST CAMP

(5,000 Points)

Destroying this target earns you 12 new flares.

NUCLEAR WEAPONS

(15,000 Points)

Blow this up for a big surprise!

VERDICT

I'm in no doubt that Super Strike Eagle is one of the best and most original games on SNES in quite a while. It's not a real flight simulation in the true sense, but that's all to the good because we all know how slow and boring the more "serious" sims can be. What Microprose has done is transform its F-15 sim into a fast, action-orientated game while retaining some of the original's deeper, sim-like elements – the result is a game with plenty of arcade action on offer, combined with an important tactical side that means you constantly have to think and plan out your next move. With great graphics and oodles of atmospheric sound and speech adding to the fun, I'd recommend that you put Super Strike Eagle right at the very top of your SNES shopping list immediately!

GARY WHITTA

Flying low allows you to avoid AA fire, but it's very risky!

STRIKE EAGLE

GET OFF MY LAND!

Getting hit by enemy fire causes damage, and with limited fuel and weapons available, you'll need to fly back to the friendly airstrip or aircraft carrier to top up supplies and patch up the aircraft. Landing is one of the toughest parts of the game, as you have to come in at exactly the right speed and angle to avoid splashing yourself all over the runway. Once you've landed, repairs and re-arming are automatic, but you can only do this twice in each daytime mission – during night missions you're not allowed to re-arm at all, so the whole kit and caboodle must be done in one go!

JOYPAD JOLLIES!

MISSIONS IMPOSSIBLE

Super Strike Eagle is broken down into four campaigns, each set in a different part of the world and consisting of a number of increasingly tough missions. After a simple training sortie, you begin your tour in Libya, then progress to the Gulf, Korea and, finally, Cuba. As you give each country a good walloping, they cave in and join the United Nations like all good countries should. In each campaign, the map of the theatre (that's a military term for the place where the argy-bargy happens) remains the same, but the targets get tougher and increase in number as the missions go on.

VERDICT

When I first heard that Microprose was converting F-15 Strike Eagle to SNES, I expected something more akin to their flight sims than an arcade action-based blaster. The latter is what you get though, and I for one am not complaining! Each mission is packed with features, not to mention excellent graphics – Mode 7 has been pushed to the limit, and everything fairly rattles along at a pace that may catch you out when you first pick up and play. The downside to Super Strike Eagle is that there's not much diversion from the path laid out in the first level – encounter an enemy plane, fly about on the map screen then switch to Mode 7 view and dive-bomb an enemy installation. Still, what's here is the tops; I'll be tinkering with this for a while yet.

PAUL RAND

You can only launch an AGM missile once it's locked on.

Use the tactical map to find your way around.

Steer your plane towards targets (and away from baddies) on the main map.

TAKE OFF!

Each mission's objective is simple – knock out all the ground targets given in the preflight briefing. There can be just a few, or dozens of different installations targeted for a mission, and they're all protected by SAM missile sites and enemy MIG fighters (which take off from the many airbases), so you've got your work cut out. Most of the flying is done on the large scrolling tactical map – simply point your plane towards your objective, and once you fly over it, you go in for the kill. The real trick with this not to let any of the enemy missiles or planes get too close – chaff and flares can be used to decoy SAMs, but if a persistent MIG pilot gets close enough to engage, you have no choice but to get into a dogfight with him.

SUPER NES

PROS:

A brilliant mix of arcade-style blasting and strategic planning.

CONS:

It's often too hard to land the F-15!

TEAM 17'S TOPPED EVERY OTHER ARCADE GENRE ON AMIGA - NOW THEY'RE TRYING FOR THE CUTESY PLATFORM CROWN!

Just what is it with these guys from Wakefield? A couple of years ago they were writing demos for the Public Domain circuit, and today they're among the hottest Amiga games developers around! Since the excellent Alien Breed back in 1990, Team 17 has become the computer shoot 'em up field with Project-X, kicked Strider into touch with the excellent Assassin and revived the Amiga beat 'em up scene with the Streetfighter-smashing Body Blows. Now though, they face a much tougher challenge, taking on the might of the full-to-overflowing cutesy platform genre! Can they continue their Amiga rollercoaster ride with yet another hit? Only reading this review will reveal all...

ONCE UPON A TIME...

...there was a frog. And that, bar all the usual baloney about a kidnapped girlfriend, an evil witch and a bottle of Lucozade with magical powers, is all you need to know of the Superfrog story. Cutting through all the standard platform-game spiel, what it boils down to is a high-speed, Mario-style platform actioner in the classic tradition. Complete with cape, Superfrog has to leap his way across five worlds before he can banish evil and be re-united with his betrothed. Rabbit!

WORLD HOPPER

Superfrog's quest takes him across five sprawling worlds - the enchanted forest, haunted castle, big-top circus, Egyptian land and finally that old favourite, the ice world. Froggy's objective on each level is simple - dash about the place and collect enough coins to open the magic exit, then find the door and whizz on through! Sounds easy? Don't you believe it. Each world's evil denizens will stop at nothing to turn Superfrog into toad-in-the-hole, and initially the only way you can fight them is to bounce on their heads. Hold on, isn't this all sounding a bit familiar?

VERDICT

Well, I'm impressed. Superfrog comes closer to emulating the look and feel of a classy console platform game than any other Amiga title I've seen. It looks, sounds and plays as good as a top-grade Japanese platformer, and while the likes of Mario and Sonic have the slight edge in terms of atmosphere and character, Superfrog is by far the best thing to happen to the Amiga platform scene in yonks! It thrashes all other contenders in the speed and graphics stakes and, with so many neat touches, Team 17 actually manages to bring some originality to a tired-out old genre. Do not, I repeat do NOT miss Superfrog!

Loom

LucasArts' first console-based fantasy game turns out to be dead dreamy....

Young Bobbin Threadbare has been given a bit of a raw deal for the past sixteen years. He and his best friend, Mother Hetchel, have constantly been refused entry to weaving school. However, Hetchel has a little experience in weaving so she has been teaching Bobbin what she can, from a book that belonged to one of the elders. Suddenly, Bobbin and Hetchel have been summoned by the High Council to appear before them in the sanctuary. What was wrong? Had he and Hetchel been caught with the book? Were they now going to be banished from Loom Island for good? Or were they just going to be sent to the shop?

Loom Island in all its glory.

A STEP IN THE RIGHT DIRECTION

- (1) Arrow: This is used to direct Bobbin and to point at objects before you weave a draft on them.
- (2) Distaff: This is the magic staff that is used to weave all the drafts, it must be found before you can do anything.
- (3) Animation window: This is where all the action takes place.
- (4) Icon box: This shows you what you are currently viewing. Click on it once to walk to it, click on it twice to get the draft from it.

NIGHT VISION

This room shows you how to spin gold, but you can not find out how until you can see in the dark.

Walk off towards the forest.

Go through to the graveyard and walk to the thorn bushes.

When you touch the thorn bushes, a Rabbit will run out and the Owl that was covering the headstone will fly off to catch it.

The importance of the headstone becomes apparent later on in Loom Island.

Go to the first Owl hole and click.

Go to all the holes one after the other. If you don't do the bit with the headstone first, then there will only be Owls in three of the holes. The Owls will give you the draft.

Back to the tent and cast the draft.

Hurray! You can now see, weave gold to your hearts content.

VERDICT

I'm a massive fan of the LucasArts series of adventures and was looking forward to seeing how well that style of game would translate to the new CD format. I'm not disappointed. The two biggest changes are the obvious hike in music quality and the need to swap untold amounts of floppy discs has been negated. Graphically, Loom's a treat, and there's a wonderful story there which unfolds more and more the further you progress. The biggest gripe is the sometimes painful disc accessing, but it's not a massive hindrance and generally you'll swoon over Loom!

PAUL RAND

IT'S DE STAFF MAN

If Bobbin is going to weave drafts, then he'll need to pick up his magic distaff. The distaff is the magical stick of the elders (okay, so Bobbin blagged it) which Bobbin uses to cast his drafts. To use the distaff, you must first point at something and then hit the notes in the right order. However, you do not start with the distaff. Between you and me though, it's hidden in one of the tents on Loom Island, I'm not going to tell you which one though – get the game and find it for yourself!

The village is just beyond that fence. Don't scare those sheep!

The Dragon has quite a horde of gold.

BIT DRAFTY IN HERE, INNIT?

Being a spellcasting weaver isn't the easiest occupation in the world. The amount of drafts you have to learn is bewildering. The simplest draft of all, is the opening and closing draft. You will be given this when you see Hetchel turned into a Swan (?). The most important thing to remember about all the drafts, is that the effects will reverse themselves if the draft is played backwards. The more complicated drafts come later in the game, and their use will often seem rather pointless (like the reflection draft) but they become oh so priceless later on.

That huge machine is the Loom.

This room holds the secret of how to dye wool.

VERDICT

Loom has to be one of the most instantly playable fantasy adventures ever! The simplistic nature of the game means that you can pick it up and start playing right away. However, the excellent graphics and sound in Loom paper over two minor cracks in the game – for one, the disc access time is sometimes horribly slow, and it's not the most difficult of games if you've played a few RPGs before. If you're a bit of a newcomer to the fantasy adventure scene, then Loom will provide you with a solid start to your future gaming endeavours. Well worth looking up.

PAUL ANGLIN

TURBO DUO

Easy to get into, completely absorbing and great fun to boot.

CONS:

Slow disc access times and slightly easy gameplay.

An on-board camera, relays the explosion back to the craft. There are several automated commands to set the beast on the right track whilst you get on with the fighting.

THE SCOUT

Walking Height: 15 meters Minimum Standing Height: 12 meters Width (front): 11.5 meters Length (side): 13 meters Std. Cruising Speed: 72 km/hr Max. Emergency Speed: 95 km/hr Max Turning Rate: 72 degrees/sec Offensive Weapons: Small Cannon and Seeker Defensive Weapons: On-board ECM, Sparkle Cloak, Mines, ECM Buoy, Alarm Buoy and EMI Decoy Crew: 1

SPEC: Designed for reconnaissance, the Scouts' excellent manoeuvrability and speed allow it to move quickly into enemy territory. It's compact and ideal for advanced investigation of unknown regions. The Scouts' longer battery life means that they can operate outside the power NET for greater periods. With its incredibly long stride, the machine can often out run enemies even after it's been detected.

Infogrames had the idea of players controlling huge battling robots in their aging Amiga game Metal Masters. The French chose to waste the brilliant concept on a feeble beat 'em up. Last month Activision gave the gameplay a serious boost with Battletech on SNES, but that too fell flat on its rusty ass! Now, simulation kings Electronic Arts have taken up the challenge and, quite frankly, I can't imagine a better company for the gig! With the Earth invaded by aliens the only way we could repel their huge machines was to unleash the huge stockpile of nuclear weapons. Now the monsters're back, but they're in for more than they bargained for as the planet's finest brains have managed to rebuild some of the busted bots and turn them around to our side. You're in command now . . .

VERDICT

Not too long ago, I toddled off down to the Trocadero in Piccadilly Circus and had my first game of Walker on the Virtuality set-up they've got down there. It was great, and I wanted to do the same on my home machine. Xenobots isn't the same as that top game - for one, it's about ten million times harder to control than the VR version - but once I'd waded through the manual a couple of times and generally tinkered with the controls, I got well stuck in to the action. And there's a lot of action; massive robots parade all over the place, looking to whoop your ass in a serious manner. The enemies are well-drawn, which adds to the effect of 'being there' and generally, I lapped up what Xenobots had to offer.

PAUL RAND

GET IN ON THE ACTION

This is the awesome NET Builder's cockpit. The control panels vary in design for each type of robot, but most of the readouts are the same.

- Radar.
- Helm - Shows the speed and direction your machine is going.
- Power Panel - Keep a check on your NET supply and battery back-up when out of range.
- Operation - Manual or Automatic, computer assisted.
- CRT - This window shows an overview of the battle and positions of both sides battlers.
- PDS - The display unit's where all your messages and control options are printed. If something won't work, here's where to find out why!
- Defence Weapons.
- Weapons Status - Receive a direct hit and your weapons are usually first to go.

- Sensor Readings - What's happening all around you? Keeps abreast of the action.
- Weapons Panel.
- Weight And Volume Gauges.
- Map Functions - Scroll around the map or zoom in and out.
- Cargo Panel - Check on that important load.
- Magnification - Zoom in or out of the camera display!
- Camera Controls - Pan 360 degrees.
- Navigation Panel.
- Auto Commands - Pick a task for your battle beast to perform whilst you nip off to check on other business.

MISSION IMPOSSIBLE?

The main objective is to save the planet, but take things slowly, one step at a time. The whole world's been invaded and you'll have to claim it back piece by piece. You don't have much choice at the beginning, as there are only two missions available to you, but the more you complete the further you'll be able to travel. Some missions require you to control a huge amount of Xenobots and it can be hard to keep track of all your hardware.

MUSICAL CHAIRS

Playing Xenobots is a bit like being in command of a huge American Football team. Each robot has its own functions and you can switch between each warrior and jump into the hot-seat of any of your machines at the push of a button. All the droids can be placed on autopilot and left to their own devices or you can use the auto commands (which tell them to perform certain tasks like shadow a builder bot and protect it from attack). The enemy have the same robots as you, so the idea's to extend your power NET towards theirs and destroy their main base. Sounds simple? You just wait, mate!

What's that in the distance? It's locked on and ready to die!

Try getting in the ring with that massive mutha!

Check those vital stats.

Cripes! He's close. I hope he's wearing protection!

VERDICT

This is more like it! Ever since the Manga films captured our imagination with gigantic robotic warfare I've been ripping my hair out for a game that would bring it all home and into my personal computer - and here it is! The only problem with Xenobots is that there's much too much to take in all at once. With all the controls at your disposal it would be impossible to get any enjoyment out of the game without first reading the manual fully. But persevere, adopt a style and you'll get into the game in a big way. Xenobots is by no means perfect, but it'll certainly do for now!

We've got FIVE copies of the TERMINATOR on Super NES to give away!

Liked the tip-of-the-top Terminator roundup we brought you last month? Course you did, and we thought it would be quite a good idea to round off that super-excellent batch of Arnie-related reviews and news with a spanking good competition. And here it is! Five lucky winners will each be waltzing off with a copy of Mindscape's brand new Super NES conversion of The Terminator, reviewed last issue. Not too shabby, eh? And just to make this compo even MORE scintillating, we've made it biro-bustingly easy to win, too!

Terminators are well 'ard, as opposed to our competition, which is quite easy.

WHAT DO YOU DO?

Unfortunately, chief crayon-pusher Jon Billington is a bit thick, especially early in the mornings, and when we handed him some lines of dialogue from the original Terminator movie to use as headings in one of the reviews he, like a big fool, dropped them all on the floor and all the words got mixed up. Here at CVG, though, we've turned this problem into an opportunity and made the mix-up the basis of the competition! What we want you to do is identify the five jumbled-up lines of dialogue taken from the Terminator movie below, unscramble them and tell us how they should read. So here we go...

1. Night a nice walk for.
2. Want with live me you if come to.
3. Today I close may early.
4. Too you love I sweetheart.
5. Says storm he there's a coming.

You could be playing this for FREE if you're lucky enough!

We could tell you all about the game here, but you'd be better off reading the review in the last ish. Go on then!

Easy, eh? Once you've got them all unjumbled, jot them down on a postcard or the back of a sealed envelope and send them to:

F1 EXHAUST HEAT 2

F1 EXHAUST HEAT HELD ITS OWN IN THE SNES ARENA – DOES THIS SEQUEL COME UP TO SCRATCH?

Ah, the smell of burning rubber. The irritating way that those petrol fumes get up your nose. Infuriatingly twisty tracks with chicanes just in the wrong place. It can only be Formula One racing. Can you rise from the depths of Group C? Well, it won't be an easy ride. You must pit your driving skills up against the best in each class and beat them in order to move to bigger and better machines. This is no game for brain-dead throttle jockeys either, as you'll also be responsible for spending your winnings on the car and even have your own team of lab technicians to improve some of your race machine's characteristics – but it all costs cold cash!

