You've broken through enemy lines, you've captured the Rapier machine gun... now you have got to get back to base... but first you will have to cross the Line of Fire.

Get your trigger finger ready for unlimited fire power, pilot high speed powerboats through white water rapids, aircraft through dense jungles, advancing, reversing, circling 360°, dodging helicopter squadrons out to get you.

REVIEWS INDEX

THE RATINGS

When a game is reviewed, we give ratings for five different criteria:

GRAPHICS

Does the game look good? Is the scrolling smooth? Are the sprites flickery? Is the animation realistic? This mark covers all visual aspects of the game.

SOUND

Sound and music that enhance a game are given high marks. The sound rating is low if the soundtrack or effects are inappropriate.

VALUE

Here, we take into consideration the price of the game, the amount of entertainment it offers and the quality of the packaging. In other words - is it worth the money.

PLAYABILITY

This tells you how addictive and enjoyable the game is - the higher the rating is, the more playable the game is.

OVERALL

The most important rating of all. This is what we think of the game as a whole, taking into consideration all the other ratings. In short, how good the game really is.

THE MARKS

85+

A C+VG HIT! An outstanding game that shouldn't be missed.

70-85

A very good game that missed out on a higher accolade due to minor discrepancies. Should definitely be tried, though.

55-69

Average to fairly good. Could still appeal to fans of the genre.

40-55

Below average to average. Generally a disappointment.

15-39

Generally a poor game that mightn't even appeal to the most ardent fans.

14-

Ugh! Binary sewage that's guaranteed to make your computer throw up.

THE REVIEWERS

PAUL GLANCEY

C+VG's resident brainbox, who enjoys games that require the use of the little grey cells.

RICHARD LEADBETTER

A violence-crazed maniac (sort of) - beat 'em ups and shoot 'em ups are his bag.

MATT REGAN

C+VG's strategy dude, who has always got his nose in an RPG, adventure, or simulation.

ROBERT SWAN

A bit of an odd 'un is Rob. Shoot 'em ups and platform games are a turn-on, but Sims REALLY get him going!

UNDERNEATH THIS COMPUTER IS AN ARCADE FIGHTING TO GET OUT.

Underneath the respectable exterior of the new Amstrad Plus range of computers, lurks a monster.

And a few robots. And stacks of superheroes. In fact, a whole arcade full of games just waiting to be played.*

Because even though the 6128 Plus and 464 Plus are both serious computers (with free BASIC programming language) they're both ready for fun whenever you are.

Whether you choose the advanced, disk driven 6128 Plus or the cassette drive 464 Plus, you'll love the superb graphics palette, the stereo sound and your own paddle for total playing control.

Both computers also take instant loading ROM cartridges, so you get instant access to top rated games from the best software houses in Europe.

And they're both compatible with hundreds of CPC titles on disk and cassette.

You'll also get straight into the great high speed car game 'Burnin Rubber' because it comes free with your computer. Both models come complete with a choice of stereo monochrome or stereo colour monitor and a full sized keyboard.

So if your Amstrad starts acting like an arcade, don't worry. Just play along.

NEWS

EAT MY SHORTS, MAN!

Pictured here is the new Simpsons pintable, but forget about that, because the real business of this news piece is the announcement that Ocean have snapped up the licence to the Simpsons, the show which is currently wowing SKY TV viewers! In the US, The Simpsons have already gained more cult popularity than the Turtles (and that's big!), and are set to do the same over here, what with associated merchandising and the like. A Nintendo version of The Simpsons is already out in the States, courtesy of Acclaim, but it remains until next summer to see if Bart and his family can achieve the same status on British computer screens.

SEGA GET IN GEAR

It seems like hand-helds are all the rage, these days - what with the Nintendo Game Boy (now officially available in this country and selling like hot cakes), the Atari Lynx and the soon to be released TurboExpress GT (the portable PC Engine), it looks like portable consoles are the games systems of the future. Now Sega have jumped onto the bandwagon with their new Game Gear, and the C+VG crew had a good look at an imported machine from Electro Games.

GEAR BOX

The Game Gear is essentially a portable Master System with extra bits. It's about two-thirds the size of the Lynx, measuring a meagre 103 x 210mm and weighing 570 g. It has a built-in 3 inch, backlit LCD colour screen, which can display 480 x 146 pixels, in any of 16 colours from a palette of 4096 (the Master System has a palette of 128). Though the games we saw made very Master System-like noises, the Game Gear can produce sound or music on three stereo channels, and it has its own stereo headphone socket for private listening.

GAME GEAR GEAR

The Game Gear's got a whole bundle of add-ons coming out as well, such as an optional TV tuner (so you can watch your fave shows wherever you want), a link-up lead, and a cable to connect the machine to the cigarette lighter of a car! But what about the games?

CAN I PLAY WITH MADNESS?

All the headbangers and moshers amongst you, listen up! US Gold have announced that they have acquired the licence to those metal monsters, Iron Maiden! PR supreme Danielle Woodyatt told us there are no plans at this time for what shape or form an Iron Maiden game will take, but it'll definitely feature Eddie (Maiden's mascot) as the central character, as well as loads of Maiden tracks! More news, as and when...

GAME GEAR GAMES

The machine was launched in Japan with three games, Super Monaco GP, Columns and Pengo, and after having a good look at all three we reckon they're pretty good. There are more on the way, including a conversion of Sega's stomach-churning coin-op G-LOC, as well as Wonderboy, Pro Baseball '90 and Dragon Crystal.

LANDING GEAR

The price? In Japan, this little wonder is selling for about 19800 yen, or about £79, with the games for only 3500 yen, or 14 quid! Could this be the end of the Lynx and the Game Boy? Not yet, because some of the importers who are bringing the machine into the UK at the moment are selling it for between £200 and £250! Virgin haven't set a price or a launch date as yet, but they hope to have Game Gears in the shops early next year, for under £100 - which seems much more sensible.

BULLFROG HOP IT

Bullfrog, developers of the critically-acclaimed God simulator, Populous, as well as the wacky Flood and the totally brilliant Powermonger (see the review later this issue), is planning to end its long-term relationship with publisher Electronic Arts, and set up under their own label, as Core Design and the Sales Curve have recently done. Rumours are flying around that Bullfrog will follow another top team, the Bit-map Brothers, and join up with the new Renegade label. Keep reading C+VG for more info as we get it.

DAMOCLES - THE NEXT GENERATION

Now that the excellent 16 bit sequel to Mercenary, Damocles, has been knocking around for a while, Novagen are about to unleash two mission disks that will expand on the original, with new plots and problems. And what's more, the two disks (the first should be about by the time you read this, the second is due in January of '91) will cost a grand total of just £9.99 each! We've no further info on what form the missions will take, but if you can't wait, Novagen can be reached on 021 449 3516.

AN EVEN BIGGER CHOPPER?

MicroProse are now planning to release a sequel to their best-selling smash copter sim, Gunship. Code-named Gunship 2000, the game will centre around an updated version of the Apache AH-64 attack copter, set against a world of drug barons and criminals, rather than the political Cold War theme of the original. According to trade newspaper CTW, the game has already been in production for 18 months, and should be ready for release on the PC around next June. If it's half as good as the original, Gunship 2000 should be nothing short of brilliant. Check out a preview in a future issue of C+VG, and watch the skies!

A HORSE'S HEAD IN YOUR BED?

With the long-awaited third film arriving in March 1991, US Gold will announce that they have acquired the license to The Godfather, the story of loyalty, power, and extreme violence within the Mafia, and particularly the Corleone family. USG supremo Geoff Brown commented that "there are only a small number of absolutely instantly recognisable licenses in the world, and The Godfather is high amongst these. With the launch of the new film, the spotlight will be firmly on The Godfather". We have our doubts, but USG intend to release both an interactive adventure and an action game, so judgement will be reserved until we see more on them.

GOLD LICENCES-A- GO-GO!

Sega have now made an agreement with US Gold which gives the Brummie boys the license to convert all present and future Sega coin-ops. The two titles planned for conversion at the moment are Super Monaco GP (to be written by Probe, and is planned to be a combination of the excellent Megadrive version and the coin-op), and the sequel to Afterburner, G-LOC. How these two monster coin-ops turn out on computer is anybody's guess, but we await the outcome with interest.

Also due to be unleashed are two Capcom coin-ops, MERCS (a multi-player Commando-style blast, to be done by Tiertex), and Final Fight, which Creative Materials (currently working on the conversions of E-SWAT and Line of Fire) will be doing the jobbie on. No info on release dates as yet, but as soon as we know, you will too.

SIM CITY MISSION DISKS

Not content with just releasing their amazing Sim Earth game, Maxis have come up with some new scenario disks for their classic "god" game. With the first disk, you can create cities based around Ancient Asia, Medieval times, and the Wild West (create your own Dodge City!). But there's more, in the form of a second data disk. This disk will welcome you to the 21st century, where you can build cities of the future in either America, Europe or even the Moon! Infogrames (rather than Ocean) are selling the disks at twenty sovs a piece. Sounds a tad overpriced, but if Sim City's your bag, check them out.

NEWS

SPREAD-SHEETS ON A MEGADRIVE?

Well, not quite, more like the other way around! What are we blathering on about? (What are YOU blathering on about, you mean, Rob - Ed) Sega are going to make the jump from console to computer (sort of) and are planning to release the first in what is expected to be a large range of PC compatibles! And what's more, Megadrive carts can be plugged into 'em, so you can mix business with pleasure! The Sega 286PC will be a 68000-based machine, with a 14" VGA monitor, a high-density 3.5" drive, a built-in modem and of course, the Megadrive cartridge port! Pheoowee! As you can see, it looks very nice indeed, but what it will cost and when it'll be available is as yet unknown. One thing is certain - if we get our hands on one, no work will ever get done!

IN THE DEEP MIDWINTER TOO

Rainbird have announced plans to release the sequel to their critically-acclaimed 3D epic, Midwinter. Maelstrom will once again be the brains behind the game - originally called Wildfire, but according to Julia Coombs, Micro-Prose's PR person, the final game will be called something along the lines of "Flames of Freedom" (dramatic, eh?). From what we've seen of the game so far, it's similar in aspect to the original - protect an archipelago of islands from invasion by a malevolent force - but is a heck of a lot bigger in most respects. There are zillions more characters and no less than 22 modes of transport (including scuba diving, mini-submarines, bi-planes and even Zeppelins!). Look out for more information as we get it!

WE'RE OFF TO SEE THE WIZARD - AGAIN

One of Ocean's major hits from several years ago was Wizball, a wacky shoot 'em up of sorts which cast the player as a wizard trying to return the colour to his blighted world. Now Ocean have announced plans for Wizball II, and have recruited the authors of the original, Sensible Software, to do the job. It should be very interesting to see if the sequel can grab more accolades than its predecessor, but you'll have to wait until spring of next year to find out - right here in C+VG.

CONSOLE BOOK IV - THE REVENGE!

Yes indeed, folks, not content with bringing you up to the minute console news in C+VG (or our new sister mag, Mean Machines, for that matter), we're now ploughing our way through the fourth book in the Complete Guide to Consoles series, and it's going to be the biggest and best yet! It'll be on the newsstands at the end of November, and will set you back the princely sum of £2.95. Don't miss it!

IMPOSSAMOLE CONQUERS USA

GERONAMOLE!!! After starring in five (count 'em!) computer games, our hero, Monty Mole is now poised to conquer the United States in an all-new impossible adventure for lucky TurboGrafx (PC Engine to us) owners. But it's not just one game that our Monty is set to appear in. NEC are rather excited about this little furry creature, and are also set to move the lovable mole into the "lucrative world of merchandising". So expect Monty cuddly toys and the like, as well as the Engine game. We'll keep you posted...

NEWS

HAVE FUN WITH YOUR JOYSTICKS

A bit cheesed off with your battle-weary Nintendo joypads? Finger cramp getting a bit too much? Well, you can wave goodbye to those NES terrors with these amazing new joysticks from Spectravideo. The NiPro boasts an enormous LED display, to tell you when you have moved or pressed a button (useful, huh?), and an ergonomically designed stick to boot. The Ni5 is a stick with less designer pulling power because it's merely a cut-down version of the Pro (and hasn't got the LEDs either).

They look a bit too unwieldy for us, but at £15.95 for the Ni5 and £19.99 for the NiPro, you're certainly getting value for money, and since they've both got micro switches, they should last for quite a long while as well.

I WANT TO RIDE MY BICYCLE

Feeling run down? Playing too many games, and not getting enough exercise? Now you can do both - at once! Coming soon to an arcade near you is the TeleBike, a game which involves cycling around city and countryside alike, whilst trying to win numerous races. As you can see, this involves pedalling like hell in order to keep out in front, which makes it possibly more knackered than the old Sega boxing game, Heavyweight Champ. Looks like the sort of game that'll either give you massive leg muscles or an early coronary if you ask us, but keep-fit fanatics should keep their eyes peeled.

COMMODORE SHOW TIME

If you're some kind of computer show groupie who can't wait until December for the Computer Shopper Show, then take heart, because on the 16th to the 18th of November, the Commodore Christmas Show is going to be swinging in full force at the Novotel, opposite the Hammersmith tube station.

Software companies like Ocean,

Electronic Arts, Domark, Psygnosis and Mindscape are promising to be there, so if you're a Commodore owner who wants to see what's what, then check it out. With sections like The Games Arcade, where jam-hot games are put to the test, it could well be a show to remember...

COMPUTER SHOPPER EXCITEMENT

Make sure you keep 6th to the 9th of December free in your diary, because that's when the fantastic Computer Shopper Show is going to taking place. There promises to be a huge amount of bargain goodies up for grabs, and this particular show is being touted as "the world's largest pre-Christmas computer shopping spree". Sounds good to us.

The show's also going to be used by several companies to launch exciting new products, and the super-secret Commodore CD-TV is also scheduled to make a special guest appearance. But there's no denying that the show's major pulling point is going to be colossal savings to be made no matter what computer (or even console) you own, so make sure you get down to the Wembley Conference Centre in London (get off the tube at Wembley Park and follow the signs) early to avoid the rush! And as an added incentive we've even got a coupon on this page that'll entitle you to a massive 50p saving on your entrance ticket! Good eh?

▲ Turtles on the Amstrad CPC.

They're acknowledged as THE comic sensation of the nineties... They're cool, they're mean - and they don't like anchovies on their pizzaz! They're the Teenage Mutant Hero Turtles - four street-cred amphibians with a mission in mind - to seek out the evil Shredder and his diabolical Foot Clan and kick them out of New York.

But laying waste to the city with a lethal crime wave isn't the only piece of nastiness that the Shredder has come up with. In a maniacal fit of ruthless rage, he's also made off with the Turtles' journalist friend April O'Neil! Obviously, some kind of rescue mission will have to take place, and our amphibian ninjitsu acers must traverse the city, beating the seven shades out of any Foot Clan minions that dare cross their path. At the end of each level, the Turtles will have to face one of the Shredder's more evil henchmen, Bebop or Rocksteady to name but two. With six levels of New York to clear up, this game'll have you at your computer for ages.

The actual gameplay takes place on a large four-way scrolling map, representing the crime-ridden city. Here, our turtle hero can beat up any Foot minions or alternatively duck into a building or sewer. Here, the action takes place on a side-on horizontally scrolling play area, where our hero turtles must fight off various nasty creatures and Clan soldiers. It's in this section where you're most likely to find April (they're not likely to leave her out on a street now, are they?), and after she is returned safely to her turtle chums, it's time to haul some shell and finish off the Shredder once and for all.

Obviously, the player can only control one turtle at a time, and each turtle's strengths and weaknesses must be taken into account before going into battle. Leonardo, for example, might have power behind his Katanas-based antics, but Donatello (although less powerful) can reach places with his Bo that Leo can't.

Probe software are the dudes behind the code. They're jazzing up the American Amiga version (reviewed in issue 104) and porting it across to the ST. They're also reprogramming bits of the American PC and C64 versions, so they should be even better than before! Other 8-bitsters aren't going to be left in the cold, either. Spectrum and Amstrad versions are also forthcoming, and they're coming along very nicely, thank you - check out the all-formats shots dotted around the page!

The game is to be launched on November 15th only weeks before the British release of the blockbuster film, so it looks like this Christmas is going to be just turtle awesome dudes, so stay with

COWABUNGA!

WIN THE TURTLES COIN-OP

COURTESY OF IMAGE WORKS!!

Crikey hell, guv'nor! Surely you cannot be serious? A Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles coin-op being GIVEN AWAY by those extremely generous folks at C+VG, in association with the no-less generous dudes at Image Works! Yep, that's right and it could be YOU that ends up with a hoofing great four-player Konami Turtles coin-op in your bedroom! Aaow!

Just think, it could be you that becomes the most talked-about dude on your block! Your door will be accosted every day by jealous mates desperately seeking a glimpse of YOUR Turtles coin-op! Absolutely everyone will want to be your friend (if they aren't already)!

So, now that's got your attention, I suppose you want to know just how to get your greasy hands on this absolutely amazing prize. Well, it really couldn't be simpler (honest!). Remember those fabby stickers attached to the front of the October and November issues of C+VG? You do! Good!

As revealed in last month's C+VG, you're going to need to cut off the number four from the October sticker sheet (four turtles, geddit?) and the eight (four times two is eight, geddit?) from November's. Got them? Well, you'd better have, or you'll have blown your chances straight away!

Now then, in the entry form below, you should find a couple of empty boxes that coincidentally are exactly the same size as your stickers. Simply, wham 'em down, and in the space provided use your skill and judgment to answer this probing question:

THE QUESTION

HOW MANY TEENAGE MUTANT HERO TURTLES ARE THERE?

Simple! Don't think you have to mutilate this month's C+VG either. Just as long as your stickers are original, you can use a photocopy of the entry form! When you've filled out the form, simply post it off to COWABUNGA COIN-OP CAPERS OF CHAOS! COMPO, C+VG, PRIORY COURT, 30-32 FARRINGDON LANE, LONDON, EC1R 3AU.

Since this compo is obviously incredibly special, the closing date has been set back to 23rd March, 1991, meaning that all you overseas readers can enter too - so there's no excuse for not literally jamming up the office with your entries!

I'M DEAD CLEVER, I AM, AND I RECKON THERE ARE TEENAGE MUTANT HERO TURTLES.

IF I WIN, SEND THE COIN-OP TO:

GET THE COMPLETE SET OF TOPPS TURTLES CARDS

You might have noticed we've gone a bit Turtle-mad recently, what with that terrific Turtles movie pack stuck to the cover, an all-formats Turtles game preview and a chance to win the Turtles coin-op. Added to that, in next month's C+VG, we, in association with Topps, will be giving away a FREE mammoth Topps Turtles Cards Reference Sheet - with pics of all the great Topps Turtles cards so you know which ones you still have to collect!

But if you haven't the patience to bother with all this "collecting" malarkey, C+VG, in association with Topps, have struck a deal, making it possible for you to get your hands on the COMPLETE set of 132 Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles cards all bundled up in two presentation packs with 66 cards in each! Say goodbye to having to trade cards with your mates! Banish those "can't get that last card for the life of me" blues! And what's more, be the envy of all your mates because these mind-blowing cards won't be on sale in yer common-or-garden shop until well into 1991!

Fancy getting in on the act? Then waste no more time! The complete set of Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles movie cards can be yours for a trifling £2.68 plus 90p postage and packing! Can't say fairer than that, eh?

So, fill out the coupon below and bung it in an envelope with a cheque or postal order for £3.58 made payable to Bazooka Joe. Then send it NOT to C+VG, but to:

This Christmas, there's a little bit of Commodore
 in all of us.

Excitement, adventure, daring, call it what you will. The fact remains there's a little bit of it in all of us. That's why you should give a Commodore computer some serious thought this Christmas.

Take the new Amiga 1500. This powerful home computer gives you the ultimate in family entertainment. Screen images that will literally blow your mind and an impressive collection of leisure software . . . Battle Chess, Populous, Sim City and Their Finest Hour, the incredibly realistic Battle of Britain simulation.

Then, in an instant, it can switch to a serious business machine with Platinum Works, everything you need to work from home. Or to your own design/animation studio with Deluxe Paint III. The Amiga 1500 comes complete with 1 full Megabyte of RAM, keyboard, colour monitor and two built-in disk drives for only £1149.99.

Of course, the Amiga 500, recently awarded European Computer of the Year, is still the most coveted computer for kids of all ages. The Amiga 500 takes you into a fantastic world

And when class is over, there's our new Amiga 500 'Screen Gems' pack which includes Deluxe Paint II and four new challenges, each based on a blockbuster movie; Back to the Future II, Nightbreed, Shadow of the Beast II and the devastating Days of Thunder for only £399.99.

On the subject of fun and games, we present a totally new double pack for the C64, undoubtedly the world's favourite games computer. If brain-stretching tasks are your forte, choose 'Mindbenders' with Confuzion, Split Personalities and Trivial Pursuits. Or if it's pure escapism you prefer, there's 'Night Moves' with the compelling Midnight Resistance, Nightbreed, Secret Agency Sly Spy and Shadow Warriors. The C64 computer comes with data cassette and two joysticks and is outstanding value at £159.99.

This Christmas, we are also proud to unveil the C64 Games System, a system built for one single purpose - having fun.

The C64 Games System is instant enjoyment for all the family and comes complete with annihilator joystick and four fun-filled games. When you've mastered Klax, International Soccer, Flimbo's Quest and Fiendish Freddy's Big Top, you can choose from another hundred. All this for under £100.

Every games cartridge for the C64 Games System is compatible with the C64 computer. And all Commodore machines, together with a complete range of peripherals, are available from any major high street store.

So whichever one of our computers you do choose, it's sure to bring out the best in your family. After all, there's a little bit of Commodore in all of us.

Here I am, back again to provide you with another month's worth of abuse, er, advice about the wonderful world of computer gaming. If you feel you have something to say on the subject you could do worse than put pen to paper and send it to YOB'S MAILBAG, C+VG, PRIORY COURT, 30-32 FARRINGDON LANE, LONDON, EC1R 3AU. A ton of software to the best letter.

AXING QUESTIONS

Dear YOB,
I own an Atari ST and I was wondering when Golden Axe was coming out, so could you tell me old bean? Also, I've read your jolly mag now for three and a half years and there has not been any game that has been given 100%. Do you know of any before I started reading, that you gave this rating to. If not, what kind would you give 100% to?

PS: My sister thinks that you are a gorgeous person and wants to go out with you!! Any thoughts?!

Gazzie, Dorking, Surrey.
YOB: Ooh, lots of thoughts actually. Golden Axe will be out on the ST in time for Christmas, old bean. As for 100% ratings, well... I don't think that there's ever been a game that was worth 100% because even if a game has a terrific concept, or plays really well it's always going to be limited by the constraints of the computer's hardware, so there's always going to be something (even something small) wrong with it. A 100% game would have to be perfect, and unsurpassable, and at the speed computer games are improving, there's no way that anyone could say "this game is perfect and will never be bettered in the future". That's what I think, anyway. If anybody else has got any opinions I'd be happy to hear about 'em. Well, maybe not happy as such, but send 'em in anyway.

MUSIC FOR PLEASURE

Dear YOB,
Whilst reading through the last issue of your magazine, I had a brainwave and rushed upstairs to put my plan into action. About an hour later I returned tired but undaunted, holding the cassette of my own devising as though it were precious metal. On it were all the tunes of my favourite Amiga games, beautifully blended to a sound even Beethoven would have been proud of.

Anyway, the point I'm making is that I think it's time that you did another audio tape for your readers and strapped it to the cover of the next C+VG. There are many good talents out there in the world of computerised music and it's time we gave them credit where it's due.

I'm sure that you'd agree that many bits of music are suitable for such an audio tape compilation, so you could even run a series on the cover of C+VG over a series of months. How about it?

S N Hardy, Sheffield.
YOB: Yeah - interesting idea, but I have to say that there's not that much computer game music that I'd actually listen to in my spare time. The only really good stuff I've heard are things like Software Creations' music, some of the old Rob Hubbard pieces (Delta and Kentilla for example) and Martin Galway's tunes (Miami Vice was his best, I reckon). Anyway, anybody else like to send in a top ten of their favourites?

MEGADRIVE TURTLES?

Dear YOB,
I was wondering if you can answer me one question, you know the Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles on the Amiga and Nintendo? I was wondering if they will make one for the Megadrive. If they are going to make one will you let me know?

Anne Onymous, Somewhere.
YOB: Strangely enough, Anne, my sources tell me that a Megadrive Turtles game IS in the offing. And not only that, it'll actually be a conversion of the coin-op rather than the Nintendo/Amiga platform adventure. I've told the lads to keep you posted on that subject so keep watching the mag.

GRAFFITI BOLOGNESE

Dear YOB,
I have been buying your class mag for many years now and the only thing that really gets my wick in the whole magazine are the letters from As (D'you think he means "Assholes"? - YOB) like Complaining Colin who moan about the highscore tables saying that many scores are false. I must agree that some look improbable, but sooner or later someone knocks it off the table anyway. So who cares? Not I, not you, nor should any other person. My advice to moaners is to try harder. Every score can be beaten. Just because you can't better it, it doesn't mean it can't be done. So shuddup-a-ya-moanin', ok?

Let's end with a thought: Since graffiti is done for neither financial gain or for personal acclaim, then it must be the purest form of art. Davey McCartney, Falkirk, Scotland.

YOB: If graffiti isn't done for personal acclaim, how come most of it consists of the artist's name sprayed in twelve foot-high letters? Hey - what am I saying? I must be getting law-abiding in my old age.

KONIX SCHMONIX

Dear YOB,
I own an Amiga and an ST, but I am thinking of buying a console. The console I read about in a back issue of C+VG. You said it was out in the shops, but it isn't. Could you please tell me when it is being released? Thank you. Stephen Tyers, Bexley, Kent.

YOB: Deary-oh-me, have I got bad news for you, Steve. After various problems at Konix, it looks like the Multisystem will only be seeing the light of day if the sea turns to low-fat raspberry yoghurt, so I'd direct my spending power in the direction of a Megadrive or PC Engine if I were you.

LIMPING FISH LETTER

Yo! Grandmaster YOB!
Tell that dopey smurf Daniel Whyte, regarding his letter in issue 106, that if I was him I'd buy a canister of acid, and after he had brushed his teeth, to use the acid as a mouth wash!

A-a-anything, I've got a brilliant poke for Jaz. If you have a game that you don't want, simply bring it to the zoo, find the piranha fish tank, then push your grandfather in. While everybody is watching the terrible struggle, slip the game into somebody's handbag. Right, moving along. I'm thinking of buying the Nintendo Turtle Pack. Is it worth the price (£99.00) over here? Christian Tait (alias the limping fish from South Dakota), County Dublin, Eire.

YOB: A Turtle pack certainly is worth £99.00, but if I were you (and I think God I'm not), I'd use the money to buy a Boots Home Lobotomy Kit. It's kill or cure, but in your case, either option would probably save us all a lot of trouble.

HARDER! HARDER!

Dear Sirs,
Thunderforce III, done it, easy, nothing to it, finito, over, THE END. Come on Sega, give us a hard game! Well done Virgin! They have released the British Megadrive and it only takes British cartridges. Who is going to buy one when you can get a cheaper Japanese model that will run British/Japanese and American software? Heard of a game called Axis? Richard Follett, Petersfield, Hampshire.

YOB: Yep. Next letter, please.

HILARIOUS FILM PARODY BIT

Dear YOB,
You mean mutha, now I know you've heard of Total Recall but you have not heard of Total Retard or Roboflop II.

Well, Total Retard versus Roboflop II is so hard, I'll have to tell you. There are six levels. You can be Total Retard or Roboflop 2. This is if you are Retard.

1. Retard sent to Uranus to find Roboflop. You have to kill 100 floppy guards (they guard Roboflop).
 2. Have a fight on the Starship Floppyprise and kill the Teenage Wellhard Floppy Ninjas.
 3. Roboflop and his floppy-guards take over the Nakatommey Corpy building. They have 32 hostages. Kill 'em all (even the hostages).
 4. Face to face fight with Roboflop.
 5. Total Retard becomes a Hero Turtle. So it goes Michelangelo, Raphael, Donatello, Leonardo and now, Retardo. Chris Williams, Liverpool.
- YOB: Sorry, everyone. I just can't think of a good reply for this letter. If any of you can come up with one, send it to me and I'll do something with it.

CHILD-BEATING SHOCKER!

Dear YOB,
Me and my brother are thinking of getting a Megadrive. The problem is that my brother won't let me tell my Mum and Dad, and he always hits me if I tell. And my Dad still adores a Spectrum and he might not let me so can you show him in the utterly cool best magazine called C+VG.

PS: Don't publish I told my Mum.

Christopher Bulger, London.

YOB: Oops! Sorry Christopher. I didn't read your PS until too late, so now everybody's going to know, and your brother's going to give you a good thumping. Ooh dear.

MEGADRIVE VS AMSTRAD

Dear YOB,
Colin Tracey's letter in the September issue of C+VG was complete trash. If anything, C+VG has improved by leaps and bounds over the past year or so. I prefer less text in reviews, just a basic outline about the game will do. The screenshots are brilliant with loads always on each review.

Is the Sega Megadrive technically superior to the GX 4000 (the new Amstrad console) as I am considering buying one of these machines (they're about the only new consoles available in the UK at the moment)?

I would like to say how fab the Complete Guide to Consoles books are. I have volumes II and III and they're worth every penny!

Trevor See, Hampshire.

YOB: Technically, the Megadrive is the best of the two, but of course, it's a bit more expensive. Still if you've got the money to spend, that's the one to go for at the moment.

HERE COMES THE BRIDE

Dear YOB,
Will you marry me?
Love and kisses
Andrea, Westhoughton, Lancashire.

YOB: That depends. How much money have you got on you?

DOES AMIGA BEAT SCHOFIELD AND GREENE?

Dear YOB,
I was wondering if you could sort out a debate myself and a "friend" have. I own an Amiga and my friend has an ST. SO, with these computers being rivals of each other, he often goes on about how superior the presentation capabilities of the ST are to those of the Amiga. Could you please silence my "friend" or myself by telling us which computer is better equipped for the presentation side of things. S Lacey, Cambridge.

Now some parents think it is bad influence on them. Come on now, little kids don't jump off building to catch Astro Boy's attention, or be a total menace to catch Dennis. Hope you don't believe this sort of crapella.

Nick Van Heesuyk, Australia.

YOB, THE VOICE OF REASON: Fortunately there are very few divvies out there who get a bit carried away when it comes to playing at Batman or whatever, but they're the ones "The Media" usually track down when they want to create some kind of sensational story and convince the public that computer games/Heavy Metal records/Mint-Choc Chip ice cream rot kids' minds and are a greater threat to the future of humanity than the A-Bomb. We'd all be a lot happier if people weren't led to believe this sort of crapella.

PRICEY MOUSE

Dear Ed,

What would you do if you had a son who took your Amiga mouse to bits just to see what made it work? Now I cannot play the few games I have, even the splendid Manchester United, because like most games they are mouse driven. I was told at a computer shop in Blackpool that the cost for a replacement would be £25 and across the road they asked for £35. I'm sure they are both overpriced.

James Ayrey, Blackpool.

YOB: Well, Jimmy-ducks, though, the Amiga mouse just looks like a ball in a cream plastic box with two buttons on it, there's actually a fair bit of electronic gadgetry inside it. So really you're expecting a lot if you want one for less than about £25. Take some money out of your son's Family Allowance or something. That'll teach him.

IMBECILE OF THE MONTH

Dear YOB,

When reading last month's brilliant issue, I came across an article entitled PC not PC (page 9). Could you please answer these two questions about it.

1. When you said that it will be available in the next quarter of next year, did you mean the Turbo Grafx 16, or the Turbo Express?

2. Will the Turbo Grafx 16 be compatible with the foreign import games for the PC Engine games currently available.

PS: I know this is one of those boring question letters which you don't like, but I'm writing it on behalf of the unread Jason Voorhees (star of Friday 13th films) and when he asks questions he likes answers. In fact he's coming to my house for tea, tomorrow. Honest! he's my friend! Eek! Gibber gibber goldfish, bomb, gib! Apple pie! Gibber! I must go some strange men are coming towards me with a white jacket!!

"Come along with us Craig and put this jacket on. We are going to take you back to your lovely padded cell. You'd like that wouldn't you?"

"You can't take me away. I'm not crazy, I'm a merman and I live in the underwater valley of Zubar, honest..."

Craig Minkley, Nottingham.

YOB: Oh dear, Craig. You started off so well, and then it all went wrong didn't it? Never mind, I'm basically a charitable sort of bloke, so I'll try to answer your questions extremely sanely.

1. It was the Turbo Express that Digital Entertainment hope to have out by next spring.

2. Who can say, at this time? Seems possible though.

Sorry, I didn't do too well with that second question, but I have problems of my own y'know?

TOKEN SMARTASS

BADLANDS™

From the creators of the classic Super Sprint comes Badlands – a fabulous conversion of the popular coin-op.

It's been 50 years since the nuclear disaster and a new sport has evolved in the arid wastelands known as the Badlands. Sprint Racing with a killing touch is the sport – a destructive battle between armoured cars. It's all out war on the track as players blast the drone cars and each other to finish first.

Aggressive and dangerous, in the Badlands only the ruthless live to tell the tale. Customise your racer with extra missiles, speed, tyres, turbo boosts and shields. Avoid oil spills and a host of hazards to become more dangerous as the level of difficulty increases.

Badlands: For one or two players – its ruthless, destructive and great fun!

U.S. GOLD!

PLAYMASTERS

Hi gang! Here's another sizzling sack of totally terrific tips and choice cheats, featuring not only the complete solution to US Gold's fabbo Mean Streets, but tips for Megadrive Ghostbusters, and (fanfare) a massive players guide to the brilliant Paradroid 90 provided by the programmers at Graftgold! If you've got a map, cheat, tip or POKE, and want the chance to win a stack of software, then send it in to PLAYMASTERS, C+VG, 30-32 FARRINGDON LANE, LONDON EC1R 3AU. You never know, you might be on the receiving end of £150's worth of hot games!

AMIGA MEAN STREETS

Jamie Cummings of Scarborough certainly hasn't been wasting any time, because he's faxed us the entire solution for US Gold's future mystery! Jamie says it's only for people who are really stuck, as he doesn't want to spoil the game for everyone. Thoughtful, eh? By the way, it should also work for all other versions of the game. You start the game investigating Carl Linsky's death, but will need to collect certain items in order to complete the game.

ORANGE PASSCARD

(Cal Davis) - Password Checkmate NC.3720 Found in the Huge Age's cage. You will need the pole from Greg Call's lab, NC.8911. SECURITY: Move rat cages, open the control box, and turn the off switch.

PURPLE PASSCARD

(Greg Call) - Password Knight NC.8911 This is on the shelf behind the stalagmite, in the bottom-right hand corner of the screen. To get it, you will need the thick leather gloves found in the sink cabinet in Bosworth Clarke's lab, NC.9932. SECURITY: Move small stalagmite. Use on/off switch.

BLUE PASSCARD

(Carl Linsky) - Password Bishop NC.4675 This is in Linsky's Lab/Warehouse, in the can of Band Aids in the wall-mounted cabinet. SECURITY: None.

RED PASSCARD

(Ron Morgan) - Password Stalemate NC.6470 This can be found in the tank of Killer Fish! To get it you need to bait the fish with the fish food, from behind the plant in the upper-left corner of the room. SECURITY: On the coffee table, press the 3rd button on the console.

GREEN PASSCARD

(John Klaus) - Password Pawn NC.7012 Simple, this - just go up to him and ask for it! SECURITY: None.