The Group C courses – tough, but these are the easiest in the game!

In the lab, you can order all the parts you want – provided you have the cash!

Set the number of laps from here.

The starting grid, and by the looks of it you've got a lot of catching up to do!

WATCH FOR THE WONGA!

All races cost money to enter (with the exception of Moon City), but what is there to do with the winnings? Well, you could get your lab technicians to improve your car – but it isn't cheap. You can alter up to six different aspects of your car's performance – from tyre construction and aerofoils, to the brakes and engine power. This does take time however but the more money you give the lab boys, the faster they can get the job done. An improved machine means improved chances, and you'll need all the help you can get!

The arrow shows where the next car is.

Other cars rarely follow a racing line.

You can race in any of three leagues.

Yeah! You've won some cash!

Try getting round that at three hundred miles an hour! What more could you want?

THRASH FOR CASH!

So where does your Formula One career begin them? Well, with a small pot of money, access to a smart laboratory and a bog-standard car. Ahead of you lie eight tracks of progressive difficulty, from the relatively simple Moon City (like Tetbury turned on its side) through to the practically impossible White Night. Starting off with a couple of qualifying laps, you can pat yourself heartily on the back if you manage to qualify in any of the first five grid positions.

VERDICT

As a lad, I always dreamed of owning the biggest Scalextric kit in the world. This isn't it, but it's not far off. Not the most realistic racer around, the cars seem to work more on the point-and-thrust steering method used in F-Zero than any F1 cars I've ever seen. That aside, this game is HARD. I mean REALLY HARD. It took a couple of hours to really get to grips with Exhaust Heat 2, and even then I just scraped my first win. It is extremely addictive though, and that's what'll make people persevere and eventually succeed.

WHAT STEERING WHEEL?

Although the other racers drive very fast, they don't always follow a true racing line. In fact, it seems they have most fun when weaving about madly trying to crash into you from all angles, including behind. Thankfully, you can tell when someone is about to shunt you by the implementation of a handy arrow which shows their point of entry onto the screen.

Made it! F1 racing is well worth working towards - faster cars with better handling.

The chicanes are just the sort of thing to make you scream with frustration!

The road markings point out the entry to the pit lane.

BREAKING IT DOWN

- 1 Selection icons. These let you highlight the various parts of your car, and check the status of each.
- 2 Current rank of selected section. The higher the number, the better you'll do, by all accounts.
- 3 Downforce. The more downforce the better, as this gives far greater grip on the road.
- 4 General Statistics. These tell you the car's maximum speed, its weight and engine power.
- 5 Engine Power Curve. How much power are you getting at each point through the gears? This simple graph shows all!

VERDICT

F-Zero went down a treat when it first appeared on the Super Nintendo and so for that matter did the original F1 Exhaust Heat when it was released, the main reasons being the superb graphic styles and the generally pacy action held within those carts. Here's the sequel to Exhaust Heat and it's another good 'un; as you can see here, it's pretty pictures central, but what you can't see and fully appreciate is the gameplay - it's rock hard! It's worth sticking with though, because F1 Exhaust Heat II is a long-lasting challenge.

CHUCK JUNIOR ISN'T EVEN OUT OF NAPPIES YET AND ALREADY HE'S GOT TO LIVE UP TO HIS DAD'S REPUTATION...

CHUCKROCK2: SON OF CHUCK

It's old man Withers, the guy who runs the fun park!

Life in the Jurassic period wasn't all it's cracked up to be. You got attacked by Velociraptors every time you went down to the shop, you had only cave drawings to entertain you or the odd kidnapping, courtesy of some sadly-named villain, who in this case, is none other than Brick Jagger (please!) and the hostage is Chuck Rock himself. So who will save the prehistoric hero? Only Chuck's lovable offspring, Chuck Jnr. The little babba has learned a lot from his Pa and now it's time to put it into practice.

TEETHING RINGS

Not all of the dinosaurs in Chuck Rock 2 are after you. Here's some of the helpful ones... Reggie the rock eater will gobble up any rocks that litter the path. Whack one side of a water hydrant and a jet of water will burst out of the other side, killing everything in its path. Chuck Junior can use Susie the Spider's web to bounce onto higher levels; but be careful you don't bounce on it too long or Susie will come out and nab you. Or why not use Thomas the Turtle? Tommy sits at the edge of water or lava pools and when you step onto his back he will take you across.

A nice helping hand.

RUSKS

Chuck Rock Junior starts the game with a full baby bottle at the bottom right of the screen. In case you hadn't worked it out, it's his energy bar. When Junior gets hit he will lose a little off his life meter. The only way to top it up is to find the baby bottle icons that are scattered around the landscape. As well as energy icons, you can also collect points that are strewn around. They look like sweet wrappers and award different amounts of goodies depending on which colour they are. They're inside lots of secret rooms where they will be in abundance. Top up your points and maybe even get an extra life into the bargain.

BABY BELL

He may only be a youngster but Chuck Junior has already learned a variety of moves with which to rescue his beloved Pa. There are certain baddies that can't be killed but can only be avoided. Simply pull down on the joystick and Junior will stand on his club whilst the dinosaur walks harmlessly by. Not all of the dinosaurs are dangerous however. Come across a friendly one, climb on its back by pulling down on the joystick, and the dino will then take all the hits for you. And baby Chuck will have to leap over chasms, some of which are ginormous. In these cases, clear them by the use of a swinging rope; push up to grab it when it swings above your head and push up again to jump off.

VERDICT

Chuck Rock 2 - Son Of Chuck bears very little resemblance to the original, in so far as this one's actually quite good! The boring and somewhat limited figure of Chuck has been replaced with the fun and lively Junior. Baby Chuck has been given some real cartoon features to make him one of the most adorable 16-bit babbas yet seen. Obviously, gameplay differs hugely from the original and no bad thing either! But even though Chuck Rock 2 is different to its old and rather dodgy predecessor, it's still nothing more than a cutesy platform game. There are no real features to set it apart from anything else on the Amiga. Not one to be put at the top of the shopping list, but it should certainly be on it somewhere.

King Of The Monsters was a roaring success on the Neo Geo and now it's rampaging all over a Megadrive near you! Take control of one of four towering titans and bash the balls off a gigantic opponent whilst trashing as much of the city that you're scrapping in as possible. Sounds like fun? You'd better believe it! But whether the game lives up to the heady heights of the incredible Neo Geo version is anybody's guess. It's just as well we're hear to spill the beans for you now. ROWEAARRRHG!

THE NEOGEO MONSTER HIT MAKES AN APPEARANCE ON THE MEGADRIVE! BUT IS IT A SNARLING SUCCESS?

THE BOYS!

Pick up the joypad and take control of one of four titanic terrors. You couldn't get a more diverse crew, so here's what you can expect to be up against:

The bulkiest of the four monsters, Geon is the massive cross between a dragon and a dinosaur! Standing taller than a tower block, this gargantuan grappler can breathe fire and loves to get in close, gnawing opponents into submission and literally taking massive chunks out of their bodies!

Naturally Rocky's as tough as stone and runs across the screen extremely quickly, attacking with expert wrestling techniques. The Clothes Line is a favourite of this blockhead. And, by concentrating all his energy, Rocky can hurl huge boulders from his chest to flatten other fighters.

He may be the shortest monster, but Beetle Mania will scrap 'till he drops. Armed with a huge spiked horn on his head, the insect is deadly when he charges towards you. He can even shoot the spike at you when you're least expecting it, skewering you into submission!

Astro's the only fighter remotely human. The huge hulk is constantly smiling, even when he hits you with his warp-speed flying kick! Astro's also armed with a powerful laser that shoots from his body at will!

CRASH AND BURN

The fights are spread over eight stages and four different cities. Everything from cargo ships, jet fighters, office blocks and tanks to skyscrapers, speeding passenger trains and the pride of Castle City, an ancient construction protected by law, can be crushed, smashed and trashed! How you do it is your business – whether it's in Monster versus Monster mode, One or Two Player fun or pure Massive Destruction setting, the results are pretty much the same. TOTAL CARNAGE!

Quick, someone pass me the Waspez!

My money's on Geon to win this grapple.

Astro doesn't know what's hit him.

VERDICT

Asking the MD to match the Neo in the graphics department is impossible, but what really gets my goat is that nobody's even tried! The animation in King Of The Monsters is appalling, sound is monotonous and the variety of locations negligible. Everything just becomes so repetitive. Smack each other about a bit and then go for the pin. You never get your opponent down first or second go, but anything over three attempts and you should be in business. It looks like monster mashing's going to stay firmly out of MD owners' reach. Pity.

STEVE KEEN

MONSTER MASH!

Here's a great set of attacking combos to get you in the mood for mashing!

Grab the big boy and hurl him forwards for a throw.

Run by pressing C and then Clothes Line the sucker with B.

Smack that plane, pick it up and chuck it at the baddy!

Pick the loser up with B and throw him again with A.

Celebrate in style whilst the other guy experiences real pain!

Finish off the bozo with a crushing jump on the chest, A+B - hurrah!

VERDICT

I remember when you couldn't get into the CVG games room for the absolute horde of people crowding round Neo Geo King Of The Monsters. It was always going to be a pretty impossible task for the 16-bit Sega to recreate a game designed for a machine the power of the Neo. As you'd imagine, Megadrive King Of The Monsters is a pale imitation of its big brother, with weak graphics, poor sound and unimpressive gameplay. I rapidly became bored with this title - you'd do worse than leave it alone.

PAUL RAND

NO HOLDS BARRED

Each of the guys has his own moves and all three of the Megadrive's joystick buttons are used to the full in exasperating combinations. Everything from punching, kicking, gouging and biting to body slamming, knee dropping, throwing and frying is allowed. Because of the mayhem involved the city chiefs have sectioned off a large part of the town with an electrified wall that surrounds the fight and even that can be brought into your tactics! Set about your enemies with relentless ferocity and then pin them down for the three count, that's what this battle's all about!

Geon takes Rocky to the limit!

Double trouble for Bettle Mania.

Listen to the guy - GET UP!

POWER TO THE PEOPLE

Get the monsters in a particularly fearsome grapple and they'll chuck up a power pill. Collect more of these and your beast will be transformed into a super-charged terror and special projectiles will change up to two times the size! Rocky can get two rocks to shoot or even a massive boulder. All the other characters' weapons will soar up in power too!

ON THE OTHER HAND

CYBORG JUSTICE: £40.00

Take charge of massive, self-constructed robots in a fight to the death with other droids. Interchange parts for better weapons. More moves than you've ever seen in any other MD game. This one's totally awesome!

TUFF ENUFF

Could it be true? Do we at last have a real contender to Streetfighter's crown?

At last it's here, a game actually good enough to tread in Streetfighter 2's magnificent shadow. What are we talking about? Why, Tuff Enuff of course! Jaleco's gigantic cart has scorched a flaming trail all the way from Japan and we've been dribbling at the gills ever since we saw early versions of it months ago. The cart's been bursting out all over the place in Japan where it's known as Dead Dance, and you'll be able to get your slice of the action when the official UK version is released over here in August. But until then, slip on your favourite reading slippers, pull up your comfiest armchair and settle back as CVG takes you to the outer limits with what could turn out to be the SF2 beater we've all been praying for!

Yerse! Have that lard ass!

VERDICT

Tuff Enuff deserves to be up there with the greatest beat 'em ups of all time, in fact it's the second best game of the genre we've seen! Loads of moves that 'power-up' the further you progress and presentation that would make a Capcom executive weep! The moves are very easy to perform, although it'll take you some time to break out of SF2 habits, but once you do you'll be rewarded with a game that'll keep you brawling for months. If we dare say that SF2 is beginning to lose its appeal then Tuff Enuff is certainly its successor!

STEVE KEEN

Syoh's second power-up.

YOU'VE BEEN FRAMED

What raises Tuff Enuff right above all the other SF2 copy-cats is that it's taken Capcom's successful formula and attempted to improve upon it, instead of simply ripping it off! One feature is the video replay – the computer records the end of the deciding bout so that you can view the killing blows in slo-mo or normal speed when the action is over. You can even rewind it! However, it only stores the last few seconds, which mostly result in a tactical stand off and only one small hit being produced. Hardly exciting, but can produce the occasional gem!

IN AT THE DEEP END

One of the best things about Tuff Enuff is that there's no messing about. You can jump straight in at the violence end and not bother with a ton of menus and settings. All you've gotta do is decide which mode you want to play in; the three on offer are 'Vs. CPU', allowing you to play against all six of the enemy fighters except for the ultimate boss, Jado. Second up is '1p Vs 2p', the traditional one-on-one combat scenario and finally, the best of all, 'Story', where you have to fight your way from the Colosseum, past your buddies and up Jade's tower, through all his henchmen, to his private chambers at the top. No one knows what the boss looks like and there's no way to fight him without going through the other guys first! Now there's a challenge!

Deadly and quick.

SAD FOLK START HERE

"It's easy to see why you don't have a life! Still struggling with this clown? You might as well forget ever getting up to the beefy boys at the top of the tower. All you have to do to get past this guy is attack from the air with hip punches. Get behind Rei and rip him apart!"

NOW, YOU'RE GETTING BETTER

"Well you've made it to the first of the really tough boys. Gajet's the first bully to give you a real challenge, but he has a weakness, he's a sucker for throws. Get in close and paste his ass!"

PAUL

AT LAST, YOU'RE WELL' ARD!

"There's no denying that Jado's an awesome adversary. He's more uptight than Mike Tyson's cell-mate! However, if you can leap over his head and take him from behind with devastating throws and uppercuts you'll win through eventually."

DID YOU SPILL MY PINT?

Enough guff! What about the fighters? Well, easy they are not! Get a load of these specs and tremble in your wellyes at the sight of their collective awesomeness! Fastest killing times are recorded!

BEANS

Could quite easily be full of wind, but the American Cyberpunk moves faster than a cheetah tied to the bonnet of an XJ220! Furious fist over fist punching, electro kicks and shocking punches are all part of his repertoire. FKT: 23secs.

DOLF

Another sick Libyan hell-bent on war, Dolf needs a bazooka and knife to take on the weakest of opponents. He's versatile and switches between both with ease. FKT: 24secs.

REI

Looks like a lass and scraps like a girl's blouse. This top fights with Japanese clogs on and rolls balls of energy across the screen. Iron shoes are Rei's special weapon and, although slow, this warrior's amazingly unpredictable with so many specials, including flaming shield, dragon banner, and hand of force! FKT: 29secs.

GAJET

One of the toughest to be found in the Tower. Incredibly powerful and fast. Thunderous fists and scorching tactics exacted with devastating damage and accuracy. Watch his sneaky double kicks too! FKT: 22secs.

SIROU

A top class Ninja with lightning reflexes. Sirou will cut you out of the sky nine times out of ten if you try and jump in on him. He's on of the hardest to master with his razor sharp sword and white-hot burning shield. Don't be put off using specials, they take time to perform, but they are the key to success. FKT: 24secs.

JADO

Jado, has more special moves than any character seen in any console beat 'em up. Fireball elbow, laser shot, flaming fist, disembowelling fist, fireball and fire shield are some of the deadly moves we've come up against and there could be a lot more! FKT: 7secs.

TUFF ENUFF

POWER TO THE PEOPLE

One brilliant feature of the game is the changing specials. The more thugs you defeat the greater your special attacks become! Zazi and Syoh receive huge flaming dragon's heads as fire balls and a massive deluge of blue flame for their shields, whilst Vortz's battle moves get even mightier and Kotono's knives turn into streaking red razors, amongst others!

Go Boy! G!

That'll roast his chestnuts!

DESTROYED VIEW DECK

The fourth section of the Tower has been almost totally destroyed in a war and Gajet's really annoyed about it! There's no doubt it's a good view through the crumbling plaster though!