YELLOW PASSCARD

(Sam Jones) - Password Queen NC.0021 Ask him for it, but you may have to beat it out of him (ha!). SECURITY: None.

GREY PASSCARD

(Larry Hammond) - Password King NC.5037 Go to the "law and order" offices. It should be in the safe, and the combination is in the cabinet. To open the cabinet, go to the workstation, and press the button. SECURITY. In the cabinet, on the shelf, turn the switch OFF.

BLACK PASSCARD

(Bosworth Clarke) - Password Rock NC-5194 This can be found in the Bus Station, but you will need the key from Big Jim Slade's briefcase in Lola Loveloy/Frank Schimmings' apartment, NC-4605. SECURITY. Behind the art, there's an ON/OFF switch.

Once all the cards are yours, go to the not-so-secret lab at NC-4550. When you get there you will be beaten up by several Law and Order thugs (loads a fun), and meet a silhouette of Mr. Big! To get out the cell you get thrown into, go to the pile of boxes, move them and get the key. Go to the table, and get the sheet. Go to the panel in the middle-right of the room, open it and take the gas mask. Go down to the control panel, turn on the switch and sprint to the door. When the robot comes in, leave. After a shoot-out, you will come to the main room, where you've got to enter all the passwords in 60 seconds. If you do it, you will see a picture of someone (Jamie's not letting on who!), who says, "Stop Murphy, join me!", or something like that. Don't, or you get annihilated by four massive laser cannons! If you manage to stay alive, sit back and watch what Jamie calls a "Spielberg-ish" ending!

TURRICAN

Martin Stork of Bradford says that if you type BLUESMOBIL on the high score table, you'll get a whopping 99 lives, 500 smart bombs, and a whole stack of other add-ons! Thanks, Martin!

ST VENUS THE FLYTRAP

Stuart Looker from Chelmsford has been grafting away, and come up with the passwords for the first five levels of Gremlin's bug-blaster!

- LEVEL 1 - No password
- LEVEL 2 - Mantids
- LEVEL 3 - Cicadas
- LEVEL 4 - Psyllids
- LEVEL 5 - Pierids

AMSTRAD ITALY 1990

Paul Andrews from Cleckheaton says that if you press function key 6 whilst playing US Gold's so-so footy game, the ref'll blow his whistle, and the game'll move straight to the penalty shoot-out! 'Ere we go, 'ere we go...

JUNGLE WARFARE

Press SHIFT and P to pause the game, then press A, S, Z, X, C, U, J, M, and SHIFT and CURSOR DOWN simultaneously (methinks you'll probably need a mate to give you a hand!), you will return to the game with infinite lives! Thanks again to Paul Andrews of Cleckheaton for that one.

BATMAN THE MOVIE

Simple, this one. Hold down the keys E, D, 2, 0 and 9 to skip a level! Cheers to Neil Guss of Gateshead for that!

C64 SHADOW WARRIORS

Casey Quinlan from Calcot in Reading's obviously a beat 'em up fiend, and has sent this little POKELet for Ocean's nifty coin-op conversion. Simply reset the machine, type POKE 35002, 173, then SYS 4409. You'll now have infinite lives at your fingertips!

KLAX

Casey's also sent in this POKE for Domark's ripper Tengen conversions. Hit the button on your reset switch, then type POKE 27686, 173 followed by RETURN, then SYS 2079 (RETURN) for infinite credits.

PC SIM CITY

We printed this one for the Amiga version of Sim City 4 while back, but Anthony Bull from Wellington in New Zealand says that the same tip works for the PC version too. All you have to do is type in FUND (make sure the Caps Lock key is on!), you'll get a hefty ten thousand dollars! Could do with some of that, meself!

NINTENDO SUPER MARIO BROS 3

Cor, 'eck! An anonymous tipster's certainly jumped the gun - this amazing game isn't due out until Christmas (boo!). Anyway, for those of you who've bought the game on import, there's a warpzone at the end of world 2. First, get the hammer by smashing the brick on the top right-hand corner of the second half of the map. Grab the flute by killing the fiery turtles, and use it. A tornado will appear, and whisk you off to either worlds 5, 6 or 7!

PARADROID '90 PLAYER'S GUIDE.

C+VG were the first by months with the exclusive review of the totally gob-smacking Paradroid '90. Now here, as an oh-so-special service to our stalwart readers is a totally brilliant player's guide. These tips (as provided by those funky dudes at Graftgold) will put your Influence Droid back on the path to glory!

- Listen to the sound effects. Enemy shots can be heard even when they are off the screen. Also doors, energy points and computer terminals can be heard when droids are using them, giving you some idea of the position of other droids.
- Shoot the strong droids first. Weak droids never fire shots but are useful for transferring to, protecting the Influence Device from enemy shots and giving a few more pulsers in the transfer game.

- ▲ Watch out for the maintenance droid (476). Although its flame thrower has a limited shooting distance it still causes large amounts of damage.

- Try to clear a deck of droids before moving on to the next one. A systematic approach to clearing a ship saves on droid energy. Use the computer terminals to see what decks still have droids on.

- ▲ Learn the good and bad points about each type of droid. The triple beam battle droid (742) has a powerful shot but is slow to move whereas the messenger (302) is very fast but has no weapon. It is also annoyingly cute.

- If you want to take control of a droid, move around in transfer mode to save time for when you need to transfer. It only takes a short time to change into transfer mode, but that's normally long enough for your droid to be shot to pieces!

- The best way to get near a droid that you want to transfer to is to spiral around it, getting closer all the time. Its shots should miss you until you get very close, by which time you should be able to transfer.

- ▲ In the transfer game, wait until the enemy droid has fired all or most of its pulsers before firing your own. This method will normally get a successful transfer as the enemy will have no pulsers to counteract yours.

- ▲ Some droids can't be damaged by some of the other droids' shots. The mine layer (734) is a prime example of this as it is heavily armoured. In cases like this transferring is the only way to defeat the droid. Different sound effects are used to indicate if a droid is being damaged by a weapon.

- ▲ Most of the droids fire with their right arm. So it is possible to dodge their shots by staying to the left of them. This technique works well on the triple beam battle droid (742) because it fires only at 45 degree angles. The rapid firing sentinel (614) shoots at any angle, so its shots cover a wide area, hopefully missing the Influence Device.

- ▲ Picking up the Graftgold key will delay the entry time for the raiders by three minutes. There is a key on every ship but it may be hidden.

- Shooting around corners is very handy. It is possible to kill some droids in this way without them shooting back, either because they can't see you or because you have blown them away before they had time to react.

- Don't move into explosions. You lose energy doing this and the weaker droids will explode if they are in contact with an explosion. Sometimes two or three droids can be destroyed because of one explosion.

- You face the same direction leaving a lift as you did when you entered it. Using this technique it is possible to make "surprise" attacks on the other droids.

- Using the shuttles' thrusters to fry enemy droids as they go past isn't very effective and gives you nowhere to hide in case of enemy attack - not a recommended tactic.

- Learn the enemy patrol routes. The droid movement is actually very predictable so time and energy can be saved by knowing where a droid is going or what it could do next.

- Keep moving. Once an enemy droid has targeted on you it will keep firing. Even after it is destroyed there may still be shots heading towards you. Never run in the opposite direction of an enemy shot. You can't outrun a bullet so your best bet is to move to the left or right of a shot. All weapons have a limited range, but some are more limited than others.

- The rapid-firing sentinel (614) is the best droid with its fast firing to a good range and it is responsive and fast to control. The only real drawback is that its weapon doesn't damage the mine layer (734) or the command cyborg (999).

OBSERVER'S BOOK OF HOSTILE ROBOTS

CLEANER 123

Weak. No weapon. Hard to control.

SERVANT 296

Weak. No weapon. Slow movement.

MESSENGER 302

Weak. No weapon. Fastest robot available.

MAINTENANCE 476

Powerful weapon with limited range. Shoots at any angle. Very dangerous!

SENTINEL 614

Good weapon with rapid fire. Moderately fast. Winner Best Robot award 1990.

SENTINEL 683

Smoke gun with rapid fire but limited range. Good for destroying weak droids. Hard to control.

BATTLE TANK 729

Can't be transferred to. Fires three shots in succession at target.

MINE LAYER 734

Good shields. Hard to use mines effectively. Ramming is much better. Slow to control.

SENTINEL 742

Powerful triple laser weapon with good range. Slow shooting. Slow movement. Well armoured.

SENTINEL 783

Flame thrower with limited range. Very much like the maintenance droid (476). Hard to control.

SECURITY 821

Powerful fast weapon with good range. Very fast. Not damaged by disruptors. Good shields. Not to be messed with!

SECURITY 852

Powerful disruptor (smart bomb) weapon. Fast to control. Only does damage to robots it can see when disrupting.

COMMAND CYBORG 999

Very powerful weapon. Fast movement. Easy to control. Not damaged by explosions. Difficult to aim shots. Fast energy decay rate.

GENERAL TIPS

Select Ray Stantz. Buy energy boosters (the first item above EXIT) as soon as possible. Buy and use items as necessary.

LEVEL 1 - HOME SWEET HOME

TOP HAT SPOOK: Shoot diagonally to hit the rabbit in the eyes. When the body splits up, shoot the bottom half first.

BALL SPECTRE: Wait for it to shed its scales, then blast the exposed body. When it spikes up, jump, then run underneath. Watch out for his eyeballs!

LEVEL 2 - THE APARTMENT

ROCKY CRYSTAL HORROR: Shoot in the head, and duck when he swings.

GIRLY GHOUL: Avoid her blasts, and when she produces two images of herself, shoot any one of them.

FROSTY THE SNOW-SPOOK: Continually blast in the head, whilst avoiding the smaller ghosts and their carrots (1).

LEVEL 3 - WOODY HOUSE

Use the goggles to see the way (you'll need about four sets). Buy a shield, and use it for the dragon.

DRAGON: Shoot it in the head from a distance. Watch out for the fireballs.

FACES: Shoot the ordinary face in the mouth, the other in the eyes. Watch out for the bullets, and the drips which can be jumped over.

FIRE FREAK: Again, shoot it in the head, but be careful when he curls up and fires a salvo of six bullets.

LEVEL 4 - HIGH RISE WINGED DEMON

As it opens up, get right under its head and shoot upwards. When it dives, move quickly left or right.

SNAKE: Simply blast it whilst avoiding the pieces.

MR STAY-PUFT: Shoot him in the face (his nose wiggles). When his eyes go blue, get in the middle of them, and let him have it. When his eyes go red, run like crazy!

LEVEL 5 - THE CASTLE

THE GHOSTBUSTERS: Let them fire, and as they run at you, jump over them, then turn and shoot the ghost which will turn red. Repeat.

THE WITCH: Shoot her in the head, then jump away as she goes for you. Avoid her scythe, and her spinning magic spells.

THE PLANT: Blast it in the head, and avoid the laser that erupts from its mouth.

LAST LEVEL - THE DEEP HOLE

Here you'll face the plant, the snowman and the ball ghost again!

GOZER: Duck her scythe while blasting her head. Shoot the skull. Fire right-diagonally while jumping. When she comes down, go under her onto the mound and fire left whilst jumping. When she comes back, repeat the process. Then just sit back and watch the end-game sequence!

SUPER SHINOBI

To obtain infinite lives, get to round 4-2, do a shooting somersault to reveal a 2-UP. Collect this, and lose a life, and simply continue repeating this, gaining a life each time! Ta much to Stefan Borson of Manchester for that - now you would-be ninja should have no trouble with this!

STRIDER

When Strider strides his last, and while the Master's diabolical laughter is still ringing in your ears, press down the joy-pad buttons in this order - A, C, B, C, A - then press start and you should find a continue play option has appeared afore your very eyes! Thanks to Stewart Spon of Bushey for that.

PC ENGINE POWER DRIFT

Once a game has ended on any level, hold down buttons and II, and press RUN. The game will continue on the level you have just finished, complete with the same score and driver used! Thanks to Stephen Hunt of Leicester for that little number!

ATOMIC ROBOKID

During the first level, whilst moving along fire up and down constantly, and you should get an extra life. Several white blobs should appear. Collect these for a whole bumper bundle of additional weapons! Thanks go once again to Stephen Hunt of Leicester.

DIE HARD

To inject a bit of life into this Bruce Willis duffer, get onto the title screen and press up twice, followed by left three times, and down once. You should now find you can enter DEBUG MODE, which lets you tinker with a sound test and even set the difficulty level.

W-WING

Here's an interesting cheat to make this rather easy game a little more interesting. If you go to the sound test, you can activate different features by listening to the sounds in the following order:

SPEED UP THE WHOLE GAME

3 1 4 1 5 9 2 6 5 3 5 8 9 7 9 3

GAME BOY BATMAN

Michael Gott from sunny Stockport has sent in a whole heap of tips on how to deal with the end-level guardians. Take it away, Mike!

JACK/THE JOKER

Try to have the batarang, as multiple hits are possible. Stay right away from them and fire repeatedly. Jump only when necessary as Jack/the Joker tend to jump into you in mid-air.

LEVEL 3-1

Dodge him, and go to the middle-left of the screen. Hold down the fire button, and wait for him to fire again. Move up - he will follow and fire again. Move down again, wait for him to follow. Move to the bottom and forward. He will move to the right and fire. Repeat the cycle until he explodes.

LEVEL 3-2, FIRST BOSS

Wait for him to move into firing position, then follow him up and down, firing constantly. Note that you are perfectly safe at the bottom of the screen. When he goes off the bottom, quickly move to the top left to avoid his bullets, then move to the middle and repeat the process.

Wait until he is in firing position, then move to the top left, firing constantly. Just before his bullet hits, go to the bottom. His missile will track you, but there is a gap between the third and fourth bullet. Duck through here, and repeat the whole thing. When the helicopter retreats, move right up to him so the bawing touches the gun near the base of the copter. Here you will be safe, and the copter will go BOOM!

CYBERNOID II

Monsters, aliens and superheroes. Pick up a GX4000 console and you'll really have your hands full.

Imagine all the characters from your favourite computer games suddenly invading your TV. It's like having your own private arcade. All you have to do is plug in and you're off!

The graphics alone are out of this world, with a palette of 4096 colours and stereo sound.

And you'll be playing top-rated games from Europe's best software houses, all on easy to use instant loading ROM cartridges.

The console comes complete with a mains adapter and two paddle control units designed to put you in the driving seat. Which is where you'll need to be with the ROM cartridge that comes free: the high-speed car game "Burnin' Rubber". But perhaps the most exciting thing about the Amstrad GX4000 is the price, a very down to earth £99.00.

THE NEW GX4000 GAMES CONSOLE. £99.

THE C+VG CHALLENGE

THE AMAZING DOMARK/TENGEN CHALLENGE

The first of C+VG's softco challenges took resident editor, Paul Gancey and forever grumbling staff writer, Richard Leadbetter along with the fearless challengers, to Adleston in Surrey - the home of the Kremlin. The Kremlin, in case you didn't know, is the home of Domark's newly-formed development team, responsible for topper games like The Spy Who Loved Me, and forthcoming attractions such as the home versions of Atari's STUN Runner coin-op, MI6 29 and war sim, 'Nam. So now you know.

THE CHALLENGERS

One misty October morning brought forth two worthy challengers, especially selected by the C+VG highscore panel of experts for their gamesplaying expertise. Enter Dave Moore, from Jaz's very own home town of Southend-on-Sea and Andrew Butters from sunny Deptford. Dave, in particular, had impressed us before with his stonking Blood Money and Thunderforce III scores, whilst Andrew had cut his teeth on the brill Speczy version of Rainbow Islands. Joining the fray were John Kavanagh (head programming honcho at the Kremlin) and C+VG's Richard Leadbetter, who faced certain death (followed by redundancy) if he didn't win.

▲ Dressed in their promotional Domark T-Shirts, the brave contenders line up in the Adlestone sunshine for a pic. On the left we have Domark's own John Kavanagh, and next to him, covering his embarrassment with a STUN Runner cap, C+VG's own Richard Leadbetter. Andrew Butters is the young fellah-me-lad in the purple pants and on the right we have Dave Moore, who is looking around for the nearest toilet.

THAT SCORING SYSTEM EXPLAINED

The rules for the championship were in. For each game, each player was given three minutes to clock up the highest score possible. At the end of the gamesplaying capers, the top scorer received ten points, the runner-up got eight whilst six and five were given for third and fourth place respectively. The winner would be the lucky bloke to pick up the most points after all four rounds. With all that numerical malarkey out of the way, it was down to business with the first game...

GAME ONE - STUN RUNNER

Having led particularly sheltered lives, none of the challengers (apart from John, obviously) had ever played the arcade version of STUN Runner before. In the practice session, Dave and Andrew both knocked up reasonably high scores, but poor old Rich didn't seem so confident, and failed to complete one level!

But when the crunch came, John seemed the favourite (after all, his team of programmers are converting the game!), and not surprisingly, he steamed to victory with a huge 111,865. Andrew shot up a respectable 99,725 leaving Rich to come third (even though he left the office armed with hints from arcade champ, Julian Rignall), and Dave to "bring up the rear".

GAME TWO - BADLANDS

After a nourishing lunch laid on by the cuddly marketing people at Domark, it was time to return to the serious business of gamesplaying. Andrew and Dave had never seen Badlands on the Amiga, but the disgustingly smug grin returned to the face of Richard (who had reviewed the game the month before) whilst John complained that "he couldn't play it" - a likely story. There were to be two head-to-head heats - Andrew versus Dave, and following that, Richard versus John.

Andrew and Dave started off, burning their Badlands motors around the nuclear-blasted courses in true Super Sprint style. Dave emerged victorious from his heat with a decent 9,410 whilst Andrew tried his best and got a fairly respectable 6,350. But for some reason Dave started to feel unwell, even after winning his heat. The dope test proved negative, so the cause of his illness remained a mystery.

During the next heat, Richard started moaning about the joysticks the Kremlin had laid on, grumbling that they were about as effective as a solar-powered torch. So, out came his pride and joy (!), a Euromax Arcade and the Badlands blasting and racing could finally begin.

Richard took the lead straight away, taking every corner with ease. John made a few too many mistakes, coming third in the final rankings, whilst Rich came first with a massive 9,820 - much to everyone's annoyance. Dave went to the toilet as a gesture of defiance.

▲ After the strenuous Badlands round, the hard-playing buccaroos tuck into a yummy picnic lunch. You'll notice Dave isn't in this pic - he was looking for the toilet again.

GAME THREE - ESCAPE FROM THE PLANET OF THE ROBOT MONSTERS

As John booted up the Amiga version of the Atari 3D blasting game winning the championship was still within the grasp of all four challengers. Remembering the promise of a sacrificial burning at the stake if he didn't win, Richard was particularly eager to get to the joystick and kick some robo-but.

Robot Monsters being another two player game, the proceedings were split into two heats, much like before. Dave would challenge Andrew, and then John would try to beat Richard. When the first heat began, Andrew stunned the gathering audience of hungry Kremlin programmers (all of them after some of the challengers' lunch!) with a truly outstanding performance blasting for all his worth and getting 13,750 points into the bargain.

Poor old Rich was getting a bit worried about his fate back at the office, especially as John was supposed to be a past master at the game. He shouldn't have worried that much as he managed to rack in a colossal 13,200 - much to John's annoyance. Even after Andrew's effort, Richard took the lead - but it was a very narrow one!

GAME FOUR - KLAX

The outcome of the challenge rested on the final game - Klax, Atari's legendary game of tile arranging. Enter three very self-confident challengers. John decided that he "wanted to go out on a high", Dave only took the practice seat because "it had been a long time" since he'd played the game. The nauseatingly smug grin returned to Richard's face. He's a self-confessed Klax-pert and once claimed that he "lived for the game", although he later confessed that he was lying. Andrew remained strangely silent...

Watching the readers practising Klax had Rich rubbing his

BRUTAL DELUXE

SOME DAY, ALL SPORT WILL BE PLAYED THIS WAY

It's two years since the last ball was thrown on a Speedball pitch. There are new teams, new stadia and new rules. The arena is bigger, the players are tougher and the action is faster than ever before.

The challenge is this. Take control of Brutal Deluxe, the worst team in Speedball history, and turn them into champions.

Transform weaklings into killers in the gym.

A squad full of wings? Well out for a Six Player!

Two divisions and 11 teams stand between you and the championship. Take no prisoners.

THE C+VG CHALLENGE

hands in furtive excitement, and John (with his Kremlin programmer audience) was looking forward to an easy victory. The first heat, between Andrew and Dave went pretty badly. In his allotted three minutes, Dave went through nine (count 'em - NINE!) credits leaving a pretty miserable score of 2,850 at the end of it. Andrew plodded on with and emerged with a reasonable 9,450.

The time of the second heat arose... Both Richard and John were aware of a very special Klax that takes over a minute of precious time to construct, but gives a massive 265,000 point bonus! The timer started, and the serious klaxing began. Richard started constructing his elaborate point-raking Klax, and pulled it off not once but twice finishing his heat with an absolutely astounding 531,120! John was particularly miffed at only pulling in 143,665 - still enough to give him the coveted second place.

▲ The satanic gleam in Rich's eye provides a clue to the source of his supernatural gamesplaying prowess.

▲ Here's Richard, just after his "most triumphant" Klax-bash, defining the term "smug git". But the joke was on him when he was informed of the rule stating that overt smugness was a disqualification offence! Luckily he saw the funny side.

THE FINAL RANKINGS

Enter C+VG's resident editor and ex-'O'-Level Maths student, Paul Glancey, to "tot up" the scores. Using all ten fingers, Paul calculated that, at the lower end of the scoring spectrum came Southend's Dave Moore with 23 points. Above him with 29 points was the Deptford's Dynamo himself, Andrew Butters. John Kavanagh came in at second place with 30 points. But Paul wasn't the only one with an 'O' level in Maths. Using the skills taught to him in his CSE Maths and GCSE Statistics classes, Richard had already figured out that he was the top gamer with a massive 34 points!

THE PRESENTATION

Enter the Tengen Trophy! Because Richard had annoyed everyone so much, and John had only achieved his score because of his involvement on STUN Runner, it was decided to give the winners' trophy to Andrew Butters for his outstanding contribution to the championship. Hooray! Along with his groovy trophy, Andrew also walked off with ten Domark games for his Spectrum, whilst Dave scooped up five Domark classics for his Amiga. And on top of that, Domark rewarded each of the lads with a brilliant Nintendo Game Boy for their efforts!

- ▲ Suddenly stricken with "tense, nervous headache", Dave is forced to put down his joystick while Andrew plays on!

- ▲ Dave demonstrates his devil-may-care driving skills which he had obviously learned from fellow Southender, Julian Rignall. Unfortunately, he was soon to find that controlling a STUN ship isn't the same as cruising down the seafont with the windows open and the radio turned up.

- ▲ Displaying the sort of inane leer that has become his trademark, top man, Paul Glancey presents the Tengen trophy to Andrew. What a guy! What a caption!

- ▲ Once again, the camera catches Dave looking around for a lavvy, while young Andrew gets some practice in on STUN Runner.

NEXT MONTH...

In the next C+VG Challenge, we'll be going "on the road" (well, "on the train" seems more likely) to Sheffield, where some hand-picked C+VG readers will be taking the Gremlin gang on at some of their latest releases, including Lotus Esprit Turbo Challenge! Following that, we hope to be running a Kick Off 2 Championship - so if you reckon you're one of the country's top Kicker Offers, fill in a Challenge form NOW (there's one on page 164) and send it in, marking the envelope "KICK OFF CHALLENGER"!

WIN A DAY DRIVING AROUND IN A LOTUS WITIG

VROOM! Now that Gremlin have unveiled their superb Lotus Esprit Turbo SE Challenge (reviewed last issue, and received a whopping 94%), they've teamed up with the madcap motorway maniacs here at C+VG to bring you a competition that any would-be boy racer could only dream of!

What are we blithering on about? Well, it's simple. The winner, along with a friend or parent and a mystery madman from C+VG, will be sent on an all-expenses-paid day trip to the Lotus construction plant near Norwich, where they will see these amazing machines being built! Phew, sounds exciting dunnit?

Well, even more exciting than that, the winner will then be taken out for a slap-up feed, followed by a few dozen very fast laps around the Lotus test-track in an Esprit Turbo! If the winner is over 18 and has a full driver's licence, he or she can take the wheel, but if not they get a few dozen extra

And even if you're not that lucky chappy or chappelle, you could still have plenty of high speed thrills in store because Gremlin are giving away tickets to the British Grand Prix at Silverstone for the first five runners up!

What have you got to do? Easy peasy! Simply answer the following four Lotus-related questions, scrawl 'em down on the entry coupon then post it to:

I BET ROBERT AND GEORGE WOULDN'T MIND DRIVING A LOTUS COMP, C+VG, PRIORY COURT, 30-32 FARRINGDON LANE, LONDON EC1R 3AU.

Get your entries in by 30th December, because that's when we pull the winning entries from our bulging sacks.

Question one:

In which Bond film did 007 drive out of the Mediterranean, tossing a fish out of the window of his white Lotus Esprit?

Question two:

Which type of Lotus shares its name with a classic space trading game?

Question three:

If you found yourself in "the lotus position" what would you be doing? (And the answer is not "sitting in the front seat of a sports car")

Question four:

How many wheels has the average Lotus got, excluding the spare wheel and steering wheel?

ROBOCOP

BY OCEAN

The game starts with RoboCop infiltrating Cain's Nuke production line at the River Rouge Sludge Plant. Though he's armed with his Auto-9 pistol, his main problem on this level is dodging between and jumping over the multitude of traps which Cain's lackies have installed to protect their investment. Some of Cain's men who would rather give themselves up than suffer Robo-wrath, are to be found quivering on the platforms, just waiting to be busted for bonus points.

In the first puzzle sequence, Robo has to hunt through his circuits and destroy the microchips inhibiting his memories of his former self, Alex Murphy. As the cursor travels around the circuit board, it destroys anything it touches, including the circuit board, so you have to work out how to touch each of the small chips without having to double back on your trail. As each chip disappears, the image of Murphy reforms in the microscreen at top-right.

Four months after RoboCop's brush with psychotic crim, Clarence Boddicker, Old Detroit's police force are still out on strike and the city is on the brink of anarchy, not to mention bankruptcy. With Boddicker and the majority of the police force out of the way, the city's drugs market has been taken over by another psycho named Cain who is frying jun-▲ RoboCop gets his orders here.

With all this heavy combat, Robo often finds his targeting system needs recalibrating, so he is sent to the police shooting range. Targets pop up all over the screen, and Robo has to blast as many as he can before they disappear. Watch out for the law-abiding citizens, though, as each one shot reduces Robo's score when the timer runs down!

Robo, being the hardest cop on the Force (with the strike on, he's the only cop on the Force) takes it upon himself to shut down the ▲ Recalibrate your target computer in an Op Wolf shoot out.

After a nasty accident with a motorcycle, Cain is dead, but his brain has been installed in OCP's new Robocop 2 unit. To make things even worse, its brain is smashed out of its, er, brain with Nuke, so the machine goes into a real psycho strip. In this final level, Robo has to search the Civic Centrum Building for Robocop 2 then deactivate it, while leaping over spikes, electric security beams and nasty little robots.

The second platform section is set in the Tokugawa Brewery, which is doubling up as Cain's Nuke storage plant. Again, there are plenty of dangerous traps to dodge, and crims to arrest for bonus points, but the ultimate goal is to find the actual storage facility and destroy it!

Another puzzle sequence which plays exactly the same as the first one, but this time around, Robo has to reconstitute his memories of Alex Murphy's wife. Looks like this board is almost complete!

REVIEW

Nuke production lines and clap Cain in irons as well. But the investigation is complicated by the re-emergence of Robo's human feelings, and the production of a new Robocop - an emotionless supercyborg which is rather more ruthless in it's law enforcement methods...

Not surprisingly, you take control of the chromium copper himself, and bringing justice to the troubled streets of Old Detroit is all down to your own joystick skills. Crime is everywhere, so keep your autopistol cocked and you should be able to stay out of trouble (or something).

Robo gets angry with dealers. ▶

UPDATE

Robocop 2 will be appearing on ST and Amiga (pictured) priced at £24.99, as well as Spectrum (£10.99 for cassette and £15.99 for disk) and C64 cartridge (also pictured) at £19.99. The platform versions on the 16 bit versions comprise more blasting than dodging, but apart from that the games are pretty much alike. Expect all versions to be on the streets by the start of December.

GX4000 CART £24.99

The first thing that struck me about Robocop 2 was the very nice graphics - it makes really good use of the GX4000's colour capabilities. The other plus point is that because the whole game is on cartridge, the lack of a long-winded tape multiload makes it much easier to enjoy it. The actual structure of the game isn't too far removed from that of the original Robocop game, insofar as it mixes action sections with puzzle games and a target shoot-out, and the formula works almost as well as it did before. The only problem I actually had was with the Amstrad joystick, which made getting those essential diagonals a little tricky. On the whole, though, this is a pretty good movie licence which is sure to be a big hit with the new breed of software-starved Amstrad owners.

C+VG HIT!

A Communist power has seized control of Eurasia, aided and abetted by mysterious beings from another planet. There can be only one person who can sort out this mess and that particular hero is Strider Hiryu, gold medal winner of 2048 AD Mr Gymnast competition. Strider has been taken "raw" from his years of concentrated training and, armed only with his electro sword, he is boldly going forth to kick some alien ass behind enemy lines.

But it's a voyage of carnage, destruction and doom that will take him through five levels of eight-way scrolling terror and only the fittest (and the most athletic) will survive to confront the alien leader.

▲ "Cutting loose" with a huge titanium blade!

TRANS-SIBERIAN EXCESS

There are five enormous stages crammed into Strider. In the first you hang-glide into Red Square, letting commie minions eat titanium death, before moving your death-laden antics into the Kremlin. Then it's off to deal napalm death to an enemy complex lo-

ATHLETICS ANONYMOUS

Strider has a number of athletic moves in his repertoire. He somersaults, leaps, and "hangs tough" on any protruding scenery, and one touch of the up-direction on the joystick will move him up to the next platform. Also, for Strider, read Slider! Pulling your joystick down and pressing the jump button will make Strider slide in the required direction and with the aid of his razor heels, "cut up" the opposition!

▲ A cold Siberian ice-tunnel can be climbed with ease.

BOSS BUSTERS

At the end of each level, Strider has a pretty nasty surprise as the Communist "swine" have planted terrifying guardians to show him the door to doom! Look out for the Kremlin Snake, a whip-wielding maniac, a robo-dinosaur and the aliens' head honcho! Arrrgghhh!

ated on the slopes of Siberia, and following that, a huge enemy air-ship has to be destroyed. Strider's trail of destruction isn't over though, and primitive rain-forests are his next port-of-call before the final confrontation in the enemy's heavily-defended stronghold.

STRIDER

▲ Scaling the side of the Kremlin with our striding hero.

▼ ED-209 lookalikes are just one more foe for Strider.

UPDATE

Strider has been out on the 8 and 16 bit systems for over a year and it wasn't tops (this is an ST pic). However, Strider 2 (reviewed this ish) is a big improvement. PC Engine Super Graphx owners should have a version of Strider in store real soon and there's even a Nintendo version available in the USA which should make it's way over here before long.

MEGADRIVE £41.00

There's no denying that Strider is somewhat on the expensive side, but then again, that always seems to be the case with the best Megadrive carts available - and Strider certainly fits into that category. We've consulted experts on the matter and the word is that Megadrive Strider IS arcade Strider! The graphics (check out those wonderful screen shots!) and sound are exactly the same as the arcade, as is the brilliant playability. ▲ Pond leads the innocent fish to safety.

C+VG

▲ A View to A Spill at an ACME oil-rig.

Oh my Cod! Terror is stalking the icy darkness of the ocean depths! The evil Dr Maybe is the culprit behind terrorist acts such as capturing innocent lobsters, molesting mermaids (!?) and corrupting the seas with toxic waste! Such evil can only be destroyed once and for all by a real hero. Enter James Pond - underwater agent (code number: double-bubble seven).

The player adopts the mantle of the eponymous Mr Pond at the beginning of twelve missions' worth of sub-aqua frolics. The heroic had-dock's tasks are many and varied. In one mission he may be saving the ocean bed from a slow, agonising death by plugging up leaking oil tankers with sponges (?). In another he has to rescue seals from the clutches of Dr Maybe's Eskimo-dwarf henchmen. Luckily, Pond is licensed to bubble, and capturing enemies in bubbles makes them vulnerable to Pond's trained fins.

In the course of a mission, Pond get his fins on some of the most advanced fish-like goodies available in the world. Fairy wands make our hero invincible, bubble-gum will bubble all the enemies on screen at once and a heart will give Pond another life. Different coloured star-fish also endow Mr Pond with supernatural marine abilities such as increased bubble-power and super-speed.

Dr Maybe has amassed his forces for an all-out, final assault - and only James Pond can save the day (and presumably, the ocean).

UPDATE

James Pond - Underwater Agent will also be making an appearance on the ST, priced at £24.99. Expect much the same game with slightly slower scrolling.

▲ Watch out for the strength-sapping slime, Pond!

AMIGA £24.99

Crikey! My eyes had to be stuck back into their sockets when I first caught sight of the brilliant graphics and super-smooth scrolling that James Pond has to offer! From the super-cute sprites through to the brilliant scenery (check out Pond's underwater home!), everything is a graphical feast to behold! The playability's fab as well, with plenty of different missions to keep you going (with groan-worthy titles as well - a View to a Spill is my fave!), and even stacks of hidden bonuses and rooms to find. They said it couldn't be done but they were wrong! The greatest Amiga demo of them all has been translated onto the Speccy and Amstrad! The game's scenario is pretty straightforward. A strapping young fellow-me-lad has been hideously deformed and enslaved by the Beast Mage, and now it looks like the slave wants revenge on the master!

The player adopts the mantle of the Beast in question and travels through an eight-way scrolling landscape in his quest to bring down the evil mage and give some of his minions a good kicking at the same time. The Beast's quest takes him through many levels of danger and pulse-racing excitement including a haunted forest, a castle full of crazed ghouls and a disused well - with the promise of adventure and terror at every turn!

AMSTRAD
£9.99

Let's not beat about the bush - the Amstrad version of Shadow of the Beast is flippin' good! There's a huge amount of detail crammed into the parallax-scrolling backdrops and the four colour high resolution graphics work really well. The sprites are big and bold and finely detailed - make no mistake, Shadow of the Beast is a bit of a looker. As in the Amiga game, the running-about-and-punching-things action is a bit on the simplistic side, but there are a few unambitious puzzle elements to activate the old logic centres every now and again. Admittedly, it's hard to imagine a better conversion than this, but as a game Shadow of the Beast is still lacking that extra oomph that would make it a classic. Go get it if you like the looks of the Amiga game.

WONDERFUL WORLD OF POWERMONGER

Unless you choose to start on a random landscape, the campaign begins on the top left island, then when that one is conquered you can move to any adjacent one. There are 195 worlds in all - that's a lot of conquering

THE LANDS OF PLENTY

The key to survival is to reap the goodness from the land you have. As well as inventing weapons, your blacksmiths must invent ploughs to till the land and boats to cross the rivers. Crops are needed to feed the hungry, and sheep rearing is essential for clothing and meat.

POWERMONGER

BY ELECTRONIC ARTS

Your rule was fair and just. Your fate may not be... You were once the proud and powerful king of Miremer, a bounteous paradise where crops grew in abundance, sheep roamed the hills and everyone was happy. But things have changed. Terrible earthquakes have ravaged your fair kingdom, mountains

MONGER

A Winter strikes a farming village. Time to invent something?