SETTING THE SCENE

Here's the perilous path to the top. Fight your way through the coliseum, past the gate keeper and up the Tower to Jado's pad. Here's what can you expect to find in every room!

WOODEN FLOOR

Rel's stage is full of burning incense and flame filled ornaments, but that's as far as his meditation and relaxation goes!

TOWER'S GATE

Beans is the gate keeper. His location's covered in rubble and he fights dirty!

ICBM SILO

Dolf makes a dramatic entrance on top of a missile and springs down on you. A tricky fight, but once you've sussed his tactics it's a cinch.

NINJA'S ROOM

Here's where Sirou, the deadly martial artist, practices his art. The floors are padded but that's no compensation if you hit the deck!

Crushed and defeated Syoh style!

K's one mean mutha, but so's your bad ass!

VERDICT

We've had this cart plugged in from dusk to dawn and it shows no sign of letting up on the action! Unlike SF2 all the moves are really easy to execute and you'll pick up the basics in no time. Dig a little deeper and you'll really release the game's true potential as a beat 'em up MONSTER! The only downer is that there're only four characters to control and two of those are more or less exactly the same, but don't let that put you off. SF2's still to be beaten, but this'll suit me until the next contender comes along. Bloody brilliant!

PAUL ANGLIN

YOU'VE BEEN FRAMED

What raises Tuff Enuff right above all the other SF2 copy-cats is that it's taken Capcom's successful formula and attempted to improve upon it, instead of simply ripping it off! One feature is the video replay - the computer records the end of the deciding blow so that you can view the killing blows in slo-mo or normal speed when the action is over. You can even rewind it! However, it only stores the last few seconds, which mostly result in a tactical stand off and only one small hit being produced.

SUPER NES

PROS:

NBA ALL-STAR CHALLENGE

Basketball can be an exciting game to watch, but is it really possible to transfer the game's playability on to a console?

FAME AND FORTUNE

Basketball is a true test of skill, accuracy and reflexes, and the best are hard to beat. In NBA All Star Challenge you can leap into the sweaty trainers of any of America's 27 best players (one from each team in the league) and take on one of the remaining 26 in one of five games. All of the games are based on scoring more hoops than your opponent, although oddly enough there is no option to play a straight game of basketball.

Just one of the 27 characters available for a match.

Three Point Shooting – can you complete a full lap?

RISE TO THE CHALLENGE!

You can go one-on-one with an opponent of your choice, or play more interesting games, such as Horse (otherwise known as Donkey). You take a shot at the hoop from anywhere in the half, and if you make it, your opponent must do the same. Miss, and they get a letter (starting with 'H') and get to choose where you shoot from. The loser is the one who misses five times. Other games include 3-Point

Shootout, where you have to fire 25 basketballs from preset positions within a minute, aiming to score with all 25. You can practise your free throws, or even set up an eight-player, one-on-one tournament, should you so desire.

Gary Baskin Coleman

VERDICT

I've never really held out much hope for a realistic basketball game – any sport that requires that much tactile control could never be recreated using a joystick. This one didn't really make me think again, either. There is very little skill involved with scoring – luck seems to play a bigger part than anything else. Even choosing different players seems to have little effect on your game. You can't really fault the look of NBA Basketball; sprites are impressive and backdrops are, well, as you'd expect – akin to a basketball stadium. A great example of professional presentation, NBA will hold your interest for a short amount of time, but soon you'll be looking for something a little more fun. This is one game destined to be forgotten in a week.

GARTH SUMPTER

Whoops! The game looks out for any bending of the rules.

OFF THE PEG

All the games can be tailored to your suiting, with options that allow you to set the finishing point, be it either on a points or timer basis, set the computer skill level or play against a friend.

MEGADRIVE

CONGO'S CAPER

Data East go pre-historic with Congo

Created by the hands that gave us Joe And Mac: Caveman Ninja, Congo's Caper journeys further into pre-history, with young Congo out to collect diamonds. Armed with a club, his aim in life is to traversing the eight-way scrolling levels which make up his world. However, out to put an end to his gem-collecting antics are a whole host of jealous Neanderthals and dinosaurs, all of whom want a piece of the action – or Congo's ass at the very least.

Congo, girly and their chimp alter-egos, altogether at last! Aw, isn't it sweet?

Thanks, Mr Dactyl, for bringing me swiftly to this diamond-laden level!

BACK TO THE TREES

Congo's world is a cross between the Adventure Island series and the aforementioned Joe And Mac. As he runs across the danger-filled lands our lad must fend off all attacks from the baddies in his quest for gems. If he fails to carry out this relatively simple task, he is sent back down the evolutionary scale to Monkey status, and one more hit after that proves fatal.

ROCK SOLID MATES

Further on into the game, Congo's foes get steadily bigger, and include a huge cavern-dwelling Tyrannosaurus, but help is at hand from a band of heavily-disguised Pterodactyls which lift our primitive hero to previously-inaccessible areas filled with gems. In addition, further assistance comes in the form of little red eggs which, when hit with Congo's club, reveal either more gems or a little red sphere – the latter of which will revert monkey-faced Congo to human form as soon as three are collected.

Heads up! Or down, in this particular case if you want to keep it!

SUPER NES

PROS:

CONS:
This style of game has been done to death already.

VERDICT

What is it with these prehistoric game themes of late? Although very similar to Elite's Joe And Mac, Congo's Caper is by far the more enjoyable of the two games. In terms of playability and graphics, Congo is streets ahead of the Elite offering, but it is still far from the perfect platformer. The action seems a little too laid back, and there's never any great sense of urgency in the proceedings to entice the player to the next stage. Additionally, although there's plenty to see and collect, the action itself is a little too samey, and even the addition of larger creatures fails to add variety. I really wanted to like Congo's Caper as it certainly looks like a superior platform game. Sadly, there's very little meat on the bone.

TECMO IS OFFERING WHAT COULD BE THE MOST COMPLETE SIM EVER - BUT IS ATTENTION TO DETAIL ENOUGH?

TECMO SUPER NBA BASKETBALL

Offering more options than a Cadbury's low-fat chocolate drink, Tecmo's NBA licence aims to be the most complete basketball game released yet. A one or two-player game, NBA allows the player to compete as any one of the twenty-seven teams in the league, and also contains details on some 300 plus players from those teams - more than enough info for all you trivia buffs out there. Once your team has been selected, a close-up of the team captains jumping for possession of the ball is shown before actual play begins. So get ready to slam-dunk with the best of 'em, boy!

H. HAWKINS OF M. RICHMOND
Huh. Just when you get a good run, you lose the ball and have to run all the way back!

SIDEWINDERS

Opting for a conventional side-on viewpoint, a full five-on-five game gives the player full control over the player nearest the ball. Via the joystick's four buttons, a full selection of passes, dummies and shots are effected, including some rather nifty long shots! In addition, the game also recognises the full complement of basketball rules, and the computer-controlled referee is ever alert for signs of dodgy fouls, obstructions and players 'travelling' with the ball. Similarly, if a player is on the receiving end of one too many fouls, he may have to be substituted before he comes a cropper and is suspended for the rest of the season.

Go on, Hawkins!

Yeah! A hoop well shot, that!

SAY WHAT?

Adding to the in-game atmosphere, smatterings of digitised speech also accompany the matches, and for those of you who feel up to attempting a full season in charge of, say, the Lakers, the cart also features a backup battery which allows you to store away your progress mid-season.

Sit down and see out your foul!

VERDICT

NBA contains more than enough moves and features to keep the most ardent basketball fan content, but what it sadly lacks is variety. After all, running up and down a court is hardly pulse-pounding stuff and this proves doubly tedious when the viewpoint remains the same throughout, unlike NCA Basketball and its impressive Mode 7 graphics. There's no doubting that Tecmo's game is a very polished title and worthy of consideration by die-hard Basketball fans, but casual gamers may prefer the slightly more pacy action offered by NCA Basketball.

MICHAEL JORDAN IN FLIGHT

With a nickname like 'Air' you'd expect people to want to keep their distance from Michael Jordan...

On the contrary, most people can't wait to get him to endorse their trainers, food, clothes and this, his latest computer game. The In Flight bit of the title refers to the fact that he spends much of his time in the air pushing balls through hoops in the most spectacular manner possible. For his first appearance in a PC game, programmers ZCT and Pacificameworks have teamed up with the man himself to make the game as realistic as possible. This involved getting his opinion at every stage of development and digitising thousands of pics of the man in action so he can be viewed at any angle in the game.

THREEDOM

Rather than opt for the traditional basketball format, the programmers have based In Flight on the three-on-three game. What that means to non-basketball players is three people a side, which makes for a faster game with more room for trick shots. If you're not quite up to the $12,000,000 a year salary standard, Michael's on hand with a few snippets of information. A few plays are described in the manual, but the best tactic once you've got the ball is, simply to put your head down and run like the wind.

HOT PUMPING ACTION

Basketball tough? You bet. This is the way to do it...

VERDICT

The problem with Jordan In Flight is it focuses heavily on realism at the cost of fun. The rotating pitch and digitised graphics work perfectly and you can view the action in replay form from a near-infinite number of angles; but despite all its features and visual wizardry, In Flight just didn't work for me. There's just not as much action in this as console basketball games such as David Robinson's. It's the best thing out there for game-starved PC basketball fans, but don't go out of your way to get it.

PAUL ANGLIN

ROLL 'EM

Michael Jordan's graphics aren't merely some programmer's attempt at making a sprite look like the real thing, all the animation is actually made up from hundreds of digitised frames of the man in action. For this the programmers spent ages videoing him scuttling around in front of a blue screen, occasionally pretending to dunk things. When that was done they sat down with the man himself to see what he thought needed changing. For the finished result they added these to a 3D pitch which can be viewed from almost every possible angle.

PC

PROS:

Smart digitised graphics and fluid gameplay.

CONS:

It's quite boring actually.

GRAPHICS

Digitised basketballers and smooth rotating court work well.

86

SOUND

Neat sampled speech and sound effects.

85

GAMEPLAY

Despite the great presentation it's not what you'd call action-packed.

There're plenty of better games to blow your ready on.

THE FLINTSTONES MAY BE A HIT CARTOON, BUT CAN THE PREHISTORIC PALS CUT IT IN THE WORLD OF THE CONSOLES?

THE FLINTSTONES

Poor old Fred Flintstone. When he finally finishes breaking rocks in the hot sun (with the help of a friendly Diplodocus, of course), does he get to sit at home and relax? Not a chance. When Fred returns to his once peaceful abode, he discovers that the place is in turmoil. Barney has lost his lucky fishing hook, Wilma has lost her favourite ribbon on the train and Pebbles has gone walkies...well crawlies anyway. And guess who's the only bloke in Bedrock great enough to save the town and get the goodies back? Yup, it's Fred. So all on his lonesome, Mr Flintstone trots off into the sunset in search of truth, justice and a lucky fishing hook!

SLATE

Unlike most platform games, The Flintstones doesn't give you one objective to work to for the entire game. Instead, you have to complete a different task for each level. The first in a long line of terrible tragedies to plague Bedrock is the strange disappearance of Wilma's lovely necklace and Fred's special salt shaker (oh really). Never one to let a lady down, Fred wanders off in search of the missing items. Then Barney loses his lucky fishing hook and face the terrible task of never catching another fish. Appalled by this state of affairs Fred volunteers to go and look for the item. Next on the list of ill-fortune is Betty. She's gone and lost her favourite ribbon on the train, lucky it may not be, but still, Fred decides to lend a hand in the search. The saddest goes on like this and just stops short of Fred having to search for Norma Major's lucky helmet!

Handy, these birds

Wilma II

Now that's what I call a cheap right bulb

Fred has a little trouble with the first end-of-level baddy.

LIMESTONE

The end-of-level baddies are as wacky as some of the creations you'll come across in the Flintstones cartoon! You'll be up against everything from a swimming Brontosaurus to a huge dinosaur pulling a train! Some of the methods that have to be used to finish the baddies are excellent. For instance, when you fight the Pterodactyl, instead of just clubbing him over the head, you have two see-saws at the bottom of the screen, each of which has a rock balanced on it. To kill the big bird you must jump on one end of the see-saw, send the rocks flying into the air and whack the bird with them. It may sound a little odd but it's actually a real good left and provides a little originality in the form of killing end-level nasties - more of that, please.

Stun the snakes then climb on them

It'll do until someone invents the bridge

The walls obviously haven't been Rhino-tested for thickness

VERDICT

Unoriginality abounds in The Flintstones, but that doesn't stop the game being enjoyable enough in its own right. The characters look like they do in the cartoons, and all of the enemies are well-defined. Sound isn't much cop - the Flintstones theme music, for example, is an abomination - but at least the game is playable and fun. And, although you might not expect it, you'll find yourself sticking with the game because you get a little further each time you play. Not a stunning release, but a jolly cart nonetheless.

PAUL RAND

VERDICT

When this first came in, we all swapped jokes about it having the usual assortment of one driving level, one underwater level and one level on a train, and then we turned it on, and it did! But for all its lack of originality The Flintstones is actually a pretty good game. The graphics have been well drawn and the main sprite is a dead ringer for Fred Flintstone. There are some excellent little touches included in the game that really give The Flintstones that cartoony feel. For instance, some of the little gadgets available to you are excellent. The driving level, as unoriginal as it may sound, is actually really good fun, too. The car has been really well animated, too. A good, solid platform game to add to your collection.

PAUL ANGLIN

QUARTZ

Everybody knows that the Flintstones is a classic cartoon, but what about other animated faves? Which is the greatest animated masterpiece of all time? Here's the CVG boys' faves: Garth: My favourite cartoon is the Road Runner. I think Wile E Coyote is the greatest of them all 'cos he he has all these mad, hair-brained schemes, just like me, wibble wibble. Rand: The Simpsons are the tops in my books. It's so hilarious yet so true and Homer says doh all the time - Doh!

Jon: I love a bit of Tom and Jerry because it's just so violent! Also it's erm...well it's...oh okay, it's just dead violent!

Gary: Actually, I like Tom and Jerry as well. I'm probably their number one fan. Jon just got asked before I did. It's got nothing to do with me not having a mind of my own at all.

Steve: I love any of the full-length Disney cartoons because they're so full of metaphorical meanings and if you look past the immense layer of extreme cosmetic beauty you can find a plethora of underlying philosophical meanings that can be applied to everyday life - honest! Paul: There's no denying that Batman - The Dark Knight is king of the TV 'toons. He has loads of money and drives like a nutter. I'd like lots of money and I drive like I'm somewhat unhinged as well. Plus it's on just at the same time as I crawl out of bed on a Saturday.

ON THE OTHER HAND

THE FLINTSTONES NES

Any NES owners liking the look of the Flintstones should dry the tears from their eyes and get down to the shops to purchase this platform jaunt involving Fred trying to find his pet. It's nothing fancy, just a good solid platformer.

REVIEWED: CVG 131

CLAY

Any NES owners out there getting slight tinges of deja vu, don't worry; we promise you're not going completely bonkers. The Flintstones did actually appear on the NES a short time ago. The main sprites look reasonably similar but the gameplay has been changed beyond recognition. Which is no bad thing seeing as the NES version wasn't anything to write home about. But at least it was better than the atrociously bad Amiga version. Grand Slam made rather a hash of their conversion of the classic cartoon - the game bombed out horrendously and did the reputations of the jaunty Jurassic japesters no credit whatsoever. Oh well, eh?

Hey! It's Pete's Dragon! Wait a mo, hasn't this caption been a little overused of late?

GRANITE

- STAR - these are worth 1000 points.
- STAR WITH FRED - these are worth 400 points.
- WILMA - Makes Fred invincible for a while.
- EXTRA LIFE - One extra life lustrily enough.
- HEART - Adds one more heart to your capacity.
- APPLE - Fills up one heart.