Fortunately you managed to escape. As the last seismic upheaval turned Miremer into a lava-covered hellhole you managed to escape to the oceans with a few civilians and your elite corps of fighter warriors.

The journey was long and fraught with danger, but after many days of tireless searching and fine seamanship, an island paradise similar to Miremer was discovered, boasting fair weathers and fine soils. This was the place to start afresh, of that there was no doubt. The only problem is that this new land is already colonised...

You could surrender yourself and your men to the natives here, but that is not the style of a born leader, or a king. Your task is simple. This land is yours and you must conquer it, by fair means or foul. But your tiny settlement is easily outnumbered by the natives. Skill and cunning must be used. Your men could pillage small

THE ARMY GAME

Violence is a fact of life - in PowerMonger too. Your captains scour the land using the words of diplomacy to recruit new followers and other leaders, and any infidel is put to the sword. But the army's role is not so limited. Captains can be dispatched to spy on the enemy, providing essential intelligence on enemy activity. At all times it is the army that act as scouts, conquering the territory on which new hamlets can be built. Orders can be relayed via carrier pigeon, so there's usually some delay before your officers act upon them.

A CUNNING PLAN

Military wit is also needed in order to succeed. Some towns may nestle at the foot of the mountains - to avoid the ravages of the wind during Winter. Natural geography can be used to your tactical advantage as surprise attacks can be created by using natural obstructions to shield your military build-ups. The weather conditions of each season have a fabulous visual effect, be it showers of rain or swirling snowstorms. The sound is better still. BUDOKAN

BY ELECTRONIC ARTS

I was one real bad dude. A man living on the edge... On the brink... On thin ice... I lived life to the max. But even I was surprised when I was picked up from the gutters by the master of some mumbo-jumbo Dojo and whisked thousands of miles around the globe to the Land of the Rising Sun to learn the secret arts of Bo (The Big Stick), Nunchuka (Rice Flails of Destruction), Karate (Fists of Steel) and Kendo (Big Sticks and Metal Masks).

I figured that this Jap master dude owed my Pa some kind of debt, and getting me to fight in the world tournaments - the Budokan - was his way to even the score. When I got to the Dojo things started to get tough. For each of the four martial arts I'm learning, there are nearly 40 moves to be finely honed to perfection.

I have to learn to use my mind as well as my fists in combat. Sometimes the 'steam-roller approach pays off, but for some of the harder dudes in the Budokan it's best to build up your ki level and floor your opponent with two or three ki-filled blows.

UPDATE

Budokan's been out and about on the Amiga and PC for yonks now, and still weighs in as a terrific beat 'em up. Go for it!

▼ The Bo has the striking distance, the Nunchuka has the power.

Megadrive Budokan is simply a straight port across of the fabbo Amiga beat 'em up of the same name. The graphics are just as brilliant as the 16-bit game, but the sound isn't quite so impressive - even though there's plenty of sampled speech (Japanese of course) and realistic yelps of pain. The two player option has been retained as well which makes for hours of one-on-one chopsocky fun. Bashers beware, though, because Budokan isn't a straightforward pummel-the-opponents beat 'em up. Balancing ki and stamina levels requires a good deal of thought, but it is essential to making blows count. I found this strategy element makes for an even better game, though, and when you add to that the huge variety of moves available on each of the four disciplines, I think you'll find that Budokan is a thumpin' good beat 'em up.

In fact you've hardly set your feet down in the mighty U.S.S.R. and it's all action. You sight up your latest and most formidable bubble poppin' piece...but now that bounce bomb has just multiplied!!! Tour the world in the most addictive arcade game of the year from Mitchell Corp. A quick eye and super fast reflexes will give you just a half-chance of a win... the other half will come if the bounce goes your way!

You're one mean, hot dude. Get a steering wheel in your hand and you're unbeatable. However, things aren't going too well. Over-revving the engine of your Skoda never really did it much good and your racing career, like your little Russian terror, is going nowhere. You need a real motor and a meaty challenge - and like your driving, you need them fast!

Here's the good news. A number of sponsors have been impressed by your antics and want to take you onto their team. Formula one racing! A dream come true! A whole season's worth of high speed racing across a number of tracks is yours for the

But it's not just the racing over the eight-way scrolling tracks that's going to keep you occupied. The mechanics on your team are as thick as two short planks, so all the decision making is down to the player. Although the pit crew can help when it comes to changing tyres and engines, the racing excitement can only be handled by you. So, waste no more time! Get your racing trousers on and put the pedal to the metal!

THANK YOU!

PC Engine Supplies (0782 712759) deserve our thanks for supplying us with the F1 Circus card. Thanks guys!

Formula 1 has never been so much fun! F1 Circus cuts out all the simulation rubbish and turns the speedy sport into a real gut-wrenching arcade experience! The scrolling on this game is unbelievably fast - move your F1 roadster into sixth and watch it fly! Multiple pile-ups are commonplace on the F1 circuits, but your car seems to be able to take such catastrophic damage with ease! The control of your car (especially at speed) takes a long time to master and you'll probably spend quite a while on the practise circuits before you qualify, but it's fun all the way and once you're racing, you're hooked! Go for it without delay - this is one classy arcade game and will have you at the Engine for ages!

GREMLINS II

BY ELITE

We told the rules. We told you not to get them wet. We told you not to feed them after midnight. Did you listen? Nope, and just when you thought you'd got rid of 'em for good, they're back -

A seemingly harmless corridor...

▼ Blast those nasty Gremlins, Billy!

and they're worse than ever! It's been a few years since the Gremlins wreaked havoc at Kingston Falls, but now things are starting to go wrong. Clamp Plaza, a huge multi-story complex, is now under threat of destruction by those madcap monsters, and it's down to Billy Peltzer to sort things out. Armed from the outset with a torch, Billy must ensure that the scaly maniacs are disposed of before nightfall. If you fail, the Gremlins will escape the building into New York City, and then...?

Viewed from side-on, Billy can run, jump and shoot, collecting additional weapons and power-ups along the way. Some Gremlins release bubbles when destroyed, which can be traded in for weapons at the end of each level. You haven't got it all your own way, though, because those crazed creeps have set traps-a-plenty around the building, and will do anything in their power to stop you!

UPDATE

The New Batch will be infesting an ST near you real soon, with similar graphics and sound to the Amiga game's. Expect C64, Spectrum and Amstrad versions nearer to Christmas.

AMIGA
£24.99

To be perfectly frank, I was expecting this to be a pile of poo, but Gremlins 2 is actually rather jolly. Things get off to a good start with the cute (yecch!) intro sequence of Gizmo blinking his eyes to the sound of a Gremlin muttering threats of doom and gloom, and gets better from thereon in. Both graphics and sound fit the bill nicely, with well-animated characters and loads of sampled sound, but the gameplay suffers from being over-difficult in parts, making things somewhat frustrating. There are some very nice touches, such as Gizmo parachuting in Rambo-style when the correct token is collected, and the Gremlins disappearing with a satisfying "squelch" when blasted. Overall, a fun game that will please platform fans, but definitely not one for novices.

SPIDERMAN

BY EMPIRE

Quentin Beck - alias Spider-Man's arch enemy Mysterio, has broken out of prison and is after revenge. Although he's unaware that Peter Parker is actually Spider-Man he does know that the web-slinging super-hero is a close friend of Parker's wife, Mary Jane.

Thus he decides to kidnap Mary Jane and he takes his captive to Rockwell Studios, leaving a tantalizing note for Parker: "If you ever want to see Mary Jane again, get Spider-Man to meet me at the Rockwell Studios, tomorrow midnight".

Spidey knows it's a trap - Rockwell Studios have been deserted for years now and who knows what devastating traps and illusions Mysterio has conjured up. When Spider-Man reaches the studios his worst fears are confirmed. Not only are there many traps, but Mysterio has used his knowledge of robotics to create metallic minions all designed with one directive only: kill Spider-Man.

The studios are separated into sets. You'll find ghostly crypts and graveyards, mazes and there's even a Wild West set in there somewhere! Progress has to be made by solving puzzles in this flick-screen platform game. Switches open doors, but watch out for booby-traps designed to send Spiderman to The Great Web In The Sky.

But Spidey's still got his super-human wall-crawling powers and his extremely useful web-shooter, so there shouldn't be much of a problem, should there?

▼ Spooky mummies threaten our Spidey!

▼ Spins a web, any size! Catch a thief, just like flies!

UPDATE

The Amazing Spider-Man will be crawling to a Spectrum, Amstrad, C64, ST and PC near you, soon. The game doesn't really exploit 16 bit power, so all the versions should compare well to this Amiga game.

AMIGA
£24.99

First Impressions of Spider-Man aren't really very good. There's a distinct lack of action, the graphics are very small and the backdrops are pretty standard fare. However, get your teeth into this game, and you'll soon find yourself well and truly addicted. The platform-based puzzling action is reminiscent of both Rick Dangerous and Manic Miner with the added advantage of Spidey's abilities. But as I recall, Spider-Man had superhuman strength and the real McCoy would be able to pound Mysterio's robotic goons with little effort. Some of the puzzles are difficult to solve, though not impossible. Beware Spidey-fans - this isn't quite the action-filled game we expected, but the puzzling action kept me hooked for hours. No doubt it'll do the same for computer-owning Marvel fiends.

THE BEST

STAR WARS

HIT SQUAD

Quite some time ago, in a galaxy not too far away, Star Wars - The Arcade Game appeared, a jolly vector graphics blaster with lots of sampled speech. Then a few years ago, it was released on practically every format imaginable, and now it's emerging once more as a budget re-release. It's simple enough - blast TIE fighters to bits, race across the surface of the Death Star, zip along the trench, and zap the exhaust port to blow the sucker to kingdom-come. Your X-Wing has a limited number of shields to protect you, and once these are gone, you've had it. As far as these versions go, it's pretty repetitive stuff, but the Amstrad version is nonetheless entertaining, and nippy to boot. The C64 version, however, plays like a slug in treacle, with jerky ships juddering around the screen. Amstrad owning fans of the game should part with the shekels pronto, but C64 would-be rebels would be better off looking elsewhere.

ZANY GOLF

ELECTRONIC ARTS

Another in EA's Star Performer range, Zany Golf was the brainchild of Will Harvey, responsible for the conversions of Marble Madness, and for the brilliant Immortal reviewed last ish. As the title suggests, it's crazy golf, with some of the wackiest courses any budding Nick Faldo could ever wish for. The objective is simple - hit the ball into the hole in a set number of shots, then move on to the next one, but expect to come across such hazards as windmills, ketchup bottles, bouncing hamburgers, castles, laser cannons and even a pinball table to negotiate! Graphics are a bit on the grainy side, but it doesn't really detract from the game itself. At full price, this was a barrel of laughs, and for a tenner, it's a steal. Put on your plus-fours and a silly cap, and give this a whirl!

BARBARIAN II

KIXX

Hearken back to the days of old, where men were men, women were women, and big purple dinosaurs were very bad news indeed. Legend tells of a brave warrior from the North who rescued the Princess Mariana from the clutches of the evil wizard Drax, and now the two have set out again to destroy Drax once and for all. Controlling either the barbarian or the princess, you travel through wastelands, caverns, and dungeons, battling monsters along the way. The controls are a bit tricky at first, but once you've got the hang of things it's hack and chop fun all the way. Graphics are

OUT RUN KIXX

This rip-roaring Sega road racer had jaws dropping all over the place when it emerged in the arcades several years ago, and went on to be one of the biggest selling conversions of recent years. For Mrs. Scrote of 28 Bogwell Street who doesn't know what the game's about, it puts you in the driving seat of a Ferrari Testarossa with a girlie by your side, and your aim is to scream across the States within the set time limit. Easy, eh? Don't you believe it! Hair-pin bends, hills and other traffic are a certain route to turning your sleek machine (and the car) into a pile of scrap. Unfortunately, the computer versions were a bit on the dull side, and the C64 game is one of the worst offenders. Flat, dull sprites jerk along flat, dull backdrops completely destroying whatever sense of speed achieved by the coin-op, the sound is enough to have you leaping for the volume in seconds, and the playability is ultimately knackered by the irritating multi-load. Leave well alone, unless you're completely mad.

POWER DROME ELECTRONIC ARTS

Forget about Brand's Hatch and Silverstone. In the future, Formula 1 has been replaced by the Powerdrome, where high speed antics now take place with the aid of anti-grav skimmers equipped with high-power Afterburners! One of Powerdrome's biggest selling points is the prospect of simultaneous two player excitement (if you're willing to link two computers together) as you speed around the solid 3D tracks.

Powerdrome on all three formats isn't bad at all, but the problem that this game has resides in the unwieldy controls. You'll find your speeder speeding into the Powerdrome wall for the most part, and this really spoils an otherwise brilliant game.

DELTA KIXX

Strange things have been happening to merchant trading ships entering Delta space. Rumour has it that a strange alien menace with an incredibly silly name have been getting particularly narked off with all this shipping and have now taken to blasting everything in their path!

It looks like civilisation as we know it could do with a hero - enter the player, who must jump into his horizontally scrolling death-mobile blasting anything that vaguely resembles an alien. This journey'll take you through 32 levels of some of the greatest blasting action yet seen on the C64! No kidding! With such excellent graphics, unsurpassed sonics and great playability, Delta is a real classic. Buy without delay!

One of the most amazing sports sims ever to hit the 8 bit computer finally makes it to the budget market and what a scorching bargain it is! Get sponsored by the likes of Ocean Pacific (TM) and Official Hacky Sack (TM), then sample the thrills of Hall Pipe, Surfing, Roller Skating, Flying Disk, BMX, and foot bag (that's Hacky Sack (TM) to the rest of us).

The class graphics and brilliant playability of all six events have to be seen to be believed - on the C64. INTERCEPTOR ELECTRONIC ARTS

Another in a long series of EEA Star Performers, Interceptor takes the player into the avionic wonders of the F/A-18 Hornet and F-16 Falcon. You've got five missions of bogey-blasting to attempt in your efforts to become an American hero. Interceptor made a big splash when it first came out because it was the first flight sim ever to adopt filled vector graphics. Interceptor does have a very easy control method and this makes flying the missions feel really good. Unfortunately, the likes of F-19

Stealth Fighter with their hundreds of missions (rather than five) make this otherwise cracking game seem rather dated, but if you're a beginner to flight sims, Interceptor is the one to go for!

M1 TANK PLATOON

Available for IBM PC Compatibles and coming soon for Atari ST and Commodore Amiga

MICROPROSE
SIMULATION • SOFTWARE

Four M1 Abrams Tanks, Four soldiers in each. That's Four Tanks, Sixteen Men. And you control the whole shooting match.

M1 TANK PLATOON

• Leadership. Each of the 16 men in your tank platoon has his own battlefield skills and abilities. Improving with experience, promotion and decorations, your chances of success increase as your platoon become battle hardened.

• Strategic and tactical command. Plan your winning strategies, giving orders to your platoon of tanks, calling in airstrikes and artillery. At any moment you can 'jump' into the thick of the action, taking over direct control, as commander, gunner or driver of any tank.

• Realistic Battlefield terrain. Make use of natural cover, such as hills, ridges and buildings to hide your tanks, across the huge 16,000 acre 3-D battle zone, just like a real tank commander.

• Endless variety. Fight during the day, at night, in snow, mud, rain or clear weather. With thousands of battlefields and millions of situations and you get endless enjoyment. Decide between single battles or an entire campaign.

IBM SCREEN SHOTS SHOWN. ACTUAL SHOTS MAY VARY

• High-tech war. Laser rangefinders, depleted uranium penetrators, wire-guided missiles, reactive armour, air support and artillery make M1 Tank Platoon the most comprehensive, up-to-date simulation of armoured land warfare available for your home computer.

M1 Tank Platoon was released for IBM PC compatible machines in October 1989.

"MicroProse has surely excelled on this one: it's all there, from superb-playability through great attention to detail to one of the best manuals I've seen in a long time. The competition should watch out, as this one's going to take some beating." PC Leisure Spring '90

THE SPY WHO LOVED ME

DOMARK

Bond is back on the ST! After the brilliant Licence to Kill, Domark have travelled back in time to 1977 for this Roger Moore epic. We played this game to death when we saw the Amiga version last month and now the ST version's arrived we can reveal that it looks and plays exactly like the Amiga original.

All five levels of 007 antics remain the same. There's the two levels worth of brilliant Lotus/Spy Hunter frolics, the underwater Lotus section and two levels of Operation Wolf-style gameplay. It's a pity that the ST version hasn't got the brilliant Bond theme of the Amiga game, but not to worry because The Spy Who Loved Me is still a pretty whizzo game. Check it out.

HEWSON

Five cargo freighters traveling through the Horsehead nebula have been bombarded with strange radioactive particles, causing the robot crew and their cargo battle droids to go haywire, destroying everything humanoid in their path!

Make way for the 101 Influence Droid - a droid with a mission to infiltrate the five freighters and blow away every robot on board. The Influence Droid may have pretty ineffectual fire-power, but its one redeeming feature is its ability to clamp onto other droids and take control of their bodies!

We loved the Amiga version lots when we saw it in August and the ST game is just as good. All the atmosphere and playability of the outstanding original are there to be savoured, and the challenge to complete all five ships is even more intense. All self-respecting ST owners should add this classic game to their collection NOW!

KICK OFF 2 ANCO

Okay, okay, so we've already reviewed AND updated this fabulous football sim, but Anco have finally revealed the new one megabyte version of the greatest footballing game in the known world!

This new version retains all of the amazing functions (such as replays and different pitches) of the original, and adds some more! How would you fancy over-the-shoulder scissor kicks, Brian? Referees and linesmen follow the action and there's some extra sampled speech and various crowd chants (some of the more "colourful" ones have been left out, though!).

This version of the classic game is undoubtedly the best yet, but it's really just a slightly enhanced version of what's in the shops already. If you don't own Kick Off 2 and have a one megabyte expansion then buy it without delay.

UPDATE

KLAX NAMCOT

After much grinning and ah-hing, Tengen's classic tic-tac-toe game finally hits Sega's 16 bit wonder-machine. But has the long wait been worth it? Is it as good as the PC Engine conversion? Is it worth buying?

It has to be said that the answer to both of these questions is a resounding "no!" The Megadrive game has all the graphics from the arcade original, but half of the coin-op's brilliant sound has been left out. The rounds of applause at the end of each level, for example, have now been replaced by a Yoda soundbite gurgling "very good". Even the Amiga and PC Engine versions had better sound than this.

TIME MACHINE ACTIVISION

The time-travelling escapades of Professor Potts got a C+VG HIT! a few issues back, and now the era-hopping egghead has emerged on the C64 and Amstrad. How do these translations stand against the Amiga version? we hear you cry. Very well, actually! The simplicity of the 16 bit game has been carried across intact, along with the playability. The graphics are colourful, if a little chunky, and sound is also put to good use. A flip-pin' good exploration game with loadsa puzzles that's guaranteed to keep you fixed to your stick for hours on end.

C64

Bundles of fourth-dimensional fun that's great fun for arcade adventurers. Highly recommended.

OVERALL 90%

AMSTRAD

OVERALL 90%

There's something wrong with the gameplay as well. You feel as if you're fighting through a pool of mud just to make your paddle move left. Sometimes tiles are flipped when you only wanted to move right. Klax on the Megadrive looks pretty much like a rushed product, and although Klaxing is still pretty addictive it isn't up to the arcade classic by any stretch of the imagination.

£33.00

Klax isn't a complete disaster, but the faults in the gameplay and sound departments simply can't be forgiven.

AFTERBURNER

NEC

Here at D+VG, we were expecting the next Ice Age to arrive before Afterburner was finally released on the PC Engine. Well, hush our mouths because it's finally here - and it isn't bad at all. If you feel the need for speed, then Afterburner certainly dishes it out in copious quantities, especially when you open the throttle right up! The 3D is really good, with a really nice turn of speed. It gets a bit glitchy at times, but it could be far worse. The sound isn't bad either with decent rock tracks and all the speech of the arcade version.

The problem is that the game lacks that exhilarating buzz that the arcade version and the Megadrive game gave you. Somehow the screen feels cramped and dodging missiles seems more down to luck than anything else. Overall, though, Afterburner is a decent blast and if you had the hots for the arcade game, it's well worth looking up.

PC ENGINE

SHOCKWAVE

BY DIGITAL MAGIC SOFTWARE 3D blasterama with Shockwave!

In the year 2167 AD, the Earth no longer bothers with imprisoning convicts. Instead, they usually end up being deported to the Moon and left to their own devices. Bit of a mistake, this, though, because the prisoners aren't the complete duffers that the authorities take them for, and they've constructed their own ships and now they're attacking the major cities of Earth, and guess who has got to defend one of them?

While holding out for reinforcements, you have to use the city's resources to aid the war effort. The ore from mines creates wealth and with this wealth you buy oil rigs (more fuel for your fighter craft), armies (to slow up the convicts) and factories (which develop better weapons and equipment for you as the game progresses).

As well as controlling all this development, you are called upon to slow up the enemy's advance personally. In this part of the game, which is displayed in Afterburner-esque 3D, the object is to destroy a set number of the enemy before they destroy you.

During the occasional special missions, you guide a remote controlled ship packed with explosives along a 3D trench to an enemy target. Reach the target before the countdown reaches zero, and the ship and the target both go kablooie!

Tactical cunning required to beat back the cons!

UPDATE

Get down to your local software store and you should find an ST version of Shockwave is on the shelves already!

AMIGA
£24.99

Shockwave is almost classy. There's no denying that its biggest selling point is the brilliant 3D visuals - they are truly stunning and move incredibly quickly and smoothly. The strategy aspects aren't bad either, with plenty of key decisions needing to be taken at every turn. Unfortunately the two aspects don't really fit together that well as a game. Neither the shoot 'em up nor the strategy elements have a great deal of depth or variety so the game as a whole isn't tops in the lastability stakes. In the short term, though, Shockwave ranks as an addictive little number, because you really feel the need to see the next level and the effects of your new weaponry. But it's the presentation and graphics that really make this game. Personally, I reckon that the programmers could produce an astounding Afterburner type game with these classy routines, so how about it Digital Magic?

UPDATE

ICE (the team behind the Amiga conversion) are producing an ST version, which will be much the same as the Amiga game, and Probe (who did the C64 game) are writing versions for the Spectrum and Amstrad GX4000 console. All versions will be out well in time for Christmas.

BY OCEAN

After making the roads safe for yer everyday driver in the brill Taito coin-op, Chase HQ, Ray and Tony (the Crockett and Tubbs lookalikes) have now been promoted to Special Criminal Investigations, the pinnacle of the CHASE department.

Their new mission is much like before - arrest five motorway maniacs, using any means at their disposal - except now the boys have a spanking new turbo-charged roadster and a firearms license, so instead of just ramming criminals off the road, one of the cool coppers can blast 'em as well! Who needs traffic wardens, eh?

Every so often, a helicopter appears and drops a package. If collected, the road-bound rozzers can let rip with a bazooka!

As in the original, the boys are racing against the clock and if they run out of time, the bad guy gets away! To even the score, however, one of five turbo-boosters can be engaged, pushing the car's speed to 230 mph for a few seconds!

▲ A huge chopper blocks the path to glory!

▼ Consult with Karen for your next mission.

C64 ROM £24.99

Chase HQ on the C64 was appalling, but this being cartridge only (primarily to take advantage of the C64GS console), the programmers have had stacks more memory to play with, and though the 3D is a little weird (the road moves faster than the buildings), the sequel is pretty good fun.

OVERALL 79%

AMIGA £24.99

After the top-class conversion of Chase HQ last year, I was wondering whether Ocean could come up with the boss once more, and they have - just. Thing is, this just seems to be more of a remix than an out-and-out sequel. The problem doesn't lie with the conversion, but with the coin-op - which just seemed to be an attempt by Taito to cash in on the original's success. So no points for originality, but SCI is pretty good fun, nonetheless. The graphics are nice and detailed, and the 3D is quite effective, but the screen looks a bit empty. The sound is quite tasty, too, and features lots of sampled stuff. The car handles well, but has a tendency to careen off the road a little too much - something which is a tad annoying when you're running out of time and about to administer the coup de grace! Overall, if you liked Chase HQ, you'll enjoy this, but be warned - there's not a lot between the two.

THE MONKEY ISLAND

BY LUCASFILM/US GOLD Become a human cabal

This is the END for you, you gutter-crawling cur!
 Soon you'll be wearing my sword like a shish kebab!
 I once owned a dog that was smarter than you.
 You make me want to puke.
 Nobody's ever drawn blood from me, and nobody ever will!
 You fight like a dairy farmer.

SWASH-BUCKLING EXCITEMENT!

Every pirate needs to know one end of his cutlass from the other, but successful swordplay isn't just down to speed and strength, as Captain Smirk here explains. Razor sharp wit is the mark of a good swordsman, and knowing the right insult for the right occasion can cut your opponent to the quick far more effectively than a steel blade. Test your skill against Melee Island's finest corsairs, but to impress the pirate leaders you must defeat Caria, the Swordmaster.

HEART-POUNGING ROMANCE!

Guybrush Threepwood was a would-be pirate, stealing an idol from her mansion. Elaine Marley was Melee Island's governor, a woman with power and responsibility, but when her eyes met his, sparks flew and made little scorch marks in the carpet! Alas, their romance is to be cut short, for Elaine is none other than the past lover of Captain LeChuck, and before Guybrush can plant the first smooch, LeChuck returns in spectral form to claim her back and carry her off to his hideaway on Monkey Island. Guybrush has no choice but to find a ship and a crew, then head off after him to retrieve his lost "Sugar Boots"! (And that's where the story really starts!)

But now he has had enough. In his quest for

THRILLS AND ADVENTURE ON THE HIGH SEAS!

Ah yes, but before you can go after LeChuck and rescue Elaine you need a ship, and where better to find one than at Stan's Previously Owned Vessels? Whether you want a 200 foot galleon with two swimming pools and a revolving ballroom, or the only vessel ever to have survived the perils of Monkey Island (ah!), Stan ("I won't shut up till I've made a deal") promises to have the ship to suit you in his boatyard. Don't be afraid to haggle either - Stan loves it, but these days you need at least 5,000 pieces of eight to buy the right boat. Perhaps a little consumer credit is called for?

Thought he got there with the Idol of Many Hands, did you?

such a crisis on their hands, the pirate chiefs are more than willing to recruit new blood, and they quickly dispatch Guybrush to complete three trials - defeat the island's Swordmaster, steal a fabulous idol from the mansion of the Governor and find the lost treasure of Melee Island.

Those are no easy tasks, and the game is by no means over when they are complete. The quest leads Guybrush from Melee Island across unknown waters, to Monkey Island, where he must face diabolical cannibals, insane castaways and the fearsome phantom pirate, LeChuck...

The Lucasfilm adventures have always been favourites in our office, but this is the first one I've wanted to play right until the end. In the week since I got hold of this game, I've spent every spare moment playing it and enjoying it! Zak McKracken had a great sense of humour, and Indy had a great plot, but this has both! Usually the entertainment you get from an adventure is derived solely from solving puzzles, but the hilarious characters and situations, and the movie-like presentation (with cut-scenes and various "camera" viewpoints) make playing this more like taking part in a comedy film so it's much more enjoyable. The puzzles are brilliantly conceived too, and success depends more on looking and listening, which I think is preferable to mind-bending lateral thinking. Lucasfilm's easy-to-use, point-and-click command system rides again in Monkey Island, so even the laser-brains with keyboardphobia have no excuse not to get hold of this utterly enthralling game at once!

Set in the near future, as an alternative reality, BATTLE COMMAND is an arcade/strategy game in which the player controls a single "MAULER" Assault Tank in one of 16 scenarios (missions) in the ultra war fought between two dominant races in the NEW WORLD. The latest phase of the North/South war has been going on for over 10 years, with a stalemate eventually developing - a standoff between armies massed over a long dug-in battlefield. Such are the defensive capabilities of each side, full scale attacks are suicidal, so any offensive moves are, by necessity, small "behind the lines" actions performed by elite troops in specially designed vehicles. The Mauler is the latest such machine - capable of being lifted in and out of hostile territory by fast stealth choppers and armed with the most advanced weaponry the Northern scientists can devise.

BY TAITO

He's back, and he's brought his dad - again! Indiana Jones, archaeologist, hard guy and star of three money-making movies, is out to find the Holy Grail, the fabled receptacle of Christ, and nothing's gonna stand in his way!

Following the plot of the film, the game starts off on board a ship, through which Indy has to fight off hordes of fist-fighting thugs in order to retrieve the Coronado Cross. Once successful, Indy receives a telegram from his friend Sallah telling him his father has been kidnapped, and taken to Castle Brunwald. Does Indy travel to Germany and rescue Daddy Indy, or go to Vienna and continue the search for the Grail? You have to make that decision, but bear in mind that following one pathway means you miss out on whatever perils or goodies are in store on the other route.

The mix of arcade action and decision making is most reminiscent of a Cinemaware game. The castle scene, for example, is a massive maze, with secret entrances and traps galore. The desert section in which Marcus Brody has to be rescued from a Nazi tank before it goes off the edge of a cliff is also in, and there's even a motorbike sequence, in which Indy has to avoid traps, gun emplacements and enemy riders!

▲ In search of the Cross of Coronada in Indy 3.

▲ Whipping the opposition in this Nintendo goodie.

UPDATE

Last year, US Gold produced games for all formats based on the Indy III movie, and they are also about to launch a version of the same game for the Sega Master System. Watch out for a review of that in the very next issue of C+VG.

C+VG HIT!

NINTENDO
£29.99

I've always been a little sceptical of console "adventures" in the past, but Last Crusade completely blows away any cynicism I might have had (Ooh, you're such a hard man to please - Ed). The feel of the game and the fact that it sticks so closely to the plot of the movie makes playing feel like watching the movie unfold. The graphics are great, with buckets of colour on both the action and intermission screens, and the sprites whizz around the screen at a great rate of knots. The main tune is a very nice rendition of the title theme, and there's lots of nicely done spot FX thrown in for good measure. Indy walks and runs around like a thing possessed, punching, jumping, kicking and whipping, and is very well animated indeed, as are all the sprites. The game is so involved, but allows you to skip around certain parts of the game, so you can dictate how the difficulty curve escalates! Quite frankly, this has got to be one of the best Nintendo games to date, and you'd have to be an utter pillock or someone who absolutely hates Harrison Ford to miss it.

This time those devious, plotting, alien slime have gone too far! Just when the Earth Council were planning their next diplomatic move for intergalactic peace, those double-crossing xenomorphs sneaked into our armoury, destroyed most of the fighter fleet and made off with all our highly advanced weaponry!

Only one squadron of patrol craft escaped the catastrophe, and is now ready to chase the thieving aliens home, and give them a blasting they won't forget!

Luckily, the stolen weaponry is still in transit, so if you torch a container ship you can catch a weapons pod and bolt it onto your own craft. Two types of these power-ups are on offer. One produces extra fire, whilst the other issues a more deluxe version of the bog-standard laser bolt, including rear fire and multiples. Alternatively, you can drain off the batteries of any extra weapon and use the power in one enormous super-destructo space-blast which nukes everything on the screen.

All tooled up with nowhere to go? You may find that the enemy have one or two nasty tricks up their slimy sleeves, not least the nightmare-like end-of-level guardians!

Another vertically scrolling shoot 'em up? Yawn... But hey! Wait a minute! Final Blaster ain't all bad, chief! Okay, so it isn't in the Gunhed realms of complete brilliance, but it's pretty damn addictive nonetheless with plenty of levels to keep you occupied. The extra weapons (including a Battle of the Planets-style Flery Phoenix!) are many and varied including vicious side cannons that power-up to Salamander-style multiples! The end-of-level bosses are pretty evil too, and there's always a nasty surprise in store for you! The graphics are well-defined with scrolling that's as smooth as silk. The sonics are also pretty groovy, with ear-blasting effects and decent tunes. The game doesn't really represent much of a challenge though, and hardened shoot 'em up fiends will find the going a bit too easy. Recommended, nonetheless.

BY US GOLD

Just when Strider was considering quitting the inter-planetary peace force, the leader of Earth was kidnapped by a bunch of power-hungry aliens! So, pausing only to pick up his trusty titanium blade and his new laser gun, Strider sets off to the first of five alien territories that he will need to destroy in order to rescue the leader of Earth (who is, incidentally, a woman).

The journey to the final confrontation takes Strider through an alien-infested forest, and from then it's on to the two towers which form the outer defences of the alien world. When these defences have been well and truly breached, Strider then has to make his way through underground caverns - destroying the enemy power-stations before finally rescuing the girl being held captive in the Earth Spacecraft.

I must've been the only person in the civilised world who thought that all versions of the original Strider were rather lacking. It came as a big surprise to find that Strider II is a completely different kettle of fish. Although it's pretty far removed from the arcade original, Strider II is a whole barrel of excitement from the word go. The playability's pretty good, and Strider is really responsive. The graphics are very colourful (although the clash at times is a bit heavy on the eyes), and the scrolling is fast and pretty damn smooth. There's plenty of levels to keep you occupied and they're a bit on the large side, so lasting interest is guaranteed. The problem is that there's an absolute heap of classic Speccy platform game available (some at budget price) that are better. Buy it if you want a real Strider game.

BATTLE COMMAND

The time - the near future. The place - the New World. The problem - the Ultra War, a vicious conventional global conflict between the North and the South. The current phase of the war has raged for the past ten years, until inevitable finally happened - stalemate.

Such are the defensive capabilities of both forces, a full-scale offensive assault would be suicide, so each side has resorted to small-scale tactical actions by the best soldiers in specialist vehicles, in order to sabotage the other's war efforts.

The Mauler is the latest of these vehicles, a Northern designed tank which can be transported straight into the thick of things by stealth helicopter, and armed with the very latest in destructive weaponry. And guess who volunteered to drive it...?

The New World is viewed in solid-fill 3D, a plain dotted with hills, trees, buildings and the like, and traversed by rivers, roads, railway lines and power cables, all viewed from different angles both inside and outside the Mauler.

There are sixteen missions to complete, and success could turn the war in your favour. Don't even contemplate failure...

UPDATE

Battle Command will be roaring onto the ST and PC real soon, and both will be similar to the Amiga version in most respects, as far as the machines' capabilities will allow. Good news also for 8 bit tank fans - Battle Command will be available for the C64, Amstrad and the 128k Spectrum sometime in the New Year. We've had a look at the Speccy version, and although some of the external views are gone (due to memory restrictions), it should still play very well.

The future is here, and it's called Battle Command! Big words, perhaps, but for a game which is essentially Battlezone with knobs on, Battle Command is one of the best games I've played for a long time. Similar in the tactical aspect to its predecessor, Carrier Command, Realtime have taken leaps and bounds to ensure the playability of the sequel is more engrossing and entertaining than the original. The 3D is smooth, and the screen update is a lot faster than before. The sound is yer everyday booms and bangs, but what do you expect from a tank game? In technical terms, this is one amazing program, and in gameplay terms the same applies - driving around the countryside, meeting interesting new people and blasting them to smithereens! It's all very addictive, and will have armchair tacticians gibbering like loonies. If you're after a game of this nature, look no further - this is the best one!

▲ Wonderful graphics jazz up Supremacy.

SUPREMACY

BY VIRGIN GAMES

Discovering four new dimensions, each with its own planets ripe for settlement, is a cause for celebration. At least it would be, if these dimensions weren't also home to alien lifeforms intent on developing the same planets and destroying you!