MEGADRIVE

PROS:
Clear, well drawn graphics and plenty of humour give a real feel of the cartoon

CONS:
Totally Unoriginal

GRAPHICS

Well detailed sprites but not much of anything else

86

SOUND

Some nasty tunes with a pretty horrible rendition of the Flintstones tune.

78

GAMEPLAY

Uncomplicated gameplay makes this easy to get into, but it's just a little too easy.

79

VALUE

The three difficulty settings should be enough to keep you going for some time.

SUPER GOAL

YET ANOTHER CONSOLE FOOTY GAME KICKS OFF - DOES IT QUALIFY?

PHEEEEP!

Super Goal, despite what the title may suggest, isn't really that super at all. It is, in fact, a very simple soccer game bringing together teams from all around the world (and, presumably, mixing up their luggage in the process because their kits are all wrong) for individual exhibition games or the Supercup tournament. Once you've picked your team and formation, it's onto the pitch for predictable side-on soccer action remarkably similar to Tecmo's World Cup coin-op.

Not to be confused in any way with Virgin's Amiga game Goal (also reviewed this month), the latest from Jaleco arrives just as our own football season draws to a close (bye bye Borough), but in plenty of time for the impending World Cup. You get the feeling that, with USA '94 drawing ever closer, we're going to be in for a flood of footy games all attempting to cash in on the world's greatest sporting tournament pretty soon - and if this is the kind of quality we can expect from the big US and Japanese firms, we're not particularly looking forward to it...

CHOICES, CHOICES

There are plenty of options to fiddle with before play begins, but once you're in the game you're stuck with them, so choose wisely. You can change match length (anything from one to 45 minutes per half), disable fouls and offside rules (which helps keep the game flowing) and experiment with different formations - 4-3-3, 3-5-2, 4-4-2, Sweeper, etc. Beyond that there's little scope for tactical play, apart from Corner Kick situations, where there are four preset set-pieces to choose from.

KICK IT!

Surprisingly enough, Super Goal isn't exactly the most strategic soccer game known to man. There are two vital controls, both kicks - a gentle pass to the nearest friendly player, or a thundering boot in the direction you're facing, which is best saved for shots on goal or clearing out of your own area. Passing and tackling controls are catered for, but, unfortunately, both are tricky to get the hang of, so a lot of the play revolves around individual players zig-zagging along the pitch and shooting on goal from a variety of diagonal angles. And as you might guess, the whole thing soon gets very predictable. Oh dear.

VERDICT

The Japanese and Americans don't really understand our national game, which is why we're still waiting for a good console kickabout from abroad. Super Goal isn't a patch on classics like Sensible Soccer or Kick Off 2 and it doesn't play very much like football, but it has plenty of entertaining moments and is one of the better options for SNES owners in need of a footy fix. Unfortunately that says more about the sad state of the SNES soccer scene than the quality of this game. Surely someone can come up with something better?

GARY WHITTA

SUPER NES

PROS:

Plenty of options and some nice cutaway slices of animation for goals.

CONS:

It's too difficult to score goals, so 0-0 scorelines are all too common.

GRAPHICS

Players look okay, apart from the girly long hair, and the kits are awful.

SOUND

VERY strange spot effects - kicking the ball sounds like flushing a toilet.

56

GAMEPLAY

Seems a lot of fun at first - but it doesn't take long for it to get very predictable.

VALUE

Even in two player mode, boredom doesn't take long to set in.

Ooh, scrappy! Both midfields are in disarray.

Oi, ref! He's balancing on the ball!

Germany leaves the Brazilian defence standing.

GOAL

God created the world in six days. And it was good. On the seventh day he had a rest. Which is obviously the time that Dino Dini snuck in and created Kick Off, the most amazing thing to happen to football simulations in the history of computing. But it came to pass that Sensible Software got in on the act with Sensisoccer. That was good. It also made Dino mad. So off he toddled to Virgin Games with Goal! The gamesplaying world expected more than just a re-hash of the original – does the boy Dini deliver?

SIGN ON, SIGN ON, WITH A PEN IN YOUR HANDS

Let's face it – graphically, Kick Off and Kick Off 2 weren't up to much, were they. Basic sprites and flat pitches (mind you, there's not much else a pitch can be other than flat). Dino has listened to your complaints about visual blandness and spruced up the characters, which now look much more meaty – they're better animated, too. Sound has also been given the treatment, and now there's a stack of extra sampled effects, the most impressive being the tell-tale thud of the ball smacking against the goalpost, announcing to the world that you're a sad man who can't stick it in the net!

Hurrah! The sad Arsenal 'keeper hasn't a chance of stopping that!

It's half-time time!

Ian Wright's at it again!

It's there! Hurrah!

Is the Gooner going to miss?

VERDICT

I was dubious of Goal! when I heard it was coming. Exactly how much more could Dino Dini do with a game that many see as the benchmark for all soccer sims? I loaded it up, and found out. Goal! will have as much an impact now as the original did in the late '80s; the control system is much the same as before, but subtle additions, such as players running faster when you keep the joystick pushed forward, add so much more to the overall package. And, with the two new views, it's as if there's three different games in one! Move over Sensible Soccer, there's a new kid in town!

PAUL RAND

Fancy footwork, side-on.

OVER 'ERE, SON, ON ME 'EAD!

Kick Off's control system was, and is, revolutionary. No football game previous to Dino's classic had employed a system which didn't involve having the ball stuck to the player's foot – in Kick Off and its sequel, the infinitely better Kick Off 2, the ball is free to travel anywhere on the pitch. This winning system has again been employed, but in Goal!, as opposed to the previous two which made it very difficult to perform tackles without taking out the player and receiving a foul because the ball would be almost stood upon, the ball is positioned in a way that allows the opposition to steal it without taking out his man.

Kil design has been updated in Goal!

The horizontal view.

THE BOY DONE WELL

The most radical change in Goal! compared to Kick Off 2 is the way throw-ins and corners are handled. This time around, both are catered for using the same method – and it's an ingenious one. The screen displays a dotted line emanating from the player poised to take the throw/kick, and this can be altered for length and height using simple joystick commands. This system allows for far more accurate placing of the ball than was possible, certainly in terms of corner kicks which were taken using nothing more than a handful of directions.

VERDICT

I'm one of the all-time Sensible Soccer fans on a former Kick Off 2 addict: having finally seen Dino Dini's latest, I have to admit he's once again done the impossible and created a game to rival the Sensible classic! There's something here for everyone, and whether you liked the Kick Off series or not, I guarantee that you'll love Goal. My only problem is that, like the earlier Kick Off games, it takes a little while to get to grips with the controls, but once you've mastered the basics, there'll be no stopping you! Over to you, Sensisoft!

TERRY BUTCHER'S ON THE DOLE!

You can play in more than one perspective! As well as the ordinary Kick Off 2 view, you can also take on the opposition with the screen pulled back, very much like that seen in Sensible Soccer (this view is used to take corners and throw-ins in normal mode, but there is the option to play a full game using it). You can also flip the screen through ninety degrees and play horizontally! This is the most impressive – it totally changes the way you play the game – it's like having two different foody sims in one!

Time for a stats check!

ON THE OTHER HAND

Get ready for action...

Options ahoy!

THE GAME'S NOT OVER 'TIL THE FAT LADY SINGS

Kick Off 2 was an excellent game, but a big gripe was not being able to tailor the teams to suit your requirements. You still can't alter stats in Goal!, but you won't complain too loudly because Dino has included over 3000 different players in the game, with the option to alter their names! Teams incorporated include the cream of European and world sides, and each player has his own individual strengths and weaknesses making the game even more realistic.

SUPER KICK OFF: £34.99

Goal! is on the Megadrive later this year, but if you can't wait that long you could do far worse than get your hands on this, the most impressive conversion of the prequel to Dino's latest and a bloody good game in its own right.

MORE ADDICTIVE THAN BREATHING

Rolling Thunder is a coin-op as old as the hills, and one of the best I've ever played. Now you can play it at home and face the awesome might of Geldra once more. . .

All sorts of bonuses are hidden behind the doors - just have a look!

ROLLING THUNDER 2

ANGER

Now this is my kind of espionage. None of this 'leaving bugs' and 'mini cameras' and all that boring MI5 nonsense. Go in with a gun, sneak through the buildings shooting everything in sight, and get to the source of the problem. Faster than tapping phones, more messy than infiltration and a damn sight more fun than a utility pen.

There aren't just hoods out to get you. The dogs are dangerous, too.

SUSPENSE

Spread over half a dozen huge levels, Rolling Thunder 2 has taken the original idea of the balcony-leaping hero and upgraded it slightly. Instead of miles of bland corridor, you now have to fight your way through a variety of worldwide locations and beat a path to the door of the arms merchant, Gimdo. Albatross, the original hero, is available for action, but just in case you fancy a change, his more curvaceous friend, Leila, is armed and primed too. Or you can both go in at once, just to even the odds a little.

As before, you are required to leap between balconies

THRILLS

One (wo)man against Geldra is like pitting a six-year-old with a pea shooter against the Territorial Army. Geldra's men swarm everywhere, and they all have instructions to shoot first and ask questions later. Help generally comes in the form of weapons rooms hidden behind doors. Collect more ammunition and, occasionally, a more powerful weapon — much needed in the face of giant robots and mad, bombing lizards!

MEGADRIVE

VERDICT

I have to admit, I wasn't quite sure when I stuck the cartridge in its slot. I was a huge fan of the original and obviously didn't want to be disappointed by a poor cousin of the excellent original game. Thankfully I was not disappointed. This game plays almost exactly like the coin-op, and retains all the excitement of the arcade thanks to very few enhancements, a bonus of sorts as the original played so well. And the difficulty level is well thought out, making the game seriously addictive - its got that 'just one more go' feeling!

This is the life. Swords stuck in stones, loads of glorious Welsh countryside, damsels in distress, more loyal subjects than you could possibly slay in a week. Can the SNES really stand up to the challenge of recreating this classic myth?

right to left through buildings and over traps to reach an exit, employing whatever special powers they might have, such as being able to shoot, or blow things up. Mmm, it all sounds like Lemmings. However, I can't help thinking that the team behind King Arthur's World got the wrong idea. There's more to Lemmings than just small graphics. There's fun, speed and edge of the seat tension. Not slow indistinguishable graphics and plodding levels. King Arthur's World has no entertainment value at all.

All out war as your knights take on a small group of rowdy unarmed peasants.

CHIKI CHIKI BOYS

Two little tykes are on a mission from God. Let's hope that the Megadrive version of this arcade classic, otherwise known as Mega Twins, can do better than the previous ploppy conversions...

Two boys were both deformed at birth by a large weight dropped on their mums. With a little help from the gods, the lads, Chiki and, erm, Chiki, are lead blindly into a quest to save their fantasy world from all sorts of marauding evil-doers. This game sounds unbelievably similar to all sorts of arcade platform offerings from the past five years. The graphics try to be appealing, but simply-drawn characters are not automatically cute characters. The sound tries to be unique and full of character, but occasional high pitched squeaks do not overly excite the lug-holes. Yes, it plays fine, but find me a Megadrive platform game that doesn't play OK. There are so many better variants than this on the market, that this one just isn't worth considering.

The Earth level - the easiest one of the game. You have to here appear to be large rocks that spit fire.

Can a man fly without wings? No but it makes for a fun level.

KING OF RALLY

The Paris-to-Dakar Rally is one of racing's foremost events, and the Super Nintendo can do a more than capable racing game. Meldal's release hits the dusty trail...

We already know how great the SNES is in 3D, sprite-based racing games. First F-Zero set the standard, and then the brilliant Super Mario Kart. As techniques progress, could King Of Rally be the game to up the stakes? As it happens, no, it couldn't.

The race is a series of tortuous stages over all sorts of terrain ranging from Paris, through the snows of Moscow and deserts of Asia down to the city of Dakar. Few survive, let alone arrive with their car in one piece. Mind you, all of the competitors do have one over you: they can see where they're going. Er, that's the main problem with King of Rally. When your car turns the corner your vision doesn't quite follow. Before you know it, you're facing an oncoming car. The game's really limited and this doesn't help.

Your car can be fully customised to your own specifications, including three types of engine and steering.

As is per usual with rallies, there are few other cars to pass as everyone is racing the clock rather than each other.

CAPTAIN NOVOLIN

Your mission should you choose to accept it, is clearly laid out at the start of the game.

Eat too many sugary foods, and you'll soon hit the deck with stomach

You need to check your blood sugar four times a day, but you can check it more often if you like.

Between lives and levels, some helpful advice for diabetics from the digital doctor.

Weird or what? Can you help the world's first diabetic super hero control his diet? Hide the bags of sugar and get to it!

Yes, it does sound like the worst in bad taste, but it's true. With your SNES controller, you can help Captain Novolin keep his blood sugar levels at the right balance through his complete daily diet, eating the right foods according to the doctors that pop up and avoiding or crushing the unhealthy, sugary foods that leap towards you!

The game plays as a sideways scrolling beat-em-up, and not a particularly good one at that. The controls are appallingly bad, and the subgames, where you have to check your own blood sugar levels and inject yourself with insulin are in the second worst taste. The ultimate in bad taste comes from colliding with too many doughnuts, where you clutch your stomach and collapse to the floor with stomach cramps! Not very educational and only entertaining if you've got Garth's sense of humour.

He's already been a mammoth hit on the Amiga, the so-called Sonic smasher, and he'll soon hit the streets as an arcade machine and a lollipop. But here's his PC debut.

ZOO!

Zool was written with the Amiga in mind. Everything about it was designed to use all the tricks the Commodore machine could muster — and so rightly earned its place as the ultimate in Amiga platform games. Trying to convert it directly to the PC might not seem right, but Gremlin has tried anyway, and they really haven't done too badly. There's no real plot or gameplay to explain. Zool is a Space Ninja that has to travel through numerous colourful worlds trying to get home. Along the way he has to do all sorts of console-style jumps and moves, and collect coins and bonuses and everything else you'd expect from a game designed to be a Sonic beater. However, on PC he just doesn't move as fast as he should, and the controls lack the necessary speed.

Gremlin is well proud of Zool. He's the first computer character converted to arcade.

GODS

The Bitmaps return with another conversion of a favourite title. Will it be as popular on the Megadrive? Only the gods themselves can tell...

Ladders are the only way to get around the maze. Just because you're blessed by the gods doesn't mean you can fly, you know!

Switches dot the levels, each performing a mysterious task. Will this one kill you? Pull it and see!

Helpful clues appear throughout the game and are there to give you a gentle push in the right direction.

You are a simple warrior, seeking the ultimate prize of immortality by facing a challenge layed down by the gods themselves. They have decreed that you must slay the four guardians of a city by way of proving yourself. This is not as easy as it sounds. For a start there are all sorts of creepy nasties just waiting to nip at your Achilles heel, and the complicated, maze-like layout of the city itself simply adds to what already feels like an almost impossible task. Although most of the game is action combat based, there is enough puzzle solving to keep hardened adventurers tearing at their hair, as switches need to be employed to allow you to pass dozens of obstacles and collect vital pieces of equipment. To make life easier, you can call up hints at various points, but for the most part these are so vague, they don't make much of a difference. An excellent game, converted well to the Megadrive.

THE COMBATRIBES

SELECT PLAYER 1

A combat game or a beat-'em-up with a difference? Does the Super Nintendo really need more street fighting? Of course it does.

Killer clowns from the local theme park threaten to stamp on you with their big shoes.

There isn't a whole to write about The Combatribes that hasn't been written somewhere else about a dozen other games. It's a horizontally scrolling beat-'em-up, in the vein of everything released since Renegade with no new touches whatsoever. Choose from one of three characters, all of whom are drawn in that typical rugged way, and walk them through a variety of sleazy, fighting opponents who make up what they miss in talent with sheer numbers. Unlike other games, though, these enemies don't really seem to fight back much. In fact, for the most part you can quite comfortably stand in one place repeatedly hitting any of the four buttons and you'll probably win. Sorry, it's just a really dull game.

One swing with your foot and down goes another biker. Slow and stupid, they make good target practise.