This strategy game is controlled via option screens and icons, which allow you to extend your territory to the other planets in the system. There are four different foes to choose from, ranging from Wotok - a near-mindless ape creature who fights for eight planets - to Forn, a virtually invincible being whose battlefield stretches over 32 worlds.

Managing your resources is vital to success. Each planet is of a particular type, be it volcanic (good for mining), tropical (extra crops from farming stations), or metropolitan (loads a tax revenue!). Ferrying supplies from planet to planet soon becomes important so that you can maintain your economy while new worlds are being formed.

Sooner or later war is going to begin, so it's wise to train troops to their maximum potential. Decisions have to be made as to how extensively you wish your forces to be equipped, as your finances are always in greater demand than supply. The outcome of a battle is decided by the relative strengths and skills of the combatants, and whether they're fighting home or away, so to speak!

Victory can be elusive, but guarantees an animated sequence in which the enemy commander is brought in front of you - and summarily shot for his impudence! Defeat, however, is not pretty....

▼ Equipping platoons can be fun...

While it isn't all that complicated, the vast array of tactics and ideas make Supremacy a great strategy game. I particularly liked the high quality graphics used throughout the game (check out the spaceship pics!), which add a lot to the game's overall feel and atmosphere. The only bummer is the rather hefty price tag, which I suspect would put the mainstream gamers off buying. Still, if strategy is your bag, then I think you should find the extra fiver is money well spent.

THE

KILLING GAME

BY PSYGNOSIS

If you thought "The Running Man" was the deadliest game show on television, think again! The Killing Game Show gives genetically-altered criminals and enemies of the State (where have I heard that before?) the chance to fight their way out of sixteen Pits of Death, massive cylinders filled with hostile artificial attackers, puzwalls, and defend himself zles and traps. Sounds easy, doesn't it? Not when the cylinder's filling up with a liquid that'll wipe you out in a flash, it isn't!

Each criminal is encased in an armoured exo-suit which lets him leap and climb with a single shot blaster cannon. Additional weapons are scattered around each pit, but the more you use them the quicker they run out. Keys and tools are also to be found, and they're used to solve puzzles and open doors and traps.

Making your way out of the first pit may be easy enough, but remember, there are fifteen more to go...

After the disappointing Shadow of the Beast 2, Psygnosis have picked themselves up, dusted themselves down, and come out with this, which is really good! At first, it seems like a bog-standard shoot 'em up, but the pace of the action picks up with alarming speed and before you know it, you've got hordes of slivering nasties screaming towards you, and all you've got to protect yourself with is a weedy popgun. The "against the clock" element also adds to the gameplay, especially on the later levels. A nice touch is the video option - when you lose a life, you can replay the last life up to any point, then jump in wherever you want! The graphics are very nice indeed - a special mention must go to the superb intro which sets the scene perfectly - and the FX and thumping tracks get the old adrenal glands pulsing. A good blast which'll keep you going for quite some time.

MEGA BLASTER OF THE YEAR

BY LUCAS-FILM/US GOLD

Getting a job at Industrial Might and Logic (a wee joke on the name of Lucas-film's special effects company, Industrial Light and Magic, methinks) is no easy task. Take Fred and Freda Fuit, for example. They've been trying to get a job there for ages, and only now has the hard-nosed boss given them a trial run.

Their task is to run the Beast - a massive machine which churns out toys of famous Lucasfilm characters by the lorryload. Sounds easy, yes? Guess again! Running the Beast involves pedalling a bike to bring the machine's energy levels up to scratch, then turning all manner of switches and dials to ensure the right parts appear for the right toys in the right colours! And if that isn't enough, a couple of mischievous lemmings get in on the act and try to throw a spanner in the works! Erk!

Success will be rewarded with some very nice bonuses, but if Fred or Freda fail to meet their quota (by either not making enough toys, or making too many rejects), they'll be given their cards, and get the receiving end of a boot!

NIGHT SHIFT

AMIGA
£24.99

The easiest thing that can be said about Night Shift is that it's a platform game with knobs on - literally! At first glance, Night Shift looks like a lot of fun, and it is - for the first few plays. But once you hit the later levels, you find that there's just too much to do at any one time - keep the bike going, turn this dial, hit that switch, stop the lemmings, arrrrgh! Everything goes into maximum overdrive, and reject toys seem to appear from every nook and cranny! Having to race around again rectifying the situation is more frustration-inducing than fun, and so the playability level suffers quite a bit. The graphics and sound are very nice, even if everything seems to appear a touch squashed, and there are some very entertaining sequences, featuring the cigar-chomping boss, and the lemmings (one of which has a bright red nose!). If well 'ard platform action is the one for you, have a gander - you may like this, you may not. Be sure you're up to the challenge, though - this is no game for novices!

ROBERT SWAN

UPDATE
Night Shift should be cranking up on the ST, C64, Spectrum and Amstrad some time in the New Year, the ST version (which should be similar to the Amiga and PC versions in most respects) retailing for £24.99, and the 8 bit versions for £10.99. The graphics aren't exactly awe-inspiring, so the 8 bits should be able to capture the majority of the game intact.

PC
£24.99
Depending on the graphics format used, PC Night Shift is similar to the Amiga version in most respects, but with larger graphics and poorer sound. Unfortunately, it's just as flippin' tough as the Amiga game, so the same criticisms apply. Again, take a look, but this ain't for the faint of heart.

FAT MAN

BY SANRITSU

Phwoar! Right in the gob! ▶

Roll up! Roll up! For the ultimate in arena violence, take a trip to the Fatman's fighting arena, where only the fittest will survive - if they're extremely lucky! So, if you fancy earning a huge wad of money, get over to The Fight Palace, and you may be one of the few who emerge victorious.

Don't count on it, though. Standing between you and the riches offered by the Fatman are eight opponents guaranteed to make your blood run cold (spook!). Lining up to cause your doom are the likes of Edwina, the dude-ette who rips phone books in half for a living, and Guano, the flatulent gargoyle with mace-spray attachments. But even these guys are rookies compared to the real stars of the show. Robochic has inflammable gases (what is this Japanese fixation with breaking wind?) and robotic power-boxing gloves (aaww!).

▲ He won't be getting up after that one!

To combat these thumping goons, you can use your prize winnings to buy extra punching power and health points and secret weapons. Fades make you temporarily invisible, shields make you invulnerable for a couple of seconds and poisonous clouds and swarms of bees can also be launched at your foe.

▶ ...Today, computer game star!

A two player option has also been included which has all the features of the one player game, apart from a choice of opponents.

UPDATE

Activision's American arm actually programmed ST and PC versions of Tongue of the Fatman (the original title) but it was never widely available in this country. Whether or not it makes it over here in the near future is doubtful.

When you first plug in Fatman your first thoughts will be "Oh my god! Why have I bought this?". The backdrops, although smoothly scrolling, won't exactly set the art world alight and the sound is rather disappointing. However, the playability on this game is what sets it apart from the usual beat 'em up fare. Collecting your prize money and laying into your next opponent with your new extra goodies is really rather good, especially when you use a fade in two player mode - confusion guaranteed. There's a fair amount of combat moves on offer, and the animation on all of the combatants is arcade quality - I kid you not! However, fun and fast though Fatman is, it is ridiculously overpriced - for die-hard beat 'em up dudes only.

▲ Match the blocks for extra points.

Puznic

BY OCEAN

Puznic, like Ocean's previous release Plotting, is a conversion of a little-known coin-op (this one is by Taito), and like the afore-mentioned title, the objective is simply to clear each screen of blocks.

Unlike Plotting, however, the player uses a crosshair to "grab" a block, and push it left or right or drop it into a gap to connect it with a block with the same logo. When the blocks touch, they vanish. It's not all that simple, though - moving blocks and traps in the floor make life difficult, and when three similar blocks have to be disposed of, the player has to work out how to get rid of all three without leaving one!

▲ More blocks than Legoland (tm)!

▼ Choose your level here.

AMIGA
£24.99

I really love puzzle games of this type, essentially because of their simplicity of play and addictive nature, and Puznic definitely falls into this category. At first glance, it plays like it looks - very simple indeed - but on later levels things go from one extreme to the other! The graphics and sound are very basic, but this fits the gameplay adequately. It'll take some time to work out the traps on some of the later levels, but the feeling you get after completing a particularly nasty stage is well worth the effort. Out of the glut of puzzlers that are doing the rounds, Puznic is one of the few worth playing - bold words, indeed, but that's how addictive this game is. If puzzle games are your thing (and even if they aren't), Puznic is definitely worth a play or two, or maybe lots!

ROGUE TROOPER

BY KRYSALIS

The time is the far future, the place is a world far from our own, known as Nu-Earth - a ravaged globe where the very air is poison. There, a war rages between two factions, the vicious Nort's and the desperate Souther's - each determined to be victorious in a battle which neither side can win.

Enter the GIs - Genetic Infantrymen, a breed of elite warriors bred with built-in protection from Nu-Earth's harsh environment. One of these is ▲ 3D scroll-a-rama with Krysalis' latest!

▲ Battling Nort's at the waste disposal plant.

the Rogue Trooper, the only survivor of the Quartz Massacre, along with his bio-chip comrades, Gunnar, Bagman and Helm. His mission is one of revenge - against the traitor who sold out the Souther's, and caused the death of dozens of Rogue's colleagues.

Rogue has been captured, but has escaped from his cell within a huge Nort compound. His first task is to retrieve his helmet, his gun and his backpack, each containing one of the bio-chips. All three are scattered through several levels of platforms, each dotted with Nort soldiers and sentry robots, which must be taken out before they can either injure you, or sound the alarm. Once this is done, Rogue can escape in a stolen craft, and fly over enemy lines to the Souther base. Additional bits can be purchased - at a hefty cost - from Bland and Brass, two battlefield scavengers who will buy and sell anything - for a profit!

Things don't get any easier from there, though, as the Nort's have unleashed "dreamweaver" gas canisters, causing Rogue to hallucinate. Here our hero in blue genes (urgh!) has to survive until he reaches the base where the identity of the traitor can be exposed!

UPDATE

Rogue will be gunning his way onto the ST around the same time, for the price of £24.99. There's nothing outstanding about the Amiga version's audiovisuals, so the ST game should look and play identical to this one. There are no plans for 8 bit conversions at the moment.

AMIGA
£24.99

Hmm, I remember way back, when Piranha released a Rogue Trooper game, and to be quite honest, it was a pile of crud. Now Krysalis have got the licence, and the end result seems to be a combination of Prison (one of their earlier titles), and Logotron's BAD Company, and falls into the "not too good, not too bad" category. Why? Well, as I've said before with Krysalis' games, they all seem to look and play remarkably similar to each other, and this is no exception. The graphics are okay, and Rogue himself is animated quite well - there's even a nice "comic book" sequence in between levels - but the overall effect seems a little flat and two-dimensional. The sound is also nice, but doesn't seem to fit the bill as well as it could. The major fault lies in the gameplay - it's the same old thing again and again - move around levels, kill enemy, fly about, kill even more enemies - but with nowhere near enough action to satisfy would-be GIs. Even ardent 2000AD fanatics (like myself) would be warned to take a close look before grabbing hold of this.

The 3D vector graphics system in Simulcra features solid filled 3D graphics with shadows and light intensity surfaces. The system allows solid and wireframe surfaces to be freely mixed. Stipple and transparent/semi-transparent surfaces are also employed.

The game code runs up to 252 non player objects on the map. The game cycle rate and the view cycle are independent so that game time can be kept more or less constant even if the display rate is slowed down.

Special explosion effects are achieved using a highly efficient particle controller that individually moves up to 100 particles. Definitely a game that goes with a bang!

Simulcra uses a grid-based map similar to Virus but includes 'blank' squares, introducing ground-based and flight action

Simulcra is verging on the awesome, conjuring up immediate comparisons with the classic Virus. Your SRV rotates 360 degrees and can fly or drive. The rotation and shading are excellent and the game has a great feeling of speed. Battle is fast and furious and you can power up the SRV with loads of goodies including speed-ups, radar, fire and forget missiles, target display systems, shields, and extra lives.

Chris Morley, ACE, October 1990

To add variety to an already exciting game, MicroStyle have thrown in a wide variety of enemies. First, and most common, are the laser turrets that slowly sweep in a complete circle until they lock onto you, whomever they fire vicinously. Various ground and air attack craft, such as jeeps and small tanks, race around the walkways, thankfully needing only one shot to kill. Then you reach the megalinks – these can only be killed with missiles, but when shot explode in the most satisfactory way yet, by first ejecting the gas target and then collapsing in on themselves with a terrific sound effect.

Throughout the game you also have access to a map screen for strategic planning – and there's also a map power-up that gives you short range mapping/radar facilities while you're moving.

MICROSTYLE hurl you into the computer war of the future and produce a red hot 3D shoot-em-up as an incentive...

Cyberscape rules in the far future, where even war is played out inside massive computer simulators. A particularly unpleasant virus has, however, had the effect of projecting the combat into the real world and as a result you have hordes of bloodthirsty simulcraft pilots wreaking havoc all over the place. Your objective is to enter the 'battle matrix' and destroy the other craft as well as the matrix itself.

You control a sophisticated Surface Reconnaissance Vehicle (SRV) with swing wings that give it limited flight capabilities. You drive your SRV around the matrix, encountering every so often a thin red line that denotes an energy barrier beyond which you cannot pass. You must then locate the relevant energy projector and destroy it, which will lift the barrier and allow you to proceed.

The result is a fast paced 3D shoot-em-up that is slightly similar to Resolution 101 in gameplay terms but blends in elements of Falcon and Virus as well. In addition, the grid construction introduces a maze element. Sound effects are superb and add to the sensation of speed. There's also a wonderful intro sequence.

Just what a game should be: looks good, sounds good, and plays like a dream.

Here at MicroStyle we couldn't think of anything more to add to Chris Morley's review for October's edition of Ace.

WONDERLAND

BY VIRGIN

Lewis Carroll's masterpiece has been chosen as the first game for Magnetic Scrolls' new Magnetic Windows system. Following Alice's adventures in her dream wonderland, you must guide her through the surreal world, coping with rabbits in waistcoats, the Queen of Hearts, and even the hookah-smoking caterpillar.

The new system is an advanced variation on the classic text adventure - and, in fact, can be played as such if you so desire. This would be a little silly though, as the Windows system has a great deal to offer to make life easier. First off there are the graphics - not only highly detailed and accurate, but often animated as well (the dancing chairs in the music room are one example!).

Other windows include the inventory, where all current possessions can be seen, the room contents window, a compass icon, and even an automatic mapping function. This all helps to make the adventurer's life easier, and if that wasn't enough there are pull-down menus which give access to a host of other options. The layout of information windows is completely redefinable but to avoid hassle, a tidying option rearranges them to make the best use of the space available.

Every time an action results in increasing the score, the system points it out - so the player knows he must be doing something right!

UPDATE

Similar versions for the ST and Amiga are being programmed for release in late December/early January. No 8-bit versions are planned, alas.

If, like me, you're a big fan of previous MS games such as Fish! and The Pawn, you'll go bananas over this system. The graphics are stunning, the storyline is funny (as well as being accurate to the book), and the Magnetic Windows system is a joy to use. The auto-mapping facility alone is an enormous boon to adventurers, and this, combined with the ability to manipulate items on-screen, adds new dimensions to traditional adventuring. Luckily MS avoided the temptation to become Sierra clones, and have now released a games system that leads the field. I personally think that this opens the genre to people who would normally never touch adventures, and that can only be a good thing. Be warned, however; MS haven't made their challenges any easier, so it can be a frustrating time exploring Wonderland!

▲ The face of the future in BAT.

▲ Just one of the locations you'll discover.

BAT

BY UBISOFT

It is the 22nd century. Multi-national corporations have dramatically increased in stature and power, and the governments of the world, feeling threatened by such a state of affairs, have banished the corporate leaders from the face of the Earth.

These outcasts have made the planet Selenia their new home - a world which holds the secrets of Khegol, the element which makes interplanetary travel possible. Back on Earth, however, the Galaxy Confederation have set up BAT, a galaxywide peace-keeping organisation. Their first mission is to stop the evil Vrangor, a maniacal genius who threatens the people of Selenia with bacterial warfare. Unless the Selenians give up their world - and the Khegol - to him, he will annihilate them utterly!

The player is cast as the BAT agent sent out to Selenia to assassinate Vrangor, and restore peace to the galaxy. Once equipped with various items, the player can travel around the world and interact with the myriad races by simply clicking on them with the pointer. Not everybody is willing to talk, however, so a little aggression is required now and then. The real problem is, Vrangor knows exactly what's going on, and has sent scores of assassin droids to dispose of anyone that gets in the way of his plans!

UPDATE

BAT will be appearing on the Amiga, with similar graphics to the ST, but without the hardware module, as the Amiga can kick up the sound without any add-ons. There's also a PC version in the mix, which supports the MV-16. Both should be out soon, and will retail for a pocket-numbing £29.99.

C64 DISK £19.99

Ouch! Twenty sovs for a C64 game? And that's without the hardware module! Unfortunately the gameplay suffers from the same problems as the ST version, but the dull graphics and slow disk access time make it even more unrewarding to play. Unless you find the concept really attractive, you're better off saving your cash.

OVERALL 65%

▲ Hmm... A dodgy character and no mistake.

ST
£29.99

How long has this taken to appear? I first heard of this about two years ago, and only now has it appeared on the screen. In theory BAT's point-and-click icon system would seem to work very well, but in practice it's very long-winded and issuing a command requires too much effort. The graphics are very nice indeed, but a special mention must go to the sound, supplied by the MV-16, a unit which plugs into the MIDI port and chucks out some really good, but very loud, 16 channel sound! The only drawback to this is you've got to plug headphones or a hi-fi in to listen to it. However, keen UBISOFT fans, will be pleased to hear that all their future releases will use the MV-16. The game itself falls down in one major respect - things happen too quickly, and it doesn't give the player a chance to react. Barely a minute into the game, I found myself stuck in a toilet, pursued by a killer robot, and with no ammunition and no way out! The price tag is a bit steep too, even with the hardware add-on. If wandering around looking for trouble is your bag, have a look, but definitely try before you buy.