HARDBALL III

Accolade has always published games of this popular sport, which are now on their third incarnation...

Since the mid-eighties, Accolade has strived for the perfect baseball game. Many thought they had it with Hardball, but after playing Hardball III, the original is well and truly kicked into oblivion. Obviously the basis of the game remains the same - after all, baseball is baseball. For the most part even the control system remains unchanged (basic menus used in conjunction with joystick movements during action segments).

A large menu system lets you tailor the game exactly the way you want.

What has been souped up is the presentation.

Possibly the single most impressive aspect of the game is the continuous commentary supplied by baseball expert, Al Michaels. For everything you do, he has something to say, and oddly enough, most of it is relevant, rather than the usual collection of random samples. Highly playable and a great deal of fun by anyone's standards.

A nod, a wink and a show of fingers, and then the ball flies through the air. There are four basic forms of batting, of which this is only one.

CHEAT MODE

THE COMPLETE CVG GUIDE TO

ANOTHER WORLD

Another World has been scorching the pants off Megadrive and SNES owners just lately so we thought it was about time we printed the completed guide to it. And who better to do it than the person who lives in his very own world — Paul Anglin. I'll step aside now and let the youngster take you through this stunning game.

SCENE ONE

The next screen is exactly the same. Just run across the next screen until you get to the beast. You will automatically stop in front of him. As soon as you stop, press left on the joystick and hold it. This will ensure that you start running as soon as possible. Keep running until you get to the ledge. As you reach the ledge push diagonally up and left and jump. You will grab onto the vine in front of you. The vine will snap, so as soon as you get on it push right, and when it does snap push jump and you'll land on the floor. As soon as you hit the floor run right 'cos that beast is still after you. Eventually you will bump into a cloaked alien. He will blow away the beast for you, and capture you. That's the end of scene one.

Here's some brilliant hints for this scene. As soon as you appear in the water, push up until you climb out of the pool. Move right onto the next screen. You will see a load of black slugs on the floor. To kill these walk up to them and use your kick. It's worth taking your time over this 'cos if one hits you, you're dead.

SCENE TWO

Once you have regained consciousness, you will find yourself in a cage with another hostage. To get out you have to make the cage swing. To do this push right and left on the joystick and continue until you get the cage swinging. When you have got enough swing and you are over the guard, the cage will drop down on top of him and kill him. The person who gets out of the cage is your friend so don't panic. He will turn to you and tell you something in Alien language. Take one step forward and crouch down to pick up the gun. Run after your friend but beware there are aliens around (remember that by holding down fire you will create a shield with your gun). When you catch up with your friend turn left left and create a shield immediately 'cos there will be aliens approaching any second. You need to protect your pal 'cos he will be tapping in a code that allows you to access the next part of the level. Put your hand through the shield and shoot the aliens. They will have also created a shield. To get through this, just hold down the fire button until a massive blue ball appears and let go. This will go straight through the enemy's shield. Remember to keep creating new shields to protect yourself. Once your companion has tapped in the code, follow him off the screen. Walk to the end of the dark passage and get on the platform. This is a lift that will begin to move the second you step on, so make sure your chum is on it as well. Pull down on the joystick to operate the lift and go right to the very bottom of the shaft. Walk left onto the next screen, there will be a guard. Kill him. You will see a dead end. You will notice there is a small gap going up in the ceiling with blue lights along it. Shoot at the wall and the lights will disappear. Then go back onto the lift and go up to the next level. Walk to the next screen. Charge up your gun until it gets to full power and then fire it at the door to blow it up. Walk up to the gap in the floor and pull down. This will transport you onto the lower level. There is a man trying to open three doors, but he won't be able to do it 'cos you've blown up the power supply (that's what the blue lights were). Wait for your pal to catch up and then move onto the next screen. But don't hang around, there are aliens pushing you all the way. On the next screen push up to go to the next level and go through the first door. Wait there, your friend will come up and there will be another alien behind the door. But don't worry, your chum has got it all under control; he will open a trap door for you. Fall down the hole then roll across to the other hole and fall down that.

SCENE 3

You will find yourself in a narrow passage right in the midst of the incredible level three. Here's how to get out of it: roll left until you reach the stuff coming through the ceiling. This stuff kills you so be careful of it. Drop down a short way, now roll right until you drop down again, taking care to avoid the stuff. Then roll right until you fall again, then go left; there will be stuff falling from the ceiling on both sides of you here. Then right again and drop down. Then left and drop down. Then right. You will now be facing a blue brick wall. Walk towards the wall and the door behind you will close — and you will be lifted into the air while electricity flows around the room. When you're down walk out again. Your gun will now be fully charged. Walk out and stop before the three big doors. Blast them out of the way and get your gun charged up again. Run right onto the next screen and go down the passage onto the next screen. Kill the guy in front of you (it may be easier if you use your shield) and carry on running right. As soon as you appear on the next screen, jump off the broken bridge and you should land on a ledge on the right of the screen. Shoot the wall and walk in.

SCENE 4

You will find yourself underground. Walk right and drop down the first hole. You will now be on a light grey platform. Walk right again but this time drop down the very first hole. You will now be on a plateau of rock. Walk right onto the next screen. When you get there keep walking right until you come to a pit with spikes at the bottom. Push up and jump to clear the spikes and then stop. Now push up and fire to jump onto the next screen. Rocks will start falling from the ceiling. This time you need to run as soon as the first pair of rocks hit the floor. Go past where they landed and then stop. Do the same with the next rock and go onto the next screen by RUNNING past the vines hanging from the ceiling. Once on the next screen run past the first set of vines then stop just at the edge of the hole. If you're not very good and keep falling down the hole then try just jumping it. Edge over to the next hole but stop there as soon as it starts chomping. Push up and jump to do a small jump over it then push up again to jump over the third hole. Walk onto the next screen and stop before you reach the vines. Quickly fire off three shots to get the vines to move back a little. Quickly jump over the first hole. Then do a big jump and run very fast. Next do a small jump over the gap in the floor and then a big jump over the last two. Walk onto the next screen and then just carry on to the next. Blast the door in front of you. Now for the fun part - you've got to go all the way back again! Walk left onto the empty screen then onto the next. Small jump over the hole and a big one over the gap. When you appear on the next screen will have noticed that the three sets of vines will have gone. Do a big jump over the first two holes then a small one over the third. Next screen - do a small jump over the first two holes then a small one on the third and keep running until you get to the end of the screen. Run onto the next screen and onto the next. Run up the slope. A winged erm... thing should fly onto the next screen with you. Blast the bird and get it to fly onto the next screen with you. On the next screen stop quickly. At the edge of the drop do a big jump and push up, you will climb the piece of rock hanging from the ceiling, climb to the top of the rock and jump again. Carry on doing this until you are at the top of the rock on the next screen (the bat will keep the vines busy). Walk left and drop off the end of the rock. Move to the far left of the screen and turn around. Blow away the bottom of the big rock then run up it onto the next screen and jump over the two holes. On the next screen just jump over the hole again. Then go onto the next screen and stop. Carefully walk left so you just go off the screen and turn around. Blow away the wall of rock and let the water out. Very quickly run left onto the next screen and jump the hole. Run onto the next screen and jump the two holes. Finally run onto the next screen and jump over that hole. Run onto the light grey platform and it will shoot up. Walk right onto the next screen and run up the slope. Blow away the door and move onto the next screen. Go straight past the steps and over to the next screen. Carry on past the light grey area onto the next screen. Go down the steps and make a shield. An alien will come on, make sure you kill him nice and quick. Now turn around and run back to the steps. This time go up them. When you're at the top stop. Turn around and jump right over them. Carry on right past the next screen and the light grey area and onto the next screen after that and cor blimey, it's Scene 5 ahoj.

SCENE 5

You will now be in a corridor, stop, you will see your friend below you crawling through a very small passage. He will get stuck. Don't worry you'll rescue him later. Walk onto the next screen and down the steps, carry on down the steps until you are standing on a gap in the floor. Pull down and onto the ground. Turn left and fire. This will bring the aliens mate on so as you don't have to worry about him. Walk right, you will be punched by an alien as you try to go onto the next screen. He will pick you up by the throat. Push up and fire and you will kick him in the plums. He will fall over and you will drop to the floor. Run left and before you get to your gun pull down left and fire. You should roll and pick up your gun. As soon as you are kneeling down facing the alien, rapidly press fire to kill him. Move right onto the next screen. About one quarter of the way into the next screen stop and make a shield. Quickly turn around and make another shield. Firstly kill the alien on the left (because he fires more often than the one on the right). Now turn around and make yet another shield. Then kill the other alien. Walk right onto the next screen and jump into the water. Pull down and you will swim down and down. Swim to the bottom then go left... Carry on going left until you come to the two passages leading up. Go to the second passage and take a breather. Now swim right down past the upward leading passage entrance and down a gap in the floor. Carry on going down (don't worry about the spikes) and go right and climb out of the water. As soon as you are out of the water jump over the holes. Shoot the power supply (little blue lights going upwards). Then run onto the next screen and jump the holes, then jump back into the water. Swim back to where you first jumped in. Climb out on the right hand side. Run and then start jumping onto the next screen. After three jumps duck. The alien will fire a big shot. As soon as he has start jumping right again. Carry onto the next screen and stop. Turn around and edge back to the previous screen. As soon as you are there let rip with your gun and kill that alien. Now it's time to rescue your pal. Go left past the water and the other side onto the next screen. Carry on going until you come to a room with three sets of lights dangling from the roof. Climb onto the steps at the far left of the screen and turn around. Fire your gun and the biggest set of lights will fall to the ground. Now run back past the water and fall down the hole by the dead-end. The next bit needs to be done very very fast. When you land turn round and blow away the right hand side door. Now run past the next couple of screens until you reach what looks like a lift door. Facing left position yourself under the trap door in the roof. Make a couple of shields and kill the aliens that come onto the screen. Soon a hand will open the trap door and your friends head will appear. He grabs you and lifts you up. On the next screen quickly follow your friend into the tank.

SCENE 6

After you have arrived in the fighting area a box will appear in the top left and corner. Using the hand press all the buttons. Eventually you will launch a load of missiles. Carry on pressing all the buttons. Again eventually you will press a button that makes you and your friend eject from the tank and fly through the air in pods.

SCENE 7

A swimming pool appears with lots of naked aliens bathing in it. You crash through the roof and land on a platform. The women scarpers and aliens appear and start to shoot at you. Run right onto the next screen. Very quickly make a shield and have a go at killing the aliens that appear. On the next screen your friend will smash through a stained glass window. Run after him. A gun shot will blow a hole in the walkway. You will automatically fall down the hole. A hand will grab you as you fall. You are lifted up by an alien. After being kicked around a couple of times your pal comes to the rescue. As soon as he does push right. You will eventually get to the four levels on the right hand wall. Eventually the alien throws your friend off the walkway but somehow he survives. When the Alien is in the middle of the screen press fire. A blue bolt of energy comes down and kills him. If you have only pulled one lever pull the second one and push left on the joystick. If you do this quick enough you will crawl into the beam of sunlight coming through the gap you just opened. You will now be transported upwards.

CHEAT MODE

Oh yes, the sun is shining, the birds are singing, Steve Keen's wearing odd boots and poncing around with his hair, it's that Cheat Mode time of the month again. What fun and japery do we have in store for you today? Quite a lot actually. Peruse these very pages and you'll see the mammoth amount of brilliantness that lines them. There's a whole page of Action Replay Codes and a blisteringly packed guide to Another World. All this (apart from the Another World guide 'cos that was my idea) results from you lot finally getting your act together and sending me some decent stuff; more of that please. Before I go any further I have to warn you: DO NOT read the cheat for Night Trap. The reason being that as we all know it's so full of scenes of 'gruesome murder and torture' that the sheer terror of this game can even be felt in the cheat for it, or so certain newspapers would have us believe — so be careful. Provided all your brains aren't destroyed by this 'terrifying new direction of video games', please send all your cheats to: PAUL ANGLIN'S: OH HELP I'M BEING TURNED INTO A PSYCHOPATH BY THIS TERRIFYING NEW REGIME OF GAMES WHAT CAN I DO?, CVG, 30-32 FARRINGDON LANE, FARRINGDON, LONDON. EC1R 3AU. Until then I'll see you next month; I'm just off to horrifically maime, murder and mutilate some innocent people, just like the papers say.

AMIGA

DESERT STRIKE

The sequel is reviewed this very issue, but here's a cheat for the original Amiga version all the way from Russell Sands in Winscombe Avon. It's a rather useful cheat for Desert Strike. Enter BQQQAEG as the password (yes the same as the Megadrive one). Now play as normal but with ten lives.

MEGADRIVE

ROLO TO THE RESCUE

What's the difference between a multi-ton Elephant and Jon White from Alton Hants? Elephants can't get decent cheats on a piece of paper. On the title screen hold down up and diagonal left, A and C then reset. Hold down for five seconds then press B. You will now have a list allowing you to become invincible, have infinite lives and be able to open the whole map.

ECCO THE DOLPHIN

Aaron Thomas from Aylesbury in Bucks has escaped the Tuna-Fish-capturing net long enough to deliver this top tip for Ecco. Take it away. To get infinite lives go to the password screen and type SEA-HORSE. Then you'll re-appear outside the cave where you can use your normal password.

SUPER NINTENDO

WAYNES WORLD

A cheat for this most excellent game comes courtesy of Chris Bates from Sunderland. And what a most excellent cheat it is — not! On the spinning Wayne's World logo hold down X, Y, B, L, R and down, then press up and a level select will appear at the bottom of the screen.

BUBSY THE BOBCAT

Ronald De Wilde from Amsterdam is even quicker than the famous Bobcat, 'cos he's managed to get me these passwords for this game:

- Level 1: JSSTCS
- Level 2: CKBGMM
- Level 3: SCTWNN
- Level 4: MKBRLN
- Level 5: LBLNRK
- Level 6: JMDKRR

It's true that T2 isn't in the best of health

MEGADRIVE

CHAKAN THE FOREVER MAN

Oh dear. An anonymous cheat for The Forever Man. Well never mind, just enjoy the cheat. To skip the first four levels, start the game then walk to the bottom of the stairs and then on to the platform. Continue right until you reach a small floating platform, jump on it and use the potion for a portal; the potion will make a thunderous crash. Once done, you will have access to all of the weapons and be able to go into every level, even the last four stages.

UNIVERSAL SOLDIER

The film may be a load of old tosh but Richard Probert has sent these codes all the way from South Africa — blimey! Here are all the passwords for the game:

- Level 2: CHSGM
- Level 3: MKSNS
- Level 4: SGGBY
- Level 5: JLGPH
- Level 6: JDRSD
- Level 7: PKSND
- Level 8: CWBPM
- Level 9: SFNP

CHAOS ENGINE

Danny King (hope you don't mind being called Danny) from Middlesex provides you with all the codes for Steve Keen's fave game. On level 1.4 go to the door in the trees (the one that leads to a bonus stage). GOLD STAR, then run back to the room and go in before the time runs out. Once inside, the timer will stop. When you depart you'll keep hold of the power-ups and the speed-ups for the rest of the game.

SUPER NINTENDO

F1 EXHAUST HEAT

First contender for Cheat Mode fame this month is Stephen O'Neill from Sutherland Scotland. Take it away that lad. To start with loads of cash, enter your name as SETAUSA. You will then have £10,000. For an extra turbo boost press L and R when you reach top speed.

T-2

Ooh, a cheat from sunny Malden, courtesy of Paul White. By the way Paul, have you ever visited the Chuck Waggon in Malden Promenade Park? Great nosh, I advise you to try it! I've got a little more advice for you — and it concerns that Megadrive licence of that all-blasting, rock-hard Arnie film. On the title screen push start. Now push up, down, left and right. Do this twice, and if you do it right you will greeted by the word 'excellent'. Start the game as normal and if you want to skip a level pause the game and press B and C.

MEGADRIVE

BATMAN: RETURN OF THE JOKER

Pete Brayburns from Exeter has sent in this cheat for the somewhat sad Batman. Never mind though, eh? Press start at the title screen and then move the bat to the passcode option. Press the start button. Enter the code 5257. Press the A button and a bunch of symbols that look like mushrooms will appear at the bottom of the screen. Move the pad left and over to the first number of the code. You will now be able to enter codes for every level. For example enter the code 6300 and you will get to level 6-3.

SUPER NINTENDO

STAR WING

The hottest cheat of the month has blazed a trail all the way from Richmond Surrey. Thanks go to David Lightfoot for this scorcher. To reach the black hole you have to choose course one (the middle one) and fly into the Asteroid level, where a group of Asteroids are stuck together and spin around. When you are close up, shoot the middle one and fly straight through. Three sets of these will appear, and then a face. Shoot it and the black hole will appear. Get to the Outer Dimension Zone by choosing course 3 (the bottom one) and, as before, fly into the Asteroid level. During the level a large Asteroid will come along. Avoid the first but blow up the second one on the right, an egg should fly out and go into the distance to hatch. A massive bird breaks and swoops towards you. Enter it — and another dimension awaits.

500 SETS OF PANINI TIPS CARDS TO BE WON!!

Yes that's right, a full stonking 500 sets of tips cards for you lot to win. The Sega Super Play Card Series has a total of 118 cards, including 16 character cards (Sonic, Tazmania etc), 72 cards explaining the objectives of the games, and 30 gameplay cards with hints and tips.

There were lots of things we could have asked you to do: draw Wodge, answer questions, make videos... but no, we decided to come up with something easier. Just think of the best cheat you ever used at school, we want all your best methods for ensuring that you secured an A in all subjects. We want yarns about answers written on your arms, mirrors on your shoulders so you can look at other people's work, the lot. The main thing to remember is that they don't have to be true. Send your entries to: ME I WANT SOME FREE TIPS CARDS COMPQ, CVG, 30-32 FARRINGTON LANE, FARRINGTON, LONDON EC1R 3AU. Special Note: Okay, I'll cop up to it. I made a mistake. The Super Star Wars cheat printed in last month's issue WAS incorrect. The thing is, when I was typing it in my keyboard went all funny and it wasn't my fault at all. Honest! Instead of pushing L and R on controller 2 you push A. There, that should work now.

QUESTION CORNER

Yes, what exactly do you want? Oh, you're here for the latest instalment of the legendary interstellar extravaganza Question Corner, are you? Well come on in, make yourselves at home and get ready for the feast of things coming your way. This month, despite the lack of letters, I've still managed to cobble together another two pages of relief for all of you marooned in the wide blue lake of video games. My thanks this month go to Brian Walker of South Woodham Ferrers, for giving me a great idea for an all-new section - I'm sure you'll like it. Okay, it's whinge time - this really isn't good enough, you know. Nothing but more sad RPG quezzies, and not many of them either. If you lot don't buck your ideas up, I'll soon have to be filling these pages with pictures of Steve Keen's sad flat-moving antics. So get your posers on a piece of paper and send them to: JON BILLINGTON MUST BE A MUG - FANCY SELLING ME HIS SUEDE CD FOR EIGHT QUID - DOH!, QUESTION CORNER, CVG, PRIORITY COURT, 30-32 FARRINGTON LANE, LONDON EC1R 3AU. I'll see you next month then, 'cos now I'm off to listen to my CD. Bye.

Q How on earth do you find the Ward collection in Indy and the Fate Of Atlantis? I have the Pierce collection and Plato's Lost Dialogue, but the Ward collection is nowhere to be seen.

Karen Whittaker, Romford, Essex.

A It's a floor down from where you are. When you get there, cover the arrowhead in the dirty wrap and use it to pry the screws out of the fallen bookcase. Lifting the case should reveal the Ward collection and the Lost dialogue.

Q After reading your cheat for Super Star Wars (the one for loads of lives) I tried it out. I'm having real problems finding it, I keep falling off the cliff in the wrong place and dying. Could you please print a picture of where exactly it is?

Scott Ode, Burnley, Lancashire.

A No problem.

Q I'm having real problems with Ecco The Dolphin. I've got to the bit where you have to swim down the chasms with strong currents pushing you up, but I can't do it; I keep getting pushed back up. What do I do?

Matthew McEvay, Stockport.

A I can't believe you haven't managed to solve this one yet. Well here's the answer anyway. I'm not sure what level you mean 'cos this situation occurs on quite a few. Next to the chasm you should find a rock; just push the rock down the chasm and swim behind it.

Q I'm having a real hard time beating the final boss on Y's. Could you please tell me how to defeat him?

Craig Phillips, Wood Green, London.

A You're lucky. I've just got through playing this on the PC Engine Duo. Before you fight him, make sure you've got all the silver arms. Touch him and the platform will take off and fly into space. Dodge the fireballs he throws and, when you touch him, part of the floor will disappear. Start hitting him from the outside and work your way in so you don't make it difficult to walk around. This is hard to do, but it does work.

Q I've been playing Shinobi on the PC Engine for a couple of weeks now but I can't beat the Lobster. Do you know any level select cheats?

Jon Skye, Bradford, West Yorkshire.

A Why level select cheats? Why not just ask how to beat the Lobster? Well anyway, here it is: Hold down SELECT until the words Mission 1 appear and keep it held until the screen goes blank. Now press button two to skip missions and button one to jump between rounds.

Q I'm stuck on Scene Four of Another World. I can get past all the chomping holes and everything, but at the bit when you have to climb along the ceiling, I keep getting had by the vines. I've tried sliding down the rock further but I just keep falling off. How do you do it?

James Alimony, Portsmouth.

A You're in luck sir! Not only do I know exactly what bit this is and how to do it, but there's also a complete guide to Another World on pages 102-105. So you can read that, matey!

Q I am well stuck on level 69 of Pushover. Do you know how to do it or are there any ways I can skip it?

Brian Hereford, Trowbridge, Wilts.

A I'm not going to tell you how to do it because I'm in a bad mood (Steve Keen just beat me for the first time ever on Mario Kart and now I've got to go to the shop). But I can give you the code for level 70: 19071.

Q On King's Quest V for the PC, I keep getting captured by the Roc. I can't seem to escape from its nest. What are you supposed to do, 'cos I'm having major probs?

Robert Hargraves, Milton Keynes.

A King's Quest V, eh? Well I don't mind admitting that I'm not particularly familiar with this one, but after a little play I finally managed to work it out. Before you go into Queen Icebella's castle you have to give half of your leg of lamb to the eagle. Then, when you get captured, it will automatically come and rescue you.

Q I bought Twin Cobra for the Megadrive a while back now and I still can't beat the first end-of-level baddy, the tank. This is getting really frustrating - what do I do?

David Mills, Tottenham, London.

A This is very sad. Well, me old mucker, there's no strategy to it at all, it's just a case of shooting it and dodging the bullets using your gamesplaying prowess. Maybe that's where you're going wrong - you're probably just really crap at games!

Q I'm stuck on Bubble Bobble for the NES. I've got to the monster that spits five missiles at me but I can't beat him. Can you help?

Mr B Clough, Nottingham.

A Bubble Bobble? You mean people still play that? No wonder you didn't leave your real name. Well, as I said to David Mills before you, there's no set way to do it; it's just a case of aiming your bubbles correctly and dodging his. Good luck.

Q I've just got round to buying that stunner Hellfire for my Megadrive. As I'm sure you'll appreciate, it's somewhat difficult. Anyway, how do I beat the boss on stage six?

A Wait until he drops his shield, then dodge his bullets and use your diagonal lasers to kill him.

Q It's perfectly possible that I'm a very sad man, but I can't find all the scrolls on The Ninja for the Master System. Could you please show me where they all are?

Paul Stokes, Headington, Oxford.

A Nice one; by not telling me which scrolls you're looking for, I now have to tell you how to get each and every one - ho hum. The first is on screen one - kill the Ninja and it will appear. The second is on screen four - shoot the dog statue five times. The next one is on screen six, in the first Samurai house by the moat on the left of the screen. Cross the bridge and shoot the corner of the house to the left of the bush and it will appear. Next, on to screen eight; go through the entry way to the open field and shoot the last bush towards the back of the wall and there's the scroll. On screen nine, crawl up the wall, staying on the right side, then go past the rock holes and fight the boss, but don't kill him. Leave him and go to the right of the screen (almost above the far-right rock hole) and the scroll appears. Now kill the boss. On screen ten, walk along the middle of the stone grey walkway. There are bushes to the right and bushes with grey statues on the left. Go to the last grey statue, punch it three times and disappear three times. A message appears and you move onto the maze round.

Q That's it - I've had enough! This game is causing me real headaches, it's melting my brain. No matter what I do I just cannot seem to get past the big plane at the end of level eight! Just what can I do?

Brian Walker, South Woodham Ferrers.

A Ha, ha, ha, ha! Excuse my fits of hysterical laughter, but this is one of the greatest letters I've ever had. Brian, this game obviously has melted your brain because you forgot to tell me which game you're playing! As I said in the intro, Brian has given me a great idea for a new section which will appear in the very next issue. And it basically involves sad letters (and I mean sad) being printed and getting a real good kicking! I won't put the boot in on Brian as he gave me the idea, but the rest of you beware. Are any of your letters going to do down in the Hall of Fame as the saddest of the sad? Then don't forget to catch Question Corner next month and find out!!!

HOLD YOUR HORSES! I'VE GOT SERIOUS PROBLEMS!

Hey! We're not done yet. Anglin may have all the angles covered as far as the tips department goes, but what about all your techy problems? Who ya gonna call if you don't know your Turbo Grafx from your Wondermega? Where can you buy a special, limited edition Ranma 2.5, in which you CAN control the bosses? Perhaps you've heard mutterings on the grapevine about the new 32-bit PC Engine, but how can you find out if they're true? Well, the simple answer is to read CVG! Every month Steve Keen will be answering your most bizarre questions, calling on all his telepathic links with Japan, USA and the rest of the world and drawing in the most obscure information around. So, if you've got a question and nobody else can help, write to:

STEVE SEZ: WHAT'S YOUR PROBLEM?, CVG, PRIORITY COURT, 30-32 FARRINGTON LANE, LONDON EC1R 3AU.

YOB'S MAILBAG

WELCOME to another hanky-polluting, spasmodic slice of the one and only Yob's Mailbag, stuffed from bowl to basin with the usual two-ply clingon correctors you insist on sending in. Thankfully my air-freshening wit and wisdom are on hand to blow off your sad and pathetic excuses for humour with my customary charm, sophistication and jumbo-size Domestos economy pack. If you reckon you're any match for the world's most knowledgeable and hilarious host, or you just want to know about games, then this is the place to be. Fire off your slightly warm and definitely unpleasant efforts to: SORRY THIS LETTER'S SO CRAP BUT PLEASE DELIVER IT ANYWAY, YOB'S TOE-TICKLINGLY HILARIOUS MAILBAG, COMPUTER AND VIDEO GAMES, 30-32 FARRINGTON LANE, LONDON EC1R 3AU. Remember, there's a magnanimous ONE HUNDRED POUNDS for the best letter of the lot, and a fat man's fart for the rest...

NOT A HAPPY MAN

Dear YOB
I own a Megadrive. Please answer these questions:

1. What do you think of CDTV?
2. How much will SF2 cost? On the Megadrive, of course.
3. How much does the new six-button joypad cost?
4. Why is GO! so crap?
5. Why is Anglin so crap?

Thanks
M YANT
Somewhere,
Anywhere

YOB: 1. I think it's worse than a slow fart on a warm Sunday in Jeremy Beadle's house with all the windows shut and the doors locked.

2. Should come in at about forty quid. On the Megadrive, of course.

3. A bit more than a bit less.

4. Because you're so sad you don't own a hand-held and a man comes round your house every day trying to make your parents fill out a form donating you to medical science.

5. Because the same bloke goes round his house afterwards and tries to make them do it too.

DOH!

Dear YOB,
Could you please answer these questions, please?

1. When will Super Star Wars and Cybernator come out in the UK for SNES?
2. When will the CD-ROM be released in the UK?
3. Are Contra III and Super Probotector both the same game?
4. Would you recommend Super Double Dragon?

ROSS O'BRIEN
Co Clare, Ireland

PS I think Aidan Wallace is a plonker.

YOB:

1. It should be out by the time you read this.
  2. There's about as much chance of the drive coming out this year as County Clare suddenly relocating to somewhere worthwhile.
  3. Indeed they are.
  4. Not unless you wanted to endure a slow and painful death.
- PS You could well be right...

HELP! I'M NOT FUNNY

Hi there YOB (or whoever is reading this). I don't know if you remember me, but I wrote to you a couple of weeks ago spouting on about this, that and the other. Well it's two o'clock in the morning and I'm a bit bored so I thought I'd send you some more scribbles. I'm sure you're familiar with (THIS SECTION HAS BEEN DELETED ON THE GROUNDS OF GOOD TASTE-YOB) except wash the guys' underwear. I guess you'll have to edit this letter if you do print it, but do I care? Yes, actually.

PETER 'BAZ' BAILEY
Willenhall, West Midlands
PS I'll be back.

YOB: I wouldn't count on it.

SADLY LACKING

Dear YOB,

I would be grateful if you could answer these questions for me:

1. Which game do you think is the best out of Super NBA, NCAA, NBA All Star Challenge and Bulls vs Blazers?
  2. I am thinking of getting an arcade joystick for my Super NES. Which do you recommend?
  3. Any news on the CD-ROM unit for the Super NES?
  4. Are there any decent games coming out for the Super Scope?
  5. Is there a colour Game Boy really coming out?
- Thanks
KEVIN PARKER
Wokingham, Berks
PS I think your mag is really great.
- YOB:
1. I've got to be honest and tell you I think basketball

- computer games are the cackest thing since The Big E, so if you want my advice don't buy any of them.
- Nintendo's own basketball game, coming soon, is probably best of the lot.
2. The Capcom Arcade Power Stick is probably the best around. It's got six buttons, takes a right pounding and looks good. What more could you ask?
3. Not really. It's definitely in development, is definitely a 32-bit machine which bolts onto the Super NES and almost definitely won't come out until early next year.
4. Battle Clash isn't too bad, although generally it has to be said that most Super Scope games stink worse than your socks after two weeks and Nintendo ought to be ashamed of themselves for releasing them.

UNFIT TO LIVE

Dear YOB,

I think you are really cool. Last week I lost my totally cool Ryu badge. After dinner my sister Claire told me that she had found it. When she gave it to me the pin on the back was broken. So please please please please please could you send me one? If you do it would mean a lot because I wear it everywhere I go. I get CVG every month and it is BRILL.

SHANE O'DRISCOLL
Co Cork, Ireland

YOB: OK, it's time to play the great YOB Answer game, in which the readers guess to choose which answer is, in fact, the correct one. Is it:

- a. Certainly Shane, you fine person you.
- b. Oh dear, Shane. What a shame, Shane. Sorry, but I can't help right now.
- c. Whatever next, you bloody stupid Paddy?

HAVE YOU GOT BRAINS?

Dear YOB,

The February edition of CVG saw the last part of the Streetfighter 2 Strategy Manual. It gave you hints and tips for how to beat M Bison and I didn't fail to realise that M Bison himself was not in his own stage but in Chun Li's. I know now there must be a cheat to go M Bison so would you please please tell me it 'cos I'd be dead grateful.

VINCENT WILSON
Liverpool

PS Can I have the £100.00 cash prize?

YOB: The cart we used for the awesome SF2 Strategy Manual was our own Limited Edition custom-copy of the cart which, among other things, allows you to choose which boss to play, where to play him, what colour his underpants are and how settings we had chosen from the CVG Control Panel were M Bison, China, Black and Get Those Pants Down The Laundrette Sharpish Before They Walk There Themselves. I would send it to you now that we've finished with it - but I won't.