REVIEW

▲ Alien bubbles of terror are out in force to destroy the Hellfire.

BY NCS

Civilisation as we know it is about to end! Hordes of alien marauders have begun to infest our colonies killing all in their path! Arr-ghhh! Once again, it looks like raising an army to fight off impending doom looks rather unlikely, so it's down to you and your Hellfire class attack craft to face the hideous menace on your lonesome. Thankfully, crammed into the Hellfire's attack-pack is detachable weaponry which switches from forward firing laser bolts, to rear fire, to vertically firing photons, and best of all, four-way diagonal laser destruction, all at the push of a button. But that's not all. As you progress through the six horizontally scrolling levels, power-ups will occasionally appear enabling to increase your destructive potential still further!

HELLFIRE

▲ One of the terrifying end-of-level baddies.

But beware! Even with all this weaponry, the enemy craft aren't just photon fodder. They've drafted in legions of terrifying fighters, along with huge mother ships and even larger Grandmother ships! So have your wits about you - the heat is always on with Hellfire!

▲ Rear-fire is just the ticket for this guy!

C+VG
HIT!

▲ An omen of horrific death?

▼ Fully powered-up, the Hellfire blasts for all its worth.

MEGADRIVE £34.00

I thought that Thunderforce III was the last word in Megadrive shoot 'em ups, but Hellfire simply blows it away! Graphically, it's tremendous - the brilliant backdrops of the Toaplan coin-op have been faithfully reproduced - down to the last pixel! The sound, too is simply spot-on, with pulse-racing tunes and ear-blasting FX. But it's the playability of this effort that puts it head-and-shoulders above the opposition - the ship just feels so good to control and the satisfaction of destroying the huge end-of-level guardians is just tremendous! Hellfire is certainly a bit on the difficult side. Office shoot 'em up veterans were hard-pushed to complete the game in easy mode! With extra skill levels thrown in for added stability, Hellfire simply burns up the opposition! Go for it - now!

AIR INFERNO

One of the most visually impressive coin-ops to appear in the arcades since Microprose's mega F15 Strike Eagle is Taito's helicopter simulation, Air Inferno.

It's a refreshing change from the usual fly 'n' shoot air combat coin-ops, and instead puts the player in control of a helicopter with the object of flying four different rescue missions, ranging from lifting people from atop burning skyscraper, to locating and rescuing sailors from a drifting oil tanker and saving people stranded in a desert sandstorm.

Detailed, filled-3D graphics are used to display the action, and very effective they are too! The controls seem pretty weird at first, with both a joystick and foot pedals used to control the chopper. But with the help of the on-screen prompts, which offer advice, it's not too difficult to get into the action. And once you master the controls, the game is very enjoyable indeed.

CADE

Although the four levels won't keep you playing for long, Air Inferno is very addictive in the short-term and is a very rewarding game to play. Don't be put off by the lack of things to shoot down - give it a go!

GP RIDER

Sega are certainly the best producers of motorcycle racing coin-ops - with Hang-On, Super Hang-On and Racing Hero all part of their impressive range of two-wheeled racing simulations, it's little surprise that they should try to surpass themselves again.

And I think they've done it! GP Rider is a one or two-player sit-on bike racing game, similar in concept to Super Hang-On, but featuring some of the fastest and smoothest 3D graphics around, which really give you a feeling of speed and leave you with a buzz of exhilaration when you get off the machine.

The controls are straightforward - just lean into the corners to steer, and outrace your opponents to win! With this simple objective and its breathtaking graphics, GP Rider is bound to appeal to racing

MEGA TWINS

I thought that this looked a bit rubbish when I first saw it, but after playing it a couple of times I grew to like it.

It's yet another one of those games where you stroll across the scrolling landscape kicking seven shades of shinola out of the baddies, and attacking the giant end-of-level baddies. But it's nicely executed, with some great graphics and neat little touches to keep you coming back for more.

There are plenty of extra weapons to pick up as you (and a friend if you so wish) battle your way through the game - it's fun playing solo (and lets you go for that elusive high-score), but simultaneous two-player action is the most fun of all.

Megatwins certainly has nothing new to offer, but if you're after a bit of enjoyable gaming, try this out.

JULIAN RIGNALL

Small Craft Warning.

Prepare for a storm. Of bullets. Gunboat™ Eight tons of U.S. Navy firepower crammed into a 31 ft. hull.

The fastest, most agile arsenal ever to turn 29 knots up a jungle river.

Now you're at the helm. Accolade's Gunboat lets you experience the intensity of deadly, close-quarters, full-throttle combat.

River combat, where an enemy ambush lurks around any bend, up any canyon or by any bridge.

Climb aboard an authentically detailed river patrol boat (PBR) and get a 1st-person perspective from 4 battle stations.

Uncolored twin M60 machine guns and grenade launchers on renegade Viet Cong, Panamanian rebels and the murderous Colombian drug cartel.

They're all on the river. Waiting. Polygon-fill animation and bit-map graphics immerse you in the steamy reality of 3 sweltering combat zones. Twenty missions lie ahead, in countries where the mortar fire is as thick as mosquitoes.

Gunboat. The water's about to get rough.

Screen shots are only intended to be illustrative of the game play and not the screen graphics which vary considerably between different hardware. In quality and experience and are subject to the computer specifications.

COMPO RESULTS

Enter one of the honking good compos in the October issue of C+VG? You did? Well, here's a complete list of all the winners from each and every competition. Scan that list with care - your name could well be in there!

ELITE GREMLINS COMPO

25 groovy Gremlins packs were up for grabs in this juicy little compo, which entailed that you had to provide a question to this answer: "sixty million frankfurters and a pair of oven gloves". Some of you obviously have sick minds out there, and a lot more don't like poor old Rob much. Still, the winners are...
SHAUNA THOMPSON, JERSEY. J CHARDING, MILTON KEYNES.
WESLEY MCGUGAN, Co ANTRIM. C FITZGERALD, MANCHESTER.
HOWARD WORTON, LONDON. M MIDDLETON, DERBYSHIRE. J McGHEE, NORWICH. R KENNEDY, PORTLAND. J PROCTOR, SURREY. H WRIGHT, BRISTOL. R O' HANX (?), WEST YORKS. N WING, KENT. G KENNERLEY, CHESHIRE. W BINGHAM, Co DOWN. D WALKER, BOSTON. J KROVINA, KENT. J WAITE, PETERBOROUGH. K ASTON, WEST YORKSHIRE. C BELL, RAF HOSPITAL WEGBERG. R ANDERSON, WHITBY. A HAWKSBY, WIRRAL. K WARD, DORSET. D DONALD, HUDDERSFIELD. R MOORE, LEEDS. R SINGH, SURREY.

MAD PROFESSOR COMPO

Aaow! Krisalis put a brill CD Walkman on offer here, along with ten runners-up prizes of goodie bags. And the overall winner is... JOHN SHEARING of GOODSTONE, SURREY! The runners up are...
S RICHARDS, SHROPSHIRE. D ROBERT, CUMBRIA. K WICKENS, SPALDING. A DAVIS, SOUTHSEA. G SHORE, ALPHINGTON. L HARRIS, SEMILONG, NORTHAMPTON. A DEVEY, FANBOROUGH. J W BORLAND, LONDON. N BURROWS, MERSEYSIDE. J POUND, FELPHAM.

QUESTIONNAIRE COMPO

THE C+VG CHALLENGE

So you reckon you know how to handle your joystick, eh? Well, you've come to the right place! Every month, C+VG in conjunction with a major software company will be throwing down the gauntlet to the gaming playing public. A crack team of C+VG readers will be whisked over (expenses paid, of course) to the challenge arena, where they will do battle with the specially selected C+VG squad.

Don't expect immediate victory though. When you're dealing with the likes of Julian Rignall, Paul Giancy, Rob Swan or Richard Leadbetter, you'll be facing up to years of gaming experience. Still, if you fancy your chances fill in the details below and who knows? You may be part of a challenge squad battling it out with the C+VG team on the hottest new games!

OCTOBER HOTLINES

WIN A MEGADRIVE

Wow! A hundred and ninety quid's worth of absolutely ace Megadrive gear was up for grabs here, but it was JOHN B TOWER from WEST-CLIFF-ON-SEA that was the lucky winner! Well done, John - you're a real man now!

WIN A GAMEBOY

Currently ranking as one of the offices fave consoles (managing to keep your Gameboy away from Andrea is an impossibility!), this particular Gameboy has been won by SONIA JONES from ROMFORD.

WIN A PC ENGINE

Everybody wanted to be a PC Engineer, but it was JIM BARRAT from CLACTON who scooped the honours by answering correctly four absurdly easy questions. Well done Jim, your SCART model is on its way!

WIN A LYNX

A groovy-woovy colour Lynx was up-for-grabs, but only if you could answer a serious set of probing questions... Amusing us with his spontaneous wit was DAVID LUCAS from the WEST MIDLANDS who not only answered the questions correctly, but gave us all a good laugh into the bargain! Well done, Dave!

RAINBOW ISLANDS

SEGA/TAITO

Bub and Bob are back in the Megadrive version of the classic platform game, Rainbow Islands! This game went down a treat with computer owners earlier on in the year, and by the looks of it, the Megadrive version is set to do the same! Featuring conversions of both the arcade original and the tougher "extra" version, you're certainly getting value for money! Stacks of top-notch playability and super graphics with a huge amount of levels to be conquered make Megadrive Rainbow Islands a winner. Check out the full review next month!

RELEASE: MEGADRIVE, NOW
PRICE: AROUND £40.00

THE HUNT FOR RED OCTOBER GRANDSLAM

Everyone had left Grandslam for dead, but they've bounced back with their computer interpretation of the flippin' good Sean Connery movie! Rather than tart up the graphics and playability of their first Red October game (based on the Tom Clancy book), they've gone the whole hog and come up with a five level horizontally scrolling type arcade game, with each level representing an action scene from the movie.

With graphics supplied by an ex-Psygnosis

DICK TRACY ENTERTAINMENT INTERNATIONAL

After blazing its way through cinemas across the globe, Dick Tracy (the game of the movie) should be on his way to a computer near you! As you can see from the screenshot, it all looks a bit Untouchable-esque to us with plenty of Tommy Gun laffs. It certainly looks more exciting than the rather duff Warren Beatty film...

NAVY SEALS OCEAN

Blasting their way onto a computer or console near you soon are the Navy SEALs, the American Navy's answer to our Tommy SAS guys. Based on a new Charlie Sheen flick, Ocean's latest all-action game puts the player in the boots of a Navy Seal agent sent up against Arab terrorists who have taken graphic artist, The Hunt for Red October should look rather tasty, but you'll have to wait until next month for the full lowdown on the game itself!

BATMAN SUNSOFT

What! Yet ANOTHER console Batman game! Yep, that's right and PC Engine Batman has finally hit British shores. The bad news is that it hasn't got much in common with the fabbo Megadrive game reviewed in the last Complete Guide to Consoles. Indeed, the platform based beat 'em up action has been replaced with an unusual PacMan type effort.

But do not despair, because although it's a completely different kettle of fish, this conversion of Batman still has jam-hot playability, as the dangerously-addicted Mean Machines art department are at pains to point out!

rather nasty captured missiles which have to be stolen back. Paul and Rob went up to Ocean to see the GX4000 and C64GS versions in action and came back suitably impressed. Hopefully the same will be true for all the other versions when the game is released early next year.

LINE OF FIRE US GOLD

As revealed in the October issue's cover-mounted Mega Book, US Gold have grabbed the licence to Sega's brilliant slice of Op Wolf style shoot 'em up action. Now, at last the conversions are seeing the light of day (courtesy of ace programming team, Creative Materials) and they're all looking dead good! Featuring eight levels of blasting carnage, Line of Fire enables two players to fight their way out of occupied territory using stolen weaponry to gun down anyone who gets in their way.

The thing that set Line of Fire apart from the opposition was infinite ammunition for your Uzi (yeah!) and the fact that the landscape actually rotated around the player! All this and more have been crammed into US Gold's conversions! The Amiga version looks especially good with full-screen action, brilliant 3D and all the fun of the real thing. But we've also had a good look at the Specky version and that's just as good! One to look out for, wethinks...

SIM EARTH MAXIS/OCEAN

The follow-up to the fabulous Sim City is nearly upon us, and promises to blow its predecessor away in both size and depth by not giving you just a city to design and maintain, but a whole planet!

Absolutely everything involved in the creation of a world has been crammed into this new Maxis product. First off, you decide what basic form your planet takes - be it vaguely Earth-like (continents and oceans), solely water, or just one huge desert - the choice is yours! You can even start right from the beginning with a molten mass that gradually cools, and settles down into land masses which drift apart - just like the real thing. Create suitable environments and you can expect life of some description to evolve, from amoeba-like creatures all the way to huge, sprawling (maybe humanoid) colonies. Life forms as well as external forces (such as solar wind) all have some kind of impact of its environment and Sim Earth follows the Gala theory which states that the whole planet is a living organism which will adapt to any changes which take place - even at the expense of any life living on it (wow - cosmic, huh?).

Ocean came down and gave us a sneak preview of what could be the greatest "god" game yet! PC owners are going to be first to sample the delights of world creation, but Amiga and ST owners aren't going to be left out as versions are planned for their machines too.

RELEASE: PC, AMIGA, ST, TBA

RANX UBISOFT

Ubisoft's latest is a computer translation of a slightly sicko French comic, which even horrified our own hardened comic guru, Rob Swan! As for the game itself, the player stars as an android with muscles of steel (obviously not for flexing, then) who must rescue his kidnapped girlfriend and save the world into the bargain! Plenty of binary mayhem guaranteed. RANX has been finished and should be out any time now.

RELEASE: ST, AMIGA, PC, TBA

DYNAMITE DUKE SEGA

Nothing to do with Dynamite Dux, nor even the Dukes of Hazzard (remember their dynamite-tipped arrows?), Dynamite Duke is Sega's all-out Op Wolf/Cabal clone. From what we've seen of it, the Megadrive conversion features arcade-quality graphics and red-hot playability, so it should more than satisfy any Megadrive shoot 'em up fiend's insane need for gratuitous violence!

SHADOW OF THE BEAST OCEAN

Well, Gremlin did the honours for Spectrum and Amstrad owners (see the reviews this ish!) but it was left to Ocean to come up with the goods for the C64! And that's not all, for the conversion of Psygnosis graphically amazing game is going to be available on cartridge only - so you can wave goodbye to those multi-load blues! As this screen shot shows, it doesn't look too bad at all. Keep your peepers glued to C+VG to see if it plays as good as it looks!

RELEASE: C64GS, CHRISTMAS
PRICE: C64GS CARTRIDGE, £19.99

TOTAL RECALL OCEAN

The film's been and gone, and Ocean's platform Recall frolic still isn't complete! Release details are a bit vague, but the game is nearing completion and looks rather decent, with smooth scrolling and a rather amusing Arnie-sprite! The graphics and sound look rather polished too, so hopes are high for a pretty decent game... Keep your eyes peeled (oww!) for a future issue of C+VG.

RELEASE: SPECTRUM, AMSTRAD, C64, ST, AMIGA.
PRICE: 8-BIT, £9.99 CASSETTE, £14.99 DISK. ST, £19.99, AMIGA, £24.99.

ADIDAS FOOTBALL OCEAN

After what seems like decades, Ocean are finally ready to release the 16-bit versions of their Adidas-linked footy game! We've seen an early demo of the Amiga version and although Kick Off 2 rules the C+VG Stadium, this particular Ocean effort didn't look too bad at all... Expect something on the shelves real soon now!

KLAX

HUDSON SOFT

One of the C+VG squad's favourite puzzle games ever is set to hit the Gameboy! For a game that relies heavily on colour, Klax is a bit of strange choice for Gameboy conversion, but Hudson Soft have got around the problem by giving each tile a monochrome pattern rather than a colour! Also, the 3D ramp of the arcade original has been sacrificed for a 2D look.

Whether all these changes will seriously detract from the gameplay has yet to be seen, but hopes are high for a decent conversion (so Rich has something to play on the train home!).

WRATH OF THE DEMON

ENTERTAINMENT INTERNATIONAL

After exposing us to three laser-disk conversions, Readysoft (via their UK software distribution chums, Entertainment International) are about ready to release Wrath of the Demon, a game that combines their line in amazing graphics with some serious gameplay. We've seen an Amiga demo and graphically, it's amazing with awesome animation and a large amount of parallax scrolling. It looks quite a bit like Shadow of the Beast, but if this effort can beat Psygnosis' game in the playability stakes, they'll be onto a winner and no mistake! Look out for the review soon!

RELEASE: AMIGA, ST, PC, TBA, 8-BIT VERSIONS FOLLOWING
PRICE: AMIGA, ST, PC, £29.99.

HARD DRIVIN'

SEGA

Finally! A year after the fabulous home computer versions of Hard Drivin', the Megadrive game is finally ready for release. As the screenshot shows, the game is practically indistinguishable from its arcade parent and should contain all the tracks and features of the coin-op original. But it's not just Megadrive owners whose luck is in as an Atari Lynx version is also planned! We wait with bated breath for the finished product...

CHASE HQ II Special Criminal Investigation

- continuing where CHASE HQ left off. The Arcade thriller takes you from the bright lights of Paris to the rugged terrain of the Sahara. Your mission is to track down, chase and apprehend the dangerous criminals.

It's FASTER - explosive power sends you bulleting through various terrains - hold the line or plough the fields!

It's TOUGHER

- the criminals wield some heavy hardware - but so do you! You can shoot but you must dodge their flak... heavy gunfire, trucks unloading their cargo onto your bonnet... it's the meanest pursuit game to hit your micro