PS Does Bob Monkhouse make anyone laugh?

SHUFFLING SHANDY MAN

Yo YOB,

I am probably your biggest fan, so I thought I might write in with a few quizzes:

1. Is SF2 better than Mario 4?
2. Is Joe 'N' Mac any good on the SNES?
3. I have saved up £66.16p which I'm going to spend on software for my SNES. What game should I get apart from SF2, Mario 4 and Bart's Nightmare?
4. Why do EA hardly make any SNES carts when they've made about 60 for the Megadrive?
5. Is an Action Replay better than a Game Genie?
6. Why are me and you so cool?
7. Is Sonic 2 better than Mario 4?
8. What is better - a Megadrive or a SNES?
9. Recently I wrote to Nintendo, asking them to publish a fab game I had made up. They said write to the manufacturing Nintendo software house, but they didn't give me the address of it. As you're so cool, could you give it to me?
10. When will SF Turbo come out?
11. I missed issue 134 of CVG so could you please send it to me?

DANIEL JONES
Yoblanland, Essex
PS Print this letter!

YOB: 1. In terms of sheer brilliance, they're almost exactly the same - although Streetfighter wins out because there's no real end to the game as long as you're playing with somebody else. Streetfighter 2 is indeed the Greatest Game Of All Time - until something better comes along.

2. Nah.
  3. Get Starwing and use the rest of the cash on some new underpants - you'll need them.
  4. EA have decided only to convert their very best Megadrive titles and develop completely original games on the SNES. That all sounds rather damn sensible to me, so who's complaining?
  5. Depends whether you want to be Sad or Completely Sad, in which case you'll be Too Sad To Tell The Difference.
  6. I'm not at all sure about that 'me' bit...
  7. Nah.
  8. Depends which games you like and how much money you've got to spend.
  9. Nah.
  10. Who told you it will?
  11. Nah.
- PS Why should I?

SAD WITH UNFORTUNATE SURNAME

Dear YOB,

I am a poor boyseil in distress and I need your help very badly. Call me a failure, or even a blob of useless pus, but it's not gonna stop me from asking my question.

1. Could you tell me how to kill the witch in King's Quest V (that's number 5) on the PC? I would appreciate it very much.
2. Can I have some passwords for Another World on the PC?
3. I think your mag is really great, but try to review some more NES games. By the way, I heard some stories about you giving 100 pounds to the best letter you print. I know that this letter is worse than a piece of puked out watermelon, but I really could use the cash.

PAUL BUNT

Netherland Embassy, Abu Dhabi, UAE.

YOB: 1. Yes, I could.

2. No, you can't.

3. You're wrong. Your letter is actually worse than a piece of watermelon which came out the other end, so I'll only give you the cash when you can prove you've exchanged your brain.

MY PARENTS SHAVED A GORILLA

Dear YOBBO,

My name is Amy and I am a person (Doh!) My friend is Brooke, who is madly in love with you. (We are girls). I think you bear a resemblance to Luke Perry - NOT! When I first saw your picture I continuously vomited for two weeks. I LOVE video games. I have a SNES and Game Gear. I don't know why you don't publish many girls' letters, you sexist snob. Yob. You look like something on the end of Kylie Minogue's bum. Think of that as a compliment.

Hi, this is Brooke. Don't believe a word Amy said. She's just jealous. I don't buy your mag but Amy does and I read hers! God, it's bloody expensive. Yob, I have never seen you and I don't plan to either. I reckon YOB stands for Yucky Old Barsteward and the only good thing about you is the insults so go ahead and write lots. Me and Amy have just been looking at some old mags and read the insults. What a crack-up! If you think that's what we waste our time doing then you're a load of BEEP! (I am a woman. God I love insulting!) I don't know why I'm writing this because you won't print it, I bet. Have fun!

Love and kisses

GO AWAY

Dear YOB,

I have a Super Nintendo and I have a few questions I would like you to answer:

1. Is there going to be a CD for the SNES?

2. If so, what's the release date?

3. What games would you recommend?

JAMES GREEN

PS Please could I have 100 quid?

1. Yup.

2. Probably not this year.

3. CD Mysterython, CD

WORSE THAN

BBC2

Dear YOB,

I read the letter by Rory O'Kelly called "To PC or not PC" and was amazed by the ignorance shown about PC gaming. (This section

YOB) Sorry it dragged on but it needed sorting out.

WEE-OOH! WEE-OHH! SIMPLETON ALERT!

Dear YOB,

Please answer these few simple questions:

1. Is the Mega-CD a 32-bit machine?

2. Why is Rory McCormack a fat (CENSORED - YOB)?

3. Which machine do you think is best: Super Nintendo or

Megadrive?

4. Please tell me the code on

Streetfighter 2 for SNES to make it turn into Championship Edition.

DIDN'T I USED TO HAVE FRIENDS?

Yo YOB!

I'm Graeme Bown. I'm probably the only nine-year-old who owns a SNES and completes Streetfighter 2 on Level seven and get to the Special World on Mario Androm complete! I have a few questions for you.

1. I'm hearing a few rumours that there's going to be a game called Mario in the Fifth Dimension, where you race and fight Sonic, fight Zangief etc etc. Is this true?
2. When the SNES CD-ROM comes out, will there be a CD version of Streetfighter 2 or Streetfighter Turbo?
3. When will Streetfighter Turbo come out?
4. No offence, but Garth used to be Editor of a Spectrum mag. Why did he bother, when he knew consoles lead?

GRAEME BOWN (NOT BROWN)

Weymouth, Dorset

PS I have enclosed a picture to give an important message to people who play Mario IV and would be glad if you print it.
YOB:1. Yes.

According to my sources in Japan, the game will use the incredible new BMX chip and during the game Mario spins his chin so hard he takes off into this amazing new dimension where up is down, left is right, black is blue and nobody with stupid surnames ever wastes my time again.

2. Bound to be.
  3. You're the second person to ask me that.
  4. So what do you think he's doing on CVG then? Doh!
- PS I'd be glad to.

POPULAR? NOT ME!

Dear YOB,

I love reading CVG, especially your Mailbag. You're the funniest person I've ever read since Good Omens by Terry Pratchett. Here are some questions I would like you to answer:

1. Why in CVG do you never do reviews for the Atari ST?
2. Is the ST as good as the Amiga?
3. Send me £100.

CARL FORTER
Weston Super Mare

YOB:

1. See Question 2.
2. Which answers question 1.
3. That's not a question.

THREE IMBECILES FOR THE PRICE OF ONE

Dear YOB,

I have been reading CVG for a long time now. I hope you are impressed. ALEXANDER PATTERSON, JOSEPH ELLIS and EDMUND BAKER
Diss, Norfolk.

YOB: Did you take it in turns writing this - one letter each and lowest IQ gets to lick the stamp? Is there any point to any of you at all, or am I just hallucinating when I see you all sitting in your high chairs with big spoons and chicken and banana flavour baby food, failing to get any of it into your mouths and screaming that your nappies need changing? Thought not.

NAIL UP THE BOX - QUICKLY!

Dear YOB,

Can you please tell me when will Streetfighter 2 ever come out on the Master System because I see it's on the Commodore 64 and it's really bugging me. And if you think that's an 'm sad lad who blow-dries his bottom you've got another thing coming...you mouldy spam sandwich!

PHILIP PRIOR
Newbury, Berks

THE TRUTH EXPOSED!

YOB: Sadly, there's as much chance of SF2 on the Master System as there is of you avoiding a serious dose of pills unless you keep the air speed down.

STEVE SPILSBURY IS FUNNY - CLAIM

Dear YOB,

Remember the chart toppers in Oct '83 ish of CVG - Jetpac, Space Raiders, Arcadia and Donkey Kong? Well you might not, but I do. (That's because you're a boring old fart who will know that these games were produced by Ultimate, Atari, Imagine and Nintendo respectively - YOB). And in all that time I have read this mag (ten years) I have never felt so compelled to write until now. The article in question is: PC Engine - The One That Got Away. I am 24 and in my time I have had a Vic 20, Megadrive, BBC B, SNES and a Turbo Duo. I treated myself to a Duo in November of last year from my local dealers Console Concepts and to open this month's mag and see that article was just too much. I had to write and say why don't NEC get their act together? Don't they think that the British public need the Duo (Mega-CD ha ha ha). Keep up the good work and long live Paul Anglin.

STEVE SPILSBURY
Stoke-On-Trent, Staffs.

YOB: Is everyone over 20 a time-hardened lump of horse cack or is that what living in Stoke-On-Trent does to people?

BAW! NEW FANGLED COMPUTER GAMES! BRING BACK THE Z7-BI! THE B.B.C. ACORN! QHTES...BLAH...

FLIBBLE FLOBBLE

Dear YOB,
Please can I know about cheats on Nintendo NES version Super on Mario Bros and cheats onto Master System Two on the Ninja and Alex Kidd in the Miracle World. Thank you.
NIKI WILLIAMS
Llandysill, Dyfed
YOB: You're welcome.

STEVE SEZ:

WHAT'S YOUR PROBLEM?

Want to plug your SNES into your mum's huge TV? Got a stupid brother who's busting your carts? Confused about converters? Worry ye not! Steve Keen's had all these problems and many more! The only difference between him and you is that he's sorted them all out and is now at one with the technical universe. Oh, he's also six-foot-one, an expert in Judo and leads a full and active social life...

SPEEDY PC

I've got a 386 PC and I've heard about 486s. What's the difference? They've both got similar speeds between 25 and 33MHz. John Wilson, Bexley

Basically a 486 is much faster than a 386. Although they have the same speeds, the 486 has got a much faster processor. It's a bit like a taking a Mini and turbo charging it, giving it a fuel-injection system, gas-flowing the cylinder heads and adding go-faster stripes. It'll then go as fast as a Porsche but it'll be a real strain. The Porsche will take it all in its stride.

CARTRIDGE CALAMITIES

I read that using those universal cartridge adapters on my SNES which take two cartridges could blow a fuse in my machine. Is this true? Robert Croft, Dudley

There's been a lot of debate about this, but as far as I know, you can't blow your SNES that way. Obviously it's best to use games released in the machine's country of origin, but we've had no problems with our adaptor.

GENIE-US

Can using a Game Genie or Action Replay cartridge damage my games? My friend reckons it can, but I think he's wrong. Peter Bryant, Acton

Using a cheat cartridge won't damage your games, as they work by altering the information that is stored in the machine's memory rather than the data on the cartridge's ROMs.

LINE OUTS

When I play my Megadrive on a TV I get a line near the bottom of the screen. Does this mean there's something wrong with my machine? If not, how do I get rid of it. Richard Simpson, London

That line is just one of the quirky things that all Megadrives do. There's no way to get rid of it and it plagues every Megadrive owner, so just forget about it.

JOYSTICK JAPERY

Can I use Amiga Joysticks on my Megadrive, because I don't like the Sega joy pads?

Julie McVitie, Liverpool

Nope, only joysticks specifically designed for the Megadrive will work. If you're that sick of joy pads, Sega has just released a rather excellent stick which costs a mere £24.99.

SUPER SONIC

Please could you answer some questions about the Mega CD:

1. Because of the new chips, is it better than the SNES?
2. Can the Mega CD run CD-I games?
3. Will Sonic be coming out on CD? Mat Johnson, Shropshire

1. It's unfair to compare the two machines as cartridges can't hold as much information as CDs but it's really down to the games rather than the machines.

This month we review Final Fight on Mega CD (page 48-50) and it's the hottest Sega CD game we've seen and a good reason for all Megadrivers to upgrade.

2. No. CD-I is Phillips' compact disc machine which uses software specific to it.
3. Super Sonic is due to be released in Japan any week now. As for the European release date, Sega is staying tighter lipped than Roy Castle in a kipper shop!

POWER-UP

I've got an Amiga 600 and I'm thinking of upgrading to a 1200. Are there any games specific to it and will my old games work on it? Bob Sloan, Berks

Apart from the odd title such as Zool and Wing Commander there aren't any games specifically designed for the 1200, but there are loads of games which work better on it. Many companies are now developing software with 'enhancements' on the 1200, as the machine outsold all Commodore's other products over Christmas. As for specific games, there are whispers and rumours, so keep an eye out for a batch of 1200 reviews in CVG some time in the next six months.

SEEDY IMPORTS

I've just bought a British Mega CD and I want to know if Japanese games will work on it. James Hartley, Suffolk

No they won't. Sega has built a protection chip into the European Mega CD which scans discs for a specific piece of code. If it doesn't find it the game won't run.

MONITOR THE ACTION

I want to buy a PC so I can play games like X-Wing, but they cost too much money with monitors. Is it possible to run them through a TV? I own an Amiga 1200 and was wondering if there are any PC emulators available for it, and if so, are they any good? Stephen Ashby, Aberdeen

You can't run a PC through a TV because the screen can't handle the resolution of the graphics. As for PC emulators for the 1200, there are some in development, but once you buy the emulator you'll also need to purchase extra memory, a hard drive, video card and high density disk drive, so you're probably better off buying the real thing.

SIX-BUTTON MAYHEM

What's all this talk about Streetfighter Championship Edition coming out on the Megadrive? I own a SNES and reckon it can't be done - for starters the joy pads don't have enough buttons. Name and address not supplied

Nyarrg! I've heard this one more times than Paul Rand's had dates with top girls. The said game is coming out on the Megadrive later this year. It will be the Championship Edition and Sega is also releasing a special six-button joystick. Incidentally, the new Megadrive II will come complete with these new pads.

AMIGA/ATARI CONUNDRUM

I'm thinking of buying an Amiga 1200, but was reading about the Atari Falcon and now I'm not sure which one to go for. Which one would you recommend? Alan Davies, Fleetwood

Each machine has its merits; in the Amiga's case, it's actually available. Technically the Falcon is the superior machine when it comes to sound and graphics but it also has a faster processor, but it lacks the custom chips of the Amiga. If you're after something mainly for games, the 1200 seems your best bet, simply because of the amount of software that's in the pipeline.

CONSOLE YOURSELF

Is it true there's going to be an Amiga console? If there is going to be one, will it be CD-based and will it be much better than the Sega Megadrive? Barry Straeier, Wiltshire

There is going to be an Amiga console in the very near future, although Commodore is being really cagey about its technical specifications. We'll let you know exactly what it's all about as soon as we have some more info.

TV HELL

My mum won't let me play my SNES on the big TV in the living room because she reckons it'll bust the screen. I say it can't but she doesn't believe me. Tell her she's wrong so that I can have some wide-screen action. Paul Tunstal, Newcastle

Mrs Tunstal, you're wrong. Consoles and computers can't damage normal TVs, although they can cause problems with projection TVs, but as nobody owns one it's hardly worth mentioning. So just cut out the amateur dramatics and let Paul use your television for what it was really meant for! (And I'm sure that he'll let you use the telly to watch Richard and Judy on Good Morning).

SCART-ALOGICAL

I've just got a new TV with a SCART socket, and as my Megadrive has a compatible output socket, I was wondering whether it would be better to connect it this way. Daniel Leary, Rochester Definitely use the SCART socket! You'll get a much clearer picture and far better sound with SCART as it keeps each signal separate, whereas a TV aerial lead has them going down only two cables.

CARTRIDGE CALAMITIES

Is it possible to damage a cartridge by pulling it out of the machine without switching it off? It's just that I was playing Mario Kart with my brother and won, so he ripped the game out - now when I plug the game in it just doesn't work at all. Please help. John Harris, Bolton

Your brother has well and truly knackered your game. Always switch your console off before removing the cartridge, otherwise you risk a power surge, thereby damaging the machine as well as the cartridge.

EMERGENCY SURGERY

When I switch my Megadrive on the picture comes out funny. I can eventually get a decent picture by hitting the corner where the cable plugs in, but I don't think that's good for the machine. Name and address not supplied

It sounds as though you've got a loose connection in the TV modulator or your lead is damaged, so it'll be cheaper to try a friend's lead first to see if that's the problem before sending your Megadrive anywhere.

GOT A PROBLEM?

Never fear, Captain Keen is here, complete with underpants over his trousers! Our boy Steve is here to answer all your little questions about your games playing kit. So what are you waiting for? Ask away!

Got a problem? Do you think that newspapers take a load of old coppers about computer games? (We do!) Not quite sure how to get the best out of your console? Confused about converters? Then it's time to pour your heart out to Steve Keen - the agony uncle with attitude and a screwdriver. Scribble down your problems and send them to: STEVE KEEN'S GOT SO MANY PROBLEMS THAT ONE OF MINE WON'T MAKE ANY DIFFERENCE, WHAT'S YOUR PROBLEM?, CVG Towers, Third Toilet on the Left, Priory Court, 30-32 Farringdon Lane, London EC1R 3AU. Steve can't promise to answer all your queries. Especially if they're crap ones.

STAR TREK II

FALL

PC • INTERPLAY • STBA

The crew of the USS Enterprise will be boldly going where no man has gone before yet again this Summer, thanks to Interplay and a whole new set of adventures they've dreamed up for Kirk and co. These days Spock, Bones, Scotty and the gang may be getting on a bit, but Interplay has gone back once again to the good old days of the original 60s TV series (before they all got fat and bald) for the sequel to last year's 25th Anniversary game. As before, the game is broken down into eight missions, each one presented like an individual TV episode. As Kirk, you're responsible for commanding the Enterprise and leading the landing party in each of the mysterious adventures.

Battling in space with Klingons and Romulans, unravelling the secrets of ancient alien races and generally saving the Universe is all part of the job for the Enterprise crew in Star Trek II (working title), which like 25th Anniversary, is a half-and-half mix of arcade space battling and head-scratching graphic adventure. Look out for some genuinely bizarre storylines, including a trip back in time to World War I Germany, and the return of some of the first game's nastier characters! Star Trek II is expected to beam down this Summer, alongside the long-awaited Amiga conversion of the first game, so it looks as though it'll be a Trek-tabulous year for floppy owners all round!

SNES/MEGA DRIVE • ELECTRONIC ARTS • £44.99

What's this? ANOTHER new video game hero? In the wake of the Big Two (Mario and Sonic, of course), we've had no end of new console characters hoping to repeat their success - Zool, James Pond, Bubsy, Cool Spot to name but four, and now we can add BOB to the list. BOB, in case you haven't heard by now (he has been getting rather a lot of press lately as the Next Big Thing), is a bionic android with an attitude (aren't they all?) on a mission to keep a date with his girlfriend (if you're wondering what a girlfriend is, you sad computer games playing people, look it up in the dictionary).

Unfortunately, on the way to his hot date, BOB crash-lands his spaceship on an alien planet and now has to make it through a seemingly endless series of caverns populated by the none-too-happy alien residents and their even more displeased bosses. Armed only with a gun and portable trampoline to start off with, BOB's able to pick up extra bits and pieces along the way to help him on his mission. Sounds

Bob's got a bird - why haven't you?

The perils of pumping iron...

Bob lets go with his feelings.

Star Trek: Can Spock uncover the secret of the organic green wig factory?

like you've heard it all before? Well we thought that too, but Electronic Arts is promising that it really will be very good indeed, and we have to believe them because (nearly) all their games are excellent. So there you have it.

INNOCENT UNTIL CAUGHT

FALL

AMIGA/PC • PSYGNOSIS • £29.99

As we edge closer to 1993's halfway mark, we're still waiting for this year's big graphic adventure. Monkey Island 2 and Lindy 4 were tops last year, but this time

Lucasfilm have got their work cut out for them thanks to the new team of Divide by Zero and their sci-fi comedy called Innocent Until Caught.

The player is cast as Jack T Ladd, a freewheeling space trader hauled in by the galactic taxmen and given 24 hours to pay off a massive revenue bill. Getting the money means falling in with a seedy crime organisation and stealing some of the most valuable artifacts in the cosmos. It sounds like serious sci-fi, but the game's a comedy – a cross between Hitch-Hiker's Guide to the Galaxy and the Carry On films so expect plenty of rude jokes. "One of our artists has done illustrations for Penthouse and Mayfair, which is a good qualification for this type of product," say the team. As well as spanning three whole planets, Innocent Until Caught is claiming to be the most technically advanced graphic adventure yet, with a super-intelligent point-and-click interface, eight-way scrolling and a revolutionary character interaction system. It all happens this Summer on PC first with the Amiga version following in Autumn. We don't know yet if it'll be a hit, but it looks lovely and Psynosis are obviously confident, since the team is already working on a sequel!

PUGGSY

SUMMER

MEGA DRIVE • PSYGNOSIS • £39.99

Looking like a piece of plasticine with eyes, Puggsy first started life as a character in a series of freaky Amiga demos a couple of years back - Psynosis liked the character, and a game starting the scarlet hero has been in the offing ever since. Now, at last, the waddling blob is to get his commercial debut in a Mega Drive game named after him!

Puggsy is a scroller that has our hero getting lost on the way to the corner shop and having to find his way back. Puggsy's a bit stupid you see, and needs all the help from you he can get. That means guiding him through seventeen colourful locations in search of his stolen spaceship and going up against over a hundred types of alien creature along the way. Psynosis being Psynosis, the game has plenty of technical highlights, including full screen rotation, no less than 34 different soundtracks and a ray-traced intro sequence! Mega Drive owners will be the first to sample Puggsy's charms when the game's released later this Summer, while SNES gamers are going to have to wait until Christmas. A review will follow real soon...

TRODDLERS

SUMMER

SNES • STORM • £44.99

RELEASE

Hot on the heels of Lemmings come another gang of helpless (and rather cute) little men who need your help to save them. They're the Troddlers, Storm's big Amiga game of last year

Troddlers! Lemmings: it's not!

Look! It's a pesky Troddler with very uncool trousers on.

Troddlers stick to the walls so remember that when you build for them.

which, despite many criticisms of being just a Lemmings rip-off, emerged as one of the best games of '92. Now, like most successful Amiga games these days, it's on its way to the Super NES in the form of a straight conversion that should please anybody bored of the never-ending stream of platform games and beat'em-ups.

Troddlers sounds a lot like Lemmings on paper, but in fact it's got a gameplay style all of its own. In each of the 175 levels the player has to fulfill his mission objective - it might be to rescue a certain number of the innocent Troddlers or fight the Troddler-killing zombies or pick up a certain number of special bonuses. Whatever you have to do, the rules remain the same - your on-screen character has no direct control over the Troddlers, but can influence their actions by dropping blocks and other obstacles in their path to make them do what you want. On each level the action takes place on a single boxed-in screen, with the Troddlers able to walk up the walls and even shuffle upside-down across the ceiling!

Extra fun is to be had in the simultaneous two-player mode, where contestants can either work together or battle it out for the most points by destroying each other's precious Troddlers! It's frenetic stuff and bound to be a hit with those who liked the look of Lemmings but found it a bit too taxing - this is a little simpler and more action-orientated. It's also due out in July, so look out for a review soon.

WIZ'N'LIZ

SUMMER

RELEASE

Once you've liberated the bunnies, find your way out!

Send me an original caption for this screenshot and I'll send you a prize!

MEGA DRIVE • PSYGNOSIS • £39.99

More arcade action is hot-footing its way towards the Mega Drive - but this one's a little different to the rest of the action carts you'll find on offer this Summer. For a start there are NO in-game baddies to battle at all! Instead, Wiz'n'Liz pits you against the clock on a quest to collect rabbits from a series of magical landscapes. The story goes that since the two powerful wizards Wiz'n'Liz bought a pair of rabbits to keep them company, the floppy-eared friends have been... erm... "at" constantly, resulting in no end of energetic off-spring. When there finally got to be too many to keep in the house, Wiz'n'Liz released them into the wild to fend for themselves, but later realised they couldn't survive on their own, so now they have to go out and collect them all up again before they perish. It's a high-speed collect'em-up like no other, is Wiz'n'Liz. Playing against the clock is fun, but Psygnosis reckon the real laughs will be had in the split-screen two player mode, where Wiz and Liz compete against each other to snatch the most bunnies in the time allowed. With over a hundred magic spells to help you through the 56 levels and a host of exotic sub-games, Wiz'n'Liz promises to be at least one of the most frantic games of 1993. The Mega Drive version is currently being beavered away with as we write and should be released this Summer, with the inevitable Amiga and Super NES versions planned for conversion and should be released some time later on in the year.

Wiz'n'Liz: Two wizards

ROCK'N'ROLL RACING

SUMMER SNES • INTERPLAY • £44.99

What have racing cars and hot rock music got in common? Not very much at all you might think, but Interplay sees it quite differently if its latest release is anything to go by. The general gist of the game is pretty much given away by the title: it's a racing game with a rock'n'roll soundtrack!

RELEASE

High-octane isometric antics await contestants in the surreal racing tournament set in outer space. Choose your vehicle from one of the many high-tech models available, customise it, then race it against the alien opponents over 50 weird and wonderful tracks suspended high above ground level. Cash prizes can be used to buy weapons like laser cannons and cluster bombs to eradicate the opposition in the next race! Sound is of course, brilliant with many famous rocking numbers from the 60s, including Peter Gunn, Bad To The Bone and Steppenwolf's classic Born To Be Wild. And there's plenty of sampled speech, provided by "world famous" racing commentator Larry Huffman. It's due out next month, so keep 'em peeled for the review and in the meantime, plug your SNES into the stereo, crank that volume to the max and get ready to seriously annoy the neighbours!

TWO TRIBES POPULOUS II

MEGA DRIVE • VIRGIN • £39.99

Well, Mega Drive owners have certainly had to wait long enough for their version of the world's greatest God-game. It first appeared on Amiga in Christmas 1991, and has since taken other floppy formats by storm and even spawned a spin-off Challenge Game disk. But it's only now that it finds its way onto the consoles, courtesy of original creators Bullfrog, publishers Virgin and an all-new trendy console name - Two Tribes.

A much enhanced and expanded version of the original Populous, Two Tribes once again pits two all-powerful Gods against each other for control of 1,000 landscapes down below on the real world - as the son of Zeus, your objective is to advance through the landscapes, taking on tougher and tougher opponents until finally challenging Zeus himself for a place on Mount Olympus. Create people, land, villages of your own to gain power, then use it to destroy your opponent's creations with volcanoes, tidal waves, thunderstorms and other acts of God. Populous has always been a thinking man's game, like playing Chess with real pieces, but this sequel is even more so, with dozens of new effects and more complex gameplay.

Now that it's finally finished, Two Tribes: Populous II should be released next month, and if you happen to be the owner of Sega's new Micro Trackball, you'll be pleased to hear that it's compatible with it. Review next ish.

Stage of Development

95% Completed

The popularity of the World Wrestling Federation may be on the wane in America, but over here in Britain it's going from strength to strength — would you believe the WWF record album is in the Top Ten and climbing as we write this? And with Hulk Hogan recently making a much-hyped return to the ring after mysterious leave of absence, what better time to celebrate with a new WWF game than right now?

Like Wrestlemania, and The Survivor Series, the Royal Rumble is one of the biggest events in the WWF calendar, bringing all the major superstars together for a big-time brawl to decide the new Champion. As you've no doubt already guessed, Acclaim's new game is based around that very tournament.

DADDY RUMBLE

Most (if not quite all) of your favourite WWF Superstars are taking part in this Royal Rumble, made up of a selection of new and old characters. There are a total of 12 in all — Ric Flair, Shaun Michaels, The Narcissist, Yokozuna, Razor Ramon, "Million Dollar Man" Ted DiBiase, Randy Savage, Mr Perfect, Crush, Tatanka, Bret "Hit Man" Hart and The Undertaker. Only the immortal Hulk Hogan himself is notable by his absence...

One or two players can step into the boots of their favourite grappler in a variety of different matches — there's the usual one-on-one bout, two or three-man tag team brawls and — the daddy of them all — the Royal Rumble itself. In this gargantuan battle to end all battles, up to eight Superstars climb into the ring for a free-for-all punch-up with no referee to maintain law and order. The object of the bout is simply to throw all of your opponents out of the ring, with the last wrestler left standing inside the squared circle declared the winner.

PAST FORM

We have to admit we don't know very much about Sculptured Software, the team behind WWF Royal Rumble, because they live in America and Lord EMAP won't pay for us to use the phone — the rotten old sod. But what we DO know is that the programmers behind this game are the same team who are also producing the Super Nintendo version of Mortal Kombat for Acclaim this Summer! If WWF is anything to go by, we should expect something very special from MK in a couple of months! (By the way, for more hush-hush Kombat info, flick to page eight of this month's News section).

PAST FORM

PERFECT?

WWF Royal Rumble is Acclaim's first ever 16Mb cartridge — and it shows. From what we've seen so far, it could well be the most authentic and playable WWF outing so far, featuring super-accurate wrestler sprites (and sampled renditions of their theme tunes), some gorgeous animation and more moves than you can shake a stick at. Each wrestler has their own trademarked "finishing move" (including The Undertaker's fatal Tombstone and Mr Perfect's unbeatable Perfect Plex), and the sight of eight wrestlers grappling in the same ring in the big Rumble has to be seen to be believed! Look out too for guest appearances from WWF commentators Bobby "The Brain" Heenan and "Mean" Gene Okerlund, included to give the finished article even more of real feel.

With work on the cart now almost complete and the game scheduled for a release early next month, WWF-mania certainly looks set to repeat the success of previous World Wrestling Federation tie-ins grip the video games world like never before — keep an eye out next month for the CVG review!

WHAT HAPPENS NEXT?

GRAPHICS

There isn't much more work to do, since it's nigh-on complete already and is just waiting for the go-ahead from Acclaim. But the graphics are a treat — our WWF fans were able to identify the characters with ease, which gives you an idea of how good they look.

SOUND

Sound effects will be big and beefy, with lots of grunts and groans to add atmosphere to the action. Each wrestler's tune (like Macho Man's "Land of Hope and Glory") has been converted faithfully to the SNES, so WWF fans should be well pleased.

GAMEPLAY

Royal Rumble uses a control system which allows dozens of different holds, suplexes, throws, kicks and slaps from just four buttons! The office preview cart has been a big hit with the CVG lads so far, but you'll have to wait until next ish for our official verdict!

WIN TWO SEASON TICKETS WORTH UP TO £1000!!

The greatest prize in British football, the FA Cup, will be up for grabs about now and tickets for the final will be selling like sun block in the Sahara Desert! If you can't buy a dodgy ticket off the street for humungous amounts of cash, you're stuffed! But your fave mag is here with the solution: CVG and US Gold are giving away full season tickets to any club in the UK for two extremely lucky winners.

THE COMP

So if you want to cheer your favourite club on next season or even if you just want to know exactly how hard Vinnie Jones is in the flesh, here's what to do. Jon, with the aid of his magic box of crayons, has placed this picture on the spread. Unfortunately, the curly haired dope tripped on one of his girly locks and has removed the football and slipped it onto the side of the page. Simply stick the ball where you think it should go in one of four places; A, B, C or D. It's a cinch. Cut out the pic with the ball attached, stick it in an envelope and whisk it off to: BRIAN CLOUGH MAY NOT MAKE IT TO THE NEXT SEASON, BUT I WILL!, CVG, PRIORY COURT, 30-32 FARRINGDON LANE, LONDON. EC1R 3AU.

THE WINNER

If you're chosen you must select your two season tickets from a UK-based football club. Should these be impossible to secure, sports vouchers will be awarded to the same value of both tickets.

THE AGE

If you're fortunate enough to have the best years of your life ahead, if are under 16, you must be accompanied to each match by an adult, which means your dad'll probably never make you do the washing up again!

THE ENTRIES

All entries must reach us by June 9th 1993 and the winners will be announced in the August issue of CVG. Please don't write in and tell us you ought to have won (and whatever I say goes — Garth). GOOD LUCK!
